Family Fun at Cox Farms

Fall Festival for children, Fields of Fear for teens.

BY BONNIE HOBBS
CENTRE VIEW

Cool, crisp weather, apple cider, pumpkins and changing leaves are sure signs of autumn. In the local area, it also means it's time for the annual fall festival at Cox Farms.

With giant slides, hayrides, rope swings, farm animals and their babies, a goat village, food, live entertainment and a Cornundrum Cornfield Adventure, Cox Farms offers 90 acres of family fun. And at night, older teens and adults can get their share of thrills and chills via the fright-filled Fields of Fear.

It's all at 15621 Braddock Road, just off Pleasant Valley Road, in Centreville. The festival begins Sept. 29 and runs daily until Oct. 31, from 10 a.m.-6 p.m., and from Nov. 3-6, from 10 a.m.-5 p.m.

Fields of Fear is open Friday and Saturday nights, Sept. 28-Oct. 27, from 7:30-11 p.m., plus Sunday, Oct. 7, and Saturday, Nov. 3. The pumpkin-smashing event, Pumpkin Madness, is set for Nov. 3-4, from 10 a.m.-5 p.m. For ticket prices, see www.coxfarms.com.

"This is our 40th anniversary and we're really happy about it," said Lucas Cox-Richard, partner and co-manager with his sibling, Aaron Cox-Richard. "Our parents are still involved, but we now have the reins. We like to call ourselves co-farmers-in-chief."

It's a big job, but one they do willingly and with enthusiasm. "Aaron and I grew up with the festival," said Lucas. "And as much as we love Northern Virginia, it's sometimes nice to get into the countryside and enjoy some outdoor, out-of-the-ordinary fun."

He's also excited about all the new attractions in store this year for attendees. "We decided to kick up our hayride a notch," he said. "We changed the route for the first time in nine years."

Always popular, the hayride lasts nearly 25 minutes and travels by several vignettes, including cartoon characters in the cornfield, comical space aliens, cowboys on horseback and a wild-west town. At the end, it travels through a large, revamped and enchanted wizarding barn filled with music, flashing lights and scenes of wizards, witches and magical plants and creatures.

Besides that, said Cox-Richard, "We've upgraded the witches' house along the hayride and added a superhero skit. And a new spaceship has crash-landed in the field. It has a 1974 Volkswagen Beetle cab with all kinds of bells and whistles, and the aliens are waving and giving high fives. The old spaceship is now a target for pumpkin slingshot."

People waving to the camera while on the hayride at Cox Farms.

The festival also has its first-ever mechanical bull; it'll be in the games area near the dinosaur slide. Open only on weekends, it's for children 4 feet and taller.

The free, weekend events also include the pumpkin slingshot — the festival's most popular game — plus entertainment on the music stage. Live bands perform, and Farmer Jack sings and tells stories while milking his cow, Bingo.

In addition, said Cox-Richard, "The mining sluice is super-cool. It's a water tower that dumps water into a big, curvy trench where people can pan for fossils, gemstones and arrowheads."

New, as well, is Bunnyville, inside the slide barn. "A slide comes out of the top of the barn, and the bottom part houses Bunnyville," said Cox-Richard. "We built a model of Washington, D.C., with the monuments and White House, and the bunnies jump around in there. There are 12 bunnies and they're super-cute and love their new home."

Actually, Cox Farms has animals galore. Children may feed baby goats in their own goat village. Alpacas are on the mountain leading up to the dinosaur slide and a peacock roams free. There are also baby chicks, hens and chickens, rabbits, turkeys, pigs and piglets, calves, milking cows and a llama.

"The sheep moved to the farm-chores area, and they're really snuggly this year," said Cox-Richard. "We also have some newborn goats."

Geared for 2-6-year-olds, the farm-chores area features old-fashioned water pumps and troughs, a corn conveyor belt, chicken coop and a little garden where children may pump water into buckets and water the crops.

The Kiddie Zone, for children 5 and under, also gives them a calmer place to play. The fun includes smaller themed slides, rope swings, hay bales, a wooden train and a pond where they can throw pebbles. Little ones may also play on the Three Little Pigs' house and slide and climb on a wooden Jeep in the front yard.

Festival visitors will also enjoy the five giant slides, straw tunnels and the Cornundrum Cornfield Adventure. The latter features funhouse mirrors, a hall of doors, giant vortex and a pirate ship. And this year, said Cox-Richard, "We added the Great Pyramid with hieroglyphics and a couple surprises inside."

