Governor McDonnell promotes adoption, foster care during Fairfax County tour.

The atmosphere was festive as more than 100 people—including adoptive parents, children and state and local officials—gathered in the Fairfax County Government Center atrium Tuesday, July 30 to welcome Virginia Gov. Bob McDonnell (R) during the statewide tour to promote his "Virginia Adopts: Campaign for 1,000" initiative.

THE GOAL of the campaign is to match 1,000 children currently in foster care with adoptive families. The governor launched the statewide campaign on May 17 from the steps of the Governor's Mansion during Virginia's Foster Care Month.

"Whether you're Republican, Democrat, pro-choice, pro-life, adoption can transcend those issues," McDonnell said at Tuesday's event. "Even in affluent place like Fairfax, there are children in need of loving homes."

McDonnell said the General Assembly provided $1.5 million for the campaign, and the money will be used to help prospective adoptive parents with medical and other expenses associated with adopting a child.

"I'm passionate about this," McDonnell said. "Children in foster care are there through no fault of their own, and just as much as any child, they deserve a loving, secure and stable family and home."

McDonnell noted that in 2012, 708 children were adopted from foster care in Virginia. He said that most of the 4,000 children currently in Virginia's foster care system are over the age of 10 and many a part of a sibling group. He also acknowledged the grim statistics for children who age out of the foster care system: within two years of aging out, about 25 percent will be incarcerated and 54 percent will be homeless.

"Of the 4,000 children in Virginia's foster care system, about 1,000 children are ready for, and eagerly awaiting, adoption," McDonnell said. "Each of these children deserves a secure, stable home environment. Together, we can help these children find loving families and make Virginia a better place."

Supervisor Pat Herrity (R-Springfield) and Chairman Sharon Bulova (D-at-large) sat with McDonnell and gave the welcome and closing remarks.

Herrity spoke movingly about his own experience as an adoptive parent. He and his wife, Nancy, adopted daughter Valeria in 2002 when she was 9 years old. She is now 21, and about to graduate from culinary school.

"As an adoptive parent this campaign is close to my heart," Herrity said. "By matching kids with adoptive families we are giving these children a shot at a life, a chance to stay in education, and a place to call home."

Herrity said he and his wife first met their daughter when she was playing with his sister's children. She had been adopted from Russia by a local couple, but that adoption wasn't working out.

"It was a bad situation. We met her and we started having her over to our house. The last thing I thought I'd be doing that summer is adopting a child," Herrity said. "There was a need and somebody needed to step up and help this girl."

"When she came into our lives, she didn't know the days of week or how to tell time," Herrity said during the event. "By the end of this year, she will have graduated from Indiana University of Pennsylvania's Culinary School."

Herrity admitted it was difficult for him to say "adopted daughter."

"She's my daughter, period. I asked her permission before I publicly talked about her. She said if I can help somebody else get adopted, that's okay."

NANNETTE BOWLER, director of the Fairfax County Department of Family Services, served as mistress of ceremonies for the event.

"The Department of Social Services is grateful to the governor for his leadership in heightening the awareness of the great need for adoptive homes for our foster children who are available for adoption, yet do not have adoptive placements, particularly children ages 12 to 17 years of age," said Bowler.

Currently, about 300 youth in Fairfax County are in foster care, according to county Bowler, and when children cannot return home safely, county officials attempt to provide adoption or permanent-placement services for them.

"I think anytime we can bring this issue to the forefront, especially at such a high level, it can only help to get the word out about the dire need for the children to have a loving, permanent family," Bowler said.

Small and affordable doesn't necessarily mean boring. Many furniture companies, such as IKEA, Target and Macy's, offer trendy furniture and rooms specifically designed for small living spaces, such as studio apartments. This small kitchen space is one of IKEA's recent designs on its website.

The Crossings in Charlottesville, built by Virginia Supportive Housing (VSH), is the type of affordable housing Fairfax County is considering. Hailed as a "game-changer" for homelessness and a regional solution to affordable housing, the Crossings has 60 small studio apartments with support services in a mixed-income community. Thirty units are designated for homeless clients and 30 units are available to individuals earning 50 percent or less of the area median income.

County considers establishment of residential studio option to create affordable housing options.

BY VICTORIA ROSS

In a move designed to increase affordable housing options for working-class individuals, the Fairfax County Board of Supervisors took a step toward adoption of zoning changes that would encourage the development of low-cost studio apartments.

