ot only were the young men and women in the Centreville-based heroin ring involved with a deadly drug, they also risked their own lives when they purchased it from Antonio Harper.

Tuesday morning in federal court, their main supplier — Harper, 33, of Waldorf, Md. - pleaded guilty to conspiring to distribute one kilogram or more of heroin and to possessing a firearm in furtherance of a drug-trafficking crime.

t's the little things that Rickey Somers will miss — going shopping with her daughter Carmen and having chocolate milkshakes afterward at the Silver Diner. Or "dedicating" songs to each other.

"I dedicated 'Heaven Must be Missing an Angel' to her," said Somers last week in Federal Court, before the Fair Oaks man responsible for Carmen's death was sentenced to 20 years in prison. "God must have heard my dedication because heaven's not missing an angel anymore."

On Feb. 6, Matthew Greenlee, 23, pleaded guilty to giving what was ultimately a fatal dose of heroin to Carmen Somers, 20, of Falls Church. According to court documents, she took the drug in his home, the night of Sept. 6, 2008, and died the next day.

In the affidavit supporting the warrant for Greenlee's arrest, FBI Special Agent Bryan Wilhite wrote that, on Sept. 10, 2008, Greenlee admitted distributing heroin to Carmen that night, even though "he knew she was under the influence of other narcotics." He also told Wilhite that, even when he realized she wasn't feeling well, he didn't want police or medical personnel called to his home "due to the presence of heroin" there.

AT GREENLEE'S SENTENCING, last Wednesday, April 15, in U.S. District Court in Alexandria, Carmen's mother thanked law-enforcement personnel for their "kindness, support and respect" and for their never passing judgment on her daughter. She then addressed Greenlee.

"Matthew, you didn't know Carmen, but she was one of five children of myself and my husband," said Somers. "They're his, mine and ours - she was the one who made 'ours." She said sells for between $70,000 and $90,000. But when broken down and sold in lots of individual packets — many, as small as 1/10 gram each — the profit is astronomical. Detectives say a heroin dealer makes $160,000 to $200,000 profit per kilo. So 15 kilos fetched Harper a profit somewhere between $2.4 million and $3 million.

In court, April 21, Brinkema went over Harper's extensive plea document in detail, making sure he fully understood the ramifications of his actions. She told him that, for the heroin-distribution charge, he's facing a mandatory minimum sentence of 10 years in prison and could receive a maximum of life imprisonment.

"And do you understand that the court could impose a $4 million fine?" she asked? "Yes, ma'am," he replied.

The firearm charge carries a punishment of as much as life in prison and has a mandatory minimum of five to seven years, depending on whether Harper just possessed a firearm or brandished it. He could also be fined $250,000

Two Years Prison for Attempted Burglary and Credit-Card Fraud

A Chantilly man who tried to break into an adult-video store has been sentenced to two years in prison. He is Joshua Nowlin, 21, of 13292B Leafcrest Lane, No. 203, in the Shenandoah Crossing Apartments.

The incident occurred Sept. 24, 2008, at the MVC Late Night Video store at 14021 Lee Jackson Memorial Highway in Chantilly. Fairfax County police responded to a burglar alarm around 3:30 a.m. and discovered damage to the front door. They found Nowlin nearby, and an investigation led to his arrest on a charge of attempted burglary.

On Feb. 2 in Circuit Court, he pleaded guilty to that charge, plus credit-card fraud, possession of burglary tools and a misdemeanor offense of trespassing. He returned April 9 for sentencing, and Judge Jan Brodie sentenced him to a total of two years in prison.

Arrest in Sexual Assault

Fairfax County police have charged a 16-year-old Fairfax boy with the sexual assault of a 23-year-old Fairfax woman who'd been exercising alone in a community gym in Greenbriar. The incident occurred Monday, April 13, at 8:30 p.m. in the East Meadow apartment complex in the 4000 block of Majestic Lane.

Police said a masked man entered the gym, watched the woman for a few minutes and then followed her into the women's locker room. There, said police, he allegedly sexually assaulted her and they struggled when she resisted.

