On June 18, a final public workshop was held at McNair Elementary School in Herndon to provide the results and final recommendations of the Herndon Metrorail Stations Access Management Study (HMSAMS) effort. Fairfax County officials sought public input on bike and pedestrian access to Herndon's Silver Line Metro station. The first workshop was held at Herndon Middle School at Locust Street on March 26.

"There is a benefit in planning so far ahead," said Kris Morley-Nikfar, Transportation Planner with the Fairfax County Department of Transportation. "The results of this study will be one of many tools used by government staff to make funding recommendations to the Fairfax board of supervisors." It was also one of the final meetings of the Herndon Metro Advisory Group, a group of 15 citizens formed to guide the study in coordination with Fairfax County Department of Transportation (FCDOT) staff, making sure diverse interests of the study area were addressed and represented.

The Silver Line will be a 23.1-mile Metrorail extension connecting the Tysons, Reston, Herndon, and Dulles Airport areas of Fairfax County to the regional Metrorail system. The Silver Line is being constructed by the Metropolitan Washington Airports Authority (MWAA) in two phases. The Herndon Station and Innovation Center Station are metro stations both part of Phase 2 for the Silver Line. With construction of Phase 2 of the Metrorail Silver Line project approaching, there was imminent need for a plan to enhance bicycle and pedestrian access for the two future Metrorail stations in Herndon. The Herndon Station and Innovation Center Station are metro stations part of Phase 2 for the Silver Line.

Metro took control of the Silver Line May 27, starting a 90-day testing and training period. Wiehle-Reston East in Reston will be the end of the Silver Line for at least five years. Phase 2 is expected to be complete in 2018, taking passengers to Reston Parkway, Herndon, Route 28, Dulles International Airport and Ashburn.

"I think the results were consistent with the feedback," said Kristin Eddy, a resident of Herndon and bicycle enthusiast. "I think being able to give our input and have our voices heard was satisfying. What will be gratifying is to see the studies come into fruition for bicyclists and pedestrians." The consulting firm of Kimley-Horn and Associates, Inc. worked with the Advisory Group to identify, confirm, and guide the analysis and development of recommendations. "I think the county is taking a great approach on making sure the metro stations are accessible by foot and bike," said David Whyte, a transportation planner with Kimley-Horn and Associates, Inc.

Approximately 200 persons completed an online survey for possible pedestrian and bicycle corridor improvement projects. According to the survey, an improvement of a pedestrian bridge at the Dulles Toll Road and Monroe Street crossing was the most popular pedestrian corridor project for the Herndon area. Winning the most votes in the northern area of Herndon was a shared-use path to support multiple recreation opportunities including walking and bicycling for the Sugarland Run Trail Extension to the Herndon Station. The most popular bicycle corridor project in the southern area of Herndon was a bike lane at Sunrise Valley Drive from Fairfax County Parkway to the Innovation Center Station.

current Herndon-Monroe Park and Ride parking garage and bus station, on the south side of the highway. The Innovation Center WMATA station will be located adjacent to the Virginia Center for Innovative Technology at the intersection of the SR 267 and SR 28 near the Fairfax/Loudon county line. They are scheduled to begin operation in 2018.

Jeffrey J. Fairfield, a resident of Herndon, was one of the local citizens in the advisory group who studied with FCDOT staff transportation options. "It was very well executed," said Fairfield. "I think it will give county planners a lot to work with. Now the challenge will be the resources." Metro General Manager and CEO Richard Sarles announced the opening date for the Silver Line service to be Saturday, July 26. The five new Silver Line stations will open to customers at noon, and the first Silver Line train will depart Wiehle-Reston East, bound for Largo Town Center.

Dream Big, Hornets Told

Herndon High School class of 2014 graduates.

Social Studies teacher Sara Cranford told Herndon High School's graduating class three things: to dream big, give big and honor their parents.

Herndon High's Class of 2014 graduated at George Mason University's Patriot Center on Monday filled with advice on living their lives and achieving their dreams.

"Dream big and prepare to work hard for your dreams," she said.

Cranford told the students about how world-renowned basketball player Michael Jordan did not make his high school's basketball team the first time he tried out his sophomore year. However, once he made the school varsity team, colleges from all over the country were clamoring for him.

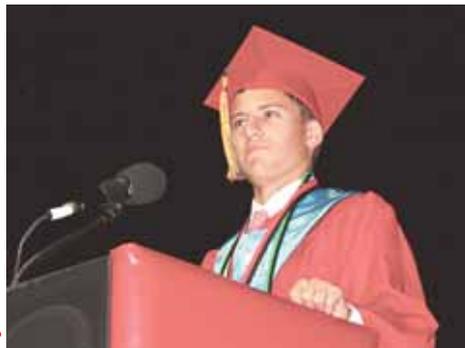

"Be the Michael Jordan of whatever it is you want to be," she said.