Food is available for purchase throughout the farm. The selection includes hot dogs, hamburgers, nachos and Dominion root beer on tap. "We also added Dominion root-beer floats," said Cox-Richard. "We bought a new smoker so we can offer home-smoked, pulled-pork, barbecue sandwiches. We've been happily testing it out all summer long. And this year, we're also baking our own chocolate-chip and sugar cookies."

Apples and fresh cider are free. If desired, visitors may bring their own lunches (no alcohol) for picnics on the grounds. They may also buy a wide variety of treats in the farm's market. The goodies include freshly baked apple pies, local apples, kettle corn, fresh cider, dessert breads, jams, local honey, Indian corn, squash, gourds and fall decorations. Visitors even get to choose a free, patch pumpkin to take home.

Once night falls, however, scary creatures are everywhere, so the 20-acre Fields of Fear isn't recommended for children under 12; and anyone under 14 must be accompanied by an adult, 18 or older.

Hardy souls brave enough to enter the Fields of Fear are led to the Cornnightmare to experience cornfield terrors in the dark. There, they walk through the Hall of Whispers, Bug Room and Claustrophobia, secluded in tall corn with creatures that aren't human. And this year, said Cox-Richard, "We added crazed clowns and a new, secret finale to the Cornnightmare."

There's also the Dark-Side Hayride, with scary actors and scenes along the way, including Farmageddon, a junkyard, frightening aliens, jungle monsters and zombies. Cox-Richard says it's definitely not for the

Clarification

In the story, "Buying Pizza Can Help Fight Thyroid Cancer," in the Sept. 20 Centre View (page 5), it should read that, from now until Nov. 13, Paisano's will donate $2 to Bite Me Cancer from every large pizza sold on Tuesdays.

Learn about Police Careers

Teens and their parents are invited to an informational meeting Monday, Oct. 1, at 7 p.m., at the Fairfax County Criminal Justice Academy, 14601 Lee Road in Chantilly, to learn more about Fairfax County Police Explorer Post No. 1742.

The Explorers serve police departments and their communities across the country and provide young people with opportunities to learn and practice skills that police officers use on a daily basis. Explorers gain experience in fingerprinting, processing crime scenes, staffing special events and helping officers spread the word about safety and crime prevention.

Firefighters Going Pink

Fairfax County Fire and Rescue Department personnel will don pink shirts between Oct. 1-7 to heighten awareness of breast cancer. During that time, firefighters and staff will wear pink T-shirts as they respond to emergency and non-emergency calls.

This October is the 28th Annual Breast Cancer Awareness Month, and many other organizations nationwide are joining the fight to eradicate this disease. Even the NFL has added a pink ribbon to its logo this month, and players are wearing pink cleats, wristbands, gloves, chin straps and other items showing their support of Breast Cancer Month.

Donations from local employee groups, Fairfax County Local 2068, Fairfax County Progressive Firefighters Inc., UnitedHealthcare and others funded the purchase of the T-shirts.

Free Carseat Inspections

Certified technicians from the Sully District Police Station will perform free, child safety carseat inspections Thursday, Oct. 4 and Oct. 18, from 5-8:30 p.m., at the station, 4900 Stonecroft Blvd. in Chantilly. No appointment is necessary. But residents should install the child safety seats themselves so technicians may properly inspect and adjust them, as needed.

However, because of time constraints, only the first 35 vehicles arriving on each date will be inspected. That way, inspectors may have enough time to properly instruct the caregiver on the correct use of the child seat. Call 703-814-7000, ext. 5140, to confirm dates and times.

Centreville Civil War Tour

John McAnaw of the Bull Run Civil War Round Table will lead a tour of Blackburn Battlefield, sections of the Confederate Military Railroad, historic Mount Gilead, the Stuart-Mosby Museum, St. John's Episcopal Church and cemetery, plus Confederate earthworks in and around Centreville. Box 7, Fairfax Station, VA 22039, no later than Oct. 1. People should include their phone number and email address.

For more information, contact McAnaw at 703-978-3371 or visit www.fairfax-station.org.

Demand for Help Grows Each Year

WFCM celebrates 25th anniversary.

BY BONNIE HOBBS
CENTRE VIEW

In 1987, a dozen churches in Centreville, Chantilly and Fair Oaks were inundated with people walking in and asking for food and money. Eventually, the pastors discussed it among themselves and devised a plan.

"They didn't know if the needs were legitimate and they realized some people were going to several places for help," said Jan Welch, former executive director of Western Fairfax Christian Ministries (WFCM). "So the churches got together, donated money and volunteers, and kept records."