She was able to fend him off, escape to her home and call police. After an investigation, police arrested the teen-ager last Thursday, April 16. He was taken to the Juvenile Detention Center and charged with abduction with intent to defile and object sexual penetration.

Three Months Jail for Thefts

Nearly a year has passed since two men walked out of the Chantilly Costco store with a TV and other electronics without paying for them. Now they've each been sentenced to three months in jail.

The incident occurred June 18, 2008 at the Costco at 14390 Chantilly Crossing Lane. And as Edward Clay, 21, and Derek Jones, 25, both of no fixed address, slipped out a side entrance, loss-prevention officers were watching. The employees chased the pair into the parking lot, pinning one man to the ground until police could respond and arrest them.

They were each charged with four counts of grand larceny, but were later indicted by the grand jury on just one count each. Both Clay and Jones pleaded guilty, Feb. 4, in Circuit Court. When they returned, last Thursday, April 16, Judge Gaylord Finch sentenced each man to three years in prison, suspending two years and nine months of that time.

Free Carseat Inspections

Certified technicians from the Sully District Police Station will perform free, child safety carseat inspections, Thursday, April 23 and 30, from 5-8:30 p.m., at the station, 4900 Stonecroft Blvd. in Chantilly. No appointment is necessary. But residents should install the child safety seats themselves so technicians may properly inspect and adjust them, as needed. Call 703-814-7000, ext. 5140 to confirm dates and times.

Fair Oaks CAC Meeting

The Fair Oaks District Police Station Citizens Advisory Council will meet Tuesday, April 28, at 7 p.m. in the roll-call room of the Fair Oaks District Police Station. It's at 12300 Lee Jackson Memorial Highway.

Seeing Beyond First Impressions

Centreville High School to present drama next week.

BY BONNIE HOBBS

entreville High's Cappies play is "The Elephant Man," and Director J. Mark Rogers has high praise for his actors. "I think this could be the best show we've ever done at Theatre Centreville because of the subject matter and the commitment the students have shown to it," he said. "It's one of those plays with such good roles that the actors can't wait to work on the scenes. And when you have that kind of passion, it always comes out well."

The curtain rises Thursday-Friday, April 30-May 1, at 7:30 p.m., and Saturday, May 2, at 2 and 7:30 p.m. (The Cappies show is May 1). Tickets are $8 at the door or at www.theatrecentreville.com.

The play features a cast and crew of 55 and takes place in 19th-century England where the real "Elephant Man," John Merrick, lived. Portraying him is junior Steve Belden. "John's in his 20s and is afflicted by bone disorders and skin growths to the point where he has a grotesque physical appearance," said Belden. "He's immediately judged by society as being a lesser person — even though, in reality, he's more intelligent than the general public and has a philosophical outlook on life. He's used to this treatment, but it bothers him that people don't consider him an equal."

It's Belden's first leading role and he's thrilled to have it. Hardest is adjusting his body to resemble Merrick's. "His right arm was unusable and his back was hunched over," said Belden. "His legs were fragile and his mouth was pulled to one side of his face."

But he called it "probably the most interesting character I've played, and one of the deepest, because you watch him change from his innocent view of life and begin to truly question events going on around him." He said the audience will like the play because "It has a great message of tolerance, understanding and seeing past your first impression of a person to truly get to know them."

ROSS, THE ELEPHANT MAN'S manager, is played by senior Neema Atri. "He's my carnival act, and my goal is to make some money off him," said Atri. "I'm desperate and deceptive. I feed and take care of him and give him a place to sleep, but claim all the money for myself. But once I realize he's more of a liability, I give up on him."

Atri's enjoying his part because "villains are always a lot of fun, and Ross doesn't know he's doing anything wrong because he's only thinking of himself." Toughest, he said, is maintaining Ross's Cockney accent. But once he got it down, it was rewarding "because his voice — low, thick, grungy and poor Cockney — also tells a lot about his character."

As for the audience, Atri says, "It's a mature show, and looking beyond what you see with your eyes is a classic lesson. And I can't wait to see all the carnival members on stage."

