'I Remember Where I Was'

City of Fairfax conducts seventh annual Patriot Day ceremony at City Hall to remember Sept. 11 attacks.

BY DEREK B. JOHNSON
THE CONNECTION

Fairfax Mayor Robert Lederer was in London when he received "a panic phone call" from his wife.

Julie Sistrunk was watching a morning talk show when she first caught wind of it.

Fairfax Chief of Police Rick Rappoport was in the middle of conducting a weekly staff meeting when his secretary advised that he might want to turn on the television: a plane had just hit the World Trade Center.

On Thursday, Sept. 11, the three of them along with hundreds of residents from the City of Fairfax attended the Patriot Day Ceremony 2008. This was the seventh year that the city marked on the anniversary of the Sept. 11 attacks which hit New York, Washington, D.C. and Pennsylvania. As City of Fairfax Police officers and firefighters looked on, Lederer said the city had made a conscious choice in deciding to mark every year since the attacks.

"We chose to use this night, without interruption, to remember our collective obligation that justice is done, that freedom prevails and that the principals of freedom in [which] our nation [was] founded will never be forgotten," said Lederer.

After an invocation by Rev. Johnson Edosomwan and a rendition of "Amazing Grace" by Fairfax High School a cappella Choral, Bob Susson, Commander of the American Legion Post 177 reflected on his own personal Sept. 11 experience. Beginning by saying he was in New York City when the attacks happened, Susson called on the audience to remember not just those who lost their lives in the attacks, but also for soldiers serving overseas whose "blood has already been shed on foreign soil, defending our country's freedom".

"Let us remember the families of 343 fire fighters and the families of 23 New York Police Department police officers who stepped out into eternity, fulfilling their mission to serve and protect," said Susson, who also mentioned the 75 port authority agents, the 184 people who died in the Pentagon and the nearly 3,000 more who died.

Throughout history, he continued, ordinary people have been made heroes by extraordinary times.

"They made a choice, they answered a call for help," said Susson, of the firefighters who lost their lives that day. "They rushed the streets of chaos, they

Strands of Market DNA

Realtors summit tackles foreclosures and housing bubble.

BY DEREK B. JOHNSON
THE CONNECTION

"What has happened to the national economy is very complex," said Dr. Stephen Fuller, director of the Center for Regional Analysis at George Mason University. "A big part of that is the housing market."

The 12th Annual 2008 Economic Summit took place at Dewberry Hall in the Johnson Student Center at George Mason University on Saturday, Sept. 11. The Northern Virginia Association of Realtors hosted the conference.

Clicking through their Power Point presentations, five featured guest speakers from the field of economics went about the business of updating a portion of their 12,000 members on the recent developments in the "DNA" of the market.

Dr. David Seiders, chief economist and senior staff vice president of the National Association of Homebuilders gave a presentation on the effects the 2008 Housing Bill, the recent government takeovers of mortgage giants Fannie Mae and Freddie Mac and the presidential elections could have on the housing market.

Dr. Jed Smith, managing director of Quantitative Research at the National Association of Realtors discussed housing market trends, including the steady pendulum swing from what he and other speakers described as a glut of home ownership and mortgage lending in the early 2000s to the eventual bursting of the housing bubble around 2006.

Doug Duncan, vice president and chief economist for Fannie Mae discussed some of the warning signs seen in an unhealthy credit market, at one point displaying a Power Point slide of a pool filled up twice as high as it should have been, relating it to the strain that was put on the financial housing market as national homeownership began to skyrocket.

"It's like going to a banquet and overeating. Now we have an upset stomach."

Budget 'Dialogue'

Fairfax County residents will have an opportunity to provide their input on the Fiscal Year 2010 Budget (which runs from July 1, 2009, through June 30, 2010) to county leaders in a variety of ways this year. The county, in conjunction with Fairfax County Public Schools, has scheduled 20 community dialogue sessions, established a budget hot line and created an online budget feedback form.

The first four of the community dialogue sessions will be held Saturday, Sept. 20, from 9:30 a.m.-noon at:

- ❖ Chantilly Regional Library – 4000 Stringfellow Road, Chantilly.

- ❖ Reston Regional Library – 11925 Bowman Towne Drive, Reston.

- ❖ Sherwood Regional Library – 2501 Sherwood Hall Lane, Alexandria.

- ❖ George Mason Regional Library – 7001 Little River Turnpike, Annandale

The input gathered from the public will be used to help guide budget decisions, providing the public with greater opportunity to help shape the budget before County Executive Anthony H. Griffin presents his proposed budget to the Board of Supervisors in February. Residents will still have an opportunity to provide feedback in March and April to the board at the budget hearings as in previous years.

Residents are encouraged to call the budget hot line at 703-324-9400, submit comments online or attend one of the community dialogue sessions (registration required online or by calling 703-324-2391, TTY 711).

TJ Open House Sept. 27

Thomas Jefferson High School for Science and Technology (TJHSST), which serves as the Governor's Regional School for Science and Technology in Northern Virginia, will hold an Open House on Saturday, Sept. 27, from 8:30 to 11:30 a.m. to provide eighth grade students and their parents with information about the school and its admissions process for the 2009-10 freshman class. Admissions information sessions will be held at 8:45, 9:45, and 10:45 a.m. TJHSST is located at 6560 Braddock Road in the Alexandria area of Fairfax County.

The deadline for submitting applications to Thomas Jefferson High School for Science and Technology for the 2009-10 freshman class is Friday, Oct. 24. Applications will be available beginning Monday, Sept. 22, intend to pursue college preparation in the sciences, engineering, or related fields.

For more information about the TJHSST admissions process, visit the admissions web site at www.TJAdmissions.org. Contact the TJHSST admissions office at 703-876-5265.

Candidate Mailers Questioned

Some residents have recently been questioning some of the mail U.S. Rep. Frank Wolf (R-10) and U.S. Rep. Jim Moran (D-8) have been distributing on the taxpayers dime.

Citizens complain that Wolf and Moran, who are both up for re-election in November, have started sending mail through the congressional office that bears a close resemblance to campaign literature.

At the taxpayer's expense, Wolf has sent several over-sized glossy postcards on subjects ranging from the national debt to rising gas prices. Again, at the taxpayer expense, Moran recently distributed an eight-page, full color newsletter about his congressional activity.