With no paid staff, they created a board of directors and worked toward becoming a nonprofit in 1991. Since then — despite the meteoric rise of wealth in Fairfax County as a whole — requests for food, clothing and monetary aid here have grown exponentially. And now, as WFCM celebrates its 25th anniversary, the need for its services is greater than ever.

"The mission is still to provide basic, essential life needs — food, clothing and financial assistance — plus budget counseling," said WFCM's current Executive Director, Melissa Jansen. "But the demand increases every year."

In the early days, she said, the group had on-call volunteers who answered residents' phone calls and wrote down their names and the type of help they needed on index cards. "Eventually, someone donated a laptop computer that the volunteers shared and took home to input the requests," said Jansen. "Then the board treasurer would write checks to the callers' landlords, utility companies, etc."

But, said Welch, the churches had to coordinate with the county because — while they could help people buy gas or pay an electric bill — they weren't able to give the full amounts of money that people needed to, for example, pay their rent for a month. So either the county would help or would contact other charitable groups to pitch in, too, to get people through their crisis.

Welch, of Little Rocky Run, joined in 1994, taking over the reins from Executive Director Klaire Jameson of Centreville Presbyterian Church. By now, the client card file was filling up boxes in Welch's home — which became WFCM's office — so she computerized all the information. As more churches joined and the need for help grew, WFCM needed more space.

"In 1996, Dale Keener offered part of his insurance business in Centreville as the food pantry," said Welch. "So churches that had been maintaining their own pantries donated their food supplies to the central pantry. And the Giant in the Colonnade at Union Mill donated bread, canned goods, fruits and vegetables. Then in 1997, the Boy Scouts began doing

Vote Now

Don't sweat voter ID; voter registration card, current utility bill, bank statement, paycheck or government check with name, address of voter will work.

Changes in Virginia's voter identification rules are causing confusion in many quarters, and some voters might be tempted to stay home rather than deal with a difficult situation. What about your 92-year-old mother who hasn't driven in almost a decade? Do you need to schlep her to the DMV to get her a photo ID before November?

Slow down, there are alternatives, including a current utility bill, bank statement, government check or paycheck indicating the name and address of the voter.

Acceptable forms of identification include: Virginia voter identification card (due to arrive in the mail next week); current utility bill, bank statement, government check or paycheck indicating the name and address of the voter; valid Virginia driver's license; military ID; any Federal, Virginia state or local government-issued ID; employer issued photo ID card; concealed handgun permit; valid student ID issued by any institution of higher education located in the Commonwealth of Virginia.

How important is it for Virginia voters to turn out on or before Nov. 6? As a critical "battle-ground" state, Virginia will be key in determining who will be the next President of the United States. Who will represent Virginia in the U.S. Senate is also too close to call. Since polling shows that there are very few undecided voters in the Commonwealth, every eligible voter will want to be sure to cast a ballot. Turnout in Northern Virginia could determine who is president and which party controls the U.S. Senate.

This is a high-participating, politically engaged area.

Fairfax County, with a population of just more than 1.1 million people, has 717,105 registered voters as of Aug. 31, 2012.

And consider that in 2008, 79 percent of Fairfax County's registered voters turned out at the polls.

The City of Alexandria has a population of about 144,000 with 103,445 registered voters as of Aug. 31, 2012.

Arlington has a population of about 216,000 and 160,326 registered voters as of Aug. 31, 2012.

EDITORIAL

When you consider the sheer numbers of people likely to go to vote on Election Day, wouldn't it make sense to go and vote early?

Virtually every voter in Virginia is eligible to vote absentee, which includes voting in-person absentee at a variety of locations. Absentee voting began Sept. 21 and will continue through Nov. 2.

There are many reasons that voters are allowed to vote absentee, but the most broad of these applies to almost anyone with a job: "Any person who, in the regular and orderly course of his business, profession, or occupation, will be at his place of work and commuting to and from his home to his place of work for 11 or more hours of the 13 that the polls are open (6 a.m. to 7 p.m.)."

See http://www.sbe.virginia.gov/cms/absentee\_voting/index.html for a complete list of acceptable reasons to vote absentee, links to download a request for an absentee ballot and other instructions.