Senior Christine Tillema plays Nurse Sandwich, who tries to take care of Merrick in the hospital. "But when she seems him, she realizes she's not as tough as she thought and she runs away screaming," said Tillema. "Initially, though, she's strong and can handle anything."

Tillema said it's challenging to go through such a shift in personality, but fun. The hard part is "conveying who she is in such a short amount of time," she said. "But she's different from characters I've played before because she's much less nurturing and caring and more strong and determined."

She said the audience will like the play's message of not judging a book by its cover because "the Elephant Man is actually a smart, warm and interesting person. But not many people give him a chance to show what he's like on the inside."

ONE WHO DOES, however, is Mrs. Kendall, an actress, portrayed by senior Annie Paradis. "She's his connection to the outside world and the first woman who's ever spoken with him and isn't afraid of his appearance," said Paradis. "They form a friendship — which is more romantic in Merrick's eyes — and it allows him to become more human through their communication with each other."

Paradis said Kendall is used to being charismatic and flirtatious and putting on an act for others. "But she's respected and genuine with him and doesn't need to [pretend]," said Paradis. "It's hard fusing together all those characteristics to make her an independent woman, and it's also tough doing a proper British accent. But I like how she speaks her mind, is honest and has good intentions."

Senior Torin Van Houten plays Dr. Treves, who takes Merrick in and tries to help him live a comfortable life in the hospital where he doesn't have to be gawked at by the public. "But then Treves realizes he's doing it to further his own career, since he's taking on such an abnormal case," said Van Houten. "I love it. It's easily the most challenging role I've ever played."

He said doing a believable British accent for two hours, and figuring out how to relate to the extreme characters around him, is difficult. But, he added, "It's a lead role and I really appreciate the challenge and how this journey really changes Treves."

Director Rogers put on a one-act version of "The Elephant Man" in 2001 and, he said, "The kids had so much fun with it that I decided to do a full-length version. It allows the students to learn a British dialect and take on the physical challenges of the time period and the characters, many of which are freaks. And it's very dramatic — which the kids always love to do and really sink their teeth into."

He said the story's also socially relevant because "education is more inclusive today. At the time of the Elephant Man, if people were born with any kind of physical or mental deformity, they were institutionalized. Whereas now, we mainstream them and give them opportunities to learn and grow. They're no longer freaks — just people who are different — so we've come a long way."

Drug Supplier Pleads Guilty

for this charge, and this sentence must run consecutively to whatever time he receives for the drug-dealing offense.

"So the minimum time you're looking at is 15 years, no matter what," said Brinkema. "Parole is not available in the prison system, so whatever term is imposed must be fully served. Your criminal history, the nature and quantity of the drugs involved, your role in the conspiracy — for example, if you were a leader in it, and if weapons or juveniles were involved — all affect the sentence you could receive."

Also taken into account, she said, will be community determent, plus the impact Harper's actions had on the victims. Besides the countless young people who became addicted to the heroin he supplied to their local dealers, four died.

HARPER DID get a break, however, because he was originally charged with distribution of one kilogram or more of heroin leading to death. In this case, the person who died after receiving a fatal dose in March 2008 was 19-year-old Alicia Lannes of Centreville.

But according to the plea agreement, explained Brinkema, Harper agreed that he distributed at least 10 but less than 30 kilograms of heroin and, in exchange, the penalty for heroin distribution resulting in death would not apply. By pleading guilty, he also waived his right to appeal his conviction or sentence — as long as it's within the federal sentencing guidelines. "In exchange for your guilty plea, the government will not further prosecute you in connection with this case in the Eastern District of Virginia," said the judge. "But it does not protect you from prosecution in any other district." She also said Harper must testify in other criminal proceedings in connection with this conspiracy, and to grand juries, as required.

Brinkema told him he's subject to forfeiture of any property obtained from his drug dealing or used in its furtherance, such as his car. And, said Assistant U.S. Attorney Daniel Grooms, "We anticipate forfeiture of the firearm seized from Mr. Harper, the day of his ar-

Count one of his plea agreement, Brinkema told Harper, states that, between 2006 and Nov. 19, 2008, "You, Skylar Schnippel and others had an agreement to distribute one or more kilograms of heroin. Count five states that, on Nov. 19, 2008, you knowingly and intentionally possessed a firearm in furtherance of the drugtrafficking crime in count one."

