Fairfax County Public Libraries: Version 2.0?

Staff, volunteers urge supervisors to reconsider “disastrous” library reorganization plan that cuts staff and services.

BY VICTORIA ROSS
THE CONNECTION

In a world where the Internet has replaced newsprint, e-books have supplanted paperbacks and the latest films stream directly to laptops, how do public libraries compete?

Like almost every other institution, public libraries are adapting. Self-check-out, online renewal and computer catalogues have replaced the fusty file drawers of index cards and leather-bound periodicals of the past.

“I think changes have to be made to the way libraries operate — to accommodate ways people get their information, do research and use libraries as community centers,” said Sharon Bulova, Fairfax County Board of Supervisors chairman, on Monday, Aug. 12. She cautioned that any change, however, “needs to be done with the engagement of our staff and the community.”

But the changes proposed by the Fairfax County Public Library administration — which include reduced staffing and cross-training staff members — have sparked outrage among library volunteers, staff and patrons who call the plan “misguided,” and a “radical reinvention” of the library system.

CRITICISM OF THE PLAN has been building since July, when Library Director Sam Clay unveiled a program that would test a new organization model this fall at the Burke Centre Library and the Reston Regional Library, the busiest library branch in the county. The reorganization, Clay has said, streamlines staffing while retaining a high level of service.

“It includes a one-desk model of customer service, with cross-trained staff answering account and information questions, and increased programming conducted within the branch as well as in the community,” Clay said.

In response to questions and criticism of the reorganization, Clay and his staff prepared a list of Frequently Asked Questions (FAQ). In the document, Clay said there are multiple factors driving these changes.

“The way customers use the library has been changing over time; technology is having a major impact on library customers and staff with 76 percent of customers now checking out their own materials. The county is still undergoing a budget crunch, and the library is required to reduce its annual budget,” reads the FAQ document.

“Libraries in general are at a pivotal crossroads as we are called upon to meet the changing needs of our customers, brought on by technology and the Internet while providing resources with shrinking tax dollars. Libraries all across the country are trying new ways of operating,” Clay stated in the document.

Safari Bingo creates a gigantic bubble around the head of a librarian at a children’s event at Burke Centre Library in June 2013. The library is scheduled to be one of two libraries tested with a reorganization plan on Sept. 1. That plan has been put on hold after criticism from library volunteers, staff and patrons.

Braddock Supervisor John Cook, who met with library supporters, said Fairfax County Public Libraries are facing the reality of budget restrictions and “are adjusting to the fact that with the Internet and electronic books, libraries are changing ....”

But critics of the plan maintain that the “sweeping changes” proposed by the library board will have “disastrous effects on the quality of library service that Fairfax County residents expect and deserve.”

On Aug. 3, a group called “Friends of the Library” launched an online petition urging the Library Board of Trustees to halt the reorganization plans and reevaluate the changes. The petition states:

“For the good of the community, this plan must be re-evaluated with thorough input from those who will be affected by the changes. This petition serves as a chance for library patrons, staff and friends to make their voices heard.” By Tuesday morning, Aug. 13, 547 people had signed the petition.

“The lack of input, transparency and respect is the greatest fatal flaw in the whole plan. ... This entire plan is hugely unpopular with staff, volunteers and patrons,” said Charles Keener of Oakton, an information assistant at Tysons-Pimmit Regional Library who has worked in the library system for nearly 40 years.

One widely criticized proposal in the reorganization: lowering the educational standards for librarians. Instead of requiring a master’s degree of library science for librarians, the job description will say that the advanced degree is “preferred,” but not “required.” Clay has said the change will allow more flexibility in hiring.

Keener counters it will “dumb down” the library and take the “librarian out of the library.”

Scott Railton of Great Falls, a long-time library patron who contacted the Connection on Monday, agrees.

“Who would believe you can replace professionals with untrained clerks and retain quality? Current advancements in technology simply will not suffice to replace libraries and professional librarians,” Railton said.

“We are concerned that the drive to economize in this way will not serve the library, the county or the public in the long run,” said Jennifer McCullough, president of the Fairfax County Public Library Employees Association, who addressed the Library Board at its June 2 meeting. “Will a library system that does not require any librarians on staff flourish, or will librarians prefer employment in localities that still find an MLS degree necessary...?”