"I don't know what the election law is precisely but I think this is kind of on that ethical edge. [The Wolf mail pieces] went essentially from being an informational newsletter to being an issue-oriented campaign piece," said Tim Buchholz, chairman of the Loudoun County Democratic Committee.

Staff for Moran and Wolf said a bipartisan commission has to sign off on all of the congressional mass mail.

"Everything we have sent has been approved and we stand by it," said Austin Durrer, spokesperson for Moran.

Community Activist Dies

Sally Ormsby praised as environmental, land-use activist.

Sally Ormsby

Sally Ormsby, director of the Northern Virginia Soil and Water Conservation District and long-time community activist in Fairfax County died Monday, Sept. 15 as a result of liver cancer.

"She was always a very thoughtful advocate for environmental protection," said James R. Hart, Fairfax County Planning Commissioner (At-large). "She did so many things for the environment."

Hart recalled Ormsby's diligence and dedication when she came before the Planning Commission during discussions about changes to zoning regulations.

"She was one of the few people who took the time to read the proposed amendments and make constructive criticism," he said.

Ormsby's list of community involvement stretches to the 1970s, when she began as a member of the League of Women voters and eventually rose to the board of directors and chair of the Women's Issues and Environment Committee. She became involved in land-use over the years, working with the Fairfax County Citizens Committee on Land Use and Transportation. In 2006, the Fairfax County Federation of Citizens Associations presented Ormsby with its Citizen of the Year award.

"I've worked for Sally for years in [the Mantua neighborhood of Fairfax]. She really was an integral part of Mantua and Fairfax County," said John Jennings, president of the federation.

He also praised her work on the environment. "She has been instrumental in helping to protect the Occoquan."

Jean Packard, former chairman of the Fairfax County Board of Supervisors, said

Ormsby's passing was a blow to community activists. "She was the most organized person I ever knew," said Packard. "Her dedication to the environment and to the importance of citizen participation was unparalleled, and her experience in and knowledge of county and state affairs was invaluable to many individuals and organizations with whom she worked. She leaves an empty space in the public realm that will be all but impossible to fill."

One of Ormsby's neighbors in Mantua, Fairfax County Board of Supervisors Chairman Gerry Connolly (D-At-large), called Ormsby his "very good friend."

"Fairfax County loses the citizen activist extraordinaire," he said.

In an interview Wednesday, Connolly said that Ormsby continued to work to make Fairfax a better community to the very end. Visiting her on Sunday night at the hospital, Connolly found her going through committee files to give to people to follow up.

"We're all a little less without her and all a little bit more as a community because of her," said Connolly.

Funeral services for Ormsby will be Saturday, Oct. 18, at 11 a.m., at Providence Presbyterian Church, 9019 Little River Turnpike in Fairfax.

Getting To Know ...

Christina Heimlich, co-founder of the International Children's Festival.

BY LINDSAY GSELL
THE CONNECTION

Christina Heimlich is a dancer, soloist, teacher, choreographer, mentor, philanthropist, author and former radio star. She is also a 90-year-old woman.

Throughout her long life, Heimlich's titles and accomplishments stem from her love of dance. Born in Germany, she was trained at a Russian ballet school, where she learned discipline and technique. At age 16, she was a soloist with the Sadler Wells Ballet, later the English Royal Ballet. She danced with the famous Alexander von Swain and performed in great theaters and opera houses all over Europe, including a performance at the Imperial Palace in Vienna, Austria.

In the post-war years, Heimlich took a short break from her dancing career to pursue acting. Instead, she starred as "The Voice of Berlin" for Radio in the American Sector in Berlin, Germany. Her show's humor and outlook on politics won her fame in both Europe and the United States.

Heimlich's picture was featured in Time Magazine in 1949 with an article about her career. She came to the United States in the late 1940s after being invited by Congress to speak about freedom and democracy.

After marrying and settling in the Washington, D.C. area in 1962, Heimlich opened The Christina Heimlich School of International Dance. Since then, she has been running the school, as well as instructing and choreographing.

Throughout the last 45 years, she has taught thousands of students and remains in touch with many. Heimlich's teaching philosophy combines practice, technique and discipline while strongly encouraging students to use their imaginations.

Instead of teaching pre-choreographed routines and famous ballets, Heimlich creates dances and routines for students based on age group and ability level.

"I've always wanted children to use their imaginations when dancing," she said. "I started choreographing original routines to make ballet less intimidating to children. I wanted my students to use their imaginations and grasp what a terrific thrill dancing can be."

The Christina Heimlich Dancers have received invitations and awards both nationally and locally. Over the years, the group has been invited to perform at the White House, Kennedy Center and at the United States Army Base Fort Myer.

Christina Heimlich

It was Heimlich's love for international dance and teaching that led to the formation of the International Children's Festival. The festival, which was co-founded by Heimlich and Catherine Filene Shouse, started in 1971 and takes place each year at the Wolf Trap National Park for the Performing Arts in Vienna. Shouse, a strong supporter of the arts, donated part of her personal property to the park and both women were an integral part in the development of the festival.

Traditionally, Christina Heimlich Dancers perform an original piece choreographed by Heimlich at the festival. For the past 38 festivals, Heimlich's dancers have graced the stage.

This year's festival featured Heimlich's interpretation of the Pied Piper.

"Usually, I am inspired by a piece of music," Heimlich said. "It just goes and goes and goes in my mind, and I can just imagine the dance unfold."

Heimlich encourages the merging of cultures through dance. Past festivals have featured dancers from Sweden, Spain, Nepal, Finland, Bolivia and many other countries. The goal of the festival is not only for the audience to learn and enjoy different types of dance, but also to have her own students interact with other dancers from other cultures.

looked up at these burning buildings and made a choice. They strapped equipment to their backs and headed into the smoke, never to be seen again."

Real heroes are everyday people, Susson said, the immigrant who runs a dry cleaner six days a week so he can send his child to college or a teacher who helps to raise a classroom full of children.

"These people also make choices every day and whilst they're not as bold and entering a burning building, they make quite a difference in our lives. Through their choices they express their patriotism," said Susson.

Bob DeHaven, owner and CEO of Patriot Harley Davidson said this attack was against civilians and symbols.

"The victims of 9/11 were murdered simply because they were Americans," said DeHaven.

At a past memorial event, DeHaven said he was also struck by the comments of a little girl who looked at him and said her grandparents had been on one of the planes.

"That's why I will never forget," said DeHaven.

