A Historic Family Rediscovered

Gooding Tavern marker dedicated on Little River Turnpike.

BY VICTORIA ROSS
THE CONNECTION

Kathie Gunther, a researcher with the Fairfax County Public Library's Virginia Room, often receives inquiries about Civil War history.

But when she received a call in 2008 from a descendant of the man who shot Confederate Major John S. Mosby, she had no idea it would unearth a treasure trove of history about another historic Virginia family: the Goodings.

Nearly four years and 244 pounds of documents later, Gunther could write a book about the family. During the Antebellum South, when a quarter of the Commonwealth's population were slaves who worked on tobacco plantations, the Gooding family owned almost 2,100 acres, a famous tavern, a blacksmith shop, a stable and a drover's pen.

"The Gooding family was so enmeshed with the County's history," Gunther said. "They were a great family with important historic ties, but they were under-the-radar."

No more. On Sunday, July 10, elected officials, historic-preservation groups and descendants of the Gooding family gathered on Little River Turnpike to dedicate the Gooding Tavern Historical Marker. Located near the Little River United Church of Christ, and just outside the boundary of the Pleasant Valley Memorial Park, the sign commemorates the location of the tavern.

Benjamin Martell, a descendant, uncovered the sign, which is engraved with this inscription:

WEEK IN FAIRFAX

Four Robbery Suspects Sought

City of Fairfax Police are investigating a robbery on the grounds of the Foxcroft Condominium complex. It occurred last Tuesday, July 6, around 12:36 a.m. The victim was an 18-year-old male who attended a party at a local business and then asked others for a ride home.

Police say an unidentified male and three acquaintances agreed, and the teen followed them to the nearby grounds of the Foxcroft condominiums. The victim reported being struck from behind and

"The Gooding Tavern served Little River Turnpike travelers and stagecoach passengers from 1807 to 1879, and was famous for the 'best fried chicken,' and 'peaches and honey.' The Goodings also operated a blacksmith shop and stable. Several Civil War skirmishes occurred around the tavern on 24 August 1863, Confederate Partisan Ranger Major John S. Mosby was severely wounded by the Union 2nd Massachusetts Cavalry. Two of his officers were killed and three men wounded. Union losses included: two killed, three wounded and nine prisoners taken. The tavern burned down in 1879."

Before the dedication ceremony, the group met at the Little River United Church of Christ for a short history program on the Gooding family and the Gooding Tavern.

THE GOODING TAVERN, owned by William Gooding, served as an important social and commercial gathering place. Also known as "ordinaries," these taverns provided food and lodging for travelers and their horses or other animals. Prices were established by court order.

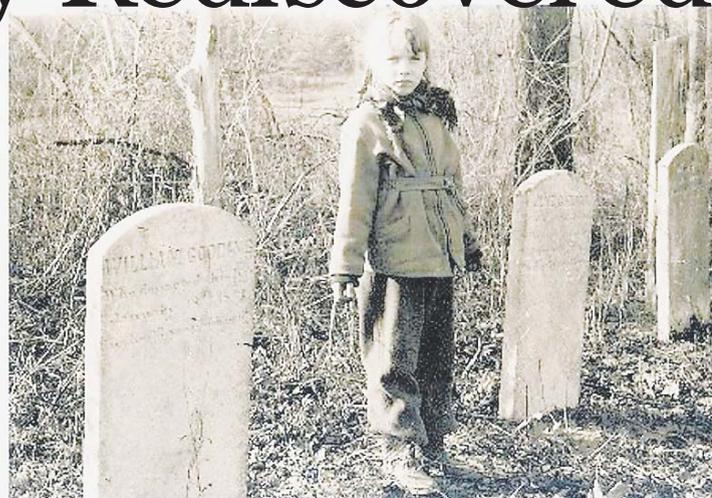

Fairfax County Supervisor Penny Gross (D-Mason) said the Gooding Tavern was also known as the "10-mile-house" because it was 10 miles from D.C. William Gooding's brother owned another tavern in Alexandria, called the "5-mile-house," because it was five miles from the district.

Gross and John Cook (R-Braddock) good-naturedly disputed the exact political district where the Gooding Tavern was located. "The new marker is said all four males punched and kicked him. The suspects took cash, a cell phone, a hat and a debit card from the teen. He was later transported to Inova Fairfax Hospital with non-life-threatening injuries.

The suspects are described as black and ranging in age from approximately 15-19. Three are thin and range in height from about 5 feet 4 inches to 6 feet two inches; the fourth is muscular.

