Putting Food on the Table

Food banks struggle to keep shelves stocked in winter.

By VICTORIA ROSS
THE CONNECTION

On a bright winter Saturday afternoon, bus driver Lynn Temple boxed up jars of peanut butter and cans of food donated by shoppers at Giant grocery store in Lorton.

"I had a woman come up to me this morning. She said she's trying to feed seven people in her family, and she can't get enough food from the local pantries," Temple said. "It just hurt me to hear that."

Temple is one of a dozen people who volunteered with Fairfax County's "Stuff the Bus" campaign on Jan. 28, a county-wide food drive that parks FASTTRAN buses in Giant and Shoppers Food shopping centers to collect food for needy families and individuals.

WHILE FOOD PANTRIES benefit from the seasonal dose of good will during the holidays, donations typically decrease during the first few months of the new year.

"There's a high food demand now, but we are out of many basic items, like cereal, canned fruit and peanut butter," said Lynn Swogger, president of the Lorton Community Action Center (LCAC) Board. "We have a very giving community, especially around the holidays, but hunger is a need that doesn't go away."

LCAC, which recently opened a new food pantry warehouse, distributes food to seniors, unemployed, homeless, single parents and families struggling to make ends meet in the Lorton, Ft Belvoir, and Newington area.

"Many of our families are working and struggling to maintain the basic needs for their family," said Andrea Tracey Cochrane, LCAC's director of development. "They have to make hard decisions, hard choices. Do they pay for food or prescription drugs this month?"

Linda Patterson, LCAC's executive director, said there is not one typical profile of those who need food.

"One never knows exactly who will need help from LCAC on any given day. Today, I met a young woman who was laid off two weeks ago. She had never before asked for assistance, but was in need of food and suggestions for employment," Patterson said, adding that LCAC gave the woman food and worked with her on a plan to get her back on her feet.

According to Alan Nicholas, LCAC's food pantry manager, the organization gives out an average of 10 pounds of food each week per family just in non-perishable items, such as those received with Stuff the Bus, and an additional 10-20 pounds of meat, bread and vegetables per week.

"It's safe to say that we distribute an average of 40 pounds of food to each family we serve on a weekly basis. We are currently serving an average of 175 families a week," Nicholas said.

Hampered by fewer donations in a slow economy, many nonprofits serving Fairfax County are struggling to provide food to increasing numbers of families in need.

"(The decline) is definitely noticeable in the winter," said Roxanne Rice, executive director of Food for Others, the largest direct distributor of free food in Northern Virginia. "It's dramatic how much food comes into us in November and December, as opposed to the rest of year."

Of the 2.7 million pounds of food that Food for Others distributed in 2011, 231,870 pounds was collected through food drives. Of that amount, 58 percent of it was donated in the months of November and December.

"The shelves always get bare this time of year. The big rush was in November and December, and then they will continue to go down," Rice said.

"Last Friday, prior to the Stuff the Bus drive, our pantry shelves were completely empty," Nicholas said on Tuesday. "The food that came in over the weekend is being distributed right now, and will be on tonight's dinner table for those we serve in the Lorton community."

At Ecumenical Communities Helping Others (ECHO) in Springfield, donations have been steady, but ECHO's food pantry contains 35 percent less than it did last year,

Fairfax-Falls Church households receiving Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP) benefits

Food Insecurity in Fairfax County

Last week, Fairfax County released a report prepared by the Department of Neighborhood and Community Services which provides a glimpse into food security and access issues in the Fairfax-Falls Church area. According to the Economic Research Service (ERS) of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, families experience food "insecurity" when the "eating patterns of one or more household members are disrupted, food intake reduced, because of lack of money or other resources." The report, which covers fiscal year 2011, showed that Fairfax County is home to more than 62,000 individuals who live below the poverty level - which is defined as an annual income of about $22,000 for a family of four - and another 86,000, who are just above the poverty level.

Highlights of the report:

- More than 44,000 residents in Fairfax-Falls Church receive Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP) benefits, a federal food and nutrition program.