Sgt. Daniels Grimm of the City of Fairfax Police had just worked the midnight shift the night before, and was catching up on some sleep when his mother called. After putting in a call to his station and asking if he was needed, Grimm said he spent the rest of the day like everyone else: watching the events unfold on his television screen.

"I was pretty much glued to the TV after that," he said.

City Police Chief Rick Rappoport said he found out about the attacks while in the middle of a weekly staff meeting. After being informed that a plane had hit the World Trade Center, Rappoport's initial reaction, like that of many others, was that it was an accident.

"Watching in real time, when the second plane hit, we ended the meeting and began a second meeting that was essentially about 'How are we going to react to this?'" he said, adding that some officers were sent to the Pentagon to assist and an increased police presence was advised to ease the concerns and fears of citizens in the wake of the attacks.

After last Thursday's ceremony, the City Council and audience were invited to line up, first to ring a liberty bell that had been placed at the foot of the stage, then to shake the hands of the dozens of Fairfax firefighters and police officer who formed a line down grass.

EASY RIDER

Scooters have always been a comfortable and dependable approach to personal mobility. They are quiet, smooth riding, durable, and easy to operate. Being able to get around almost as well as active, healthy people imparts a sense of independence to the less energetic. The ability to get around the house or out in public again can be a major boost in a person's self worth. The need to depend on others to perform everyday tasks is reduced. A test drive should be taken before purchasing a scooter. The most important consideration is that the motorized scooter is comfortable. Another issue is price. Check with your health insurance provider to see if any of the cost is covered.

A scooter is a boon to those who have difficulties walking and the increased independence it gives promotes a more active and healthy individual. How would you like state of the art LASER dentistry without drills or needles?

What would you say if you could have your fillings placed painlessly without drills or needles, with laser precision and comfort? You'd probably say, "Where do I sign up?" Well, now you can with a revolutionary new laser we call the Water Laser. You may have seen it on TV lately.

This new Waterlase® is a breakthrough in comfortable dentistry. The laser sprays a computer-controlled spray of air, water and laser energy at the decay in the tooth. The laser energy is absorbed by the water and the energized microscopic water droplets are what actually remove the tooth decay. Rarely is a shot necessary to numb the patient. Since no heat is generated from the laser the Waterlase® is very safe to use on everyone.

What are the benefits of Waterlase® dentistry?

■ Patient Comfort

Heat, vibration and pressure are the primary causes of pain associated with the use of the traditional dental drill. Since cutting both hard and soft tissues (teeth and gums) with the Waterlase® does not generate heat, vibration or pressure, many dental procedures can be performed with fewer shots, less need for anesthesia, less use of the drill and fewer numb lips!

The Waterlase® allows us to prepare teeth with less trauma which results in significantly less tooth sensitivity after new fillings.

Additionally, using the Waterlase® for gum procedures reduces bleeding, post-operative pain, swelling and the need for pain medication in many cases. That means a new level of comfort and satisfaction for your entire family.

■ Sterilization

The laser sterilizes the tooth as it removes decay. This is very important. Because of bacterial contamination, many of you have had old fillings replaced with either new fillings, or in many cases, with crowns--and sometimes even root canals!! The reoccurrence of decay under fillings is a primary reason so many root canals are needed. Since this new laser sterilizes the tooth as it removes decay, and since many dentists now use 'bonded' filling materials enriched with fluoride, the chances of ever having recurrent decay under that new filling are much lower.

■ Great for Teenagers

The Waterlase® is especially great for teenagers. Sure, if the dentist is very good, shots should not really be painful. But KNOWING you're getting a shot is psychologically painful even if you can't feel the needle--especially for teenagers. By not getting a shot, not feeling the vibration of the drill, and by not hearing the loud drill, kids never become afraid of the dentist, so they don't grow up to be adults afraid of the dentist.

By incorporating laser technology into our dental practice, we are changing dentistry. It is no longer yesterday's world of painful shots, large silver mercury fillings, and fearful patients. Lasers have improved the lives of patients and their dentists.

Technology is something that makes life better. Better in this case is better clinical results, improved patient comfort, less use of anesthesia and antibiotics.

We are proud to be one of the first dentists in Fairfax County to offer this revolutionary technology. Since August 2003, Dr. Fox has completed over 3,000 laser fillings with no needle/no pain/no numbness. If you've been putting off going to the dentist because you were nervous about the drill and needle, you don't have to put it off any longer!

Candidate Visits Are Educational

As it turned out, a local Fairfax park was probably the best venue for last week's rally for John McCain and Sarah Palin, given the size of the crowd that turned out to see them (<http://www.connectionnewspapers.com/article.asp?article=319474&paper=73&cat=104>).

But we disagree with members of the School Board and others who claimed it was inappropriate for Superintendent Jack Dale to allow the rally to take place at Fairfax High School.

One of the School Board's goals for students includes to "Know and practice the duties, responsibilities, and rights of citizenship in a democratic society, be respectful and contributing participants in their school, community, country, and world," and "understand the purpose, role, and means of interaction with the different levels of government."

What could be more educational for students that watching the logistics and politics of a presidential campaign? We'd like to see the policy amended to allow political events on school property as long as students are able to interact and learn from the process.

Both major party candidates are delivering a critical message in Virginia right now: Every vote counts.

ON TWO OTHER ISSUES, we agree with recent recommendations from the executive board of the Fairfax County Council of PTAs.

❖ The council wants the Fairfax County School Board to delay action on the purchase of a second headquarters building until after public hearings, although at this point, no public hearings have been discussed or scheduled. The FCCPTA leadership correctly said that the school system briefings on the topic "haven't reached enough people or offered clear, well-publicized opportunities for comment."

❖ It seems like a no-brainer that the grading system in Fairfax County should not penalize students, who work as hard as students elsewhere. The current system requires a 94 percent, rather than 90 percent, to qualify for an A, and fails to give the same extra weight for advanced coursework. This leaves Fairfax students at a disadvantage compared to students from other school systems, whose weighted grade point averages can often top 4.0.

While college admissions offices say this probably does not affect admissions, it almost certainly does put county students at a disadvantage for merit scholarships.

There is no advantage or educational benefit to the current grading scale, and it should be changed.

FAIRFAX SCHOOLS are making progress towards a workable and affordable way to move high school start times later, a move that is long overdue. We urge the board to continue this progress, and press ahead to have the change in place by September 2009.