Anyone with information about this incident is asked to call police at 703-385-7924; Detective Mike Boone, 703-385-7959; or Crime Solvers, 703-591-TIPS (8477). Callers to Crime Solvers may remain anonymous and receive an award of squarely in the Mason District, where the Gooding Tavern was located," Gross said. But she conceded the stables and blacksmith shop were located across Little River Turnpike in the Braddock District.

"I didn't think I'd need my international passport today to cross the borders," Cook said, smiling. "It's important to know our history, and this family was clearly a relevant part of Fairfax County history. And I'm looking forward to going out in the 92-degree heat among the poison ivy to dedicate the marker," Cook said, drawing laughter from the crowd.

Mary Lipsey, Fairfax County's History Commissioner, gave the most salient information about "Uncle Billy" Gooding (1768-1861), who was "a well-known and well-liked man." He began his tavern career on Little River Turnpike with an "ordinary" license.

"He was a slave owner, but we know from documents that he was someone who treated his slaves well," she said. His son left land to slaves and sold land to freedmen.

In an 1857 newspaper article, Lipsey said, the tavern was described as "old-fashioned, clean, well-kept, famous for its fried chicken and entertainment for man and beast." Apparently, the tavern and its stables were the last stop before sheep and cattle were taken to the slaughterhouse, Lipsey said.

When "Uncle Billy" died in 1861, Lipsey said there were "glowing obituaries. They called him 'kindly, cheerful, a remarkable man who retained his full vigor at 93.' The newspaper said he never traveled more than four miles in his life, and he never saw a train but heard its whistle even though he lived within five miles of a train." The Gooding family sold the tavern property when the tavern burned down in 1879.

MARTHA COLAVITA, a Gooding family descendant, attended the dedication and said she remembered visiting her grandmother's farm — where the Gooding Family Tavern once stood — when Colavita was a little girl.

Gooding-Seaton adjacent to the Pleasant Valley Memorial Park Cemetery. She said her grandmother was concerned about cemetery preservation, and she and her family would visit many of the gravestones on Easter Sunday. "This means a great deal to us, to have the marker here, near the cemetery, and recognized as part of our history," Colavita said.

"The history of Fairfax County fascinates me," said Board of Supervisors Chair Sharon Bulova (D-At-large), who spoke at the ceremony and walked with visitors through the cemetery. "What I love about history is learning about the families and the stories behind the markers," she said.

The historic marker, one of eight in a three-mile area, was made possible by donations from the Bull Run Civil War Round Table, the Fairfax County History Commission and Christopher and Mary Lipsey. Lipsey is also a member of the Fairfax County Cemetery Preservation Association, a non-profit local organization. "We are small in number, but very dedicated," Lipsey said.

Helping Keep Children Safe

City of Fairfax police, in conjunction with the Optimist Club, will be offering Safe Assured identification kits on Tuesday, July 19, from 10 a.m.-4 p.m., at the City of Fairfax Police Department, 3730 Old Lee Highway.

ment and mannerisms, a general physical description, vital personal information and a family code word. Private information is encrypted and accessible only by law enforcement.

Missing-persons posters can be created and printed directly from the mini-CD in English, Spanish and French. The Safe Assured ID kits can also be used as a valuable aid for adults with special needs. The kits are free and an appointment is necessary. Go to www.fairfaxva.gov/Police/SafeAssuredIdentification.asp to download the enrollment form. Call Sgt. Dan Grimm at 703-385-7966 for further information.

Comedy Play at Robinson

Ovation! Presents 'The Government Inspector.'

BY BONNIE HOBBS

THE CONNECTION

Nikolai Gogol's play "The Government Inspector" may not be as well-known as some other productions but, according to the actors performing it at Robinson Secondary School, it's flat-out hilarious.

"It's a really funny show," says Matt Calvert, who plays the title role. "Once people come see it, they'll laugh and tell their friends about it."

This show culminates Robinson's four-week, mainstage production camp, Ovation! The curtain rises Friday-Saturday, July 22-23 at 7 p.m. Tickets are $5 at the door or at www.brownpapertickets.com/event/186207.

The 22 students involved in the show are mostly in high school and come from several different schools. At the helm is Rocky Run Middle School's theater director Julie Wharton.

THE STORY unfolds in a small town in Russia in the late 19th century. The town leaders learn that a government inspector is coming to their village to see how things are running and report back to the capital. But they're concerned because they're all corrupt, in one way or another, so they don't want to be scrutinized too closely.