LIBRARY STAFF AND VOLUNTEERS have been meeting with Fairfax County supervisors — who appoint the 12 volunteer members of the Library Board of Trustees — urging them to hold off on tests and hold public hearings on the proposed changes.

“Those who use libraries and pay for libraries need to be included in decisions which will drastically change the character and quality of library services. Parents have a right to be part of any decision to eliminate youth services staff,” said Keener.

Kathy Kaplan, a Reston resident and library volunteer who is actively involved in Fairfax Library Friends, said the group is already working with the union on a post-card campaign, online petition, email campaign, web site and other ideas to reach out to the broader public and get their input on changes to the libraries.

“One reason staff and Friends are only now organizing a response is that they were unaware of plans until they were dropped like a ‘bombshell’ not long ago. People can’t formulate a reasonable response to such a massive proposal overnight. It takes time for information to be absorbed, understood and reacted to,” Kaplan said.

Kaplan said the effort is picking up steam. Early Tuesday, Aug. 13, she said in an email that the fall calendar for the Fairfax League of Women Voters and the Fairfax libraries are on the schedule for Oct. 1 for discussion at all localities in the county, on an emergency basis.

“We are moving heaven and earth to delay this,” Keener said. “I have never seen lower morale or greater anxiety, fear, discouragement and anger from our staff. ... We want people to contact the library board and to contact their supervisor. Tell everybody breathing what’s happening at the library.”

It’s likely the Board of Supervisors will consider a motion at its Sept. 10 meeting, the day before the library board’s monthly meeting on Sept. 11, requesting further community outreach through public hearings or other forums, according to several Fairfax County officials.

Fairfax County considers new "resident curator" program to save historic properties.

BY VICTORIA ROSS
THE CONNECTION

George Washington slept here. He really did. And Mount Vernon, the first president's historic Northern Virginia estate, is the nation's most-visited historic home.

While not many properties can compete historically with Mount Vernon, Fairfax County is the site of many historic homes, farms and estates, from the Revolutionary War era through the American Civil War. But preserving historic homes can be prohibitively expensive, and are not for the financially timid.

In an effort to preserve publicly owned historic buildings, Fairfax County is currently drafting a plan for a resident curator program. If established, the county would make history as the first locality in the state to implement one.

THE FUNDAMENTAL IDEA behind the resident curator program is to take some of the burden of maintaining historic properties off taxpayers by offering individuals and entities the opportunity to rehabilitate and maintain deteriorating buildings, at their own expense, in exchange for a long-term lease for little or no rent.

"A successful resident curator program would allow the county to restore, maintain and protect important historic properties at little or no cost to the public," said Cindy Walsh, Fairfax County Park Authority's Resource Management Division director. "In return, a curator will have an opportunity to live or conduct business in a property in Fairfax County that perhaps offers a great lesson in the history of the county."

In addition to preserving significant historic buildings, Walsh said they could be put to practical use as residential, office or commercial space depending on how they are planned and zoned, community input and other factors.

Under the program, curators would be required to provide opportunities for the public to visit and tour the properties in order to appreciate and understand their historic and architectural significance.

"Fairfax County, through a variety of means, continues to demonstrate its commitment to cul-how the program should operate.

After the resident curator plan is developed, the Fairfax County Board of Supervisors will determine the next steps for the proposed program.

“We encourage interested parties to join in the discussion and attend one of the two meetings,” Walsh said. “We are interested in diverse viewpoints and suggestions and hope in the long run we will find the perfect blend of past and present.”

The county hired John Milner Associates Inc. to write the plan, which is expected to be completed by May 2014. It will address a number of issues, including candidate properties and selection criteria; how the program should be administered; potential tax incentives; and responsibilities for potential curators and the county.

IN 2011, the Fairfax County Board of Supervisors directed staff to work with the History Commission to evaluate a Resident Curator Program. In conjunction with the commission, the Fairfax County Department of Planning and Zoning and Fairfax County Park Authority are jointly managing this study.

For more information, visit the Resident Curator Implementation Study web page, or call the Park Authority Public Information Office at 703-324-8662, TTY 711.

What is a ‘Resident Curator Program?’