Watch Debates

Voters will have several opportunities to see candidates for U.S. House of Representatives and Senate in action in the next few weeks. The choices are important for Northern Virginia, with the retirement of longtime U.S. Sen. John Warner and U.S. Rep. Tom Davis, both powerful advocates for Northern Virginia's interests and needs.

The League of Women Voters of the Fairfax Area and the Fairfax Community Access Channel (FCAC) are co-sponsoring televised debates ready paying.

Keith Fimian believes in commonsense principles he learned when he built his successful business from the ground up. Unlike Gerry Connolly, he's not beholden to anyone, and he put forward many ideas on how to solve our country's problems. Connolly believes he can hide out until Election Day because he already has it wrapped up. I hope the voters of the 11th District will prove him wrong.

LETTERS

Fresh Solutions

To the Editor:

Keith Fimian, candidate for Virginia's 11th District Congressional seat, is not a career politician. He is a committed outsider and a fresh face that knows that the same old problems cannot be solved by the same old faces with the same old solutions.

Keith believes that our government suffers from an over-abundance of career politicians, and that those who serve in public office should do so with the best of public interest in mind. He believes in preserving America's free market system, and wants our government to do more to help American workers and to keep jobs and businesses within our own country, for the benefit of our own people, and to be competitive in a global economy.

Keith wants Virginians to lead in energy security and energy independence. He supports a multi-pronged clean alternative energy approach, and is willing and anxious to find a bipartisan solution for two of the congressional races, which will be broadcast live on Fairfax channel 10. They will also be available live on the Internet at: <http://easylink.playstream.com/winlive/insidescoop.wvx>

U.S. Rep. Jim Moran (D) and 8th district challengers Mark Ellmore (R) and Independent Green candidate J. Ron Fisher will face off next Monday, Sept. 22, from 7 to 8 p.m.

The debate between Gerald Connolly (D), Keith Fimian (R) and Independent Green Joseph Oddo, candidates for the 11th district, will be held at the same time on Monday, Oct. 6.

Viewers can call in or e-mail questions until the mid-point of the broadcast to 571-749-1166 or debate@FCAC.org.

Incumbent Frank Wolf decline to participate in a Fairfax League debate; but Wolf and his opponent, Democrat Judy Feder, will appear together at the Prince William Committee of 100 forum on Thursday, Oct. 16 at 7:45 at the Four Points by Sheraton in Manassas.

Prince William Committee of 100 forum will also host the 11th Congressional Candidates, Gerry Connolly and Keith Fimian, this Thursday, Sept. 18 at the Montclair Country Club. E-mail secretarycommitteeof100@yahoo.com or call 703-577-3123.

The candidates for U.S. Senate, Mark Warner (D) and Jim Gilmore (R) will debate this Thursday, Sept. 18 at a sold out Fairfax County Chamber of Commerce event. The debate will be broadcast live on Channel 8 at 10 a.m. and will be rebroadcast before the election.

Keith Fimian says that both parties are guilty of reckless overspending, and that we would all be better served by giving the President a line-item veto, which would eliminate earmarks, and curtail pork barrel spending.

He favors lower, fewer taxes, and believes we must have tax reform in order to preserve our prosperity. Keith knows that higher taxes punish working, middle class families, and will work to simplify our current complex tax code, thereby making collection of taxes more efficient and less expensive.

I am writing this letter in support of Keith Fimian, a committed outsider with fresh solutions, new ideas and a pledge to positive change.

Realtors Review Market

The Real Estate Finance Forum, a committee of the NVAR, sponsored the economic conference. Chairman Kevin Connolly said most members who attended were looking for an end to the steady depreciation their homes have been seeing over the last four years.

"Everybody is looking for the bottom," said Connolly. "The consensus opinion is that we've passed the halfway mark, but we haven't reached the point where foreclosures are going down now.

Other issues like the effect of the recent economic stimulus package and the relative insulation Fairfax County's technology-driven economy provides to locals from the harsher national realities were themes that Connolly said were emphasized during the conference, including the selection of the guest speakers.

"Dr. Fuller always stresses that the D.C. job market is very strong. Where you have a strong economy and strong jobs, you usually have a strong housing market," he said.

Fuller said Americans purchased more housing than the economy could handle in 2002 and 2003 and were now paying the consequences.

"It's like going to a banquet and overeating," he said, "Now we have an upset stomach."

THE SOLUTION to that overeating, said Fuller, was riding out the economic hardship and then dealing with the backlog of houses that have piled up in the open market over the past two to three years. The value of these houses would steadily appreciate as the inventory goes down and more houses go off the market.

Connolly said that key changes in the landscape, such the takeovers of Fannie Mae, Freddie Mac along with the absorption of companies like Merrill Lynch and bankruptcy of the investment banking corporation Lehman Bros., have altered the DNA of the local and national housing markets.

"People would say to me, 'You've been in this business for 20 years, you should know everything.' I tell them that if I wasn't paying attention I wouldn't know anything, because everything has changed," he said.

The NVAR is an umbrella association for a compendium of Realtor organizations across the Northern Virginia area. The association is part of the 1.3 million member National Association of Realtors, its mission statement according to their Web site, is "to promote the preservation of the right to own, transfer and use real property." Connolly said part of that mission was letting people know that the worst is probably over. The effect rising consumer confidence in the near future will most likely lead to a return to better days.

"The public realizes buying a home is still a sound investment," he said. "They don't ring a bell when the market hits the bottom. There's a pent up supply of potential house buyers who are unsure about the market."

Choose the New Maestro

Leitmotif: search for Fairfax Symphony Orchestra's new maestro will shape the entire season.

BY KEN MOORE
THE CONNECTION

Visualize the Fairfax Symphony Orchestra as it begins its 52nd season in the county, and all 95 of its musicians, as one distinct instrument.

"The orchestra is in a sense an instrument to be played," said Concertmaster David Salness, 47 of McLean, who has performed with "The Pride of Fairfax County" for 10 years.

"You don't need to cross the river to have a high quality orchestral listening experience."

— David Salness, concertmaster

More than 245 applicants from all over the world, literally, applied for the music director position, and six finalists were chosen to replace William Hudson, who retired at the end of last season.

Each of the six finalists will perform — audition — as a guest conductor for one of the six Masterworks concerts of the 2008-2009 season.

After each finalist has conducted, musicians, search committee members and audience members will all have the opportunity to react.

"It should be fascinating from both the players' point of view and the public's. The orchestra is in a very good place, with good musicians ... and each of the conductors undoubtedly will make the orchestra sound different," said Salness.