- In 2011 the Fairfax County Department of Family Services (DFS) received 17,703 applications for SNAP, an average of 1,475 new applications per month.

- In the Fairfax-Falls Church area, SNAP provided benefits to nearly 23,000 households containing 54,332 individuals and 23,560 children under age 18.

- Nearly 90 percent of the households receiving SNAP benefits have incomes below the poverty level.

- As of October, 2011, according to the report, households receiving SNAP benefits had a median annual income of just more than $8,000. In contrast, the 2010 median annual income for all Fairfax county households was $103,010, according to the U.S. Census Bureau's 2010 American Community Survey.

- One in four students enrolled in Fairfax County Public Schools receives free and reduced-cost lunches.

according to executive director Meg Brantley.

At Our Daily Bread (ODB) in Fairfax, there is a steady waitlist for food assistance, and the number of requests for one-time emergency deliveries is up. More than half of ODB's clients are children.

"We have 60 families on our Food Program, and generally about 60 on the waiting list to come onto the program," said Heather Webb, communications director for ODB.

While ODB's pantry is still relatively full as a result of holiday food drives, Webb said that may not last for long.

"I would expect that by mid-March to early April, our pantry supplies will be low again and will remain somewhat low until the fall. That's the usual trend. We used to be low by February, though, so the Stuff the Bus initiative is helpful to get us through the coldest months," Webb said.

To help keep pantry shelves stocked during the winter months, Fairfax County intentionally scheduled Stuff the Bus events between Martin Luther King Day in January and Presidents' Day, according to Pat Stevens, executive director of the Office of Public Private Partnerships (OP3).

"Winter is when food pantries report that traditional giving is at its lowest point," Stevens said.

LOCAL FOOD PROVIDERS, such as Our Daily Bread, FACETS and Food for Others, have become so concerned about the lack of food that they asked Fairfax County's OP3 to help them network and collaborate to meet the growing demand.

In the meantime, initiatives such as "Stuff the Bus" help to refill the coffers of local food pantries.

Last week, "Stuff the Bus" volunteers collected 1,746 pounds of food at the Fox Mill Giant in Herndon, and 2,158 pounds of food were collected at the Lorton Giant, according to Michael Artson with Fairfax County's Neighborhood and Community Services.

All donations will go directly to local nonprofit organizations that help feed needy families and individuals in the Fairfax-Falls Church Community. To find out when and where "Stuff the Bus" will be at a grocery store near you, visit www.fairfaxcountypartnerships.org or call 703-222-9764.

Josh Harasimowicz takes a bow next to his leading lady, Ellie Milewski, after the Jan. 27 performance of Key Middle School's production of Rodgers and Hammerstein's 'The King and I.' The moment is particularly meaningful because it takes place just 11 weeks after Harasimowicz's liver transplant at Georgetown Hospital.

'King and I' at Key Middle

After three months of preparation, the Key Middle School Theater presented 'The King and I' on Jan. 26, 27 and 28. The production, involving 90 students and numerous staff and parent volunteers, was the culmination of hard work and faith, when two weeks after parts were cast, the lead male actor, Josh Harasimowicz, received a liver transplant, after months of being on the national organ transplant waiting list. Two weeks after the surgery Harasimowicz was cleared to return to play practice, and ultimately provided an excellent performance as the King of Siam in the Rodgers and Hammerstein classic.

Ellie Milewski provided a captivating performance as Anna Leonowens from Rodgers and Hammerstein's 'The King and I' on Jan. 27 at the Key Middle School Theater. Ninety students were involved in the musical production.

Josh Harasimowicz takes his bow after performing as the King of Siam in the Key Middle School Theater production of Rodgers and Hammerstein's 'The King and I' on Jan. 27. Harasimowicz received a liver transplant on Nov. 10, 2011 after spending months on the national liver transplant list. Two weeks after the surgery, he was attending rehearsals with the theater group. When asked what he learned about the process, he answered, "When you put your faith into something, you can take a risk and know it's going to be ok."

