A Hot Year for HOT Lanes

Many overpasses completed, work continues in 2012.

BY MIKE SALMON

Last year was a big hurdle for the I-495 High Occupancy Toll (HOT) Lanes. Throughout 2011, drivers and residents along the highway saw many of the overpasses completed and traffic shifted over to the new spans.

This occurred at Lewinsville Road, Leesburg Pike, Idylwood Road, I-66, Gallow's Road, Little River Turnpike and Braddock Road. These new overpasses are wider, with sidewalks and bike lanes that the old overpasses lacked, so it was a welcome addition to many Fairfax County residents.

At the Dulles Toll Road and I-495 interchange more than 17 bridges are under construction and last summer crews closed the far left lane on the eastbound Dulles Toll Road to complete pier work. After the initial congestion increased, crews restriped the area to provide smoother traffic flow before the left lane was restored completely in late December.

At Route 123 in the Tysons Corner area, all the lanes of the beltway that were routed on one overpass in 2010 were rerouted back to the original highway path across a new bridge span over Route 123. Plus the left lanes along Route 123 were reopened along with the exit from Route 123 north to I-495 north. Wider beltway overpasses were also built at Arlington Boulevard.

Motorists are now traveling on newly paved lanes in many areas along the beltway as well. These lanes are outside of the original configuration so crews can work on the actual HOT Lanes in the middle of the beltway.

At I-66, the left exit from the northbound lanes of the beltway to I-66 west was closed permanently. That exit has been a congestion point in years past, so it was closed and motorists heading to I-66 west are now using the two-lane, right exit. That left exit will be a HOT Lanes exit in the future. Also at I-66, a new flyover ramp was opened in late December from I-66 east to I-495 north bringing northbound traffic down to the right side on the beltway eliminating the left merge across the roadway to access Routes 7 and 123.

Other Megaprojects

Other Megaprojects underway include the Telegraph Road interchange with I-95/495 in Alexandria and the Fairfax County Parkway extension through the Fort Belvoir North area, formerly known as the Engineer Proving Ground.

The Telegraph Road interchange is the last part of the Woodrow Wilson Bridge project. By the end of 2011, all the new ramps were completed and in use. In the coming year, the through lanes in the center of the beltway will be completed and bridges over Cameron Run and the railroad tracks in Alexandria will be open. The project is expected to be completed in the late 2012-early 2013 timeframe.

The Fairfax County Parkway passed a milestone in July 2011 with the opening of the Boudinot Drive loop, providing a direct connection to Fullerton Road. A few months later, parts of Rolling Road were restored and the intersection at Donegal Lane was partially closed.

In spring 2012, the Rolling Road overpass will be completed and the Donegal Lane intersection will be completely closed. This overpass is the last part of the Fairfax County Parkway extension, although a commuter lot is planned for a space near the Barta Road-Rolling Road intersection. This 535-space lot is being added as a suggestion by the Fairfax County Department of Transportation, and is scheduled to open in September 2012.

Last July, the ribbon was cut on the I-95 Widening Project, which was the first Megaproject that is officially completed. This project added another lane on both sides of I-95 through a six-mile stretch of highway from the Fairfax County Parkway overpass to Occoquan.

The race for the Braddock District seat was the most contentious and closely-watched in Fairfax County, with an unprecedented number of debates. During a debate at a private home in July, nearly 100 people turned out to watch Republican Supervisor John Cook debate his Democratic challenger Janet Oleszek and Independent candidate Carey Campbell.

2011: A Year of Earth-Shaking Events

In addition to the August tremor, the year saw non-seismic changes to be felt in 2012.

BY VICTORIA ROSS
THE CONNECTION

While 2011 was literally earth-shaking in Fairfax County — with a 5.8 magnitude tremor jolting residents in August — non-seismic upheavals also created aftershocks that will be felt in 2012.

In the fall, Fairfax County's top two executives announced their resignations. County Executive Anthony Griffin announced that he will retire in April, and Fairfax County Public School's Superintendent Jack D. Dale announced his intent to retire in July, 2013, at the end of his current contract. Other developments — from long-awaited grand openings to historic groundbreakings — marked a year filled with change and progress.

Election: Fairfax Remains Blue

In the Nov. 8 election, with 99 candidates to pick from, and almost every state and local office up for reelection, voters overwhelmingly returned incumbents to office and Fairfax County remained blue.

The Fairfax County Board of Supervisors remained the same, with a 7-3 Democratic majority. Chairman Sharon Bulova (D-At-large) — who first won the at-large seat in a 2009 special election — cruised to victory with nearly 60 percent of the vote, and Supervisor John Cook held on to his Braddock District seat by a razor-thin margin over the Democratic challenger Janet Oleszek, a former Fairfax County school board member.

Fairfax County's nine incumbent state senators, all Democrats, were re-elected, despite the GOP contributing cash to challengers, and bringing high-wattage Republicans to stump for candidates. State Sen. Dick Saslaw (D-35), who was first elected to the House of Delegates in 1976, announced the Democratic winners at the Waterford at Fair Oaks on election night.

"Guess what? The Republican money just went down the drain. We kept our Fairfax team," Saslaw said. A Virginia legislator since 1976, Saslaw said

Democrats Ted Velkoff, Ryan McElveen and incumbent Ilryong Moon were elected to at-large seats on the Fairfax County School Board on Nov. 8. The race was one of the most contested in the history of the school board.

the main reason he ran this year is "to restore cuts in education and social service...I just don't want to see the lunatics take over the asylum. That's the reason I'm still in it."