The search for Fairfax Symphony Orchestra's new maestro is the leitmotif that will shape the entire season.

“Orchestra members will have their own criteria for assessing the quality of each of the candidates. The audience will have its own process,” said Salness. “I am looking forward to audience feedback.”

“I am interested in the candidate who gives a discernable voice to the orchestra, who makes the orchestra stand out in the community,” he said.

AT THE END of the season in June 2009, The Fairfax Symphony Orchestra plans to announce the new music director, said Cathy Smith, marketing director with the orchestra.

“Any kind of change can be difficult, but this is very exciting to us,” she said, calling the six music director finalists “the best that’s out there.”

Francis Kieffer, of Mantua, has been a regular attendee of concerts with her husband Jerry Kieffer for years.

She looks forward to watching how the orchestra responds to each conductor throughout the year. “It’s kind of an adventure, actually,” she said, of the upcoming season.

Lisa Baltzer, a violist, is the longest playing member of the orchestra who joined in 1964.

“I’m dying to go to the first rehearsal this week,” said Baltzer, of Vienna. “I expect it to be very exciting, very refreshing because each conductor will bring his or her own music that they love and are inspired by.”

“I’m looking forward to the new ideas and new energy that each of the conductor finalists will bring,” said Baltzer.

Helen Fall, a viola player who joined the orchestra in 1993, will be focusing closely on the six conductors this season, from the elbows down.

“They have to make us believe that this is the way it should be done. They have 100 people who think they know something,” said Fall, of Fairfax. “To see a conductor that can really tell you non-verbally what we’re doing, if he or she can make you want to do something completely from the elbows down, that’s something.”

“It takes a lot of money to put it all together, it’s a commitment that Fairfax has made,” said Fall. “I love playing, I love being a musician, it’s my life.”

Guest artists appearing with the FSO have included Jean-Pierre Rampal and Ella Fitzgerald.

“You don’t need to cross the river to have a high quality orchestral listening experience,” said Salness.

10th Annual Fall for the Book Festival

More than 100 authors at 30 venues.

BY STEVE HIBBARD
THE CONNECTION

The 10th Annual Fall for the Book Festival will feature some very famous figures in the literary world who all happen to be living writers. The festival takes place Sunday, Sept. 21 through Friday, Sept. 26. The best part is that everything is free and open to the public.

“WE’RE BRINGING the rock stars of writing to your back yard,” said Art Taylor, marketing and programming coordinator. More than 100 authors will be appearing at venues both inside and out of George Mason University this year. “This year we’ve decided to expand our reach,” said Taylor. “We’ve got 30 different venues in 12 cities in D.C., Maryland and Virginia.”

Headlining this year is Chinua Achebe, author of “Things Fall Apart.” This Nigerian author’s book is the most widely read African novelist, with 8 million copies of his book published in 50 languages.

Pulitzer Prize winner Michael Cunningham, who wrote “The Hours,” which was made into the movie, will also be in attendance. Sue Miller, an Oprah Book Club author, is another top draw.

OTHER PARTICIPANTS include novelists Richard Bausch, Charles Baxter, Ethan Canin, Ron Carlson and Porter Shreve; Pulitzer Prize and National Book Award-winning poet C.K. Williams and more than a dozen other poets; memoirists including former Virginia Governor Linwood Holton, Scott Huler, and Honor Moore; and dozens of other writers across a variety of genres.

While many events will still take place at GMU, the schedule spans to 30 other locations — from a reading by children’s book author Jerdine Nolan in Bowie, Md., to an appearance by poet Jon Pineda in Arlington, to a talk by novelist and legal scholar Garrett Epps in Sterling. And Fall for the Book continues its annual Middle School Reads and High School Reads programs in Loudoun County with young adult authors P.W. Catanese and Chris Crutcher, respectively.

To coincide with the bicentennial of Abraham Lincoln’s birth, the festival will host a gathering of some of the country’s most notable Lincoln historians for a full day of roundtable discussions on Tuesday, Sept. 23.

“The Abraham Lincoln Bicentennial Commission was formed not just to celebrate Lincoln the man but to explore the challenges that our country faced throughout our 16th president’s tenure, to examine the ideals which he strived to embody, and to ask what type of model his principles and his actions offer to Americans in the 21st century,” said Festival Director William Miller.

“We’re bringing the rock stars of writing to your back yard.”

— Art Taylor, marketing and programming coordinator

A MORNING session will feature biographer Daniel Mark Epstein, author of both “Lincoln and Whitman: Parallel Lives in Civil War Washington” and “The Lincolns: Portrait of a Marriage.”

Three members of the advisory committee for the Abraham Lincoln Bicentennial Commission (www.lincolnbicentennial.gov) will headline the afternoon session. Michael Beschloss has written nine books on American presidents, including the bestseller “Presidential Courage: Brave Leaders and How They Changed America 1789-1989.” Joshua Wolf Shenk is the author of “Lincoln’s Melancholy: How Depression Challenged a President and Fueled His Greatness,” and James L. Swanson wrote “Manhunt: The 12-Day Chase for Lincoln’s Killer.”

Each session will be moderated by presidential historian Richard Norton Smith, scholar-in-residence in George Mason University’s School of Public Policy and Department of History and Art History. The day’s programming is co-sponsored by Gale (Cengage Learning).

For a complete list of events and participants, go to: www.fallforthebook.org.

Chinua Achebe, author of ‘Things Fall Apart.’

Not All Test Scores Measure Up

Fairfax ranks at the bottom of the state on minority scores.

BY JULIA O'DONOGHUE
THE CONNECTION

By all accounts, the average student attending Fairfax County Public Schools should outperform the average student attending Prince William County Public Schools.

Fairfax County students passed the Virginia Standards of Learning tests in reading by 92 percent and in math by 87 percent last year. Prince William students didn't test as high, with only 88 percent of its students passing the state reading exam and 84 percent passing the state math exam.

Fairfax County also performed better on the SAT in 2008. On average, Fairfax students taking the test scored a 547 on the math section and a 565 on the verbal section. In Prince William, pupils scored a combined average score of 110 points below the average Fairfax student.

Experts say pupils' socio-economic background plays a large part in scholastic achievement and Fairfax students are among the wealthiest in the country. Prince William County residents make more money than most Virginians but still earn less than those living in Fairfax.