You can download an absentee ballot and mail it to your local voter registration office,

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Monitor Streams

To the Editor:

How can too much water be a bad thing? Why does the EPA want Fairfax County to control storm water? Come see for yourselves: join your neighbors at one of the many quarterly stream monitoring events around the county. It is a relaxing way to spend a fall afternoon as we check to see whether our streams are still capable of sustaining life. There you will learn that run off is a tremendous threat to the health of our waterways, upon which all life depends. Rainwater is meant to soak into the ground and percolate into the streams slowly, not rush off roofs, driveways, roads, parking lots, and other surfaces and then dump into the streams all at once. These huge surges lead to flooding which erodes the stream banks and topples the trees. Without those trees, there are no leaves to feed the stream organisms, which are also killed by the higher temperatures from lack of shade. Did you know that many flying insects such as dragonflies spend their larval stages at the bottom of streams? That "circle of life" thing is not just Disney pablum — the whole ecosystem depends on insects. And, oh yes — we have to drink the water, too, which has just been poisoned by our roofing material, pesticides, and oil leaks. The fault is not in the EPA, but in ourselves.

So think about how you can keep your water on your own property and not turn it into someone else's problem. Divert your downspouts into a rain garden or rain barrel, use permeable pavers, build a green roof, plant a tree. If Fairfax, the third richest county in the United States, is unable to stop destroying its environment, how can we expect that of China?

Virginia Is for Lovers, and Apple-Lovers

Apple season in full swing; Grab a basket and pick your own.

Ida Red, Nittany, Gala, Pink Lady or Honey crisp: whether you like your apples tart or sweet, there are plenty of apple-picking orchards and farms to pick from within an hour's drive of Northern Virginia. For many families, apple-picking has become a fall tradition, providing a fun outdoor activity and healthy food. Grab a basket and pick your own. Many of the orchards and farms listed below also host special events, fall festivals, hayrides and other activities. Before you head out, call ahead to make sure that your favorite apple (or pumpkin) is ripe and available for picking.

9 ROCK HILL ORCHARD

Rock Hill Orchard, located in the Agricultural Reserve in Northern Montgomery County, offers a variety of apples to pluck, from Red Delicious to Empire. There's also a fruit, flower and vegetable market packed with locally-grown produce. Rock Hill Orchard features free hayrides to the orchard on Saturdays and Sundays.

10 HOMESTEAD FARM

The Allnutt family has farmed in Montgomery County since 1763, when James Allnutt purchased 746 acres by the Potomac River. Homestead Farm consists of 230 acres of James' original purchase. Today, the Allnutt family continues the family farming tradition. Visitors can pick their own apples, or enjoy Homestead's homemade caramel apples. The Little Country Kitchen features apple pie, cider and fresh vegetable soup.

1 MARKER-MILLER ORCHARDS

A family favorite, Marker-Miller Orchards has something for everyone in the family. Relax on the front porch in wooden rocking chairs, pack a picnic lunch and enjoy eating in the midst of the lush orchards, or go on an adventure to pick-your-own apples. Every weekend through October, the market is open where apple-lovers line up to get fresh apple cider donuts (a must-have). There's also hand-dipped apple ice cream and cider slushies. On the weekends, there are wagon rides, the cow train and a huge play area for children.

2 CROOKED RUN ORCHARD

Crooked Run Orchard is a small family farm on the outskirts of Purcellville in Loudoun County. Many families go to this orchard for the simple pleasure of apple-picking. There are no mazes or wagon rides or kiddie trains. Owners Uta and Sam Brown grow the food; you pick it. There is no entrance or parking fee. There's only a charge for the food. Children also enjoy the orchard's "table of things." Yes, that's what children call it. There are several "table of things," that include bones, snake skins, nests, dried bats or frogs, turtle shells and "anything else we find that's interesting during the year," Brown said.

37883 E Main Street, Purcellville, 540-338-7445
Crookedrunorchard.com

3 VIRGINIA FARM MARKET

Virginia Farm Market began in 1952 as small roadside stand selling homegrown fresh peaches. The market has grown to include a bakery, a gift shop featuring wood baskets and local preserves, and apples, apples and more apples. Taste the "jug-your-own" apple cider. Look for the big red barn located on Route 522 north of Winchester.

4 STRIBLING ORCHARD

The Stribling farm and orchard has been in the Stribling family for almost 200 years. Beginning in September through November, the farm has fresh apples, cider and all sizes and shapes of pumpkins. In addition to apple-picking, visitors can enjoy beautiful views of the Blue Ridge Mountains, Stribling Farm's historic buildings and many farm animals.

5 VALLEY VIEW ORCHARD

An historic property located in Virginia's "Hunt" country near Middleburg, the historic Valley View Farm is the home of Virginia Perfection Orchard, which boasts six different varieties of apples for picking. Worth seeing is the estate's manor house with a formal English Garden situated in the middle of 500 acres of meadowlands and mountains, and is now the site for weddings and other special events.
1562 Leeds Manor Road, Delaplane, 540-592-3730

6 THE APPLE HOUSE

Although it's not an orchard, The Apple House has been a landmark for families and school groups since the 1960s. Located at the northern entrance to Skyline Drive, the family-owned business is known for homemade apple butter donuts, crisp apples and apple crisps.