Resident curator programs identify publicly-owned historic properties with no immediate or practical public use and through an open and competitive process, select outside parties with skills, resources and vision to rehabilitate a property in accordance with accepted preservation standards for historic buildings. In exchange for rehabilitating the property, the curator gains use of the property and pays little or no rent. The county’s plan will set out standards for properties to qualify for the program, as well as identify specific sites as candidates. At a minimum, they must be eligible to be listed in the county’s Inventory of Historic Sites.

To learn more about the program, plan to attend one of two public meetings:

◆ Thursday, Aug. 22, 7 p.m., Frying Pan Farm Park Visitor Center, 2709 West Ox Road, Herndon

◆ Tuesday, Aug. 27, 7 p.m., Green Spring Gardens Park Horticulture Center, 4603 Green Spring Road, Alexandria

Library Mission

Further cuts to library budget must be analyzed for impacts on families in need.

The current proposal to “streamline” services at Fairfax County Public Libraries comes on top of disproportionate, and some would say Draconian, cuts since 2009.

Here is a summary of those cuts from the library department’s own strategic plan:

“In FY 2010, ... the library’s budget was reduced by 15 percent. Drastic adjustments to staffing levels occurred. Virtually all of the library’s exempt part-time staff were lost and with them, the flexibility needed to operate libraries under existing hours of operation. Consequently, hours of operation were reduced 19 percent. ... In FY 2011, the library’s budget was reduced an additional 6 percent. Additional staff were lost and operating hours reduced again by 9 percent. ... With a more stable budget outlook, the focus has shifted from survival, to becoming as vital to the lives of Fairfax County residents as possible.”

In 2012, Fairfax County libraries welcomed 5,246,854 visitors to library branches, and loaned 13,034,816 items.

In Fairfax County, where nearly 20 percent of the households have annual income of under $50,000, about 8 percent live below the poverty line and more than 47,000 public school students are poor enough to qualify for subsidized meals, the public libraries are indispensable. Access to library resources goes beyond books, and includes the very digital access that many people cite as a threat to libraries. Public access to computers and to the Internet for those who do not have other access is a critical service.

According to a 2010 report, Opportunity for All: How the American Public Benefits from Internet Access at U.S. Libraries, funded by the Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation:

❖ 44 percent of people in households living below the federal poverty line ($22,000 a year for a family of four) used public library computers and Internet access.

❖ Among young adults (14–24 years of age) in households below the federal poverty line, 61 percent used public library computers and Internet for educational purposes.

❖ Among seniors (65 and older) living in poverty, 54 percent used public library computers for health or wellness needs. “People of all ages, incomes, races, and levels of education go to the library for Internet access

“This access has also proven to be critical in times of disaster, where libraries may be the only access point still operating that can provide a delivery point for government and social services to those displaced.”

Budgeting and restructuring must take into consideration the disproportionate effect of cutting library services on lower income households especially. But it is also true that the libraries are vital to all residents.

On Federal Dollars In Virginia

We received some emails and phone calls about the expansion of Medicaid in response to last week’s editorial. Many asserted that Virginia should not accept federal dollars for its residents without health insurance in order to help control federal spending.

Virginia already receives more federal money per capita than any other state except Alaska. Virginia received $136 billion in federal funds in 2010, more than $17,000 from the feds per capita, and paid $2,807 per capita in federal income taxes. (Data from Consolidated Federal Funds Report for Fiscal Year 2010 by State and County from the Census Bureau, analyzed by 247wallst.com)

Two examples: $1.3 billion in federal transportation money came to Virginia. Virginia was on the receiving end of more than $5,000 per capita in defense spending. Do the people (who almost certainly have their own health insurance) who think that we should turn away federal money to expand Medicaid think we should lobby to reduce defense and transportation spending in Virginia to help control federal spending?

MKIMM@CONNECTIONNEWSPAPERS.COM

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Skeptical on Medicaid

To the Editor:

Judging by your editorial [“Issues That Matter: Mental health services discussion gives insight into real differences between candidates,” Connection, August 7-13, 2013], gubernatorial candidate Ken Cuccinelli has a real problem with a key demographic: voters who believe in Santa Claus, the Tooth Fairy and the Easter Bunny. You fault Ken for being skeptical of what you see as Virginia’s opportunity to expand health care for poor residents, with the bill paid by the federal government. Would that it were so.

Ken is trained as an engineer and given the opportunity will be Virginia’s Innovation Governor. By training and experience he knows what works and what doesn’t in the real world.