On Jan. 27, special guests came to watch the Harasimowicz children (front row) perform in the Key Middle School Theater's production of Rodger and Hammerstein's 'The King and I:' staff from the Georgetown University Hospital Pediatric Transplant Unit, including the surgeon Dr. Stuart Kaufman, who performed a liver transplant on Josh Harasimowicz at the hospital on Nov. 10, 2011. Host an Exchange Student World Heritage Student Exchange Program, a highly respected, non profit, public benefit organization, is seeking local host families for high school boys and girls from Portugal, France, Germany, Brazil, Thailand, Korea, China, Spain, Norway, Denmark, Finland, Italy, the Middle East and the former Soviet Republics. Students are already awaiting word on their host family for the 2012-2013 academic school year. Host families provide room, board, and guidance for a teenager living thousands of miles from home. Couples, single parents, and families with and without children in the home are all encouraged to apply.

The exchange students arrive from their home country shortly before school begins fall 2012. Each World Heritage student is fully insured, brings his/her own personal spending money and expects to bear his/her share of household responsibilities, as well as being included in normal family activities and lifestyles.

Change your world by choosing to host an exchange student. For more information, call Diane Galvin at 703-507-9224 or call 1-800-888-9040 (toll free). Please also visit our website at www.world-heritage.org.

OPINION

About Halfway

Always entertaining, the high-stakes session of the Virginia General Assembly reaches new heights this month.

The user-friendly website for the Virginia General Assembly plus live-streaming of the legislative sessions might make you believe that most of the important decisions in Richmond are being made out in the sunshine.

But as Mount Vernon's Del. Scott Surovell points out, some of the most important work of the legislature takes place in committees and subcommittees, but unless you are present in the room, you have no way of knowing who killed what or why.

EDITORIAL When a subcommittee votes, there is no requirement to record who voted or how each legislator voted. But this is where most legislation meets its fate.

According to the National Council of State Legislatures, there are only 14 legislatures in the United States that do not have audio or video live streaming or digital archiving of committee and subcommittee proceedings.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Parent Notification To Protect Students

To the Editor:

Fairfax Zero Tolerance Reform (FZTR) supports a bill introduced by Del. Timothy Hugo (R-40) requiring that parents be notified by principals or their designees before they are questioned about a serious violation and that students be warned about their due process rights. This bill, HB 1080, aligns with a recent U.S. Supreme Court decision that protects student Miranda rights and it ensures parents/guardians are considered partners at the very beginning of any disciplinary process. It would not affect a teacher's ability to impose discipline in the classroom.

FZTR strongly opposes three other bills introduced by officials, one in the House (HB 656) and two in the Senate (SB 391 and SB 167) because they do not go far enough to protect parent and student rights and some, in fact, will make the situation worse for families and children. We urge their patrons to work with Del. Hugo to get his bill passed. HB 1080 most closely aligns with the outcomes sought by FZTR and by parents throughout

Here are a few current issues that might make you want to tune in.

State Sen. Chap Petersen of Fairfax is championing legislation on parental notification; it's a shame to see this as needed since the Fairfax County School Board could have rendered it unnecessary. SB 167 would require school administrators to notify parents once they begin an investigation that could lead to criminal charges or expulsion.

"The intent of this bill is not restrict principals from the everyday supervision required in a building with 2,000 young people," Petersen said. "It's to separate those investigations which can change the lives of young people, e.g. a decision to expel, and make sure that parents are notified immediately that this is happening."

Petersen also sought some consequences for some older students, SB 626, because of complaints from residents that students from "a nearby college" were engaging in poor behavior in residents' front yards in late evening.

Petersen will likely be successful in repealing the ban on hunting on Sundays.

State Sen. Adam Ebbin of Alexandria proposed legislation that would have prohibited discrimination in state hiring on the basis of sexual orientation; that died in committee.

Earlier this week, state Sen. Janet Howell from Reston offered some very specific commentary on a bill that will likely require women

Fairfax and Virginia.