Police Chief Tapped for New Position

The Fairfax County Board of Supervisors on Tuesday appointed Police Chief Dave Rohrer as deputy county executive for public safety. He'll begin his new job Oct. 20.

This action, explained County Executive Ed Long in a Sept. 25 memo to all county personnel, will dedicate this newly created position exclusively to public safety. It will also free up Deputy County Executive Rob Stalzer — who currently oversees public safety, in addition to his other duties — “to focus on planning, development and transportation functions.” Some of the major issues in these areas impacting the county include Dulles Rail; transportation funding; Tysons redevelopment; BRAC; regional water systems; and the redevelopments of Springfield Mall, Bailey's Crossroads and Merrifield Town Center.

Rohrer will be responsible for the county's public-safety programs and will oversee the police and fire departments, Office of Emergency Management and Department of Public Safety Communications. He'll also have a liaison relationship with the Sheriff's Office and the courts.

Long said this new position will also “prioritize public safety resources for the county's 1.1 million residents, while serving the county's long-term growth and development needs. A dedicated deputy county executive for public safety is better able to quickly respond to events as they occur and to coordinate regional preparedness in advance.”

This appointment completes Long's leadership team, which includes the deputy county executives, CFO, assistant county executives and directors of human resources and public affairs. “We will work together in the months and years ahead to address our continuing challenges and continue the culture of excellence for which Fairfax County Government is so well known,” said Long.

Dave Rohrer

Rohrer is a long-time county employee who's served nearly 32 years as a sworn police officer. His career here includes 13 years as a senior commander and eight years as the county's police chief; he's held that post since 2004.

He's also served as deputy chief for investigations and operations support; Patrol Bureau commander; Special Operations Division and district commander; SWAT first-line supervisor and first-line patrol supervisor.

Rohrer holds a bachelor's degree in administration of justice from GMU. His annual salary will be $191,168.

their food drive for us, and that has been a God-send.”

The next year, Centreville United Methodist Church contributed its clothes closet to WFCM which, by then, was also housing its clothing at Keener Insurance. And Welch again sought a larger space. She called Supervisor Michael R. Frey (R-Sully) who called Beatty Management and arranged for WFCM to rent space at a low amount near the Chantilly Kmart.

“We had a lot of volunteers working there, started making money from the clothes closet and were able to give more help to people needing it,” said Welch. “When Klaire was there, they were fielding three or four calls a day. When I left in 2001, we were up to 20-22 calls a day.”

In November 2002, WFCM Executive Director Dorothy Fonow gave a snapshot of the organization's work. “For the fiscal year ending June 30, [2002], we gave out 46 percent more food than in the previous year,” she said. “People make 15-minute appointments to shop for food on the days the food pantry is open, and our appointments are booked three days in advance — especially Saturdays.”

As a result, in fiscal year 2002, WFCM provided

My Team

By KENNETH B. LOURIE

Not literally, of course. Nor am I the coach or the general manager. But I do feel like an owner, in that there are people that I invest in – again not literally, but definitely emotionally. The people who express the kind of positivity and confidence and encouragement – and empathy and understanding quite honestly, of the demands and rigors physically, emotionally and spiritually of being a terminal cancer patient. Aside from my immediate family and inner circle of friends, co-workers, and fellow cancer patients with whom I've connected, I refer to all the people who have sent cards, letters, e-mails and general well-wishes offering their hope, prayers and confidence in yours truly surviving this ordeal. Moreover, there are people I've met along the way: health care providers, therapists, newly diagnosed cancer patients, previously diagnosed cancer patients, individuals who don't know me/don't know my story; whose personality, perspective, enthusiasm and sincerity have empowered me, and who have exuded the kind of positive and uplifting spirit that fuels the passion that a stage IV lung cancer patient tends to lose as the fight for one's own survival continues. To invoke a sports cliché: these are people who are good in the locker room/clubhouse.