She asked Harper, "Why did you feel it was necessary to have a weapon?" He replied, "I was shot in 1992, so I had it for protection." When she asked if he also had other firearms during his drug dealings, he denied it. But Grooms said that wasn't so: "We have descriptions of multiple firearms — other pistols he had, so we have an issue with that [statement]."

According to the statement of facts signed by Harper and filed April 21 in U.S. District Court in Alexandria, "Harper carried a handgun that was clearly visible tucked in his waistband. When Harper conducted deals with customers, he often displayed the firearm by placing it in view on the seat of the car or on his lap."

When Brinkema asked him if the gun's handle was showing during drug deals, he said, "Probably so" and admitted keeping his weapon "within arm's reach." She also questioned him about the heroin.

"THE AGREEMENT says you obtained the heroin from sources of supply in Washington, D.C., and Maryland and then broke down and repackaged it into packages containing 1/10 gram," said Brinkema. "What quantities of heroin did you usually purchase at a time?" Said Harper: "One hundred or 200 grams at a time."

"What total amount of heroin do you think you bought from your suppliers," she asked. "Fifteen kilos altogether," he answered.

Brinkema said Harper distributed it to people including J.R. Quick, David Schreider, Lokesh Rawat, Kevin Zuiker and Angela Aycock. Harper said he didn't know them by name, but knew they came from Virginia. (Quick, Schreider and Rawat have already received prison sentences for their roles in the SEE GUILTY PLEA. PAGE 11 school lunches, the week of April 27.

The students are hard at work on the production and, said Director Julie Wharton, "All the pieces are falling into place. It's always exciting when the set, costumes and acting come together."

Playing Dorothy is eighth-grader Katelyn Reimer. "Dorothy's a girl stuck in a little town in Kansas, and she wants to see bigger and better places," said Katelyn. "It's the best role I've ever had — a great character in a great play. She later realizes that what she wants doesn't make her happy; what she already had did"

While having lots of lines to memorize, Katelyn's thrilled to be on stage so much and loves singing "Somewhere Over the Rainbow." And she said the audience should like the show's "modern twist."

JOSH GREENBERG portrays the Cowardly Lion. "He runs away from danger, but eventually realizes he's had courage all along. He just needs to face it for himself." He, too, is happy about his part because "I love being really loud and roaring. That's my normal, everyday personality — I'm very outgoing."

He said, it "hurts my voice sometimes when I roar, and it's kind of demanding. But it's fun singing, 'If I Were King of the Forest.' It's really upbeat and unofficially makes me a king; then my friends have more respect for me."

The Scarecrow is played by Josh Lutz. "He's clumsy and just learning to walk when Dorothy first meets him," said Josh. "But he's sweet and cares about Dorothy. He's fun because I get to wobble all over the stage and pretend I'm a big sack of hay."

Hardest, he said, is "falling in the right places so I won't hurt myself." And he's pleased to be Dorothy's favorite of the three friends. Josh likes his song, "If I Only Had a Brain," because "it's jazzy and fun to sing." He said the modern changes include being in the 21st century "with cell phones and technology, and more hip characters who wear Abercrombie [& Fitch] and text."

Madeleine Bloxam plays Glinda the Good Witch. "She's a bubbly, magical, kindhearted person who wants to help Dorothy make her way back home," said Madeleine. "She makes different movements, like a good witch would, and glides with poise and grace"

Her favorite number is the "Munchkinland" song when Dorothy meets Glinda. "It's really peppy, and the Munchkins are full of energy," said Madeleine. "They're so glad the Wicked Witch of the East is dead."

She said the costumes are different, but beautiful. "And the audience will really enjoy our chorus teacher, Mrs. Christman, playing piano along with us," said Madeleine. "It's a nice touch."