On Tuesday, the board unanimously voted to authorize a public hearing on a proposed zoning ordinance amendment regarding residential studio units (RSUs) that will permit RSU use in various residential, commercial and industrial districts by special exception or in all planned development districts.

"There is a tremendous need for housing at all income levels in Fairfax County," Chairman Sharon Bulova said after the vote. "Permitting residential studios is an excellent way to accommodate lower income rental units and provide more housing choices for our residents. RSUs can be a great tool for providing efficiency apartments for our younger entry level workers, for seniors and others who may not need or want a lot of space."

Donna Pesto, the county's senior assistant to the zoning administrator, said the proposal would not change the building codes, and would apply to rental units only.

UNDER THE PROPOSAL, Pesto said there could be no more than 75 residential studio units in a building and a minimum of 80 percent of units have to be affordable to low-income earners, those making about $45,000 per year or less. The maximum square footage for the units would be 500 square feet, plus a bathroom and kitchen.

"As parts of the county continue to urbanize, higher densities can be achieved, which makes the inclusion of more affordable housing more practical," Pesto said.

"We see the residential studio use to be in the same zoning category as independent living facilities and nursing homes, which are all carefully reviewed and require case-by-case approval by the board," Pesto said. "The standards are pretty stringent."

According to county officials, the proposed amendment was prompted by a number of county efforts to address the issue of affordable housing for all income populations.

In the past 40 years, Fairfax County has become one of the wealthiest counties in the nation. As land prices soared, the creation of low to moderate priced housing plummeted.

For several years, county officials have grappled with housing options that will aid efforts to end homelessness, accommodate the area's aging single population, and increase affordable housing for a workforce earning less than 60 percent of the area median income (AMI).

Supervisor Jeff McKay (D-Lee) said that while he supported the amendment, he thinks there is "still

Roessler Named County Police Chief

New police chief vows focus on diversity.

BY VICTORIA ROSS
THE CONNECTION

Edwin C. Roessler, named Fairfax County's police chief at Tuesday's Board of Supervisor's meeting July 30, promised to launch a Diversity Council in an effort to recruit, promote and respond to Fairfax County's increasingly diverse community.

"Yes, we have significant gaps [in reflecting diversity in the department]. We can do a better job recruiting and we want to create more robust engagement with our county's many ethnic communities," Roessler said during a brief new conference after the appointment.

A 24-year veteran of the department, Roessler said he considered his "integrity" and "compassion" hallmarks of his leadership style, and "strategic planning" as the "backbone of my leadership style."

Roessler directed strategic planning initiatives for the department "to ensure a high standard of service delivery" as Fairfax County plans a new police headquarters in 2016 and future infrastructure growth planned in many communities throughout Fairfax.

Roessler was appointed acting police chief in March by Fairfax County Executive Ed Long.

"I am pleased to name Ed Roessler as Fairfax County's new police chief," said Board of Supervisor's Chairman Sharon Bulova. "Not only has he performed exceptionally well in his role as acting police chief, but he also possesses a wide range and depth of experience gathered over his 24-year tenure in law enforcement."

Roessler previously served as deputy chief of patrol, managing crime fighting efforts across eight district stations in addition to managing the Animal Services Division. Serving as deputy chief, he managed police emergency responses to a variety of natural disasters and tactical operational events, deployed personnel to the recent Presidential Inauguration and managed patrol assets committed to solving several multi-jurisdictional crimes.

Roessler began his law enforcement career with the New York City Department of Investigation before joining the much work to be done before we pass it.

"We need much more community input to help shape this, and I have great concerns about the impact this could have on existing neighborhoods," McKay said in an interview Tuesday night.

"It is vital that this amendment not jeopardize our residents' quality of life. I will work hard to ensure this does not negatively impact residents come November when it returns to the board, and at the same time provides vitally needed affordable housing," McKay added.

"Our board has been exploring the establishment of residential studio housing for about 10 years," Bulova said in an interview last week. "I think it's a good way to provide more affordable housing options for county residents. By advertising this for public hearing, we will initiate the process for engaging the community in the discussion.

"Let me just say, my feeling is we really need to move this forward," Bulova said.

"Small apartments have become the hot housing product in U.S. cities, where many places are marketing them under the name 'micro-units,'" Pesto said.