These individuals are selfless, dedicated, motivated, caring, concerned, successful, can-do-type positive influences who optimize their optimism and bury their pessimism, especially around a terminal cancer patient. The last thing, the absolute last vibe that a terminal patient needs is negativity, depression, anxiety, worry and stress; internally and equally importantly: externally. I don't need to feel or be influenced by or be in the presence of anybody – or anything, that intentionally or unintentionally (by their nature) brings me down or opens me up to self doubt, or doubt of any kind for that matter. I need to believe. And most importantly, I/we need to be infused with positivity. And I don't mean Stepford Wives-type behavior (robotic, following a script, lacking in substance) either. I mean, the human touch, emotionally certainly and occasionally even physically. In summary, we need a connection, a feeling of togetherness and mutual awareness of the patient's plight and a willingness to face it and dare I say, discuss it together in an intelligent, thoughtful and exuberant-type manner where the highs – in life and in any treatment protocol, are maximized and where the lows are minimized.

The up-and-down-and-all-around existence of a cancer patient who's terminal is already as much negativity (which becomes almost endemic) as one can endure. Therefore, any more negativity from any source in any way/context might just push that patient over his or her emotional edge. An edge which might involve a metaphorical set of finger nails. Who knows really, what the patient's limitations are? We only know who, what, where and when circumstances exacerbate an already precarious position, a position certainly worth avoiding. My team consists of individuals with attitudes that reflect this reality. It may not be for everybody. But it better be for the cancer patient. "I don't know much, but I know that." (Ben Affleck – out of context, from the movie "Good Will Hunting.") faint of heart, adding, "The zombies will scare people."

The Firegrounds is also part of the nighttime events, but it's fun and not frightening. Cox Farms's big, six-lane slide is open for rides by torchlight, and there are giant bonfires where people can hang out, listen to music and roast marshmallows. And performing will be a fire dancer and a magician.

Traditionally, the fall festival draws thousands of people each week from throughout the Washington Metropolitan area, and Cox-Richard is delighted to see them. "Fall is that time of year when the weather's perfect and everyone's hardwired to go outside," he said. "And we're happy giving them a break from the go-go-go, D.C. atmosphere and letting them have some good, old-fashioned, technology-free fun."

"Aaron and I played here as kids, and now Aaron's kids and my friends' children are coming out and enjoying the same things – the slides, rope swings, hayrides and cider – we loved as children," continued Cox-Richard. "We're working harder than we ever have, but it's incredibly rewarding seeing all the families smiling and happy. It makes it all worthwhile."

Get Ready for Clifton Day

45th annual festival is Sunday, Oct. 7.

BY BONNIE HOBBS
CENTRE VIEW

Live bands, moonbounces, handmade crafts, Civil War re-enactors, food galore, pony rides and a unicyclist — all these things and more will be part of the 45th annual Clifton Day. The festival is slated for Sunday, Oct. 7, from 9 a.m.-5 p.m. (Rain date is Oct. 14.)

“I have a lot of fun on Clifton Day,” said event Chairman Fred Ansick. “I really enjoy seeing the smiling faces on the kids, and folks laughing and having a good day. They love the atmosphere of the town. The residents welcome everyone to see Clifton as a community — a small town in the shadows of the big city. So we want everyone to come on out and have a good time.”

The Clifton Betterment Association (CBA) puts on Clifton Day and proceeds go to the town’s nonprofit groups, including the Clifton Lions Club, Girl and Boy Scouts, Clifton Presbyterian Church, Clifton Gentleman’s Club, Clifton Woman’s Club, the CBA and Acacia Lodge.

Admission is free; parking is $5/car ($10 on the floodplain), with proceeds going to charity. “It’s the largest fund-raiser for all our local nonprofits,” said Ansick.

Sonia Dyer, 88, moved to Clifton with her family in 1964, and her daughter Bonny and oldest son Tuck went to the first Clifton Day. “It was in the old firehouse on the second floor,” she said. “There were tables with crafts and things, but that’s all there was to it. My children bought me a little, ceramic jewelry chest that I still use.”

Thousands of people jammed Main Street for last year’s Clifton Day.

“At the time, we didn’t think Clifton Day would amount to anything; but through the years, it just kept growing,” continued Dyer. “It’s that small-town feel Clifton has that makes it special. And I think the citizens are more involved in town activities now than they were then, so there’s more of a community feeling.”

For her family, she said, Clifton Day’s a holiday. Said Dyer: “My children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren all come home for Clifton Day.” And this year, they’ll have lots of things to keep them busy.

The town park off Chapel Street will host a slew of children’s activities. JumpWorks will have inflatables and moonbounces there, Kerry the Face-Painter will decorate children’s faces and Sharon the Balloon Artist will twist colorful balloons into fanciful shapes. Local Girl and Boy Scout troops will also have booths there with games such as safe darts and beanbag toss.