On other discipline issues, FZTR supports:

❖ HB 365 and HB 887, which would require school superintendents to provide education services to students who are suspended or expelled.

❖ HB 366 and HB 544, which would prohibit long-term suspensions and expulsions based solely on disruptive or disorderly behaviors or technology offenses. Caveat: Cyberbullying is not to be considered a technology offense.

❖ HB 367, which would require school divisions to report their disciplinary offenses and outcomes as part of the Board of Education's School Performance Report Card.

❖ HJ 66 and HJ 89, which would direct a Joint Legislative Audit Review Committee (JLARC) evaluation of school suspension and expulsion practices.

FZTR cannot support SB 168 Closed-Circuit Cameras because it would not legislate a change in current school practices, and could codify existing deleterious practices where officials claim any school activity has an effect on "safety." FZTR opposes HB 1179, to allow school divisions to provide their character education programs during a summer student academy. Character education must be a fully-integrated, school-wide, daily process employed in every classroom if it is to be truly effective.

It cannot be "taught" in a 6-week setting but, rather, instilled through consistent actions, interventions and supports.

Fairfax Zero Tolerance Reform calls upon the community, elected officials, principals, and the Fairfax County School Board to support these bills as aligned with our community values. Parent notification, in particular, was a key platform issue for many elected FCPS board members who claimed their support for this during their campaigns. We are encouraged that our elected officials are addressing much-needed school discipline reforms and student protections.

Fairfax Zero Tolerance Reform was formed in 2005 by parents concerned over mandatory, inflexible student discipline practices in Fairfax County Public Schools. Its mission is to transform the FCPS discipline system from a criminal and punitive approach to a restorative, educational, and therapeutic process by working with families, FCPS, county staff, civil rights and child development specialists, and legal representatives. More information about FZTR's discipline reform efforts is available at FairfaxZeroToleranceReform.org.

seeking an abortion to first view an ultrasound of the baby. If women will be forced to have an unnecessary medical procedure, an ultrasound, then men should have a rectal exam and a cardiac stress test before receiving a prescription for erectile dysfunction medication, Howell proposed in an amendment.

It's a bit of comic relief in a year when the more conservative Virginia General Assembly will pass many new laws at odds with the views of most Northern Virginians.

Although many press reports describe the Democratic-controlled Senate of the past as a barrier to anti-abortion legislation, in fact one of the most significant anti-abortion laws escaped that body last year. The requirement that most facilities that provide abortions meet the physical standards of a hospital will likely close many if not most of these facilities.

These anecdotes represent just a few grains of sand of what is actually transpiring right now in Richmond.

Scandal Highlights Child Sex Abuse

Fairfax County police say reports, concerns rose in wake of scandal.

BY VICTORIA ROSS
THE CONNECTION

The fallout from the Penn State child sex abuse scandal - arrests, firings and the disgrace of a sports icon - has also promoted a heightened awareness of child sexual abuse.

Since the scandal broke in November, national child abuse and neglect hotlines have reported steep spikes in calls from parents, educators and victims asking questions and seeking help.

Fairfax County has also felt the impact.

According to statistics kept by Fairfax County Police Department's (FCPD) Child Abuse Unit, reports to the department's seven-member Child Abuse Squad have doubled since December 2010 – from 19 to 39 reported cases.

During 2011, officers investigated 329 cases covering child rape, sodomy, aggravated sexual battery and indecent liberties with a juvenile.

Fairfax County's Office for Women's Domestic and Sexual Violence also reports an increased number of calls asking for advice and counsel since the scandal broke.

"Child sexual abuse is more common than many people think, but there is also a lot of shame and a hesitancy to come forward and talk about it," said Lucy Caldwell, an FCPD officer who spearheaded an online forum to the topic on Wednesday, Jan. 18. She said national attention surrounding the Penn State allegations coupled with the rise in local reports and concerns provided the impetus for the online discussion.