Yes, the federal government is supposed to pay the full cost for Medicaid expansion during the first three years (2014-16) but the costsharing rate would be reduced from 100 percent to 92.8 percent by 2019.

Medicaid is already the largest budget item for the states, accounting for 22 percent of their budget expenditures as of 2010, and recent studies such as that by Jagadeesh Gokhale of the Cato Institute suggest that for some states, even without any expansion, Medicaid expenditures are already unsustainable. Moreover, the unprecedented federal budget deficits projected through 2019 and beyond put Medicaid support for states and all other general revenue-supported federal programs at risk. Therefore, perhaps you will forgive Ken for looking forward a bit and being skeptical of what you apparently regard as free money.

With respect to mental health, Ken has an outstanding, demonstrated record of personal dedication. He has served on the Virginia Supreme Court Commission on Mental Health in the Justice System and has personally represented individuals in Virginia’s civil, involuntary commitment process.

Finally, perhaps we should be at least a little careful as to what we wish for. A University of Virginia study shows that surgical patients on Medicaid are 13 percent more likely to die than those without any health insurance at all.

Learning About Vegan Cooking

Workhouse Arts Center in Lorton offers a variety of culinary classes.

BY STEVE HIBBARD
THE CONNECTION

Chef Kathleen Linton, 52, of Lorton teaches culinary arts classes at the Workhouse Arts Center in Lorton—everything from “Cajun-Louisiana Secrets” to “Cooking with Beers” to “Catch the Burger Craze.”

Last Saturday, the specialist in Southern and Thai cuisine held a one-day workshop on vegan cooking. The cost was $65/Workhouse member; $75/nonmember, and $25 for the cost of food.

For those who aren't familiar with vegan, Linton explains: “Nothing with a mother. No milk, no dairy, no eggs, no meats and no cheese.”

Using a calm, no-pressure-style teaching approach, she added: “My theory on cooking is if you learn the basics, you can cook any type of cuisine at all.” And if you make a mistake? “Nine times out of 10 you can correct it.”

THE MENU for the vegetarian class included: tofu and peppers with spicy peanut sauce, stuffed garden zucchini with spinach and walnut pesto, artichoke and tomato bisque, old bay tofu “fish” cakes, and vegan lemon sugar cookies for dessert.

Patricia, 50, and Ken Smalls, 54, of Lorton were learning to prepare artichoke and tomato bisque. “I wanted to eat healthy, and taking a vegan course taught me to do that,” said Ken, a program analyst with the OPM in the district.

The class showed proper preparation, cooking and safety techniques—like using the appropriate knife and the importance of using fresh ingredients.

“I always double or triple it when it comes to using fresh herbs,” said Linton. “It makes a huge difference with flavor. I always use fresh ingredients, never dry.”

This is the first cooking class for Patricia Smalls, an occupational therapist, who learned short cuts like cutting up vegetables all at once. “This is a way to get a variety of different ideas; I've never cooked with tofu before,” she said.

This was also a first for Terry Holman, 55, of Lorton, who works at the Department of the Interior. She said she learned some new vegetarian recipes, like soups, and how to do vegetables in a different way. “I'm going to bring a stool the next time,” she said. “The tables are too high.”

Lynn Boyd, 55, of Manassas attended with daughter Catherine of Lorton. The dental office administrator made recipes using zucchini and tofu. “I was afraid of [tofu],” she said. “I had no idea what to do with it.”

Her daughter Catherine, a defense contractor, learned to distinguish between silken tofu and firm tofu as well. What appealed to her was cooking with other students: “I never cooked with big groups before. That was interesting how everybody had a skill and how it came together to make a recipe,” she said.

Chef Linton's son Branden, 21, was the designated dish washer during class. He says he's learned a lot from his mom, and considers himself an intermediate chef. His favorite foods to prepare are grilled steaks and burgers. “I like simple stuff, he said. “Whenever we go to the global market, I know what things are used for,” he added. He makes a point to say that he's not a total foodie snob—including in Sheetz gas station cuisine on occasion.

So how did their recipes turn out? When the

Outdoor Elegance Meets Cutting Edge Technology

A design/build team explores fine architecture in weather-resistant materials.

BY JOHN BYRD

If anything in the summer of 2013 points to still evolving homeowner expectations, it may be the frequency with which locals are integrating screen porches, patios, fire pits and outdoor kitchens into original landscaping schemes that artfully marry the house to its setting.