She added that Virginia Supportive Housing (VSH), based in Charlottesville, has built studio apartments similar to what Fairfax County is considering.

LAST YEAR, VSH unveiled The Crossings in Charlottesville, hailed as a "game-changer" for homelessness and a regional solution to affordable housing.

Opened in March 2012, the Crossings has 60 studio apartments with support services in a mixed-income community. Thirty units are designated for homeless clients and 30 units are available to individuals earning 50 percent or less of the area median income.

Each unit is approximately 360 square feet and contains a kitchenette with full refrigerator and range oven, full bathroom and closet. The building has an extensive security system, secure bike storage, off-street parking, access to public transportation and is in close proximity to the central business district.

Prior senior command assignments have included the Internal Affairs Bureau, director of the Criminal Justice Academy, managing the department's budget and human resources and leading a Patrol Bureau division that included the Animal Services Division, the Crime Analysis Unit and the construction of the Sully District Station. In addition to these command assignments, he led efforts that created the Incident Support Services program serving department members and their families, the Athletic Trainer Coordinator program and several other innovative employee support service programs.

Roessler received his undergraduate degree from Arizona State University and his graduate degree from the George Washington University. During his career he also has graduated from a variety of professional development programs including the Federal Bureau of Investigation's National Executive Institute and National Academy, American University's Key Executive Graduate Program, the United States Military Academy West Point Leadership Program and Leadership Fairfax.

Roessler's professional affiliations include the Police Executive Research Forum, the International Association of Chiefs of Police, the Virginia Association of Chiefs of Police, the Major Cities Chiefs Human Resource Committee, FBI National Academy Associates and the Society for Human Resource Managers.

"This (option) is a critical component to our housing affordability," Supervisor Cathy Hudgins (D-Hunter Mill) said.

Enjoy Tax Holiday, Donate School Supplies

Good timing to help those in need.

It is debatable whether recurring tax holidays for different seasonal needs are good policy. But since this weekend is Virginia's tax holiday on school supplies and clothing, it makes sense to take advantage of the savings, and to spread the wealth around. The savings are more significant this year with the new sales tax increases in effect as of July 1.

This year the tax holiday is Aug. 2-4. During this three-day period, school supplies selling for $20 or less per item, and clothing and footwear selling for $100 or less per item will be exempt from Virginia sales tax. There are some items that do not qualify, for example digital school supplies. See <http://www.tax.virginia.gov/> for more details.

When you are buying school supplies for your family, buy extra to donate to local families who are not able to afford to do the same. In Fairfax County, more than 40,000 students are poor enough to qualify for free or reduced price meals at school.

EDITORIAL

In Fairfax County, local nonprofits, Fairfax County Public Schools and corporate partners are collecting school supplies and backpacks. Monetary donations and backpacks are being accepted by eight local nonprofits and through local Apple and Northwest Federal Credit Union Branches, as well as online at <http://collectforkids.org/donate/> through Aug. 23. Last year the drive provided supplies for nearly 20,000 students. A $10 cash donation goes a long way.

Nonprofits partnering in this collection effort include Koinonia, New Hope Church, Northern Virginia Family Service, Our Daily Bread, Reston Interfaith, United Community Ministries, Western Fairfax Christian Ministries.

For more ideas, see the Collect for Kids website at <http://collectforkids.org>.

FACETS is also collecting contributions of money, school supplies and backpacks. Last year, FACETS gave backpacks filled with supplies to more than 300 needy students. ## New Lyme Disease Legislation Now in Effect

BY BARBARA COMSTOCK
STATE DELEGATE (R-34)

On July 1, the Lyme Disease Testing Information Disclosure Act that I sponsored this year went into effect. Virginia is now the first state in the nation to disseminate information about testing problems directly to those who are suffering from Lyme Disease. This patient-centered measure enables patients to seek additional testing, if necessary, as well as receive appropriate and timely treatment. I've already seen this information posted in doctors' offices around our area, in compliance with the new law, and other states impacted are looking to take action too.

We modeled our Lyme legislation on an earlier bill we passed which provided information to women about problems in identifying breast cancer in women with dense breast tissue. In both cases, getting more information to patients both empowers and helps them seek additional treatments or information to help them battle these diseases.

I've heard from so many people in our community who are battling Lyme. Since I first took office, I have worked with leaders throughout Northern Virginia, including our Congressman Frank Wolf and Lyme Disease prevention advocates, to increase public awareness of this public health threat. In 2011, I passed a resolution to permanently designate May as Lyme Disease Awareness Month in Virginia.