At the same time, staying in the town's inn is a lowly bureaucrat with no redeeming qualities — and he's mistaken for the government inspector. But instead of setting things straight, he plays along and makes hundreds of rubles in bribes and is treated like royalty.

"He tells everyone he's important, but he doesn't actually know who they think he is," said Wharton. "And all the characters are so broadly drawn that they're ridiculous in their dishonesty and greed."

In addition, to incorporate more female characters into the play, the thespians have created an original, parallel plot focusing on the women in the village. This show, called "The Innkeeper's Wife," is woven into the main play.

Proud of her cast, Wharton said, "All of them had to audition to become part of Ovation!, so they all have acting experience. And they're building the set, doing costumes and learning all aspects of production. There's a Russian proverb, 'Don't blame the mirror if your face is crooked.' So the set will contain mirrors and, at times, the characters will be watching themselves in these mirrors."

Assistant director is Robinson grad Jacob Sheldon, a senior theater major at Texas A&M. Wharton's delighted with his help and says things are going well. "The actors are focused and have meshed beautifully," she said. "So this is really an ensemble experience, and they're super-talented, clever, funny and creative."

Wharton said the show is "funny with a kick. We can't laugh at it without also thinking about how horribly we, too, behave sometimes when driven by greed and power."

PORTRAYING THE IMPOSTER, Ivan Hlestakov, is Chantilly High junior Matt Calvert. "He's really a loser; his dad sent him away from his town so he'd get his act together and grow up," explained Calvert. "He's over-dramatic and cocky — even sleazy — and he'll do anything he can to catch a quick buck. He keeps saying he's going to change, but he never does."

Calvert likes playing someone so arrogant because "it's a fun twist on a character I don't usually play. His emotions range from depression to courageous to scared to nervous — he's all over the place."

He said the audience will enjoy the show's outrageous comedy and over-the-top characters. "Everyone has their own, distinct, corruption trait," said Calvert. "For example, there's a postmistress who opens and reads everyone's mail before she delivers it."

Josh Lutz, also a Chantilly junior, plays the mayor, Anton Antonovich Svoznik Dumakhanovsky. "He's a dirt bag," said Lutz. "He used money and influence to become mayor, and he uses his power to tell everyone what to do. He has lots of money and treats everyone else like they're lower than him — almost like servants. But when he meets the inspector, he acts really nice, for his own benefit."

Lutz likes playing a mean person because it's a "complete inversion of the way I think. And because our characters are so [exaggerated], we

Del. David Bulova (D-37) shakes Gov. Robert McDonnell's hand after McDonnell signs into law a bill that encourages electric vehicle charging stations in Richmond Tuesday, July 12.

Electric Cars Get Jump-Start with New Law

On Tuesday, July 12, Gov. Robert McDonnell (R) held a ceremonial signing of Del. David Bulova's (D-37) House Bill 2105, a bi-partisan effort which removes barriers to clean-fuel technology and encourage electric vehicle charging stations.

"With gas prices hovering around $4 a gallon, it is important to lay the foundation for providing our families with an alternative that takes advantage of energy produced right here in Virginia," Bulova said after the ceremony. "Richmond needs to let small businesses innovate by eliminating unnecessary hurdles and by promoting these new technologies. This bill helps pave the way for Virginia to be a leader on electric vehicle technology."

Before HB 2105, Virginia law only allowed public utilities to sell electricity. The new law eliminates that requirement, and allows businesses to engage in the retail sale of electricity for the purpose of vehicle-charging services.

"Opening up the door for electric vehicles will help families make their hard-earned money go farther, reduces our dependence on foreign oil, and help to regenerate our national auto industry," Bulova said.

"It was a pretty neat event," Bulova said, adding that McDonnell signed another bill that requires a plan for converting the state vehicle fleet to clean-fuel technology. The ceremony also included representatives from the clean fuel industry to showcase information about their products.

OPINION

Hot Races? Primaries? Uncontested?

Northern Virginia awash in uncontested races; but there are several hot primaries on Aug. 23.

First of all, there are some very important races taking place on Aug. 23, and absentee voting is already underway. If there is any chance you might either be away on vacation on Aug. 23 or you might have a combined work day and commute of 10 hours (that is to say, if you work), or you might be away for any other reason, you can vote in person absentee or by paper ballot absentee.

PRIMARIES AUG. 23

❖ Fairfax County Board of Supervisors, Braddock district Democrats, Janet Oleszek and Christopher Wade compete to face incumbent John Cook (R) in November.