YET, when it comes to black and Hispanic students, Fairfax falls behind Prince William. In spite of higher achievement overall, Fairfax's black students scored, on average, three points lower in reading and 11 points lower in math on Virginia's Standards of Learning exams last year.

Several factors could contribute to the disparity in black and Hispanic student scores across the two school systems. There is no data to help discern whether the black students in one school district, on average, have more financial advantages than black students in the other school district. Should one group have more economic benefits, it could influence the scores, according to Gary Galluzzo, an education professor at George Mason University.

"We know that socioeconomic status correlates significantly with student achievement," he said. "Poverty is poverty and it's had powerful effects on children's learning. We are seeing an increasing number of children in the county where neither parent has a college education or a high school diploma."

According to Fairfax County School Board documents, Fairfax fourth grade African American students scored 35th out of 45 Virginia school districts on the reading Standards of Learning tests in 2007. Fairfax fourth grade Latino students fared worse, scoring 37th out of 42 Virginia school districts on the same 2007 test.

By contrast, school board documents show that Fairfax fourth grade white students, on the reading portion of the 2007 Standards of Learning exams, scored ninth out of 49 Virginia school districts.

Among Virginia's 10 school divisions with the largest African American populations, Fairfax black students put up the lowest scores on the math and reading Standards of Learning exams in the third, fourth and fifth grades last year.

When compared to the six Virginia school districts with the largest Hispanic populations, Fairfax County ranked last or next-to-last on the math section of the Standards of Learning exams.

The breadth of students that Fairfax caters to compared to some other school systems could contribute to the problem. Unlike many other school districts, Fairfax has to educate some of the country's best-prepared students as well as those whose families have no higher education and live in poverty, said Galluzzo. Some other Virginia districts could be farther along in figuring out how to educate their most at-risk students than Fairfax is, he said.

"Does the historic success of the county put its under-performing students into the shadows and make it harder to discern what is not working?" said Galluzzo.

The state of minority achievement is Fairfax County is a concern for many.

"If we measure success from the high end and how our best students do, Fairfax is going to hit out of the park. If your guide to success is how successful the least-performing students are, then we certainly don't hit the mark," said John Johnson, a member of the school system's Minority Student Achievement Oversight Committee and Fairfax County Council of PTAs.

Johnson said school system officials have implied that minority students in other school districts could be outscoring Fairfax by "teaching to the test," a practice that is generally frowned upon in education circles. But Johnson, a parent at Herndon Middle School, said that is no excuse for Fairfax's poor performance.

"There is no reason the Richmond schools should be consistently beating us," said Johnson.

Fairfax schools could help close the achievement gap by expanding access to pre-kindergarten education, which many working class and poor families cannot af-

Achievement Gap: Black and Hispanic Student Test Scores

Fairfax County Public Schools boasts about having some of the highest test scores in Virginia. But the locality's students who are black or Hispanic are not faring as well as the general population.

Among Virginia's school districts with the 10 largest black populations, Fairfax County's black students in the third, fourth and fifth grades scored the lowest in the state on standardized tests in reading and math.

Fairfax County's Hispanic students have the lowest or second lowest standardized math scores – beat out only by Arlington County – when compared with their peers in Virginia's five other school districts with sizable Hispanic populations.

In the charts below, the high and low scores in a particular category are highlighted. Information provided by the Virginia Department of Education.

ford on their own, Johnson said. Fairfax County should also recruit teachers who are ethnic minorities more aggressively.

Johnson also said the African-American community may be in a "state of denial" about the achievement gap in Fairfax County. "Too many African Americans, when they get to Fairfax County, think their job is over. You are there, you have done your job and now you are going to turn your child over to the school system," he said.

OTHER parent activists said the school system, not parents, should be doing more to focus on the problem.

"We could be much more aggressive on this if we wanted to be. If you look at what the school board focuses on, the issue of minority achievement rarely comes up," said Maria Allen, a South Lakes High School parent. She said the school system has done little to address the issue since it came to their attention in 2006.

"The truth of the matter is very little is being done," said Allen.

"In my opinion, this is not where one of the wealthiest counties in the country should be. If we focused on the issue, we could be doing much better," she added.

THE SCHOOL BOARD has attempted to address the achievement gap by emphasizing individualized education strategies, according to school board member Stu Gibson (Hunter Mill).

"If we meet the needs of each child as an individual, then there will be no achievement gap," said Gibson.

In spite of an achievement gap, there is also evidence that all students are at an advantage if they attend a Fairfax County Public School, said Galluzzo.

Fairfax sends an extremely high percentage of its graduates onto higher education, which means black and Hispanic students are still proceeding beyond secondary school education regardless of an achievement gap.

"They get students beyond secondary education. They still may only score 72 on the SOL exam but [Fairfax] gets them prepared enough to continue their education," said Galluzzo, making them more successful overall.

"If your guide to success is how successful the least-performing students are, then we certainly don't hit the mark."

Runners compete in annual Monroe Parker Invitational.

BY JASON MACKEY
THE CONNECTION

Tuesday's Monroe Parker Invitational, an annual cross country race run on the 2.98-mile course at Burke Lake Park, traditionally provides both coaches and runners the chance to evaluate the work that's put in over the summer. It also offers a sneak peek at some of the talent they'll see later in the season.

Lake Braddock's Liana Epstein and Chantilly's Chris Foley took the individual titles, while Lake Braddock won both the girls and boys team titles.

Still, the Monroe Parker doesn't make or break anyone's year. Because of its scheduled slot in the season, though Tuesday's meet was rescheduled from Sept. 6 after remnants of Hurricane Hanna pummeled the area, an evaluative theme tends to surround the race.

The Fairfax Rebels found out how good they could be this season. After finishing 22nd at Brentsville, the boys team rebounded with an eighth-place finish Tuesday, led by junior Kevin Dowd's fifth-best mark of 15:49.22.

Dowd, who enjoyed the weather and the course because he was finally able to get his legs moving, knows that the Monroe Parker is only one small step during a rather lengthy season.

"Things are going to change come districts, so it's a good gauge for me," Dowd said. "I know that I usually get faster than some people in the middle of the season. It was just good for me to get a gauge." Joining Dowd up front was teammate Ethan Paster, who finished the race in 16:19.77.

Frances Dowd spearheaded the girls team's 13th place finish with her 11th-best time of 19:21.71.

For Woodson, Ethan Katz (16:22.12) and Josh Chartier (16:25.82) excelled for the Cavaliers, finishing 14th and 16th, respectively, while the boys team logged a ninth-best finish.