The Lyme Disease Testing Information Disclosure Act that we passed this year simply requires health care providers to notify those tested for Lyme Disease that tests can produce a high rate of false negative results. The tests for Lyme only become more accurate the longer the disease is in your body. We worked with McLean's Monte Skall and members of the National Capital Lyme Disease Association and were assisted by many of their volunteers who worked tirelessly to get their stories about failing to detect Lyme to legislators throughout Northern Virginia and the Commonwealth. It was the grassroots support and these stories that generated the winning bipartisan margin. Sharon Rainey of Great Falls, another tireless advocate who helps those in our community with Lyme Disease, was also a leader who worked with us to make this legislation a reality.

We need better and more accurate testing to help promote earlier diagnosis and treatment for this devastating illness, and are fortunate that the medical community in our area is working to find solutions. For example, in May, I joined some of my colleagues for a meeting with researchers from George Mason University's Center for Applied Proteomics and Molecular Medicine (CAPMM) and business partner Ceres Nanoscience to learn more about a new technology that will dramatically improve detection of Lyme Disease.

The lead researcher on the project is George Mason Assistant Professor, Dr. Alessandra Luchini, recently named as one of the "Brilliant 10" scientists under the age of 40 by Popular Science magazine. Her team and their partners at Ceres Nanoscience have been dedicated to refining their work on a new technology called a Nanotrap that will dramatically improve detection of Lyme Disease at much earlier stages. This testing also could lead to earlier cancer testing.

Dr. Chip Petricoin, Co-Director of CAPMM and Director of Science at Ceres Nanoscience explained the Nanotrap as a "vacuum cleaner for infectious disease markers", able to "identify evidence of the disease when it is 2000 times smaller" than what can be identified with current testing processes.

Dr. Lance Liotta, also co-director of CAPMM and Director of Science at Ceres Nanoscience, noted that use of the Nanotrap test will "dramatically reduce the false negatives of current testing processes and lead to earlier and greatly improved treatment outcomes for those suffering from Lyme Disease."

I look forward to continuing to work with doctors, members of the Lyme community, neighbors, family and friends to increase public awareness of Lyme Disease and to ensure patient-centered medical care for all Virginians.

Lyme disease is the most commonly reported "vector-borne" illness in the United States. ("Vector" refers to a toxic microbe in the blood caused by a bug bite, such as a tick bite.) The Virginia Department of Health reports that there were an estimated 1,110 cases of Lyme disease in the state in 2012, up 9 percent from 2011. And cases were reported in all regions of Virginia.

Early symptoms of Lyme disease may include headache, stiff neck, fever, muscle aches and fatigue. If left untreated or if treatment is delayed, the disease can become chronic with serious, debilitating complications, such as joint pain and swelling, heart disease, neurological problems (e.g., Bell's palsy), dizziness, irritability, ADHD-like symptoms, cognitive dysfunction, muscle weakness and neuropathy.

For more information about Lyme you can check the following resources:

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Using iPhones, iPods During School Lunch

To the Editor:

As part of a Scouting merit badge requirement to write to a local newspaper, I am writing to express my opinion about whether or not electronic devices should be allowed during lunch and other free times between classes at my school, Lake Braddock Secondary School. I think students should be able to use their iPhones or iPods during lunch, because all you're doing is eating. It's pretty boring. I don't understand why this would be an interruption. Lunch should be a break from our classes and a chance to relax. Teachers allow us to use phones during class so many of us are bringing them to school anyway. I think we should be allowed to use them during our free time, too, in-

SUMMER FUN

So, Senator, Remember, 'You're Never Fully Dressed Without a Smile!'

City of Fairfax Theatre Company produces "Annie," with surprising ties to Fairfax County.

BY VICTORIA ROSS
THE CONNECTION

Lanier Middle School was packed last weekend as nearly 400 people turned out to see local families, a state senator—and even a mayor—in The City of Fairfax Theatre Company's production and performance of "Annie."

State Senator Chap Petersen (D-34) brought down the house as he danced and sang in the role of Franklin Delano Roosevelt, and City of Fairfax Mayor Scott Silverthorne was on stage briefly to applaud the cast.