PORTRAYING THE WICKED Witch of the West is Zoe Haveles. "She's greedy and self-centered and out to get Dorothy," said Zoe. "She's out there and extreme, so it's fun to let go of what your parents tell you about being nice to people and just act crazy and mean."

Although it's tough mastering her character's "shrieking and cackling" laugh, Zoe's happy that "she's the only really evil character and has minions following her around." Her favorite song is "The Merry Old Land of Oz" because "it has lots of laughing — and I interrupt it."

Daniel Lindgren plays the Tin Man. "He was once in love with a Munchkin maiden," said Daniel. "But when he was turned into a tin man, he lost his heart and couldn't love."

This is Daniel's first play, so he's enjoying the new experience. He said it's both fun and challenging moving stiffly for his character, especially in the dance scenes. And he appreciates the irony of how "the tin man can already love people, but doesn't realize it." He's pleased to sing his solo, "If I Only Had a Heart," and likes "The Jitterbug Song" because "we have a cool dance for that."

Playing Toto the dog is Brandon Sanchez. "He's afraid of the Wicked Witch, and Elmira Gulch, the Kansas witch," said Brandon. "He's nervous being in the haunted forest with the flying monkeys and he

"It's fun to ... just act crazy and mean."

Zoe Haveles, playing a wicked witch barks a lot. I've never played an animal before and it's fun and interesting."

He makes himself as small as possible and, even though he doesn't talk, he gets to sing, dance and be on stage a lot. Brandon's favorite number is "The Jitterbug Song."

Director Wharton says

this is the Royal Shakespeare version of the play—
"as true to the MGM movie-version, as possible. So it'll seem familiar, but we've added visuals and interpretations of our own so there's a freshness to it."

Extend Earth Day through Spring

Celebrations this month and beyond can lead to more small steps for families and individuals.

hile you may or may not be set up to consider biking to work on some days, or any day, it's worth considering getting to work without your car on Bike to Work Day on May 15, and if possible, one day or more a week thereafter.

With dozens of local events this week marking Earth Day, it's a good time to think about taking steps small and large to improve the environment and increase your family's connection to the natural world.

One of the easiest ways to help air quality and traffic this spring and summer involves more telecommuting. Press your employer to allow you and other employees to work from home at least one day a week.

One of the best ways to benefit the environment for the indefinite future is by instilling an appreciation for the natural world in your children and fam-EDITORIAL ily. This can be as simple as getting out into your own yard and talking about the trees, plants, birds and animals living right along side of you. Get out into a local park, walk along a stream. Go to programs at the local nature center or classes audubonnaturalist.org. Make a commitment to be a little warmer in the house this summer, to let the thermostat stay a little higher and the air conditioning a bit warmer. When the light bulb burns out, run by the Audubon Naturalist Society, replace it with a compact fluorescent.

The Washington, D.C. chapter of the Sierra Club offers simple tips for things you can do to help the environment at http:/ /dc.sierraclub.org/volunteer/ lifestyle.asp. Suggestions range from reducing the amount of junk mail you receive, using cloth bags at the grocery store and cloth napkins at the dinner table, conserving water, buying local food, not buying bottled water, leaving the car parked at least one day a week, and sharing your values with your children and neighbors.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Beyond Gun Rhetoric

To the Editor:

As a parent who lost a precious daughter on April 16, 2007 at Virginia Tech, I would like to dispel comments made by detractors of this tragedy and whose intent is to confuse and divert attention from all of the issues revealed.

Seung Hui Cho did not buy his gun from a gun show. I believe everyone is in agreement on that. But he could buy his gun due to a defect in the mental health reporting law at the time. Imagine that, a loophole that our Governor, Attorney General and legislators had to close. Let's just call it the mental health loophole.

There are claims that some families of those that suffered loss or injury that day, and our tragedy, are being politically exploited. Well, there is a difference. The system can use us or we can use the system to help correct the faults we discovered as a result of April 16, 2007, and we will not ignore other loopholes that we have discovered on our journey for truth. One of those discoveries being the gun show loophole. This is one issue that we, as Virginians, must work on together.