"We felt it was important to reach out to tell people that they are not alone. There are resources available," Caldwell said. "In some cases, victims can take police action against their offenders... We do suspect, however, that many cases go unreported for many, many reasons."

According to the National Children's Advocacy Center, sexual abuse is the nation's most under-reported crime. Various studies show 40 to 60 million Americans have been sexually abused, and national experts estimate that nearly one out of every three girls and one out of every six boys will be sexually assaulted by age 18.

The online discussion was originally scheduled for one hour, but there were so many questions from posters – all of whom chose to remain anonymous – that the discussion continued for more than 90 minutes.

Kathleen Kelmelis, program manager for the county's Office for Women's Domestic and Sexual Violence Services and 2nd Lt. Josh Laitinen, supervisor of the FCPD child abuse squad, answered a wide range of questions from those who identified themselves as victims, as well as parents and educators seeking information about how to help children and when to report suspected cases of child sexual abuse.

One poster asked: "Why do you think children don't tell their parents or the police when bad things happen to them? How should they handle these situations? What should we be doing as parents to ensure their safety?"

"In 93 percent of cases of child sex abuse, the abuser is someone the child knows. Nearly half the time these abusers are family members," Kelmelis responded, adding that abusers are masters of manipulation.

"They manipulate in many ways, through threats such as, 'If you tell, I will kill your family or your pet.' Or through promises – 'If you do this for me, I will take you out to the arcade,'" Kelmelis said. She also gave tips on guiding a child through the conversation.

"Give the child a safe environment in which to talk to someone with whom trust has been established. When talking with a child, try to guard against displaying emotions that would influence a child. Reassure the child that they have not done anything wrong and they are not to blame for what happened to them," she said.

Another poster wanted to know who, in addition to doctors and teachers were "mandated reporters."

Laitinen responded that anyone employed in a public or private school, child care employees, mental health professionals, law enforcement officers, hospital professionals, emergency medical personnel are required to report suspected cases of abuse or neglect to child protective services.

He noted that there are several pieces of legislation before the Virginia General Assembly that would require coaches and others involved in youth organizations to be added to the list. He also advised parents not to rely solely on organizations to prevent child sexual abuse.

"Parents need to be involved, know what adults their children are with. For example, consider becoming a leader or volunteer; take the time to stay at the music lesson or sporting event/practices. No amount of concern is too great for the welfare of your child," he said.

On Wednesday, Jan. 18, Fairfax County held an online forum to address the topic of child sexual abuse. For 90 minutes, 2nd Lt. Josh Laitinen, supervisor of the FCPD child abuse squad and Kathleen Kelmelis, program manager for the Office for Women's Domestic and Sexual Violence Services answered a wide range of questions from about 20 posters.

Another person asked what efforts are currently underway between Fairfax County police and other agencies to address the recent rise in cases?

Laitinen said the police department and Fairfax County's Department of Family Services are working together to address this increase.

The level of shame, discomfort and fear surrounding the issue was apparent in many of the questions. Several questions were from adults who said they were abused as children, asking how they could cope as adults with the residual effects of abuse, such as depression, self-loathing, guilt and shame.

Kelmelis said the Office for Women's Do-

Laitinen urged the poster to report the abuse, and said an undocumented immigrant does not lose his or her rights as a victim. "The Fairfax County Police Department does not consider immigration status when any crime is reported to us. There are laws that protect undocumented immigrants in the U.S.," he responded during the discussion.

Another question came from an elementary school counselor, who said that making a claim with CPS that is later determined to be unfounded often damages the relationship between the school and the family. "Sometimes, the child's story doesn't really make sense, or there is not a visible injury... Any advice for handling these types of situations?"

Laitinen acknowledged the "difficult situation," but said that a "mandated reporter" could face serious consequences for failing to report suspected abuse. "The child's welfare is paramount," he responded.

Both Laitinen and Kelmelis repeatedly urged victims to call the CPS hotline or 911 when posters said they or their children were currently being sexually abused.