The popular Broadway musical was co-sponsored by Truro Anglican Church. Performances were accompanied by a live orchestra, conducted by Truro Anglican Church's Kirsten Boyd, and directed by Wendy Knight, the long-time director of CFTC and a former drama teacher at Fairfax High School.

"The real success story is not only the record attendance and the great performances, but the collaboration between Truro Anglican Church and the City of Fairfax Theatre Company," said Sharon Petersen, who portrayed Miss Hannigan, the showstopping role of the greedy—and sometimes hilarious—drunkard who oversees the orphanage. "It was a great example of two seemingly different groups finding that sweet spot of overlapping needs and resources to produce an amazing home grown product."

TO LAUNCH THE PRODUCTION, countless families volunteered behind the scenes corraling children, and scrounging and soliciting for props and donations.

The Petersen family was tied with the Lanoue-Chapman family in terms of family participation at 5 vs. 5. Bella Lanoue-Chapman played the starring role of Annie in one of the casts. "Annie was a blast," said Shannon Duffy, a City of Fairfax resident. "FDR was a natural, and many of his old friends were in attendance. It was a wonderful show."

Sharon Petersen as Miss Hannigan sings "Easy Street" with other castmates in the City of Fairfax Theater Company's sold-out production of "Annie" this weekend at Lanier Middle School.

The amateur cast, which was broken into two platoons, featured local actors of all ages and abilities. Sharon Petersen, Sen. Petersen's wife, portrayed "Miss Hannigan," and Petersen was FDR in both casts.

The story of "Annie," a young orphan during the nation's Great Depression in the 1930s, is not just a Broadway show, Petersen said. "It's a story which goes right to the heart of our local history in Fairfax County."

In 1933, America was in the grip of the Great Depression. Unemployment was at 25 percent. Virginia had little, if any, money for its public schools. Fairfax County was still a largely rural county of about 40,000 people, which was best known for its dairy industry. The building of the Pentagon was still a decade away.

In its first few months, the Roosevelt administration exploded with a set of initiatives, known as "The New Deal," which sought to put America back to work.

"One of the most prominent new agencies was the Public Works Administration, headed by Interior Secretary Harold Ickes, which employed millions of Americans in building up the country's infrastructure," Petersen said.

One of the first PWA projects in Virginia? A new high school for Fairfax County, on land selected by the County School Board at the "Old Country Fairgrounds" on Lee Highway in the Town of Fairfax. Petersen's great-grandfather, Fairfax McCandlish, was the Chairman of the County School Board at that time.

IN 1934, Fairfax High School opened as a new public high school. It was the county's first modern high school, with an imposing brick facade, a cafeteria and athletic fields. Over the next 40 years, more than 10,000 graduates would pass through its doors. Today, the property is owned by the Archdiocese of Arlington and serves a "Paul VI High School."

"No, Annie didn't go to Fairfax High School," Petersen said. "But the musical, which celebrates the New Deal, speaks directly to the hopes and dreams of that generation of Americans. It uses the story of Annie as a metaphor for an America, which had few material goods, but knew that 'You're Never Fully Dressed without a Smile,'" Petersen said.

The City of Fairfax Theatre Company is a non-profit organization that offers workshops and master classes by professional artists, in addition to putting on live theatrical performances for the community throughout the year. The company also hosts a summer drama camp for kids aged 5 to 14 and is home to the youth ensemble, a group of young actors ages 8 to 18.

Lisa Ellis called her quilt "Empty Nest."

Quilt Show Displays 'Sacred Threads'

Some 231 handmade quilts exploring themes of spirituality, joy, inspiration, peace/brotherhood, grief and healing were displayed during the biennial Sacred Threads exhibition, July 10-28, at Floris United Methodist Church in Oak Hill. Three Fairfax residents had quilts in the show.

WEEK IN FAIRFAX

Requejo Case Goes to Grand Jury

The case against a 23-year-old Fairfax man charged with sexually molesting a child is heading to the grand jury. He is Eduardo Requejo, 23, of Warwick Avenue and, on July 15, Fairfax County police charged him with two counts of aggravated sexual battery.

Besides working as a swimming instructor at the Oak Marr Rec Center in Fairfax since 2005, he was also a swim coach throughout the Fairfax community. But police say the alleged offenses didn't happen at his worksite; the child is an acquaintance and wasn't one of his students.