LAKE BRADDOCK found itself in a familiar position. The boys team scored only 62 points, nearly half as many as second-place South County (108). But the girls team one-upped its counterparts, scoring only 51 points to pull away from West Potomac (108).

The Bruins were powered by Liana Epstein, who finished first overall with a time of 18 minutes, 16.28 seconds.

"I think the weather helped," Epstein said. "It's pretty cool. I definitely still felt Saturday's race [the Brentsville Relays] in my legs, but that's cross country. It felt good and I'm very proud of the team."

Teammate Casey Lardner finished eighth in the girls race, clocking in at 19:08.75, while Kelly Hagan and Amanda Parker finished 13th and 14th, respectively.

For the boys squad, Alex Clark earned a fourth-place finish with his time of 15:48.88, John Cruz finished two spots behind with a 16:00.84 and Sam Rubenking finished 11th with a 16:17.30.

Winning a Welcome Change at Fairfax

For the first time since 2003, Fairfax football boasts 2-1 start.

BY JASON MACKEY
THE CONNECTION

It's been a long time since the Fairfax football program has experienced a little optimism and good news. It's also been a long time since the Rebels' last two-game winning streak.

With a convincing 35-8 win at Washington-Lee last Friday night, Fairfax has now started its season with a 2-1 record for the first time since 2003 and posted its first two-game winning streak since 2004.

A four-game winning streak capped a 5-5 season in 2004, but the Rebels won only four of their next 30 games.

"We're 2-1 and right now the kids feel pretty good."

— Chris Haddock

Suffice it to say, it's a reputation they'd like to change.

"It feels good. We're real excited," said senior fullback Chris Regensburg, of how it feels to be 2-1. "People at school start acknowledging you a lot more, teachers talk to you, but we have a long way to go. It's only been three games."

THE OFFENSIVE ATTACK started with Regensburg against Washington-Lee. He ran for 207 yards and four touchdowns on 14 carries. Regensburg's four touchdowns came on strictly "fullback plays" but didn't total fullback yards, as the scores measured 6, 38, 52 and 55 yards.

Inside runs — more specifically, traps and leads — generally constitute those fullback yards, and Regensburg, with his low center of gravity and excellent vision, was able to slice his way through the Washington-Lee defense.

Listed at 5-foot-9, 180 pounds, Regensburg played much bigger than his size against Washington-Lee. Not only did he excel on offense, but the hard-working senior recovered a pair of fumbles while playing on the defensive side of the ball.

"[Regensburg] has steadily grown and gotten bigger and stronger," said Fairfax coach Chris Haddock. "I challenged him last year that he's going to have to really step things up to kind of make a name for himself and he's done that."

In the offseason, after an admitting to "eating McDonald's every other day" prior to his junior season, Regensburg completely changed his diet, exercise routine and outlook on life. It was simple. No more power lifting and no more eating Big Macs. He also

A Two-Way Street

Behind two stellar backs, Robinson football continues to improve.

BY JASON MACKEY
THE CONNECTION

Robinson football coach Mark Bendorf doesn't like to use a single running back. It's not that he's against running the football — his team ran for 250-plus yards last Friday against West Springfield — but Bendorf typically likes two players to share that load.

Though the Rams suffered a 50-27 home loss, Bendorf's philosophy was on full display as seniors Alex Murray and Wynton Fox provided Robinson with another 1-2 punch in the backfield.

With nearly identical stat lines — Murray carried 15 times for 110 yards and a touchdown and Fox carried 14 times for 110 yards and a touchdown — these two have just been the latest installment for Bendorf.

"If you've followed us, or looked at our stats for maybe the last 10 years, we've always kind of gone with a committee in the backfield ... at least since the mid-1990s," said Bendorf, who has compiled a 107-27 record in his 12-plus years at the school. "It keeps people fresh. It keeps our kids fresh and it keeps the defense off balance."

Early on it appeared as if Robinson would be locked into a shootout with the Spartans. After punting on its first drive, Robinson answered a West Springfield touchdown with one of its own — a 22-yard scoring strike from senior quarterback Timmy Meier to senior wideout Xavier Duncan.

Fox kept that drive alive with a key 10-yard run on third-and-nine, and the 5-foot-7, 170-pounder made even shorter work of Robinson's next drive as he broke free and scampered 70 yards for the score. With the touchdown, Robinson and West Springfield were deadlocked at 14.

Robinson conceded another Spartan touchdown, but the first of two game-changing plays was about to occur. Facing a third-and-six on his own 24, Meier dropped back and looked to throw to his right.

West Springfield linebacker Scott VanBuren jumped the route, grabbed the pass, and sprinted 24 yards untouched into the end zone.

At the half, West Springfield had built a 28-14 lead, but it was the first drive out of the break that finally broke the Rams. With West Springfield quarterback Bryn Renner facing a second-and-24 situation on his own 6-yard line, Renner, flushed from the pocket, escaped to pick up the first down.

"We've always kind of gone with a committee in the backfield."

— Mark Bendorf

Robinson senior Wynton Fox, part of the Rams' talented two-back system, ran for 110 yards and a touchdown on 14 carries during a 50-27 loss to West Springfield last Friday.

"We had them in a very long situation where if we could force a punt, I presumed we'd get it at midfield," said Bendorf, whose team has started 1-2 this season. "I was feeling pretty good about what we were doing offensively and thought that we could bring that thing to 28-21."

Renner's run led to another West Springfield touchdown, and Robinson's run-oriented offense wasn't able to keep up. Still, not many can as the Spartans possess a prolific quick-strike offense.

Murray did all he could to both support the backfield tandem and provide Robinson with a second-half offensive threat. After bolting 48 yards to the West Springfield 6-yard line, Murray capped the drive with a 1-yard touchdown run.

That Robinson answered in the second half shouldn't come as a surprise. Bendorf, one of the area's veteran coaches, prides himself on his team's adjustments and its ability to improve, an assertion that Bendorf proved last fall.

After a 5-5 regular season, including losses to both Chantilly and West Springfield, the Rams peaked at the perfect time and dealt the Chargers a 17-14 upset.

"We're very thorough in how we break the film down with our players and how we identify the areas that we have to get better in," said Bendorf, whose team will host Anacostia on Friday for homecoming. "That's what really served us well last year. We got better and better and at the end we were just a hair away from being in that regional final."