❖ Senate District 30, Democrats Adam Ebbin, Libby Garvey and Rob Krupicka are in a three-way race for the nomination to replace retiring state Sen. Patsy Ticer. The winner will face Tim McGee (R) in November. This district, including parts of Arlington, Alexandria and Mount Vernon, trends to Democrats, so the primary could determine the winner.

❖ Senate District 31, Democrats Jaime Areizaga-Soto (D) and Barbara A. Favola (D) face off; winner will face Caren Merrick (R), to replace retiring Sen. Mary Margaret Whipple. If you live in McLean, Great Falls, parts of Herndon or Sterling, listen up, you are likely in this newly configured district that used to be almost entirely in Arlington.

❖ Senate District 36, Republicans Jeffrey M. Frederick (R) and Tito Muñoz (R) compete to face state Sen. Toddy Puller (D) in this district that includes Mount Vernon, parts of Lorton and much more of Prince William County than before redistricting.

❖ Senate District 39, Republicans Miller Baker and Scott Martin compete to challenge incumbent state Sen. George Barker (D) in November. This district encompasses parts of Centreville, Clifton, Lorton, Fairfax Station, Springfield and the City of Alexandria.

❖ House of Delegates 49, Democratic primary, Stephanie Clifford (D) v. Alfonso H Lopez (D). So far there is no Republican or other candidate so the winner of the primary could be uncontested in November in this Arlington district.

UNCONTESTED:

Parties could still add a candidate up until Primary Election Day, Aug. 23, but at this point it's unlikely that many of these seats will be contested. This is not an exhaustive list.

Fairfax County, Hunters Mill Board of Supervisors, incumbent Cathy Hudgins (D) is so far uncontested. Also on the Fairfax County Board of Supervisors, Pat Herrity (R-Springfield), Jeff McKay (D-Lee), Gerry Hyland (D-Mount Vernon), Michael Frey (R-Sully) are uncontested.

There are some hotly contested races for November, but more on those races later.

To register to vote, to vote absentee, contact:

Yes, We Need Medicaid Reform...

BY NANCY MERCER AND JILL EGLE
CO-EXECUTIVE DIRECTORS/THE
ARC OF NORTHERN VIRGINIA

A young man sits in a crowded waiting room. He is a wheelchair user, his hair is cut close to his head and his body is angular, arms bent in ways that most people would find uncomfortable. He wears head gear that looks like something from a sci-fi movie; it is a band that wraps around his head with a stick of some kind protruding off the front of his forehead. Beside him sits a young woman, African American, dressed smartly. She is thumbing through a magazine talking to him out of the side of her mouth, which is greeted with an occasional head bob or grunt from the young man. The rest of the people in the waiting room take great pains to "look down," "look away" or act as if the two are not in the room. The television is playing in the corner of the room, the sound is low but the subtitles are flying.

Suddenly, there is a burst of explosion from the young man in the chair. He begins to violently rock back and forth. The other people in the room try hard not to stare but they are a bit alarmed. The young woman sitting next to the man in the "chair" pulls out a device, like a big iPad and encourages the young man to explain why he is upset. He begins to use the stick on his forehead and a series of bobbing actions to type out the following, "Can you believe the outcome of the Casey trial?" an automated, robotic voice shares cutting the silence of the room. At first, people stare almost stunned. When the woman begins to share her opinions with the man in the chair so does everyone else in the room. Magically, the differences between the man in the "chair" with the angular body and distracting presence disappear and everyone finds something in common to share as a community.

MEDICAID PAYS for the young lady sitting next to the man in the "chair." She is a direct support professional who is paid to serve as the young man's bridge to his community. Fifty years ago, this young man would have spent a lifetime in an institution, remained at home until he died from lack of adequate medical care many years before his parents, or worse, survive a lifetime in his home and then move to a nursing home when his parents died before him. Additionally, because of his unique communication style, unless someone took the time to understand his head bobs and teach him ways to use assisted technology he would also spend a lifetime being misunderstood, ignored and unknown.

Congress is looking for ways to "balance the budget." There is talk of block granting Medicaid and giving the dollars to each state to develop a "plan" for serving the neediest, but at the same time conserving our resources. This raises grave concerns as we look at how our own state is currently caring for her "most vulnerable."

Virginia ranks 47th in the Nation in its use of Medicaid dollars in the community — near bottom. In many ways, Virginia continues to operate as if it were 50 years ago, relying on the use of expensive alternatives to community services, spending our Medicaid dollars on outdated crisis models like unnecessary hospitalizations, institutionalizations and nursing home placements. Virginia is currently under investigation from the Department of Justice for its unfair treatment of people with developmental disabilities. Concerns have been raised about the "inadequate community services," "long waiting lists" and "unnecessary segregation of services" for thousands of Virginians.