Although Republican hopes for more of a foothold in Fairfax County failed, GOP gains in the rest of the state effectively transferred control of the state legislature to Republicans. The State Senate, which had a Democratic edge of 22-18, is now evenly split 20-20 between Republicans and Democrats. Republicans now control both chambers of the General Assembly and the governor's mansion for only the second time since the Civil War.

The 2012 legislative session, which begins Jan. 11, is expected to be filled with power-brokering on both sides of the aisle.

Family, Friends Mourn Cathy Belter

Former School Board member dies at 67.

BY BONNIE HOBBS
THE CONNECTION

For many people, New Year's Eve is a time of celebration. But for the family of former Springfield District School Board member Cathy Belter, it will forever be tinged with sadness.

With her husband Len by her side, Belter, 67, died early Saturday morning, Dec. 31, after battling Alzheimer's for several years.

"She received an early diagnosis of mild, cognitive impairment, about seven years ago," said Len Belter. "She was formally diagnosed with Alzheimer's in 2007, a few months before the end of her term on the [Fairfax County] School Board."

But in her typical, caring fashion, he said, she did what she could to help doctors solve the riddle of this as-yet incurable disease that affects so many people. According to the Alzheimer's Association, it's the sixth leading cause of death in the U.S. and the fifth leading cause of death for those 65 and older.

"For three years, Cathy took part in an experimental-vaccine trial at Georgetown University Hospital," said her husband. "Ultimately, it wasn't successful, but her brain is being donated to Alzheimer's research because people need to know about and be encouraged to do so."

THE COUPLE MET over Labor Day weekend in 1963 in Manhasset, Long Island, before returning to college. Cathy went to Good Counsel College in White Plains, N.Y., and Len was about to start his senior year at St. Bonaventure in Olean, N.Y.

"A friend and I decided to drive up to the Catskills for an end-of-summer blowout," he said. "Cathy was there too, with a bunch of friends. But my friend danced with her all weekend and I danced with a girlfriend of hers."

However, Cathy had caught his eye. "She was a bubbly, cute, young woman who enjoyed talking," said Belter. "Three days later, at a dance bar in [her hometown of] Queens, I cajoled her into one date before I had to leave for college for several months."

The pair clicked and was married, three years later. Jan. 28 would have been their 45th wedding anniversary. They've lived in Springfield since 1970 and raised two children.

Daughter and son-in-law, Laura and Brian Shannon of Vienna, are the parents of their granddaughter, Bailey, 11, and grandson Dean, 8. Their son, Douglas Belter of Springfield, works in the restaurant business and is qualified in wine, spirits and beverage management.

"Cathy was a devoted wife and mother and a born leader," said her husband, a retired energy-law attorney. "She had tremendous energy and enthusiasm and could work countless hours in her volunteer work."

She was a full-time education activist for more than four decades, beginning as PTA president at Hunt Valley Elementary, where her children attended. She served two terms on Fairfax County's School Board, from 2000 through the end of 2007. She was also president of the Commonwealth of Virginia PTA.

And during her 10-year stint on the national PTA Board, she was education chairman and legislative vice-president — instrumental in creating the national PTA's legislative program. Cathy lobbied, met with Congress and discussed funding priorities with members of the state Department of Education. She also wrote many articles and manuals and presented workshops on legislation, educational issues and parental involvement in 29 states.

For several years, she was a part-time librarian, first at the Richard Byrd Library and later at the Pohick Regional Library. "She loved to read to children in the schools," said Len Belter. "And at one time, she was president of the county Library Employees Association."

He said she also "took great delight" in shopping for Christmas presents each year for needy families through their church, St. Mary of Sorrows, in Fairfax. "Cathy was an inveterate volunteer," said Belter. "She could never say no when asked to do something."

SHE SAID YES, as well, to active sports. "I convinced her to go skiing, for the first time in her life, on our honeymoon," said Belter. "We then went on family ski vacations for 40 years in Colorado, Utah and New England. We also water-skied every summer in Fredericksburg at our second home at Lake of the Woods."

Cathy still enjoyed many activities, until the last year, when the disease took a strong, downward turn. "She knew what was happening to her and was frustrated," said Belter. "I took care of her and encouraged her to be as active as she could and to take everything one step at a time. Her faith also helped her, and we spent a lot of time together."

The couple took a cruise to the Baltics, three years ago, and to Bermuda, two years ago, sharing as much happiness and joy together as they could. But as 2011 drew to a close, the foe proved overwhelming.

"I was a bit surprised at her sudden, rapid decline," said Belter. "I thought we had a lot more time."

She went into the Arden Courts assisted-living facility in Annandale on Nov. 1. By the second week in December, her disease was quickly progressing and, six days after Christmas, she was gone.

Now, said her grieving husband, "It's a difficult and emotional time. I'm happy Cathy's in a better place and I've been busy with her funeral details, but it'll probably hit me more later on. I've been leaning on family and friends for support and have had hundreds of offers from people wanting to help, and it's very heartening."

He does have some advice for others, however. "Carpe diem [seize the day]," said Belter. "You never know how much you'll miss somebody until they're gone."

Arrangements

A wake for Cathy Belter will be held Thursday, Jan. 5, from 1-3 p.m. and 5-8 p.m., at Fairfax Memorial Funeral Home, 9902 Braddock Road in Fairfax.