As a result of April 16, we have helped support the passing of two federal laws, three executive orders and 23 state laws (mostly in the mental health arena). Therefore, the tragedy itself became inherently political. Imagine, the infusion of $42 million alone into the mental health system that had been ignored for years and the legislative flaws that were revealed that had to be acted on. We do not do this for self-aggrandizement. We have already paid the ultimate price. And we do thank Governor Kaine and our legislators for giving us voice and allowing us to be heard so that others may not lose their loved ones to weak laws. Some vision and foresight is required by government instead of reactionary and divisive politics.

The background check by private sellers at gun shows is not about the 2nd Amendment or gun control. These are false representations of the position that are used to divert public attention and instill fear. It is not about controlling guns but is about verifying unchecked purchasers. Its focus is simply public safety. Though closing the gun show loophole may not prevent the illegal purchase of guns entirely, it can make it harder for those ineligible from doing so. It is not about being perfect but it is about how both sides of this issue can work together to make it harder for ineligibles to buy guns so that our families, schools and communities are safer.

Political dogma and rhetoric aside, it is the duty of every citizen of this great Commonwealth to be responsible to one another, including private sellers at gun shows and gun show operators.

To Serve 20 Years in Prison

Carmen was a Girl Scout and safety patrol, had played flute in her school orchestra and was on the school softball team.

"She won an award, her junior year at Marshall High, for respect, honesty, spirit and community," said Somers. "And she made the Principal's List and the AB Honor Roll." Somers said all who knew Carmen will miss her joy, sense of humor, positive energy and creativity.

"She was an inspiration to others and had a passion for love and peace," said her mother. "Her brothers and sisters all loved having her as a baby sister; now they have a void in their lives. She also loved riding on the back of her dad's motorcycle in the wind. He attached her helmet to the back and that's where it'll stay."

Now, said Somers, "When her dad and I see girls her age, we wonder, 'What would Carmen be doing right now?' Her dad will never have the joy of walking her down the aisle, and we'll never get to be grandparents to her children."

Then, lashing out at Greenlee, she likened her daughter to a candle burning brightly and said he and the two other young women at his house that night "snuffed out that light." You delayed calling 911 and [one girl] misdirected the ambulance. Were you afraid you'd get caught with an illegal substance and you were worried about yourselves? Through your fear and selfishness and the choices you made, the three of you took away her life. And Carmen's dad and I will feel the burden of her loss forever."

AFTERWARD, GREENLEE stood and apologized to Carmen's family, saying, "I regret everything that happened."

In response, Judge Leonie Brinkema told him, "You had a troubled background and couldn't overcome it, and drugs took over your life." Still, his charge of heroin distribution leading to a person's death came with a mandatory-minimum sentence of 20 years in prison, and that's what she im-

Brinkema said she'd ask the Bureau of Prisons to enroll Greenlee into the 500-hour, intensive drug-treatment program and would recommend he be incarcerated as close to his home as possible. She also placed him on three years supervised release and ordered him to complete whatever mental-health and drug treatment is recommended by his probation officer.

Furthermore, said the judge, "You are to remain drug-free and have no communication of any kind with any others in this case. And you are not to frequent any outdoor places where drugs are sold." She also ordered him and any co-defendants to jointly pay $13,677 restitution to the Somers family; currently, though, the other two have not been charged.

Five Arrested in Mortgage Scam

60 years behind bars.

According to the indictment and other court documents, Cardoza reportedly provided the names of two different people to purchase five different properties in Northern Virginia. Authorities say these buyers didn't know of or authorize the purchases, but the "conspirators" allegedly used their names and Social Security numbers to apply for and obtain the mortgage financing.