TO BE HONEST, Virginia is not alone in its outdated ways of spending Medicaid. With a growing population of people with disabilities and people who are aging, our country cannot afford to "Cut Medicaid" or develop a "state by state" approach to caring for the "most vulnerable." Yes, we need reform to Medicaid. We need a National plan to address our country's long term care needs. We need a Medicaid program that supports the development and maintenance of preventative community based care, not expensive, crisis driven institutionalized based care. Please ask your congressman and senators to vote "No" to Block Granting Medicaid, this is not the answer to our budget crisis — in fact it is the "more costly, less humane way out!"

Home Life Style

Design for How We Live Now

Interior design for real life: Pet-friendly, kid-friendly, family-friendly.

BY MARILYN CAMPBELL
THE CONNECTION

Melinda Mansfield says that she has one of the most active households in her Chantilly neighborhood. She and her husband Rob have 6-year-old twins, two dogs and three cats.

"I have a face painting and glitter tattoo business for children," said Mansfield. "I am the troop leader for my daughter's Girl Scout troop and my husband is the leader of our son's Boy Scout troop. All the kids in the neighborhood come to my house to play."

Mansfield says that she likes a lively household, but not the mess that often comes with the territory. She wanted to decorate her home to accommodate the chaos without sacrificing style. "I like really nice things," said Mansfield. "I always have. I wanted a fresh, clean look with good fabrics that will stand the test of time."

When Mansfield found interior designer Deborah Wiener, she knew that she'd found a good match. Wiener started Designing Solutions to specialize "in real life, pet-friendly, family-friendly design," and considers herself "an advocate for the cleaning-impaired and the decorating-challenged."

Wiener came up with a design for the Mansfield living room and lower level that took Mansfield's desire for style and durability into consideration. She suggested substantial furnishings that were chic but sensible and able to stand up to everything from glitter glue to muddy paw prints.

She included pieces from Slobproof!, Wiener's own line of furniture that is made from a fabric called Crypton. The designer says it is virtually indestructible and can be easily wiped clean.

Mansfield's living room walls were turquoise, and she wanted furnishings that would complement the bold tones that she favors. "Debbie told me to stick with neutrals so the room wouldn't be too busy," she said.

Mansfield chose a taupe sofa that she accented with brightly colored pillows in shades of aqua. She also added a taupe and turquoise afghan with a fleur de lis pattern.

Wiener said the goal is to design living spaces that match the realities of your life.

said Wiener. "I am not there to judge a client's budget or taste. I am there to give them advice to make their lives better."

Wiener's advice also comes in the form of unconventional design tools such as Wite-Out and permanent ink markers.

"Keep Wite-Out on hand at all times," said Wiener. "It may be obsolete for correcting typos, but it's a miracle when it comes to camouflaging dings and scuff marks wherever you have white trim around your house — like door frames, baseboard molding or chair rails. Permanent ink markers can cover a lot of dings and scratches."

Winkle Nemeth approached Wiener to get help decorating her McLean home. Nemeth, a mother of two college-aged sons who live at home, wanted new furniture for her liv-

Wiener's Tips for Active Households

- ◆ Laminate your most heavily used dining chairs. Almost any fabric can be laminated. Just ask your fabric store or decorator where to send it. New flat finish laminations provide an invisible, moisture- and stain-proof barrier on fabric, making it virtually indestructible and inconspicuous, too.

- ◆ Protect wood finishes from wet glasses, hot cups and scratching with clear glass tops made to fit your table tops. Sure, you'll have to wipe them, but you'll protect what's underneath from everything your slob may put on top.

- ◆ Nothing lasts longer or looks better than a well-finished hardwood floor. Wiener recommends durable wool rugs as well.

- ◆ For family-friendly furniture, you can't beat protected leather.

Solid Marble Bathrooms?

Seamless stone showers, walls and floors point to new direction in high-end bathroom design.

BY JOHN BYRD
THE CONNECTION

Susan Cassell, of Great Falls Design Build, recalls the chain of events that convinced her some of the fundamentals of bathroom design were about to change.

"We were remodeling a bathroom that had been seriously damaged from leakage caused by cracked grout," Cassell said. "This is a common homeowner concern, so I contacted Shawn Daghigah at EuroStoneCraft who had developed some ideas for dealing with this longstanding problem."