The Northern Virginia Therapeutic Riding Academy will give pony rides near the barn behind Acacia Lodge. It will also provide a pony for petting in the park. The Unicycle Lady will perform mainly in the park, but will also do some stunts on Main Street. There’ll also be some roaming entertainment. Performing while strolling through town will be the Banjo Man and bagpiper Michael Ahnell.

The stage on Chapel Road will feature a variety of singers, dancers and musicians. At 10:30 a.m. is the Boyle School of Irish Dance; 11:30 a.m., They Call Me Piano, a local girl who sings; 12:15 p.m., Steve Hudson and his Fabulous Exaggerations, a stand-up comedian and musician who plays piano and guitar.

At 1:15 p.m. will be The Wayward Street Players music group; 2:15 p.m., The Acoustic Burgoo, a bluegrass group from Purcellville; and 3:15 p.m., The Randy Thompson Band playing modern country-rock music. Clifton resident Thompson recently returned from a music tour in Switzerland.

Artisans on Main Street’s Ayre Square will demonstrate crafts such as wood-carving, wool spinning, weaving and pottery- and basket-making. And more than 200 arts-and-crafts vendors will sell their wares throughout the town.

Items include jewelry, candles, plant hangers, glasswork, children’s clothing, baskets, ceramics, woodworking products, furniture, mixed media, needlework, quilts, sculpture, metalwork, seasonal decorations and holiday items, sports memorabilia, toys, stained glass, and watercolor and oil paintings.

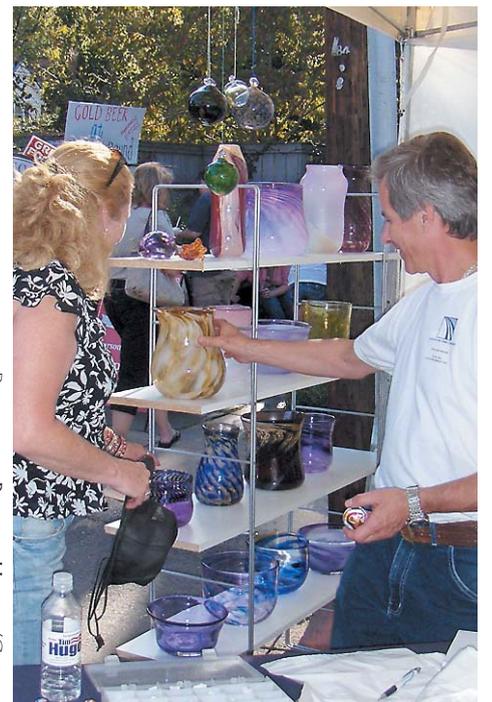

Food will be available in several places. The Clifton Lions Club will offer hamburgers, hot dogs and barbecue; Clifton Presbyterian Church, crab-cake meals, brisket meals and corndogs; Clifton Gentleman’s Club, red beans and rice, chili and chili dogs; Cub Scout Packs 1861 and 1104, cotton candy, popcorn, lemonade, cookies, candy and apple cider; Acacia Lodge, pulled pork and Italian sausage.

As for commercial food vendors, Baja Fresh will sell burritos, quesadillas and chicken, fish and shrimp tacos. Rachele Slotnick is catering an Oktoberfest booth by the stage in front of the Clifton Town Meeting Hall on Chapel Road. It’ll offer a-la-carte, German-style food such as bratwurst, kielbasa and sauerkraut. The CBA will sell beer there, too.

Trummer’s on Main will have outside tables where people may purchase food and cocktails. Food samples will be available in front of the former Heart in Hand restaurant called Buckley’s. And Paradise Springs Winery will offer wine samples in front of the post office on Chapel Road.

Altogether, there’ll be 10 food vendors throughout the town, selling treats including kettle corn, funnel cakes and Sno-Cones. The Clifton Store and Peterson’s Ice Cream and Dog Pound will also be open for business, as will the town shops.

Antiques vendors will be behind Buckley’s, and the Acacia Lodge will have some Clifton artifacts and memorabilia on display upstairs. Also for history buffs, Civil War re-enactors Tony Meadows and the 49th Customers peruse blown-glass items at a vendor’s booth.

Virginia Infantry will be encamped in the yard across from the stage on Chapel Road.

The American Red Cross Bloodmobile will be stationed next to the lodge, and people donating a pint of blood will be entered in a drawing for a gift certificate for door prizes.

The VRE train will run to and from Clifton, or festival attendees may park at Clifton Elementary, the floodplain, Kincheloe Road, Newman Road, and Chapel Road at Frosty Meadows. CBA-sponsored shuttles will ferry people to and from Frosty Meadows. For more information, see www.cliftonday.com.