"We urge you to report this to police at 703-691-2131 first. (If there is an immediate matter of safety, contact 911!) The police will work hand-in-hand with Child Protective Services in conducting an investigation. If you would like to contact CPS as an anonymous caller, call their hotline at 703-324-7400 anytime day or night. Whomever you decide to call first, your situation will be addressed and you will get the help you need. Please call," Laitinen said.

Caldwell said the team was very pleased with the response, and more outreach efforts are planned.

"It's a sensitive subject, but one that parents, educators and all those who come into contact with children need to know more about," Caldwell said.

WELLBEING

Cybercycling for Better Health

Exergaming — exercise combined with video games — might offer a greater cognitive benefit than traditional exercise alone.

BY MARILYN CAMPBELL
THE CONNECTION

The same staccato beeps and flashing graphics that keep some youth glued to video games might also boost cognitive function in senior citizens.

A study published in the February issue of the American Journal of Preventative Medicine shows that exergaming — exercise combined with video games — might offer a greater cognitive benefit than traditional exercise alone.

“[A] cybercycle, a recumbent bike equipped with a computerized screen that allows interactive virtual-reality gaming, has been shown to improve executive function, which indicate abilities such as planning, organizing and problem-solving,” said Kathy Richards, Ph.D., a Herndon resident and assistant dean, Doctoral Programs and Research Development School of Nursing at George Mason University.

The Cybercycle Study, conducted by scientists at Union College in New York, tested 79 volunteers ranging in age from 58 to 99. Some of the volunteers completed three months of regular exercise on stationary bikes; others completed the same amount of exercise on cybercycles. Cybercyclists completed 3D tours and raced against a “ghost rider,” an avatar based on their last best ride.

Though the cyclists all exercised for the same amount of time and at the same level of intensity, researchers found that the cybercycle riders had significantly better executive function than those who used a plain stationary bike. They also experienced a 23 percent reduction in progression to dementia compared with the control group.

“We found that for older adults ... cybercycling two to three times per week for three months yielded greater cognitive benefit, and perhaps added [greater] protection against mild cognitive impairment (MCI), than a similar dose of traditional exercise,” said lead investigator Cay Anderson-Hanley, Ph.D., from the Healthy Aging and Neuropsychology Lab and Department of Psychology at Union College. “Navigating a 3D landscape, anticipating turns and competing with others requires additional focus, expanded divided attention and enhanced decision-making. These activities depend in part on executive function, which was significantly affected.”

Dr. Jan Gable, an Alexandria resident and the medical center director at Greenspring, says that there are two types of memory changes that occur with age. “The normal age-related change in memory is not progressive and does not lead to disability. This is characterized by delay in recall such as ‘word searching,’” she said. “The other category is dementia, a relentlessly progressive deterioration in brain function that usually affects memory first and later judgment, initiative, personality and finally movement and swallowing.”

Research shows that exercise may prevent or delay dementia and improve cognitive functioning in normal aging.

“Although we may not completely understand the specific processes that contribute to dementia, current evidence certainly suggests that physical and cognitive activities improve functioning in older adults,” said Kristin Anderson, M.D., M.P.H., family and preventive medicine physician for Molina Healthcare and Community Health Care Network in Reston. “An example of this would be ballroom dancing.”

ing, which involves learning steps paired with exercise.”

The American College of Preventative Medicine reports that only 14 percent of adults aged 65-74 years old and only 7 percent of those over 75 report regular exercise.

“Motivating people at any age to exercise can be a real challenge,” said Brad Hibbs, a Burke resident and a wellness manager at Greenspring retirement community in Springfield. “Certainly this generation is especially challenging due to the fact that for most this is not something they were accustomed to doing on a routine basis.”

Mary Lee Esty, Ph.D., L.C.S.W., president of the Brain Wellness and Biofeedback Center of Washington, says neurofeedback — essentially biofeedback for the brain during which clinicians attach sensors to a person’s scalp to rebalance brainwave activity — might also improve cognitive functioning. “There is more and more evidence that neurofeedback actually improves executive functioning even in early dementia,” she said. “A personal experience was when my mother-in-law was in her early 90s, and it was increasingly obvious that she was having to search for words and was having trouble with fluency. But even after just one treatment, it made a huge difference in her word retrieval and ease of conversation.”