Gone are the days of minimal outdoor improvements; today's homeowners are inclined to stay put and express themselves—which is why the traditional house as we've known it is becoming more personalized—in short, a home.

“It's a real renaissance,” said Craig Durosko, founder and chairman of Sun Design Remodeling Specialists, and one of the housing industry's more prescient trend spotters.

“Interestingly, when we started this company in the 1980s our core specialty was opening up views and creating visual continuum, so indoor/outdoor solutions are just a logical extension of what our culture has always been about.”

Asked about current projects, Durosko said that Fairfax County's more affluent homeowners are actively seeking to better articulate the relationship of the house and grounds—an impulse which has gradually become a passion for outdoor spaces that can be used in both the hottest days of summer and fall's chilly nights.

“Homeowners want outdoor rooms—spaces that are wired for entertainment, useable for seven or eight months of the year, and so easy to maintain that the usual repair and replacement tasks are mostly eliminated,” Durosko said. “Naturally, the changes must also enhance the home architecturally.”

To meet a rising criteria, Durosko and colleagues constantly stay on top of a new generation of weather-resistant materials, absorbing and applying fine building techniques that will shape non-traditional materials into designs perfectly suited to the home's style and setting.

The overall design, as Parker envisioned, perfectly elaborates the home's classic architecture while spotlighting the impressive “English garden” that dominates the backyard. The existing barbecue grill remains steps from either the kitchen or the porch, but now there are multiple dining venues. From the porch, in fact, the owners can keep an eye on the pool when the children are playing.

“WE THINK OF AN OUTDOOR living plan is a creative response to an owner's personal requirements,” says Bob Gallagher, whose extensive design/build portfolio extends back some 25 years. “The important point is not how much of it is open or enclosed, but how well the whole supports a lifestyle in which exposure to nature is the primary goal.”

A recent dining decking plus sunroom solution in Oak Hill illus-

Bringing the outdoors inside: a light-filled sunroom boasting views in all directions opens to a spacious dining deck. The sunroom features a gas fireplace and a custom-designed skylight that fills most of the ceiling. The owners find it an ideal spot for cool weather nature-watching.

McLean—Parker imagined a six-sided pavilion, with 10-foot ceilings and sweeping vistas.

The structure would segue from the preexisting sunroom, courtesy of two sets of matching French doors. The white exterior trim is now crowned with a white balustrade visually connected to a columned “arbor trellis” that adds definition to the rear elevation. Since the high-ceiling interior the owners wanted precluded a conventional “pitched” roof—which would have obstructed a second floor window—Parker designed an inverted membrane ceiling that accommodates internal drainage tied into the existing underground system.

“They had looked at screen porches,” Gallagher said. “The idea was an enclosed space on the new dining deck. Something of a place apart. A transitional foot print between house and open air.”

As the conversation developed, however, extending the room's seasonal usefulness gradually became a rising aspiration.

“If we could create a dramatic connectedness to nature and extend the room seasonally, we were heading to the right solution,” Gallagher said.

“To keep sightlines from the kitchen uncluttered, for instance, Durosko situated the grilling deck immediately outside the kitchen door, flanking the new screened porch to the right. From the grilling deck, a stairway descends eight steps before arriving at a landing where it splits in two directions.

“A steeper descent would have undermined the project's proportionality,” Durosko said.

At ground level, the staircase re-connects with a semicircular stone planter. Several “built” features were designed to accommodate new landscaping. The curvilinear patio segues to a second platform crowned with an eight-foot stone hearth perfect for fire gazing.

The screen porch, meanwhile, demonstrates how durable materials can be shaped to meet demanding aesthetics. A Trex “transcend” railing with black aluminum balusters was selected since it won't interfere with views by reflecting light. Fiberglass charcoal screen, likewise, preserves an element of privacy.

Pressure-treated southern yellow pine flooring undergirded with screen mesh assures that bugs stay out. A fir-beaded tongue-and-groove wood ceiling lends the open-air setting a natural burnish.

Durosko chose paneled Hardiboard for the porch's inside wall—a neutral backdrop for the wide-screen plasma TV mounted next to a window that serves as a food and beverage pass-through.

“Fairfax County residents are using their outdoor settings more than ever,” said Durosko. “Our job is to show homeowners how to stretch the seasons, and savor nature's changes.”