This year’s sponsors are The Peterson Cos., Ourisman Toyota, VRE, Blackburn Media and the Norfolk Southern Railroad. Ansick, in his sixth year as chairman, says his 10-person committee begins working on Clifton Day in January, reserving the stage and the town properties.

“Things start ramping up in April, when I get the volunteer list,” he said. “In May, June and July, we do the planning; and in September, we start praying for good weather.”

Tall, whimsical giraffes made of packed straw and raffia were among the craft items on sale last year.

Strolling bagpiper Michael Ahnell entertains the crowd on Main Street.

WFCM Responds: Demand for Help Keeps Growing

2,065 families with 10,283 bags of food valued at $30 each and totaling $308,490. That figure was nearly $100,000 more than in fiscal year 2001. WFCM also gave financial assistance to 337 households, equaling 1,050 individuals.

By then, the organization had more than 200 active volunteers and 26 churches serving residents of Centreville, Chantilly, Clifton, Fair Oaks, Fair Lakes and Fairfax Station. Jansen became executive director in January 2008 and, in April 2009, WFCM renovated and enlarged its food pantry — by then at its current location at 13981 Metrotech Drive in Chantilly. It also opened a thrift store in the space next door.

WFCM now has 850 volunteers who gave a total of 20,000 volunteer hours in fiscal year 2012. They're in addition to all the Scout, student, church and business groups who've also donated their time. And with the downturned economy, the need has continued to soar.

A 2010 Brookings Institution study of census data referenced in the Sept. 22 Washington Post revealed that, in Washington, D.C.'s Virginia suburbs, the largest increases in the number of people living in poverty in recent years have been in Centreville, Chantilly, Linton Hall and Leesburg.

As a result, from July 1, 2011 through June 30 of this year, WFCM gave out 32,000 bags of food, equaling 369,000 pounds. "That's over $590,941 in value," said Jansen. "And that's not including the clothing given to clients or the $146,713 in financial assistance for rent, utilities, car repairs, gas cards, medical/dental care, prescriptions and transportation."

During that same time period, added Jansen, "We saw 3,272 individuals who had food, clothes and financial-aid needs. And we graduated 20 people from our budgeting class."

For many years, WFCM has also done community outreach via its school backpack program and by providing Thanksgiving and Christmas food baskets to people in need. "This year, we gave out a record 1,889 backpacks to 23 schools," said Jansen. "And last year, we gave a total of 1,587 holiday food baskets. When I first started, the backpacks and holiday baskets each totaled about 1,000."

Basically, she said, "The downturn of the economy has caused people to lose their homes, jobs and income. Homelessness in Fairfax County is decreasing; however, poverty is still the same. Some 57,000 people in this county are living at or below the poverty level. That's alarming to me because we live in such an affluent county with lots of resources."

Looking toward the next 25 years, said Jansen, "I think things will get better, but there's no guarantee. My hope is that WFCM will be able to continue existing and still serve this community. But to do so — and even now — we rely on donations from the community. We especially need financial contributions, but giving in the community is down because of economics — yet the need is still there. We're a nonprofit, but we still have to pay our bills to function and keep serving the population."

She said the toughest part of her job is balancing a quality program on a limited budget, while continually encouraging her staff — six full-time and six part-time people — because "they're seeing people in crisis every day. Of course, the most rewarding part is seeing the smiles on the faces of the clients when they leave our office and I know they've been helped in some way."

Even Welch is still involved. After Fonow left in 2007, she returned to lead WFCM for one more year until Jansen was hired. She then joined the board of directors before retiring again, a few years ago. But on Mondays, said Welch, "My husband and I pick up donated food from Food Lion to bring to WFCM."

She's enjoyed "getting to know so many wonderful and generous people in the various churches and community groups. I still treasure those friendships and all the nice things I saw people do." She also stressed how important WFCM's work is.

"As a community, we can't have people dying from starvation. These are our neighbors, our friends — people whose children are in school with our children," said Welch. "This is a Christian organization, and we're responding to God's call to love our neighbors as ourselves."

It's also part of America's heritage, she said. "The pilgrims and pioneers didn't leave for new areas alone; they banded together and helped each other. People depended on each other to survive, and we still do. That's who we are as Americans, as citizens."

Excited about WFCM's 25th anniversary, Welch said, "I think it's fabulous that we've been able to continue this work with the help of the community and the churches. I'm happy that so many people are willing to step forward and give of their time, treasure and talent. And I hope others will be encouraged to participate, because there's still a great need out there and we still need people to help."