West Springfield point guard April Robinson is working to get back in shape after returning from a five-week absence due to an ankle injury.

Logan Battle led West Springfield with 19 points during a 40-37 victory against T.C. Williams on Jan. 30.

West Springfield's Robinson Getting Back in Shape

Standout point guard returns after missing five weeks with injured ankle.

BY JON ROETMAN
THE CONNECTION

West Springfield senior April Robinson struggled to catch her breath outside of the visiting locker room at T.C. Williams High School. The Spartans had defeated the Titans 40-37 on Jan. 30 when Robinson's breathing became enough of a challenge that it caught the attention of head coach Bill Gibson. "Are you OK?" Gibson asked his star point guard. "What's the matter?" "I'm out of shape," a winded Robinson responded. Realizing No. 32 was simply out of gas, Gibson had some fun.

"We all knew that," he said with a laugh. "That's why we've been trying to get you in shape."

Robinson, a 2011 first-team All-Met selection, has worked on her endurance since returning to the lineup after missing more than a month with an injured ankle. Monday's match-up with T.C. Williams was Robinson's fourth game after her five-week lay-off and the Titans put her to the test. TC pressured Robinson in the backcourt and forced her to work up and down the floor.

"The full-court pressure was killing me," Robinson said. "I'm so tired. ... I haven't run like that in practice."

Robinson, who will play for Duquesne University next season, had a relatively quiet offensive night, finishing with five points. But in a tightly-contested match-up of the top two teams in the Patriot District, Robinson made her biggest impact when it mattered most.

West Springfield led 38-37 with less than a minute to play when Robinson came up with a steal and called timeout. After the Spartans extended their lead to 40-37, Robinson blocked Gaby Moss' potential game-tying 3-point attempt. Moss got another chance in the closing seconds, but the Titan standout's 3-point shot was off the mark.

"[Robinson is] a smart player," Gibson said. "She understands the game and she knows time and situation. That's a big plus. Her basketball IQ is really good."

The victory improved the Spartans' record to 17-2, including 11-0 in the district. West Springfield's two losses came during a holiday tournament in Miami, when the team was without Robinson. The Spartans have won nine in a row and are ranked No. 6 in the Washington Post's top 20. The Titans dropped to 13-6, with a 9-2 district mark. TC's two district losses have come against West Springfield by a combined four points.

Georgetown-bound Logan Battle led the Spartans with 19 points. Lindsey Mares finished with eight points and Amy Berglund added six. Battle said there hasn't been much difficulty in getting used to having Robinson back on the floor.

"It's pretty much like falling back into old times," Battle said. "It's not something we have to get used to. It's more something she needs to get used to — getting back into conditioning and getting back into the game."

West Springfield will travel to face West Potomac at 7:30 p.m. on Thursday, Feb. 2. The Spartans' next home game is Feb. 7 against Woodson. The Patriot District tournament begins Feb. 14.

Woodson Tops Lake Braddock

Woodson sharp-shooter Tommy Stepka hurts Bruins with long range shooting.

The three-point shot is arguably the most satisfying in basketball. When coupled with aggressive defense, it can make a team virtually unstoppable. The Woodson High boys' team connected on seven 3-pointers and buried visiting Patriot District opponent Lake Braddock defensively to win 73-50 last Friday night, Jan. 27.

After missing his first two shots, Woodson junior Tommy Stepka settled down and finished the evening with a team-high four 3-pointers and 17 points.

"I didn't lose my confidence and kept shooting until it went in," said Stepka. "I kept getting more confident as the game went on."

The Cavaliers outscored the Bruins 26-7 in the third quarter to avenge their 68-52 loss to Lake Braddock on Jan. 3.