Though it's only three games into the season, Bendorf's team has made the adjustments and employs the two-back system that's standard for a Robinson team, which is pretty much right where Bendorf, who won Northern Region titles in 2001 and 2006, wants things to be.

"Our philosophy is to look at what we're doing and what we're doing well, and then look at our problem areas and try to improve," he said. "At this point in the season, it's who can get better and be playing their best at the end."

Rebels Start 2-1

pped the cardio and ate more tuna fish.

From a team standpoint, Haddock made some changes as well. In the past two years, the coach has instituted a rigorous weightlifting program and enrolled his team in as many camps possible. The coach believes that "confidence is a byproduct of being prepared" and right now he has a team that's both confident and prepared.

The Rebels dropped a 41-6 decision to Woodson in Week 1, but they bounced back nicely with a 26-7 win over Marshall on Sept. 5. With the Marshall win, the Rebels were a bit tentative in the opening half before they let it fly in the final 24 minutes.

After beating Marshall 26-7, Fairfax carried the bulk of its second-half momentum into the Washington-Lee win when the Rebels exploded for 21 points in the opening quarter — all touchdowns from Regensburg, who ran for 131 yards in the period.

"Before the season, I was talking to my dad and I said, 'If we don't get off to a good start these first few games, everyone's going to be like, 'Aww, it's just another year for Fairfax,'" Regensburg said. "Getting these two wins has given us confidence going into the harder part of the season."

And as just less than 99 percent of all football coaches would say, it's only three games into the season and there's still a long way to go.

"We're 2-1 and right now the kids feel pretty good," said Haddock. "But our optimism is a little bit tempered because we have a big game this week against Oakton and we're trying to get ready for that. We know we're going to have to have a big week of practice."

TRUSTEE'S SALE
OF VALUABLE
IMPROVED REAL ESTATE

Improved by the premises known as 3841 Gallows Road, Annandale, Virginia

In execution of a Deed of Trust from Arnulfo Valles Gal-damez, dated October 17, 2007, and recorded November 21, 2007, in Deed Book 19668 at page 1477 among the Land Records of Fairfax County, Virginia, the undersigned substitute trustee will offer for sale at public auction at the front entrance of the Judicial Center for Fairfax County, at 4110 Chain Bridge Road, Fairfax, Virginia, on Tuesday, September 23, 2008 at 12:15 p.m.

the following property being the property contained in said Deed of Trust, described as follows:

Lot 1, Section 1, Lucius Addition to Kenwood as the same appears duly dedicated, platted and recorded in Deed Book 2152 at page 490, among the Land Records of Fairfax County, Virginia.

Commonly known as 3841 Gallows Road, Annandale, Virginia 22003.

TERMS OF SALE: A deposit of $40,000.00 or ten percent (10%) of the sale price, whichever amount is less, in the form of cash or its equivalent will be required of the purchaser at the time and place of sale; the balance of the purchase money being due and payable within fifteen (15) days after sale, time expressly being of the essence, with interest at the rate of 6.375 percent per annum from date of sale to date of settlement. Provided, however, that if the holder of the secured promissory note is the successful bidder at the sale, no cash deposit shall be required, and part of or the entire indebtedness, including interest and costs, secured by the Deed of Trust, may be set off against the purchase price.

Any defaulting purchaser shall forfeit the deposit and stand the risk and cost of resale.

Sale shall be made subject to all existing easements and restrictive covenants as the same may lawfully affect the real estate. Sale is further subject to mechanic's and/or materialman's liens of record and not of record. The property will be sold subject to all conditions, covenants, restrictions, rights of redemption of federal lienholders or encumbrances, and agreements of record affecting the same, if any.

In the event the undersigned trustee is unable to convey to the purchaser good title, then purchaser's sole and exclusive remedy shall be in the refund of the deposit paid at the time of sale.

The subject property and all improvements thereon will be sold in "as is" condition without warranty of any kind. Purchaser shall be responsible for any and all building and/or zoning code violations whether of record or not of record, as well as for all unpaid and enforceable homeowners' or condominium owners' association dues and assessments, if any. Purchaser also shall be responsible for obtaining possession of the property at his/her expense. Purchaser shall assume the risk of loss and shall be responsible for any damage, vandalism, theft, destruction, or the like, of or to the property occurring after the time of sale. Conveyance will be by special warranty deed. Conveyancing, recording, transfer taxes, notary fees, examination of title, state stamps, and all other costs of conveyance are to be at the expense of purchaser. State and local taxes, public charges, and special or regular assessments, if any, shall be adjusted to the date of sale and thereafter shall be assumed by the purchaser.

The undersigned trustee unconditionally reserves the right: (i) to waive the deposit requirement; (ii) to approve or disapprove the creditworthiness of any bidder and/or purchaser; (iii) to withdraw the property from sale at any time prior to termination of the bidding; (iv) to extend the time for bidding; (v) to reject any or all bids; (vi) to postpone or set over the date or time of sale; and (vii) to extend the period of time for settlement hereunder.

Additional terms and conditions of sale may be announced at the time of sale.

PUBLIC NOTICE
PROPOSAL TO MODIFY CORRECTIVE ACTIONS IMPLEMENTED AT A PETROLEUM RELEASE UNDERGROUND STORAGE TANK (UST) SITE

A petroleum release from former underground storage tank systems had occurred, and corrective actions have been implemented, at:

Fair Oaks Church
4601 West Ox Road
Fairfax, Virginia

The Department of Environmental Quality (DEQ) is requiring Fair Oaks Church to prepare a Corrective Action Plan Addendum to address cleanup of petroleum fuel contamination at the site. If you have questions regarding the cleanup please contact:

Paul J. Jones
Environmental Consultants and Contractors, Inc.
43045 John Mosby Highway
Chantilly, VA 20152
(703) 327-2900

The Corrective Action Plan Addendum will be submitted to the Remediation Division of the Northern Regional Office of the DEQ by September 22, 2008. If you would like to review or discuss the proposed Corrective Action Plan with the staff of the DEQ, please feel free to contact Mr. Randy Chapman of the DEQ at (703) 583-3816 after the date of the Corrective Action Plan Addendum submittal. The DEQ Remediation Division will consider written comments regarding the proposed Corrective Action Plan Addendum until October 22, 2008, and may decide to hold a public meeting if there is significant public interest. Written comments should be sent to the DEQ at the address listed below. The DEQ requests that all written comments reference the tracking number for this case; PC # 1993-1615.