Mormon Church Youth Group Visits Historic Sites

From June 20-22, 220 youth from The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saint (LDS) youth, ages 14 to 18, from seven local congregations in Annandale, Burke and Springfield traveled to Kirtland, Ohio, to visit and tour the city that was both home and church center to the fledgling Latter-day Saint church from 1831-1838. To practicing Mormons, it is a sacred place.

"It was an opportunity for the youth to see where their ancestors toiled and how they dealt with the tremendous challenges they were given," said Hank Molinengo, second counselor in the Annandale Stake Presidency.

The youth visited historical sites such as the Newel K. Whitney store, which was one of the places, Mormons believe, that Jesus Christ and the Heavenly Father appeared. They also had a sacrament meeting (Sunday service) in the Kirtland Temple, which was built by the LDS people in their poverty and at great personal sacrifice during the turbulent years of difficult economic conditions and intense persecution. The youth also participated in a service project while there.

The youth were given free access to all LDS historical sites and had an opportunity to search, ponder and pray about what Kirtland meant and represented to the LDS people back in that day and to them today.

"I loved every single minute of the Youth Conference. It was so wonderful to constantly be surrounded by youth that have the same standards as I do. I really enjoyed getting to know my friends better and making completely new friends. Kirtland itself was a great learning experience because I was finally able to put a place to the name that I had heard so many times when learning about church history. This whole trip strengthened my relationship with the people in my church and with God, and I am very thankful to have had that opportunity," Kate Garney of Springfield said.

Jake Tyler of Springfield said, "I really enjoyed learning about the history of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints. I more strongly appreciate how hard the early members worked to set its foundations. I am fascinated at how there are millions of people who have been touched by the church now based on the work of the few people in Kirtland, Ohio. I wish I could have stayed longer since you can't learn everything there in only three days."

Cooking Classes at Workhouse

cooking finished in about two hours, the students sat down to eat their creations on plastic plates. They could also wrap up the leftovers to take home with them.

"It's just lovely," said Patricia Smalls. "The tofu is quite tasty with the peanut sauce."

Her husband agreed: "I can taste all of the spices and freshness in this bisque. I just love it."

"It's exquisite," said Holman of the colorful veggies. "It's flavorful; it's healthy. It combines vegetables I would never have thought of combining."

One of seven children, Linton learned to cook in her family growing up because that meant she didn't have to clean. She started a catering business at age 18, and received a grant to attend FCTI, a culinary school in St. Augustine, Fla., where she later taught cooking. She's been catering for 20 years and teaching cooking classes for 10 years. Inspired by TV's Julia Child and "The Galloping Gourmet," she even had her own TV show, "Kathleen's Cuisines," in Florida. In September, she'll be preparing dishes at Scripts Organic Café, owned by Janet Dobbs at the Workhouse Arts Center.

STARTING THIS FALL, Linton will be teaching classes at the Workhouse, "Healthy Cooking Classes" and "Tour of World Cuisine," which includes "Meet the Mediterranean," "The Flavors of France," "Inspired Indian Cuisine," "German Cooking," "Italian Delights," "Cajun-Louisiana Secrets," "Lebanese Cooking," "Southern Comfort Food," and "Paella and Tapas."

She also teaches private classes and culinary field trips with Girl Scouts for grades 2-11, and for ages 5 and up, "Scary Halloween Treats," "Christmas Cookie Exchange" and "Gingerbread Houses," which have been displayed at Mount Vernon in the past. For Valentine's Day, she'll be teaching ages 16 and up on "Aphrodisiac Appetizers" and "Surprise Your Sweet-heart."

Lake Braddock QB Henderson Settling Into Comfort Zone

Bruins loaded with talent entering 2013 season.

BY JON ROETMAN
THE CONNECTION

In 2012, Caleb Henderson was a junior quarterback at Lake Braddock and a high-profile college football recruit.

He was also a kid getting acclimated to a new school, new classmates and a new offensive system while trying to decide where he would play at the next level.

Henderson played his sophomore season at West Potomac but transferred after his father, Eric Henderson, was informed he would not return as head coach. Caleb Henderson became the starter at Lake Braddock and led the Bruins to the Patriot District title and the No. 2 seed in the Northern Region playoffs. However, Lake Braddock lost at home in the opening round to No. 7 Oakton, which went on to win the region crown.