"They shoot the ball pretty well. We knew we couldn't get into a 3-point shooting contest with them. We did and we lost," said Bruin head coach Brian Metress. "They hit those corner threes and just kept stretching the lead."

BRUINS' SENIOR Dylan O'Connor scored 21 points in his team's win over Woodson earlier this month, but the Cavaliers held him to just eight points Friday night. Dismal shooting from the free throw line plagued the Bruins as the team went 18-of-28 and struggled to find consistency. "We only made two 3-pointers all night; we turned the ball over and got outrebounded," said O'Connor. "Every win in the Patriot District is tough.

Beating them at their house is hard to do."

Woodson freshman Eric Bowles Jr. forced a turnover on the first possession of the game and the Cavaliers maintained a disruptive up-tempo brand of defense for the duration of the contest.

"Our coaches really stressed going aggressive but being under control and taking the right shots," said Cavalier junior Alfred Carr, who finished with 13 points. "We really did that and Tommy hit the threes to open up the middle and I got the chance to work inside."

The win was Woodson's ninth in the Patriot District and seventh consecutive. Head coach Doug Craig says none of it matters if his team can't produce similar results in the upcoming postseason.

"We're trying to be consistent and keep getting better," said Craig. "We're winning games now but we want to be the best team in February and March."

NOTICE OF TRUSTEE'S SALE

3015 Dower House Drive, Herndon, Virginia 20171
Fairfax County

In execution of a Deed of Trust dated September 29, 2006, in the original principal amount of $479,000.00, recorded as Deed Book 18817 at Page 0550, and re-recorded in Deed Book 19139 at Page 235, in the Clerk's Office of the Circuit Court of Fairfax County, Virginia, the undersigned Trustee will on Friday, February 10, 2012, at 10:00 a.m., by the front main entrance to the Fairfax County Courthouse, 4110 Chain Bridge Road, Fairfax, VA 22030, offer for sale at public auction to the highest bidder the following property with improvements thereon commonly known as 3015 Dower House Drive, Herndon, Virginia 20171, and more particularly described as follows:

Lot Three Hundred Two (302), Section Three (3), Franklin Farm, as the same appears duly dedicated, platted and recorded in Deed Book 5532 at Page 1099 among the land records of Fairfax County, Virginia.

Tax Map No. 035-2-08-0302

This sale is subject to the restrictions, rights of way, conditions, easements, and mechanic's liens, if any, whether of record or not of record, to the extent any of the foregoing applies, and takes priority over the lien of the Deed of Trust. This sale is also subject to a 120-day right of redemption in favor of the Internal Revenue Service.

Deposit of $15,000.00, or 10% of the sales price, whichever is lower, by cashier's or certified check, shall be required to qualify as a bidder prior to the sale, except for the Noteholder.

The deposit, without interest, is applied to the purchase price at settlement. Settlement will be held on or before fifteen (15) days after sale. Upon purchaser's default, the deposit shall be forfeited and the property shall be resold at the risk and costs of the defaulting purchaser.

The balance of the purchase price shall be paid by certified or cashier's check or wire transfer. Settlement shall be at the offices of the undersigned Trustee, or other mutually agreed upon location. The property and any improvements thereon shall be sold in "as is" condition without any warranties. The successful bidder shall assume all loss or damage to the property from and after the time of the sale. Purchaser shall be responsible for all costs of the conveyance, which shall be by special warranty including, but not limited to, the preparation of the deed and the grantor's tax. Real estate taxes shall be adjusted as of the sale date. The sale is subject to such additional terms as the Trustee may announce at the time of sale. The purchaser will be required to sign a Memorandum of Sale incorporating all the terms of the sale.

 See what people are saying about Alexandria Toyota!

"I gave this dealership a great rating because it was the greatest experience I have ever had at a dealership. John McMillan was exceptional as a salesman. He was able to answer every question and he made me feel like I was special as a buyer. It was truly a great experience and again I cannot say enough about John McMillan, he is truly an asset to Alexandria Toyota."