A mass of Christian Burial will be said Friday, Jan. 6, at 10 a.m., at the Church of the Nativity, 6400 Nativity Lane in Burke.

It will be followed by a private, graveside service for family only. A reception in her honor will be held from 1-4 p.m. at the Springfield Golf and Country Club, 8301 Old Keene Mill Road in Springfield.

In lieu of flowers, memorial, tax-deductible donations may be made to Alzheimer's Association at www.alz.org.

School Board Colleagues Remember Cathy Belter

BY BONNIE HOBBS
THE CONNECTION

Cathy Belter is gone, but she's remembered fondly by friends and colleagues on the Fairfax County School Board.

Sully District School Board representative Kathy Smith knew Belter through her PTA work and from serving on the board with her. They shared some schools — Chantilly and Centreville High and their elementary feeder schools — and attended their PTA meetings together.

"We worked together well as a team," said Smith. "She was very thoughtful about kids and what was best for them. She was one of those really good people. When you saw Cathy, it made you smile. She always had positive things to say, and that's how she worked with the board, too."

When Smith first joined the board in 2002, Belter had heard concerns from the community about the way children were dressing in school. "So she pushed the board to develop a dress-code policy," said Smith. "She had a passion for education and a concern for children. And through her work on the PTA, she knew how important it was to have a strong, family/school partnership."

Regarding Belter's death at age 67, Smith said, "It's so sad; it's too young. She had such a spirit about her."

represented the Braddock District on the School Board during Belter's second, four-year term, from 2004-08. And they were longtime, personal friends since then.

"I've always thought of her as a gracious and gentle lady," said Oleszek. "She looked for the civility in everyone and almost always got it. She was a pistol, but not harsh and aggressive. She was a consensus-builder, a listener and then a doer. She did it quietly, but was very determined. And she was my first ally, when I joined the board, in getting all-day kindergarten passed."

Calling Belter a well-rounded person, Oleszek said she was very religious and an advocate for the underserved in education. She believed in social justice and was active in SALT (Social Action Linking Together), a Catholic organization that helped people in need. Said Oleszek, "She saw it as her role, as a good Catholic, to make sure people were taken care of."

And likewise, Oleszek stood by her friend during her ordeal with Alzheimer's. "I've been in touch with Len and Cathy, the whole time, and had visited her a couple days before she died," said Oleszek. "We held hands and walked."

"It's tragic when someone that young is attacked by such a cruel disease," she continued. "I'm sad for us all because all the things she weighed in on and helped in the community have lost a great champion."

AREA ROUNDUPS

Pedestrian Succumbs to Injuries

A 66-year-old Fairfax man died of injuries received when he was struck by a vehicle Dec. 23 in the City of Fairfax. Juan Pablo Hernandez Rodriguez of 3304 Willow Crescent Drive died at Inova Fairfax Hospital, last Wednesday, Dec. 28.

According to City of Fairfax police, investigation revealed that, around 5:15 p.m. on Dec. 23, Hernandez Rodriguez was crossing Eaton Place when he was struck by a vehicle trying to make a left turn from the Chain Bridge Road service road. Hernandez Rodriguez was in a crosswalk and crossing with the "walk" symbol.

He was initially transported to Inova Fairfax Hospital and subsequently released. He later returned to the hospital where he died. The Virginia Office of the Chief Medical Examiner ruled that the cause of death was internal injuries sustained in the crash.

Police charged the driver of the 2012 Honda Civic, with failure to yield right of way to a pedestrian in a crosswalk. Neither speed nor alcohol was determined to be a factor.

Cook to Host Forum on County Executive

With the retirement of County Executive Anthony Griffin in April, the Fairfax County Board of Supervisors is in the early stages of finding his successor.

On Monday, Jan. 9 from 7:30 to 9 p.m., Supervisor John Cook (R-Braddock) is hosting a forum in the Kings Park Library Meeting Room to get input from residents.

During the two-part forum, there will be a panel discussion, and then citizens can comment and ask questions of the panel. Moderated by former Board of Supervisors and School Board member Stuart Mendelsohn, the four-person panel will include John Peterson of the Peterson Companies; Karen Conchar, president of the Fairfax County Government Employees Union; Ann Zuvekas, the current Braddock appointee to the Health Care Advisory Board and past chair of the Disabilities Services Board and CCFAC; and Paul Liberty, most recently Vice President for Corporate Affairs and Investor Relations for GTSI. Cook said he will take comments from residents back to the Board of Supervisors.

Resolved: Pick One Way To Get Involved

Find a way to make a difference.

New Year's resolutions? Go ahead, let's pledge to lose weight, exercise regularly, spend less, recycle, save and read more. The turn of the calendar really does provide an impetus to make small and large changes in the way we live.

One item to add to the list of resolutions is to get involved locally. Volunteer one time for one day, or give a few hours a week to something that interests you. Pick one place where you can make a difference. The experience will enrich you (and your family) as well, connecting you to the community in new ways. Making time for even a single volunteer effort communicates an invaluable message about your values to your children in a powerful way that words cannot match.

Most local nonprofits and church groups that provide emergency food and services for families in need are overwhelmed right now by the dramatic increase in demand for food, emergency help with rent to prevent homelessness and much more. See sidebar for some suggestions.