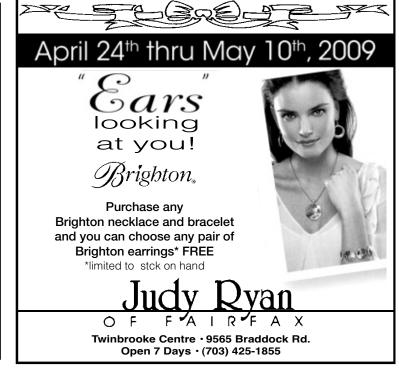

Lambert, a real estate agent with Fairfax

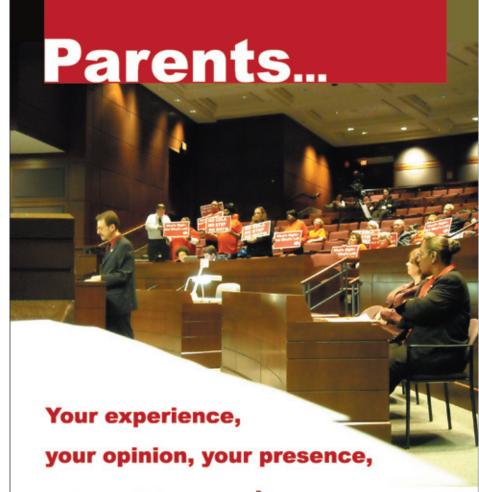

Realty, prepared the sales contracts, and Valdez, a mortgage broker, prepared fraudulent mortgage applications which falsified the income and assets of the buyers, the indictment states.

Chavarria worked for Valdez and reportedly added the names of one of the buyers to his bank account so the buyer would appear to have the funds needed to qualify for the loan.

Guilty Plea

conspiracy; Zuiker and Aycock will be sentenced soon and Schnippel is slated for a May 4 trial).

Accepting Harper's pleas, the judge said, "There's more than enough evidence to find you guilty of both crimes." She then set his sentencing for July 17.

Afterward, Greg Lannes, Alicia's father, called it "unfortunate" Harper didn't plead guilty to heroin distribution causing death, but he and his wife were glad Harper pleaded guilty to the other offenses, "which will result in a serious prison sentence."

"The fact that he is not on the street distributing this terrible drug right now is comforting to our community," said Lannes. "Harper's distribution of heroin has destroyed many lives. We are confident the judge will look at all the evidence and the impact to our community and sentence Harper to an appropriate justice."

Mortgage Scam

mother-in law of Valdez, operated a tax preparation business and allegedly authored letters to substantiate the fake employment of the buyers as listed in the fraudulent mortgage applications.

According to the indictment, the conspirators profited by using part of the mortgage proceeds to pay "home improvement" expenses to themselves, entities they controlled and their associates. These home improvement expenses were approximately $33,000 to $55,000 per house.

Some of the conspirators also earned thousands of dollars in commissions on the sales, authorities say. The indictment contends that the conspiracy resulted in a total of at least $336,957 in fraudulent proceeds. The properties involved in the scheme have been foreclosed upon, causing substantial losses to the lenders.

This case was investigated by the FBI and the United States Postal Investigation Service. Assistant U.S. Attorney Edmund P. Power is prosecuting the case on behalf of the United States.

estfield's baseball team spent 23 games last season forming its reputation as one of the Northern Region's premier offensive clubs. With twins Matt and Mike Snyder — now at the University of Mississippi — the Bulldogs could often sit back and wait for the three-run homer to occur.

Through the first 12 games of the 2009 season, Westfield has been every bit as prolific offensively, scoring about a third of a run more than last season while allowing more than two runs less per con-

The good news came rolling in last week for Chantilly's boys' basketball program. John Manning, the team's 6-foot-11 defensive force, was recognized as an honorable mention All-State performer, while Justin May, a playmaking guard, signed his National Letter of Intent to play at Division-I Delaware State.

"We're really excited to watch him at the next level," Chargers coach Jim Smith said of May, who averaged 14 points, 5 rebounds and 3 assists per game this past Chantilly High School to demonstrate that point. Westfield smacked two home runs and junior Danny Thorpe pitched complete-game gem, helping his team to a 3-0 win over the Chargers.

"Timing is everything, I guess," said Westfield coach Chuck Welch, > whose team was 11-1 this season entering Wednesday night's home game against Oakton, which ended too late for this edition. With a career record of 299-216 in 26 years as a head coach in Fairfax County, Welch will be trying for win No. 300 against the Cougars.

it would like this season, Welch been pleased with the completeness of his team. In addition to a strong pitching staff, the Bulldogs boast a ton more team speed than last year and a much-improved defense, too.