Cassell had worked with EuroStoneCraft — a local marble and granite importer and fabricator based in Herndon — for many years. But she'd heard that the firm had a new brainchild — a custom-made solid marble shower floor which they were introducing under a new division, Verona Showers.

"The shower floor pan is a solid stone slab custom-made to your shower width ... so there's no water-exposed grouting, no cracking or leakage," Daghigah said. "This means there's no mold build up, and no need for time-intensive maintenance."

"It struck me as a breakthrough," Cassell

ing room. The family's two mixed-breed dogs have free rein of the room. Nemeth was searching for stylish but durable pieces that would accommodate her active family and fondness for entertaining friends.

"Color is camouflage," said Wiener. "Get out of the beige rut and use color to camouflage spills and stains."

Carlene Stephens and her husband Gary Sturm live in Alexandria with two Great Danes and was also searching for stylish but durable pieces. Wiener started with a gray area rug with large circular patterns in shades of blue and yellow, and added a blue sofa and matching arm chair. She completed the look with two gray dining chairs and a gray ottoman that also serves as a coffee table.

Stephens said her furniture has already passed one important test.

"When the furniture arrived my dog had just taken a drink from his water bowl and was dropping water on the new sofa. I wiped it up quickly with no evidence that [the water] had been there."

said. "I've found this a really effective solution for bathrooms, and the color options are impressive. I've been regularly introducing it to my clients."

The firm's skill at shaping natural stone, granite or marble to precisely fit surface specifications eliminates any need to sectionalize or use exposed seams requiring grout.

Homeowner Lisa Schultz is pleased with the EuroStone/Verona design advantages, which allowed her to distinguish the interior of her spacious Great Falls colonial while greatly reducing maintenance needs.

"The vanity, shower floor and tub surround are stunning — a very original shade of dark brown," Schultz said. "The floor, tub facing and shower walls are a kind of mocha. The whole is nicely balanced — there's a restful symmetry."

After 15 years at the same address, Schultz said the changes have reinvigorated her appreciation of her surroundings: "It feels like a whole new custom house, which is exciting."

The standard longbow is the 'hardest' bow to use in the sport of archery, according to Northern Virginia Archers Membership Chairman Joe Wolfe.

The recurve bow provides more power than the traditional bow.

Northern Virginia Archers Provide Supportive Environment

Club offers different forms of archery.

BY JON ROETMAN
THE CONNECTION

Joseph Wolfe was a child growing up in Texas when he was introduced to archery at a state fair. Nearly three decades later, the 37-year-old Burke resident is helping promote the sport and its facets as a member of the Northern Virginia Archers.

Wolfe is the membership chairman for the Fairfax Station-based club. He said the group is open to archers of all ability levels and focuses on the notion that the sport is more than just using a bow to launch an arrow.

"We pride ourselves on being an organization [that supports] the sport of archery," Wolfe said. "We're not dedicated to field archers. We're not specifically dedicated to bow hunting. We're just an organization that wants to support the sport of archery."

There are several forms of archery, including tournament shooting and bow hunting, which utilize three different types of bows: traditional, recurve and compound (Wolfe is a bow hunter who prefers to use the compound bow).

WOLFE DESCRIBES the traditional bow as "the basic Robin Hood longbow." It is the most basic of options, providing the archer with no assistance toward hitting his or her target.

"Traditional archers [are] ... very disciplined in the skill that they have chosen," Wolfe said. "... Traditional archery is the hardest of all the different forms. ... There are no aids to help you in the accuracy in shooting the bow and there are no aids for accurate use of the bow. There is a stick with a string and an arrow and you and that's it."

Recurve bows have a non-standard curve that generates additional power. Wolfe refers to the recurve as a "Lord of the Rings" type of "fancy" bow.

"The recurve bow adds a little bit more power to the entire element of archery just because of the way the bow is designed," Wolfe said. "It's the next step up from traditional archery. ... [It requires a] great amount of upper body strength to pull the arrow back into the bow and hold it there long enough to get any kind of aim to take your shot properly."

A compound bow is the most advanced of the trio. Wolfe said the compound bow makes other bows comparable to "the early muskets of the pioneer days."

"If you come to one of the public events that we have," Wolfe said, "you get a full experience of all the types of archers because all of them attend."

Fairfax Station resident Victor Kernus, 48, is the club's president. He is also a bow hunter, but competes in tournaments, as well. Kernus, who prefers the compound bow, said participating in tournaments improves his skills and helps him make clean kills when hunting deer.