Volunteer Fairfax connects volunteers of all kinds to organizations in need of help, providing flexible weekend and evening opportunities including packing emergency food kits for families in crisis, tutoring adults in alternative learning programs, reading to elementary school children after school, socializing with seniors or planting trees to prevent erosion. Volunteer Fairfax will hold its annual Give Together: A Family Volunteer Day on Monday, Jan. 16, Martin Luther King Jr. Day, with focused events at the Herndon Senior Center, the Gum Springs Community Center, and at George Mason University. See www.volunteerfairfax.org.

The Arlington County Volunteer Office promotes civic engagement and active volunteer participation, coordinating volunteer opportunities from hundreds of non-profit and government agencies. Visit www.co.arlington.va.us and type "volunteer" into the search box.

The Alexandria Volunteer Bureau recruits and coordinates volunteers and matches their interests, skills and availability with the needs of service-providing nonprofit organizations and public agencies. Visit www.volunteeralexandria.org.

The Literacy Council Northern Virginia is in need of volunteers who will devote several hours a week to helping adults master reading and writing skills; visit www.lcnv.org.

A Court Appointed Special Advocate (CASA) volunteer is a trained citizen who is appointed by a judge to represent the best interests of a child in court. CASA volunteers help children who will have their home placement determined in juvenile court. See www.casafairfax.org.

The Alexandria/Arlington Court Appointed Special Advocate (CASA) Program has helped hundreds of children have a voice within the court system. See <http://www.scanva.org/casa.htm>

Some other suggestions:

Get involved in state and national political campaigns. If the coming campaign season is anything like four years ago, presidential candidates will be crisscrossing Northern Virginia on a weekly basis soon. George Allen and Tim Kaine will be engaged in a very lively contest for Senate. Our U.S. representatives are also up for reelection. Volunteer for a candidate, with the League of Women Voters or with your local electoral board.

The public school or library closest to your house is also in need of volunteers. Homeowners associations need activists to learn about a variety of local issues and coordinate neighborhood response. Your church or house of worship could use a hand. In addition to their usual work, animal shelters and animal rescue groups are also over extended

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Playing by Rules

To the Editor:

Much has been said in recent days about the Republican Presidential primary ballot and the news that only Mitt Romney and Ron Paul have been certified to be placed on the ballot by the State Board of Elections for the March 6 primary election.

To understand what happened, the process must first be understood. State law is very clear that to be certified, a candidate must obtain on petitions the signatures of 10,000 qualified voters in Virginia with at least 400 in each congressional district.

Again, by the law the state political parties are required to examine the submitted petitions, verify that the minimum threshold is met and issue certifications for those who meet these requirements. The process is well defined in the Code of Virginia and all of the Republican candidates were made aware of these requirements which, incidentally, have been in place for a number of years.

The real question now is why did the results turn out as they did? Some have suggested that the State Board of Elections and Republican Party manipulated things to produce these results. From the understanding which I obtained from news reports, two candidates (Romney and Paul) submitted petitions and met the 10,000 valid signatures requirement and two other candidates (Gingrich and Perry) submitted petitions but "did not come close to the 10,000 valid signature threshold," to quote from a statement provided on the website of the Republican Party of Virginia.

The other three candidates (Bachman, Santorum and Huntsman) did not submit any petitions and, therefore by default, did not meet the requirement to be certified. I am confident that the State Board of Elections and the Republican Party believe in the "rule of law." It is my opinion that they did their very best to follow the intent and spirit of the law in carrying out the proscribed process.

I believe it is regrettable that only two candidates qualified but all of the candidates knew the requirements of the law. If people have questions about the fairness of the situation, I suggest they immediately contact their Delegate and State Senator to initiate amendments to the law (Section 24.2-545 of the Code of Virginia). The law specifies the process and if you are not satisfied with the results of that process, then you should work to change the law.

What is Your New Year's Resolution?

Shoppers at Springfield Mall share their resolutions on Monday, Jan. 2.

Michael Honesty,
West Springfield
To be the best father I can be, and continue to take care of my kids. That's what really matters.

Residents and staff at Greenspring Retirement Village in Springfield interviewed on Monday, Jan. 2.

Caroline Rodor,
Burke
"To lose weight. This is going to be the year."

Alyssa, Christine and Katherine Haber

Alyssa Haber, Springfield
"Be more organized, and get rid of clutter in my room."

Christine Haber, Springfield
"My goal for the coming year is to make sure that everyone in our family eats healthier. It's also about being healthier, so I signed everyone up for tennis lessons."

Katherine Haber, Springfield
"Better balancing of my social with my academic life in high school."

Marsal Rowneki,
Fairfax Station
"To stop eating so much Chipotle every day. Seriously."

George Stone, retired
CIA employee
"I don't make resolutions, but I know this year will be better than last year, because last year I lost my bride of 62 years."

Michael Deliman, retired air traffic controller
"I'm too old to make resolutions, but I do hope everything settles down in this country and we get back to prosperity."

Rasheed Thompson,
Fairfax
"My resolution is to be a better person, and to let the people I care about know how much I care about them."

Yesenia Herrera, Burke
"My resolution is to try to lose weight this year, and be healthier."

Eddie Hernandez,
Kingstowne
"To work out more. I do a lot of walking now, but I want to work out."

David Gahart,
Springfield
"To lose weight, because that's what my doctor tells me."

Moon Choudhary,
Springfield
"My resolution is to control my temper, and learn how to be more patient."

WELLBEING

Keeping New Year's Resolution

A detailed plan could make all the difference, experts say.