EVEN THOUGH credit for the win over Chantilly, who fell to 10-3 overall, 4-1 against Concorde District foes with the loss, can be spread around rather easily, most of it fell on the shoulders of Thorpe, who needed an astonishing 67 pitches — 45 strikes — to toss a two-hit shutout.

While not exactly capable of throwing the ball through a brick wall, Thorpe mixed his speeds and threw his slider, changeup and fastball — in that order, pretty much — for strikes. Better yet, to the 23 batters he faced, Thorpe threw a first-pitch strike to 15 of

"I felt really comfortable out there," said Thorpe, a true sidearm pitcher who releases the ball with his right arm slight below parallel with the ground. "Getting ahead really helps, and then I was able to mix off-speed and fastballs for strikes."

Of the 21 outs Thorpe recorded, eight came via strikeout, five on ground balls to the pitcher, two on flyouts to the outfield, five on ground balls to the infield and one was a lineout to third. Thorpe didn't walk a batter.

"I don't think we were mentally ready to play," Chantilly coach Kevin Ford said. "Hopefully our guys will bounce back from this and understand that we need to come with a little tougher mentality and be able to adjust from atbat to at-bat."

WILLIAMS HIT .419 last spring but missed half of the year with a torn anterior cruciate ligament. Now healthy, he's been an offensive force in the middle of Westfield's lineup. And on Friday, he crushed a solo homer in the second inning off of Chantilly starter John Colella to give Westfield a 1-0 lead. Kevin Reardon made it 3-0 with his tworun shot in the fourth.

"We've been working really hard at being aggressive, so I just wanted to go up swinging at whatever's close," said Williams, whose shot over the center field wall — just above the 378-foot sign — came on a first-pitch fastball. "It was a close pitch, and I got lucky."

Westfield, as a whole, has been more dominant than lucky thus far. In the first game of the season, the Bulldogs traveled to Prince William County and handed Forest Park a 10-0 loss, with Thorpe, freshman Kyle Corwin and Williams combining to toss the school's first-ever perfect

A week later, Westfield earned a 15-2 blowout win over Oakton a Northern Region semifinalist last spring. Add in a perfect first half against district opponents, and it's rather easy to understand the optimism off of Stonecroft Boule-

"It's a team game, and you can't just rely on one or two people all the time," Welch said. "I think that's what you saw [last Friday]."

Volleyball Signings

A pair of area volleyball stars, Chantilly's Allison Williams and Centreville's Celine Alasomuka, have verbally committed to continue their careers at Villanova (Big East) and William & Mary (Colonial Athletic Association), respectively, in 2010, according to a press release issued by their club team, Virginia Elite. A 6-foot middle blocker, Williams helped Chantilly (26-2) to both Concorde District and Northern Region title-game wins over Westfield and was recognized as a first team All-District and All-Region performer. Alasomuka, a 5foot-8 outside hitter, was a second team All-District pick, leading the Wildcats to a 14-8 record.

March. In addition to the gold medal for all-around, Kurowski won a gold medal in vault and silver medals on parallel bars, high bar and floor exercise. He placed fourth on rings and was a top-10 finisher in pommel horse. Competing in the 10-year-old division, Kurowski is coached by Steve Sheinman and trains at Capital Gymnastics in Burke. He finished 11th in the seven state Region 7 gymnastics competitions a week later. His favorite apparatus? The vault.

Wisda Earns Scholarship

Centreville senior David Wisda, an offensive lineman on the football team, received one of five $1,000 scholarships at the National Capital Region Chapter of the National Football Foundation and College Hall of Fame's annual High School Scholar-Athlete banquet at the Army-Navy Country Club in Arlington, held March 29. Attending the banquet were David's parents, Marty and Vivian Wisda, Centreville High School principal Mike Campbell, assistant football coach Mike Brown, teachers Edie Alcorn and Cathy Ruffing and teammates Chris Will and Patrick Shea. In December, Wisda was accepted into the Virginia Tech School of Engineering and plans to play rugby at the