Kernus said Northern Virginia Archers provides a supportive environment for the sport.

"I haven't met anyone at the club who isn't willing to help out a fellow archer," he said. "... It's a great group of people from all walks of life for the purpose of supporting archery."

CLUB MEMBERS come from around Northern Virginia and other states, including Arkansas, Louisiana, Maryland and Florida. The club, located near Fountainhead Regional Park, meets at 7 p.m. on the first Tuesday of every month, and the group's next shoot is on Sunday, July 24.

Crossbows are not allowed for safety purposes. For more information, visit the club's Web site at www.northernvirginiaarchers.org.

The compound bow is the most advanced of the trio.

Looking for 'Safe, Secure' Headquarters

Fairfax County unveils plans for new $177 million police, fire headquarters.

BY VICTORIA ROSS

The ceilings are covered with asbestos, the plumbing leaks, the elevators don't always function and some of the concrete has popped off the building.

Constructed in 1967, the Massey Building, currently Fairfax County's public safety headquarters, is anything but safe and secure for its 430 employees, according to Fairfax County officials.

"It's literally falling apart. It's an embarrassment. No one should have to work in that environment. When I go there, I take the stairs, because I'm afraid the elevators will get stuck," said Supervisor Jeffrey McKay (D-Lee). McKay is also a reserve deputy sheriff for the county.

On June 28, Fairfax County revealed initial plans for a new 272,000 square-foot police and fire headquarters that will cost approximately $177 million. A proposed bond referendum on the November 2012 ballot would fund the project, according to McKay.

ALTHOUGH COUNTY OFFICIALS looked at several site options, they are moving forward with plans to locate the headquarters on county-owned property behind the Herrity Building in the Government Center campus on Monument Drive. Plans are to start construction in 2013 and have employees ready to move in by 2015, said Merni Fitzgerald, Fairfax County's director of public affairs.

"The Massey Building has served the county well for almost 45 years, however, with ongoing failures of the core building mechanical systems and overall infrastructure, along with the ever presence of asbestos, it is no longer a safe and dependable work environment for our dedicated employees," said Fairfax County Fire Chief Ronald Mastin.

"It has outlived its useful purpose and should be considered for replacement. A new facility will also enable fire and police to leverage new technology, consolidate operations, and continue to be able to operate in close coordination with each another," Mastin said.

One of the options the county looked at was to renovate the Massey Building. A recent Fairfax County Facilities Management report determined that it would cost at least $81 million to retrofit the 43-year-old building. Located in the City of Fairfax near the Fairfax County courthouse, the 166,777-square-foot building does not have any room for expansion.

The new headquarters, currently in the conceptual-design phase, would have nearly double the space, with 850 secured, structured parking spaces and room for 700 employees, including the County's primary data center employees and other administrative staff.

The building, designed by HOK architects, would be a LEED Silver certified building, meaning that it is environmentally state-of-the-art, with large windows that allow for plenty of natural light, vertical baffles and filtered light for energy conservation, and a "green roof" that allows for water conservation and minimum water runoff.

HOK, a global, award-winning design firm, has designed everything from local courthouses to vast campuses for federal agencies. The firm's designs are focused, on comfort, efficiency and security.

"The site selected, on county land, saves money over alternatives at other sites and allows us to build a 21st-century headquarters for our public safety agencies," said Supervisor John Cook (R-Braddock.) "For years we have known that the Massey Building was nearing the end of its useful life. It is full of asbestos, has significant water issues, and has been closed several times for health reasons. It needs to be torn down and replaced. We will be budget conscious in the building design and will provide a convenient location to centralize these agencies."

SITE SECURITY was a key feature in the design of the building, officials said. Based on the U.S. Government's Interagency Security Criteria (ISC), the new headquarters would meet ISC "medium" security criteria established for federal buildings. For example, the building would have a 50-foot setback that makes it more secure for personnel.

"The Massey Building is 43 years old. Our first responders and public safety personnel should have the best tools at their disposal, and that includes the building from which they operate. That is why the Board has begun the process to replace this aging building," Fitzgerald said.

If the county moves forward to the funding and schematic design phase of the new headquarters, plans are for the Massey Building to be demolished by December 2015. The gray, concrete building, which never matched the traditional architecture of surrounding buildings, has been considered an eyesore as well as a safety hazard.

"I don't think there's anyone in the city who will cry when it comes down," McKay said.

Woman Sexually Assaulted Seeking Job at Employment Agency

Police launch effort to reach more victims of similar assaults.