By MARILYN CAMPBELL
THE CONNECTION

A recent poll by the Marist Institute for Public Opinion shows that increasing exercise, losing weight, quitting smoking and improving one's financial situation are among the most common New Year's resolutions, but more than 60 percent of people who make these promises fail to keep them. Mental health experts say impractical or undefined targets are among the top causes of resolutions without staying power.

"People set unrealistic and unattainable goals, get demoralized and give up," said Thomas N. Wise, M.D., director of behavioral services at Inova Health Systems and chairman, Department of Psychiatry at Inova Fairfax Hospital in Falls Church. Wise has studied addiction, habit change and obesity.

"Often, the bar is set way too high. You didn't become overweight overnight, so you're not going to lose the weight overnight," said Lisa Calusic, M.D., a psychiatrist at Inova Mount Vernon Hospital and Inova Behavioral Health Services in Alexandria.

A lack of specificity can derail ambitions. "People set abstract goals. [They say] 'I want to be healthier. I want to be thinner. I want to work out more.' But they don't have implementation plans," said Todd Kashdan, Ph.D., professor of psychology at George Mason University.

DONNA GRAMM practices Pilates regularly as part of her effort to stay in shape.

"I've been working out since college. It makes me feel good," said Gramm, a Potomac resident.

This month, however, she has more company in the exercise room. Each January, people who've resolved to get in shape or lose weight flock to gyms and health clubs. Gramm is not worried about the influx of fitness aspirants. She knows most will soon be gone. Her instructor, Reina Offutt Pratt, owner of Potomac Pilates, agrees.

"In January we see the largest spike [in class attendance], but a lot of the people we see come in January don't come back in February," said Offutt Pratt. "The gung-ho nature of their New Year's resolution starts to dissipate."

So what are the secrets to making New Year's resolutions a permanent lifestyle change?

"Set small, realistic and concrete steps towards making or improving a behavior," said Maria Londono, of Chantilly, a mental health therapist with Molina Healthcare, Fairfax County Health Care Network in Alexandria, Reston and Falls Church. "For example, lose weight by eating a healthy breakfast in the morning and exercising three times a week. [Begin] with 15-minute routines and increase to 30 minutes when [your] body is more used to exercise."

Be specific. "We have to have very clear behavioral plans for how we're going to implement [our goals]," said Kashdan who has studied and written about behavioral changes for the journal Clinical Psychology Review. "If you say you want to be more fit in the upcoming year, what exactly are you going to do in the course of a week?"

A SCHEDULE is also important. "Keeping track of what you want to change is the essence of following through," said Wise, who lives in McLean. "It is very easy to say, 'I'm not going [to the gym] today.' Before you know it, it's been two weeks since you've exercised. Having a regular schedule where you rarely miss it is the way to keep up with any kind of behavior modification."

Develop a support network. "Choose friends who respect the fact that you want to change. Choose people who look like what you want to become," said Kashdan who lives in Centreville.

"In January we see the largest spike [in attendance], but a lot of the people we see come in January don't come back in February."

— Reina Offutt Pratt, owner of a Pilates studio

Reina Offutt Pratt teaches a Pilates class to Donna Gramm, Cyndi Hann, Carly Yoo and Nicole Krug. Increasing physical exercise is a New Year's resolution that is often made and broken.

Thomas N. Wise, M.D., of McLean, director of behavioral services at Inova Health Systems, believes that impractical or undefined goals lead to New Year's resolutions that fail.

Lisa Calusic, M.D., of Arlington, a psychiatrist at Inova Mount Vernon Hospital and Inova Behavioral Health Services in Alexandria, says that behavior changes require the admission of a problem.

Maria Londono, of Chantilly, a mental health therapist with Molina Healthcare, Fairfax County Health Care Network in Alexandria, Reston and Falls Church says that setting small, realistic goals is key to making permanent lifestyle changes.

hind your other clothes. You put it in front to remind you."

Set short-term goals. "I encourage clients to set weekly goals rather than monthly or yearly goals and make themselves accountable on a weekly basis," said Offutt Pratt. "For example, I'm going to attend two classes on a weekly basis rather than saying, 'I'm going to attend 10 classes next month.'"

Shifts such as spending less money, decreasing debt, giving up smoking or limiting alcohol intake require the admission of a problem. "You can't change what you don't acknowledge," said Calusic, who lives in Arlington. "Unless someone decides for themselves that they have an addiction or habit that they want to change, it is not going to happen. Other people wanting them to change doesn't work."

Find substitutions for unhealthy habits. "If someone is used to drinking every day, there is a reason why," said Calusic. "Alcohol is providing a crutch. You can't take it away unless you have something to replace it with [like] a hobby [such as] art, tennis or anything that can distract from the negative habit that they are trying to break."

Public Meeting Set For Kingstowne Park Master Plan Revision

The Fairfax County Park Authority will hold a Public Comment Meeting to gather input on the draft master plan revision for Kingstowne Park in Alexandria. A public information meeting will take place on Wednesday, January 18, 2012, at 7 p.m. in the Helene Wilson Community Room at the Franconia Government Center located at 6121 Franconia Road, Alexandria, VA.

Kingstowne Park is a 75-acre site located on Old Telegraph Road. The park is jointly owned and operated by the Park Authority and the Fairfax County Board of Supervisors. The existing park contains trails, natural areas and extensive stormwater ponds and wetlands.