Wearing glasses, a light blue shirt and dark slacks, Requejo appeared last Thursday, July 25, in Juvenile and Domestic Relations Court before Judge Kimberly Daniel. He was scheduled to have a preliminary hearing on that date but, instead, waived his right to the proceeding. Daniel then certified his case to the next grand jury for possible indictment.

Crime Solvers 5K Fundraiser

In partnership with Capital Area Runners, Fairfax County Crime Solvers is hosting its first 5K run fundraiser and needs the community's support. Residents are encouraged to sign up now to participate in this family-friendly event; everyone is welcome.

It's slated for Sunday, Aug. 4, at 8 a.m., on Grand Commons Avenue at the Fairfax Corner Shopping Center, off Monument Drive in Fair Oaks. Register at www.capitalarearunners.com/crimesolvers5k.

A nonprofit, Fairfax County Crime Solvers provides an anonymous phone tip line, plus texting and e-mail capabilities to the public, to report criminal information. It pays cash rewards of $100 to $1,000 for tips leading to an arrest and indictment, and the reward money comes through fundraisers such as this 5K.

Fairfax Police Citizens Academy

People wanting to participate in the fourth Citizens Police Academy offered by the City of Fairfax Police Department must submit applications no later than Thursday, Aug. 15. This session will run from Thursday, Sept. 5, through Thursday, Nov. 14. Classes are from 6:30-9 p.m.

The Citizens Police Academy offers a unique opportunity to learn about the role of police and their many functions, services and capabilities. Initiated in 2007 by Col. Richard Rappoport, chief of police, the goal is to produce informed citizens and avoid conflicts caused by a lack of understanding.

Applicants must be a city resident or work in the City of Fairfax, be at least 18 and a U.S. citizen and must pass a police background check. Download an application form at <http://www.fairfaxva.gov/Police/CitizenPoliceAcademy.asp>. For more information, contact Sergeant Kyle Penman at 703-273-2889.

Woodson Graduate Finnerty to Play Basketball at Stetson

Sharps shooting guard Keara Finnerty's talents helped lead the 2012-13 W.T. Woodson girls' basketball team to the program's first Northern Region tournament berth since 2010.

After the Cavaliers defeated Lee in the Patriot District quarterfinals to clinch a regional berth, Finnerty in the semifinals made eight 3-pointers and scored a career-high 40 points during a victory against three-time defending district champion West Springfield. Woodson would finish district runner-up to T.C. Williams.

A four-year varsity athlete, Finnerty finished her high school career with 1,514 points. She was a three-time first-team all-district selection, a first-team all-region choice in 2012 and a second-team all-region member in 2013.

Finnerty, a 2013 W.T. Woodson High School graduate, will continue her basketball career at Stetson University in DeLand, Fla., where she received a full athletic scholarship. She recently participated in a Q and A with the Connection via email.

❖ Connection: What made Stetson the right fit for you?

Finnerty: The size, location and amazing sports programs made Stetson University the right fit for me. Stetson is a nationally ranked university located in DeLand, Fla. The women's basketball team has won the Atlantic Sun Division I Tournament two of the last three years and also has two NCAA Tournament appearances. The coaches and team were very welcoming and I am excited about playing basketball at Stetson.

❖ Connection: What position will you play?

Finnerty: I will play shooting guard.

❖ Connection: What is your favorite memory of playing basketball at Woodson?

Finnerty: My favorite memory of playing basketball at Woodson was our 61-43 win over top seed West Springfield in the 2013 AAA Patriot District semifinals. We hadn't beaten West Springfield in the previous nine times Woodson had played them. We worked very well together to beat a very talented team.

❖ Connection: Three-point shooting is one of your strengths. What does it take to become a good perimeter shooter?

Finnerty: To become a good perimeter shooter it takes lots of practice and sound fundamentals. The key is to first establish your shot close in, which I work on at the beginning of my workouts, and then move farther away from the basket once you have your form. Once the shot is established, I then proceed to shoot a couple hundred shots.

❖ Connection: What is your career-high for points in a game? Career-high for 3-pointers in a game?

Finnerty: My career-high for points in a game is 40 points, which I scored in my team's 61-43 win over top seed West Springfield in the 2013 Virginia AAA Patriot District semifinals. I shot 73 percent from the floor and made 8 of 11 3-pointers. My career high for 3-pointers in a game is eight, which I had in that game and several other games during my sophomore, junior and senior years.