A 41-year-old Falls Church woman was allegedly locked in a room, forced to watch pornography and repeatedly sexually assaulted at the World Employment Agency in Annandale on Tuesday, July 7.

According to Fairfax County Police reports, the attacks occurred around 9 a.m. when the woman went to the agency at 7601 Little River Turnpike seeking employment.

The woman escaped after telling the alleged perpetrator that she needed to use the restroom, according to Lucy Caldwell, a public information officer with the FCPD. The woman was treated for non-life-threatening injuries, Caldwell said.

Police investigated and charged Choon Sik Lee, 72, of Annandale with two counts of attempted forcible sodomy on Thursday, July 9.

During the investigation, detectives also uncovered a second incident that allegedly took place at around 8:30 a.m. on May 19 under similar circumstances. The 28-year-old Fairfax City woman involved in this case also suffered non-life-threatening injuries, according to police reports.

"We don't want this to happen again. We have a large population of immigrants who may not be comfortable, for many reasons, with reporting this to law enforcement, whether it's language barriers or experiences they've had in other places," Caldwell said.

"We want to assure them that they will be treated with respect ...

We are very concerned about this, and we want any potential victims out there to know that we have victims' services for these types of sexual assaults and the victims will be kept anonymous," Caldwell said.

Based on their investigation, detectives believe there may be additional women who have not yet reported incidents involving the alleged perpetrator and the World Employment Agency. Victims should contact Detective Amy Palizzi at 703-246-7818.

"If they do not speak English, interpretation services will be provided," Caldwell said. In an effort to reach additional victims, the police provided Korean and Spanish interpreters Wednesday, July 13 to Asian and Spanish media outlets at the West Springfield District Station, 6140 Rolling Road, Springfield from 1 to 2 p.m.

SPORTS ROUNDUPS

The Virginia Blackwatch Patriots FC., a NCSL U19 boys travel soccer team, is looking to add several experienced players to its team for the upcoming Fall 2011 season. Players of all positions are needed. Prospective team members must have a balance of skill and of being a good teammate. The team has a history of developing positive and competitive players with an emphasis on team play, respect for others and good sportsmanship. The squad draws its players from the following area high schools: Fairfax, Robinson, Annandale, Woodson, Centreville, Chantilly, Westfield, South County, Edison, Manassas Park and West Springfield. The Patriots FC. were recently honored by the coaches, referees and the Old Dominion Soccer League (ODSL) as winners of the Randy Rawls Sportsmanship Award. Players looking for a respectful and fun soccer atmosphere for a reasonable time commitment and cost should contact Team Manager Richelle at richelleannenold@aol.com or Coach Bill at billybobandktr@aol.com or 571-259-1000.

The Matrix Green 2017 6th grade AAU girls' basketball team, which consists of players from all around the Northern Region area, continued its dominance at the recent Potomac Valley District Div. II Tournament, where they earned their first-ever gold medal for the Matrix organization.

In the championship game, the Matrix faced familiar foes in the Virginia Hurricanes. Both teams were weary from a long weekend of basketball in hot gyms, but some outstanding outside shooting and the girls digging deep to beat their opponents down the court often for easy baskets led to a decisive 47-21 victory. In what proved to be a well run and well officiated tournament, the Matrix Green 2017 girls proudly donned their Gold medals after their final victory.

It was a weekend of hard work, great team play and a lot of fun.

On July 9th, in the third meet of the Northern Virginia Swim League season, Annandale's Lincolnia Park Lazars were defeated by the Lakeview Marlins, 234-168. The meet featured four double victories by Lazars' swimmers: Alyssa White won the 13-14 year old Girls freestyle and backstroke; Liam Conroy won the 11-12 Boys freestyle and backstroke; Joey Beadles won the 11-12 Boys breaststroke and butterfly; and Matt Del Signore won the 15-18 Boys backstroke and butterfly.

Lazer swimmers also set two new 2011 division-best times in the meet. The Girls 8 and Under team (Kia Morawetz, Sofia Edwards, Megan McKeen, and Tessa White) won the 100-meter freestyle relay with a time of 1:31.15 seconds, and Matt Del Signore's time of 31.46 seconds in the 50-meter backstroke was a season record for the six-team division. The meet featured an extremely close 13-14 Girls 200-meter medley, which the Marlins won by 0.65 of one second.

On July 16, the Lazars will have an away meet against the North Springfield Dolphins. Any swimmers interested in joining a great family pool with a fun, competitive swim team please go to lincolniapark.org and click on 'swim team.'