The draft master plan revision is available for review online at: <http://www.fairfaxcounty.gov/parks/plandev/kingstowne.htm> or can be viewed during regular business hours in the Park Authority's Planning & Development Division at the Herry Building, 12055 Government Center Parkway, Suite 406 in Fairfax.

The meeting will feature a presentation about the site's current conditions, uses, and the proposed draft master plan revisions. Following the presentation, the public is invited to provide input on the draft master plan. If you would like to speak at the meeting or would like more information, please call the Public Information Office at 703-324-8662 or send an email to Parkmail@fairfaxcounty.gov. Speakers may also sign up at the meeting.

Comments on the plan will also be accepted by the Park Authority for 30 days after the meeting. The public comment period will close on February 20, 2012 and all comments must be received by this date in order to be included in the official public record. Comments will be accepted at the meeting or can be emailed to: Parkmail@fairfaxcounty.gov. Written comments should be directed to Pat Rosend, project manager, Planning & Development Division, Fairfax County Park Authority, 12055 Government Center Parkway, Suite 406, Fairfax, VA 22035. After all comments have been considered, the plan and public comments will be presented to the Park Authority Board for final action.

If accommodations and/or alternative formats are needed, please call (703) 324-8563, at least ten working days in advance of the registration deadline or event. TTY (703) 803-3354 703-324-8700 • ONLINE : www.fairfaxcounty.gov/parks • E-mail: parkmail@fairfaxcounty.gov

A Year in Review

The School Board: Incumbents and Newcomers

Debates over discipline, boundaries, budgets, standardized tests and sleep generated Fairfax County's most closely-watched and contested school board race in the board's 19-year history.

But a slate of reform candidates failed to unseat incumbents in a race with half of the 12 seats up for grabs. On election day, voters returned every incumbent, and elected newcomers who, with one exception, identified themselves as Democrats. But that doesn't mean there won't be change. According to Ted Velkoff, one of three newly-elected at-large members, board members plan to be more responsive to parental concerns, and give students the tools to develop critical-thinking skills they need to compete in the 21st century. "We need to help students prepare for the future by doing more than taking standardized tests," he said.

The first big decision for the newly-elected school board is the hiring of a new superintendent. On Sept. 22, Fairfax County Public Schools (FCPS) Superintendent Jack D. Dale announced his intent to retire effective July 1, 2013, at the end of his current contract.

Can Fairfax County End Homelessness?

In August, The Connection Newspapers dedicated a special issue to homelessness in Fairfax County, examining the County's 10-year mission to prevent and end homelessness. The edition spotlighted the many non-profit and advocacy organizations that offer assistance to homeless individuals — from church kitchens that daily prepare meals for people living on the streets, to shelters that aid displaced teens and families, to businesses that raise money and provide volunteers, to social workers and health care providers that assist individuals facing substance abuse and mental health challenges.

According to data from the Office to Prevent and End Homelessness (OPEH), approximately one in every 700 residents is homeless. That's less than one percent of the one million people who live in a county that is consistently ranked as one of America's rich-

Jimmy Cole, a homeless man featured in The Connection's August issue on homelessness, lives in a tent in Reston. "[Being homeless] isn't a lifestyle for me. I'm a good worker. I know things will get better," he said. Rugged and tan, the 48-year-old Cole is one of Fairfax County's approximately 650 single homeless individuals, who for a variety of reasons — lack of credit, transportation and income — don't have permanent housing. Some sleep at one of the County's emergency or transitional shelters. Others "couch surf" at the homes of friends or relatives. Some, ashamed to admit they are homeless, sleep in their cars or cheap motels, while they try to keep their jobs. And nearly 200 homeless live in makeshift tents throughout the county.

est communities. Although the 1,549 homeless children and adults who live here is statistically small, Fairfax County officials and community leaders want to make that number even smaller. By 2018, they've pledged to change that number to zero.

A daunting task, but one that Fairfax County has been successful in tackling. While many communities across the country have seen a rise in their homeless population, Fairfax County has managed to reduce the number of homeless people by 15.6 percent, from 1,835 people in 2008 to 1,549 in 2011.

Natural Gas. Efficient by Nature.

Enjoy greater comfort and energy savings this winter.

Some people call it nesting—the simple act of enjoying your home. When winter comes, you want that nest, your home, to be warm and cozy. But you also want to keep energy costs in line.

Washington Gas has a few simple things you can do that can help save money on your winter heating bills, without giving up the comfort you want.

- Have a licensed natural gas contractor perform a complete inspection of your heating and water heater systems
- Set your thermostat comfortably low in winter and consider installing a programmable thermostat. Setting your thermostat set just one degree lower can save you as much as 3 percent.
- Install proper insulation in your home.
- When you're not using a fireplace, close the flue.
- Replace your furnace filter once a month.
- Turn your hot water heater down to warm or low, never more than 120 degrees.
- Replace all cracked or broken window glass, consider adding storm windows, caulk and weatherstrip doors and windows.
- Wash full loads of laundry and dishes.

For more information and additional energy saving tips visit washingtongas.com.

Take advantage of our Budget Plan.

With the Washington Gas Budget Plan, you'll be able to spread the higher cost of winter heating into the warmer months. You'll pay the same amount each month for natural gas. It costs nothing to enroll. To sign up for The Budget Payment Plan, call 703-750-1000 or log on to washingtongas.com.

Lake Braddock's Butler has developed into a double-double machine.