❖ Connection: If you could go back and change one thing about your high school athletic career, what would it be?

Finnerty: I don't think I would change anything. I really enjoyed playing for coach Neri and coach Murray for four years on the varsity team and was very blessed to have amazing teammates.

❖ Connection: At what age did you start playing basketball? When did you realize playing college basketball was a possibility for you?

Finnerty: I started playing basketball on my Little Tikes Basketball Hoop when I was 2 and moved onto the taller hoops when I was 4. In first grade, I played organized basketball and moved to AAU basketball from age 9 to 17, culminating with last summer being a member of the Fairfax Stars 16U Nike Elite Premier Showcase Team. In September of my junior year, I began to realize that playing college basketball was a possibility when I received many college basketball letters of interest.

❖ Connection: What are you most looking forward to about the transition from high school to college?

Finnerty: I'm looking forward to getting the opportunity to play with and against great college basketball players. Working with them will help me learn a lot, improve my game and take it to the next level.

❖ Connection: Who is your favorite music artist? Why?

Finnerty: My favorite music artist is Luke Bryan, because I love his country music and he writes really good songs.

❖ Connection: What's your favorite movie? Why?

Finnerty: My favorite movie is "She's the Man," because I think Channing Tatum is a great actor.

❖ Connection: What is your favorite hobby outside of basketball?

Finnerty: I enjoy fishing when I get a chance. It's very relaxing and I like being out on the water.

❖ Connection: What location is the farthest you've traveled from the Washington, D.C. metro area?

Finnerty: The farthest I traveled is to New Orleans to attend our 11U AAU Girls National Championship with the Fairfax Stars.

'Regionality' of Transportation Projects Questioned

Transportation Authority approves FY2014 Project List.

BY ANDREA WORKER
THE CONNECTION

Tonight we acted to address one of the greatest threats to our region: Congestion." So spoke Marty Nohe, chairman of the Northern Virginia Transportation Authority (NVTA) and Coles District supervisor for Prince William County. Despite numerous calls to slow down the process by speakers at the public hearing before the Authority, on Wednesday, July 24, the NVTA approved the FY2014 proposed regional multimodal project list as presented and vetted by the NVTA's Project Implementation Working Group (PIWG) headed by Authority member (and Arlington County Board Member) Christopher Zimmerman.

"NVTA's approval ... is a great first step toward improving transportation in Northern Virginia," stated Fairfax County Board of Supervisors Chairman Sharon Bulova in a press release. Bulova, who represents Fairfax County on the NVTA added, "Infrastructure improvements are critical to the continued success of our region. This initial package of projects will make a difference in people's lives across the region." The Authority approved first year Pay-As-You-Go projects valued at $116 million, as well as voting for a bond package to fund an additional $93 million worth of projects.

The NVTA was established by the General Assembly in 2002 to provide a common voice on transportation for the counties of Arlington, Fairfax, Loudoun and Prince William, as well as the cities of Alexandria, Fairfax, Falls Church, Manassas and Manassas Park. Their mandate includes developing immediate and long-term plans and selecting projects that address the transportation needs of the entire region. Since its creation, there have been plans aplenty, most recently revised and published as TransAction 2040 with page upon page of proposed transportation improvements. The only thing missing was how to pay for the enormous project wish list contained in the well-researched and presented plan.

THE PASSAGE of HB2313 earlier during the General Assembly session, with a new sales tax and a variety of other taxes and fee increases earmarked specifically for transportation, finally gave the NVTA, and the residents of Northern Virginia, the means to start tackling the area's congestion problems as a whole, rather than in a piecemeal fashion. An estimated $1.9 billion will be dedicated to Northern Virginia transportation needs over the next six years, with 70 percent of the funds to be allocated by the NVTA for regional projects, and the remaining 30 percent going directly to the individual jurisdictions for local projects.

When it became clear that the NVTA would actually be able to fund and initiate

The members of the Northern Virginia Transportation Authority listen to testimony during the public hearing portion of their meeting on July 24. Twenty-one speakers addressed the Authority before the members proceeded to vote on a list of transportation projects to be funded and initiated in FY2014.