Nine months later, Henderson is entering his senior season as the Lake Braddock signal caller. He's Lake Braddock quarterback Caleb Henderson is committed to the University of North Carolina.

familiar with his teammates, coaches and the Burke secondary school. He made a decision about his football future, committing to the University of North Carolina. He's playing in a different offensive system again, but he'll have a familiar face helping him along the way as Eric Henderson, who was the Bruins' defensive coordinator last season, has moved to offensive coordinator.

"He's comfortable with who he is and he's comfortable with being a Lake Braddock Bruin," head coach Jim Poythress said at a recent practice. "Last year, he was trying to transition, his brother [linebacker Jon Henderson] was here, his dad's trying to transition, but now they all have a year under their belt. They're familiar with everything we do. It's a lot easier. It's been much smoother that way."

THE LAKE BRADDOCK FOOTBALL TEAM is again loaded with talent and it starts with Henderson, who is ranked No. 186 in ESPN.com's list of the nation's top 300 recruits in the class of 2014. At 6-foot-4 and 217 pounds, he received four of five stars and a grade of 83 out of 100. ESPN ranks Henderson as the 11th-best quarterback in the class.

"I feel a lot more comfortable because I know everyone," Henderson said. "I know how I can throw to AJ [Alexander], I know how I can throw to Ryan [Antonellis], I know how I can throw to Vince [Sica]. They're all different players, they all catch the ball differently, they all run their routes differently, and now that I've had a whole year to get to know them and lift with them and run with them, it really instills confidence in me to know how I can throw to them."

Poythress said Henderson has matured.

"Last year, he would just blow up when things didn't go his way," the head coach said. "I think he's much more in control of himself and he's friends with all these guys now. He had a whole year where he's hung out with them and done things with them outside of school. They've played tons of seven on seven games, so there's some chemistry there."

Henderson played for his father at West Potomac, but Eric Henderson didn't call plays for the Wolverines that year. This season will be the first time the two have worked together from a play-calling standpoint at the high school level.

"Sometimes it gets heated just because that's my dad," Caleb Henderson said of their quarterback/offensive coordinator relationship. "Sometimes I disagree with him, but usually—all the time—I'm wrong [and] he knows the offense a lot more than I do.

First couple days were getting a little rough, but now I'm just getting through his play calls, learning what he wants me to see and just trusting him."

CALEB HENDERSON will be playing behind a sturdy offensive line. Poythress, who is also the O-line coach, said each of the five starting linemen can squat at least 500 pounds. Junior center Randall Bills is one of the lighter players in the group at 250 pounds. Senior right guard Lance Hammond can bench press 380 pounds, and 340-pound senior left guard Reece Burnett can bench press 400. Junior right tackle Caleb Montemayor and senior left tackle Michael Wold will also start.

Alexander is one of the Bruins' top receivers. The 6-foot-3, 210-pound junior said he has received an offer from the University of Virginia. Sica and Antonellis are also pass-catching threats.

Senior Trevor O'Brien, junior Dejun Lee and senior Jon Carrier could see time at running back.

On defense, Poythress called senior Dwight Lomax a physical "specimen." The 225-pounder can bench press 350 and will move from linebacker to pass-rushing end. Junior edge rusher Ian Reilly could also be an impact player up front.

Tim Coulter and Kyle Edwards will likely be the safeties. Senior linebackers Kevin Hankton and Patrick Farrell could be impact players.

Lake Braddock will play in 6A North's Conference 7 after the VHS's six-class realignment. The conference is composed of seven of the eight members which comprised the former Patriot District (Lee moved to 5A North's Conference 13).

The Bruins will travel to scrimmage Osbourn at 6:30 p.m. on Thursday, Aug. 15 and Seneca Valley (Germantown, Md.) on Aug. 23 before opening the season at Robinson at 7:30 p.m. on Aug. 30.

"I think there are certain years when you're hoping to get into the playoffs, and then there are years where you're expecting to get into the playoffs and then you're expecting to make a run," Poythress said. "I thought last year's team could move forward in the playoffs and we got Oakton first and they were kind of a buzzsaw. ... I think this group is more advanced than that group."

Caleb Henderson also believes in the Bruins: "If we stay consistent and do what we do and execute, we can beat anyone, I think."