BY JON ROETMAN
THE CONNECTION

Lake Braddock's Natalie Butler realized at the end of her sophomore year that a change was necessary if she wanted to progress as a basketball player. Her transition from the JV to the varsity level had been less than smooth and the 6-foot-4 post felt sluggish.

"In a way, the game was sort of passing me by," Butler said. "I had to do something to keep up with the other girls."

Butler possessed the size to be a dominant force for the Bruins. In order to take full advantage of her frame, she decided it was time to get in shape. Butler stepped up her conditioning, embarking on five-mile runs and lifting weights. She worked on her offensive game, putting up shots and developing her ability to score with each hand. She also played volleyball in the fall to help maintain her fitness.

"I was not in shape," Butler said, "and I sort of had to turn myself around and be like, if I want to help my team out and support my teammates, I need to do something."

Now a junior, Butler has transitioned from a post player struggling with the pace of the varsity level to a game-changing presence in the paint. Through the season's first nine games, Butler averaged 18 points and nearly 20 rebounds per contest for the Lake Braddock girls basketball team.

On Jan. 3, Butler scored 25 points and grabbed 21 rebounds during a 58-46 victory at Woodson.

Butler's presence affected the game at both ends of the court. On offense, she scored with strong post moves — including a nifty three-point play in the fourth quarter — and created open looks for her teammates by drawing multiple defenders. At the other end, Butler was a rebounding machine who not only defended near the rim, but also showed the ability to make life difficult for opponents on the perimeter.

"She's really come into her own," Lake Braddock head coach Leigh Janis said. "With her, she worked really hard in the offseason. Day in and day out, she was putting shots up, working on her speed, all that kind of stuff."

"She's recognizing when she's getting double-teamed and she's finding that open person," Janis said. "It makes teams play differently because they have to worry about isolating on her and double-teaming her. It opens up my other kids and they stepped up tonight, making shots, and that's going to help. [After playing zone, Woodson] went back to man. That's going to get Natalie some one-on-one [opportunities] on the block."

BUTLER SAID she gets her height from her father's side of the family. Her dad is 6'8" and her grandfather is 6'7". While Butler benefits from her 6-foot-4 frame, she said her father has helped her deal with the additional challenges that come with being tall, which include being the focal point of opposing defenses.

"Being 6'4", that automatically brings attention,"

Woodson's Keara Finnerty (21) attempts a shot against Lake Braddock's Natalie Butler on Jan. 3. Finnerty led the Cavaliers with 25 points.

Butler said. "When you walk into a building everyone sort of looks at you. Going into these games, I talked with my dad and [he said] you've just got to expect it."

With Lake Braddock leading 30-22, Butler took over early in the second half. She assisted on baskets by Christine McGrath and Marcia Altman to open the third quarter before scoring the Bruins' next six points.

Lake Braddock led by as many as 18 points in the third, but Woodson battled back to cut the lead to six in fourth. Butler scored seven of the Bruins' 12 points in the final quarter to help Lake Braddock improve to 3-7, including 2-1 in the Patriot District.

"She's really matured as a player and as a person," Janis said. "She's growing every day. Last year she was seeing good minutes, but now [she] forces teams to play differently. She's improved a ton."

Altman scored 14 points for Lake Braddock and McKenzie Hunter and Argy Kosmakos each added six.

Keara Finnerty led Woodson with 25 points, including four 3-pointers, and Amy Sitts finished with six.

Woodson (6-4) will travel to face West Potomac at 7:30 p.m. on Friday, Jan. 6. Lake Braddock will host South County at the same time.

Butler will continue playing a major role for Lake Braddock as it enters the district-heavy portion of its schedule. Her goal is to play basketball in college — a vision made possible through hard work.

"I feel like I can now produce more than I could before and I feel great," Butler said. "I feel like hard work does pay off in the end. It was very important for me to buckle down and sort of bust my butt in the beginning of the season so that I could still stay strong and actually finish the season stronger than when I started."

Lake Braddock head football coach Jim Poythress (pictured) and the Bruins were not able to win a third straight region crown last fall, but they did earn a share of the Patriot District title.

Coaches Discuss 2011, 2012

Jim Poythress, head football coach, Lake Braddock Secondary

New Year's Resolution: "My focus is on health — lose 30 pounds, stretch more often."

Most significant happenings of 2011:

"We played one of the toughest schedules in the state. We could not run the ball [but] we did not collapse. We won a share of the [Patriot] District. We continued to improve. We were a final four team for the third straight year."

Looking ahead to 2012:

"Can we find offensive balance? Will our underclass play at a high level? Will we stay healthy? Can we continue to improve week to week, and will we play as a team? If the answer to these questions are yes, we could be a contender. Somebody needs to step up as a leader."

Mike Mangan, cross country head coach; girls' track and field head coach, Lake Braddock Secondary

New Year's Resolution:

"One, spend more time with my children; two, might be the most common, but I need to stick to this one — lose some weight."

Most significant happenings of 2011:

"The loss of my mother due to cancer — single worst event in my life. As a family, we are working to support each other daily."

The major occurrence for the Lake Braddock cross country and track teams - the girls being the state team runners-up in outdoor track; the boys' team championship in cross country.

Looking ahead to 2012:

"Major events for our team always include district, regional and state meets; the Penn Relays in the spring and Camp Varsity in August."

Gerry Pannoni, head football coach, South County Secondary

New Year's Resolution:

"To outwork our opponents in the offseason and get back to Charlottesville for a [state playoff game] rematch with Phoebus."