Projects Approved

Some of the projects approved for first year funding include widening sections of Route 28 to eight lanes, the purchase of additional VRE railcars, Herndon Parkway intersection improvements, Innovation Center Metrorail Station, Chain Bridge Road widening and Alexandria DASH bus expansion, representing 59 percent road projects to 41 percent transit/multimodal projects funded by Pay-As-You-Go, and 45 percent road versus 55 percent transit/multimodal for projects to be funded by bonds. The NVTA urges citizens to keep informed by frequently visiting their website at www.thenovaauthority.org, where all of the related documents and a complete list of the approved projects and their costs can be found.

transportation projects as early as July 1, the start of Fiscal Year 2014, the Authority went into high gear to solidify plans and solicit public opinion. Hearings were held throughout the region and the public was given opportunities to study the proposals and comment by testimony before the Authority, and by other written and electronic means. Over 200 public comments were received and considered by the PWIG between June 6 and July 22. On the night of the final public hearing, an additional 21 speakers added their testimony before the Authority.

At the previous public assembly in June, many of the speakers used their allotted time to either praise or protest specific proposals. At this pre-vote public hearing there was acknowledgement of the efforts of the Authority and the many others who worked to obtain this funding and to bring the projects to the table, but a large number of speakers recommended that the Authority not approve the project list without further study and consideration.

Virginia Delegate Bob Marshall (R-13)

was one speaker who advised a slower approach and a clearer explanation of how the projects were chosen and vetted. "I have re-read the law ... the NVTA is not required to spend any funds made available in fiscal year 2014 in the year of 2014. "Marshall's conclusions suggested that the Authority consider saving funds toward more long-range projects that

"NVTA's approval ... is a great first step toward improving transportation in Northern Virginia."

— Fairfax County Board of Supervisors Chairman Sharon Bulova

could better use the money in terms of efficiency and moving more people." Marshall also indicated that in a review of the documents on the NVTA website he was unable to find any clear objective scoring by which each project was selected. (Member Zimmerman later remarked that explanations could be found in the appendices of the TransAction 2040 Plan.)

Delegate Jim LeMunyon (R-67) echoed some of the sentiments expressed by his colleague. He praised the cost per benefit substantiation of two of the proposed projects but stated his concern that 95 percent of the proposals did not carry the same level of analysis. "It's a qualitative 'yeah, it'll get traffic moving a little bit better.'" When it comes to stating the benefits of a project, LeMunyon says the Authority is missing a word. "It's not how will the project reduce congestion. It's how much," he said, suggesting that the Authority consider these analyses before approving their final project list. "Until you answer the 'how much' question I don't think you can comply with the law."

QUESTIONS WERE RAISED about the "regionality" of some of the projects, like bus shelters and improvements to pedestrian pathways. Eileen Curtis, representing the Dulles Regional Chamber asked that a formal definition of the term "regional" be added and applied to the workings of the Authority. Brian Gordon, representing the Apartment and Office Building Association of Metropolitan Washington also called for additional project selection criteria going forward to ensure that chosen projects were truly regional in their scope and impact, as did Leo Schefer, president of the Washington Airports Task Force. Others, like Mark Scheufler of Manassas Park, commented on projects that appeared to benefit locales outside the Authority's jurisdiction. "Why is the NVTA accelerating the schedule of a funded VDOT project to help a jurisdiction that is not in the NVTA tax district?" questioned Scheufler. "If these are the best projects in the queue," he added, "I am not sure why there was such a dire need to raise the sales tax in Northern Virginia."

Several speakers also cautioned the Authority on its plans to fund projects through a bond package. David Birtwistle, CEO of the Northern Virginia Transportation Alliance urged the Authority to wait until long-range plans were reviewed and better defined as regionally significant before moving forward with the issuance of bonds.

When the last speaker concluded his remarks, the Authority listened to presentations from its working groups and consultants. Zimmerman, as head of the Projects Implementation Working Group, took this time to review the history of the NVTA and to defend the regionality and selection process of the projects recommended for implementation in the first year. Zimmerman referred to TransAction 2040, the Authority's long term planning document, saying that it contained within its technical indices the quantitative measuring methods applied to the more than 200 projects outlined in the plan, with additional information regarding the regional merits of each proposal.

In addition to approving the proposed project list in its entirety, the NVTA also approved the funding methods—both Pay-As-You-Go and by Bond as recommended. They approved the authorization for the initiation of a bond validation proceeding, the appointment of the FY2014 Technical Advisory Committee members, bond counsel, and John Mason, former mayor of the city of Fairfax as the interim executive director. Mason had previously served as the Authority's executive director in 2007-2008.