Most significant happenings of 2011:

"The most significant happenings of 2011 for our South County football team — starting the season with an earthquake, hurricane and flood and three losses [to start off 0-3]; then two overtime wins that triggered our 11 game win streak, and first-ever [Patriot] District and [Div. 5 Northern] Region football championships."

Looking ahead to 2012:

"How do you replace the fantastic seniors we had this season? We must outwork our region to stay on top. Our younger [freshmen and JV team] levels were excellent. They will be called on to step up and be the next man in."

LEGAL NOTICE
AT&T intends to file an application to replace an existing telecommunications tower structure at 9019 Little River Turnpike, Fairfax, Virginia 22031. AT&T is publishing this notice in accordance with Federal regulation 37CFR1.1301 et seq, the National Environmental Policy Act and the Advisory Council on Historic Preservation 36 CFR 800. The project referenced as "Doveville" will consist of the installation of a new 93 foot tall bell tower to replace the existing 46 foot 10 inch tall bell tower with the intention of collocating 12 antennas at 60, 70, and 80 (four antennas per sector) feet RAD center above ground level. Furthermore, an equipment shelter will be installed on a new concrete pad. Additional telecommunications equipment will be installed within the compound. Parties interested in submitting comments or questions regarding any potential effects of the proposed facility on Historic Properties may do so in writing by contacting Carolyn Mitchell, AT&T, at 7150 Standard Drive, Hanover, Maryland 21076 or c/o theresa.scarlato@atcassociates.com.

A Look Back, A Look Forward

Community leaders' picks, predictions & resolutions.

Editor's Note: We asked community leaders and elected officials to tell us what they would consider the top five stories, events and developments in our area in 2011. We also asked them to do some predicting. What do they think — or hope — are the top stories, events and developments in 2012? What are their personal New Year's resolutions?

- ❖ Controversy and reform of the discipline policies at Fairfax County

Public Schools

- ❖ Statewide — the 20/20 split of the Virginia State Senate

2012

- ❖ Unwinding the stalemate in the State Senate
- ❖ The battle of the "water systems" in northern Virginia
- ❖ Virginia's role in the 2012 national elections

New Year's resolutions

"Have great times with my children. Exercise every day."

Supervisor Pat Herrity (R-Springfield)

2011

- ❖ An earthquake and record flooding all in a two-week period

- ❖ Historic elections where the Republicans took control of both houses of the Virginia

General Assembly, as well as having a Republican Governor, Lt. Governor and Attorney General

- ❖ The Board of Supervisors takes the first steps to address illegal signs in our roadways

- ❖ The County's decision not to purchase the trash incinerator

- ❖ Personally, my son went off to college and had great grades in his first semester!

- ❖ The next two steps in addressing I-66 congestion — opening the shoulder lanes during congestion and completion of the draft MIS so a midterm solution can be proposed and delivered by the private sector

- ❖ Tysons and the Dulles Corridor — finally developing and funding a transportation plan for Tysons Corner, decisions on Dulles rail and assessing the impact of tolls on the Dulles corridor

- ❖ Development of a long-term vision and plan for the Fairfax County Parkway before it gets as congested as I-66

- ❖ The dynamics of the new Fairfax County School Board; hopefully improved relations with the Board of Supervisors and the public

New Year's Resolutions

"I look forward to my daughter going off to college in 2012, and, personally, my resolutions are to lose some weight, get some more sleep and spend more time with my family."

Executive Director, Greater Springfield Chamber of Commerce

Nancy-jo Manney

- ❖ Covanta vs. Fairfax County

- ❖ I-95 HOT lanes move forward

- ❖ Earthquake, really
- ❖ 2005 BRAC deadline reached; Sky does not fall

- ❖ Sluggish economy and unemployment

breaking (Please, please, let this be the #1 story of the year!)

- ❖ I-95 HOT lanes groundbreaking
- ❖ Government contractors swarm to area
- ❖ I-495 HOT lanes open; E-Z Pass required
- ❖ Economy rebounds, unemployment levels drop

New Year's Resolutions

"Go to South Run RECenter more often for its intended purpose, not just another meeting."

2012

- ❖ Springfield Mall renovation ground-

Supervisor Jeff McKay (D-Lee)

2011

- ❖ Metro: new general manager; changes to the board; reform

- ❖ Fairfax County budget: balanced, held the line on taxes and maintained core services in stark contrast to most other localities

- ❖ Turnover on School Board
- ❖ BRAC and economic and transportation impact

- ❖ Transportation — Actually it's the biggest non-story because the state is still not doing much

2012

- ❖ Transportation and devolution
- ❖ Federal budget issues and impact on local economy and private sector
- ❖ Springfield Mall
- ❖ Mulligan Road and impact on Route 1
- ❖ Impact of state legislature actions on Fairfax County

New Year's resolutions

to fund Phase II of Rail to Dulles

- ❖ Redistricting cements incumbents' advantage

2012

- ❖ Fairfax hires new county executive

- ❖ Obama defeated/Obama reelected
- ❖ County announces plans to fund Tysons transportation solutions, (or County fails to deliver transportation answers for Tysons, putting future development in jeopardy). The same could be said for secondary road maintenance.

- ❖ Northern Virginia localities and Fairfax County in unprecedented water war.

- ❖ Fairfax faces/avoids need to restore aging infrastructure.

New Year's resolutions

"Take some time to stop to smell the roses."