She urged the students to go home and thank their families for the support they have gotten for the past 17 or 18 years.

"It will be your family who will be there to celebrate your happiest moments in life and your family who will be there to help you through the most difficult," said Cranford.

She noted that each generation has its traits, and that their trait is idealism, while her generation is known for their cynicism.

"As a cynic Gen-Xer, I admire your idealism," she said. "I admire it and I envy it. As you go forward in your life, hang on to that idealism. Believe in yourself, believe in others, believe in the future and believe that the best is yet to come."

Retiring faculty, distinguished scholars and those committing themselves to the military were honored to thunderous applause as they stood, their faces gazing upwards towards the crowds.

The class gift is money to replace the water fountains by the athletic fields. Student Government Association President Emily Caron said many students remember their mistakes as a freshman in gym class trying to drink out of those fountains. She said "more water sprayed on your shoes than in your mouth," and that students will be proud when they come to a home game to see their class year printed on the brick encasing the new fountains.

Class President Andrew Goldman, student speaker, talked about how every student begins school hoping they will be the best at everything they do.

"When we entered high school, our greatest hope was to excel at everything we tried," he said. "We thought that the most important thing to discover was what we were good at. I think, however, that we learned the most about ourselves when we realized and accepted what we were bad at."

Discovering weaknesses, he said, were the best ways to discover strengths.

"As we move forward now, as Herndon High alumni, we must challenge ourselves, find our true calling from those missteps. I hope you all feel today as I do, that our high school graduation is not the end, but rather, our beginning," Goldman said.

Eagle Scout Project Collects Electronic Hardware

Community and friends hold successful electronic recycling event.

Approximately 20,540 pounds of electronics were collected for recycling at an electronics recycling drive held June 21 at Trinity Presbyterian Church, in Herndon. The event was planned by Herndon High student Zach Knox as part of his Boy Scout Eagle Service Project. “The most challenging part was figuring how to get fliers for the event out,” said Knox. Knox is a member of Boy Scout Troop 1577 which meets on Monday evenings at Trinity Presbyterian Church, located on 651 Dranesville Road in Herndon.

“What is interesting is seeing some of the old technology,” said Jon Claus, an assistant scoutmaster with Troop 1577 and Eagle Scout project coach for Knox. “We had over a hundred vehicles come by to drop off things,” said Claus. “My role was to offer guidance to Zach, he made all the decisions in this project.”

The Eagle Scout Service Project, or more simply the Eagle Scout Project, is an opportunity for a Boy Scout, Varsity Scout or qualified Venturer in the Boy Scouts of America (BSA) to demonstrate leadership of others while performing a project for the benefit of his community. This is the culmination of the Eagle Scout candidate’s leadership training, and it requires a significant effort on his part. The project must benefit an organization other than the BSA, but it cannot be performed for an individual or a business, be solely a fundraising project, or be commercial in nature.

Over 30 persons helped volunteer in the event, which took almost a year to plan and prepare for. The electronics including TVs, monitors, radios, computers, phones, digital cameras, copiers, hard drives, and speakers were driven to the Lorton I-95 Recycling and Disposal Center. “It has been everything we hoped for and more,” said Troop 1577 scoutmaster and Herndon resident Rich Pierce. “It has gone far above expectations and it was nice to see a lot of neighbors show up.” Troop 1577 is a premier scout Troop in the Herndon Reston community, and has 8 to 10 Eagle Scout projects a year.

cycled,” said Grant Bommer. Fairfax County residents can recycle televisions, computers and peripheral devices and unbroken fluorescent light bulbs and tubes on Electric Sundays. Thousands Watch World Cup Match in Reston Town Center Leidos and D.C. United viewing session.

More than 4,000 squeezed into the pavilion area Sunday evening to watch the United States play against Portugal in the FIFA World Cup game they thought was a U.S. win.

Portugal came in 30 seconds before the game ended, putting an end to the events festivities quickly with a 2-2 tie.

The event started to the beat of drums and chants by D.C. United's La Barra Brava and Rep. Gerry Connolly.

"I believe the U.S. will win today," he said to the crowd. "What do you think?"

The event, which showcased the U.S. team's second game in the World Cup, was organized by Leidos, a D.C. United sponsor this year.

Viewers celebrate a U.S. goal during a World Cup viewing party Sunday in Reston Town Center.

"This is more than we hoped for," said Leidos Vice President and Director of Communications Melissa Koskovich. "Our company, Leidos, is a world company. Soccer is one of the most aggressively growing sports in the world."

The event included a meet and greet with D.C. United's players, family zone for children and two outdoor screens in the pavilion for soccer enthusiasts or just those who were curious about the game.

Reston Resident Brett Seward was among the group that does not usually follow soccer statistics. "I don't pay attention to soccer," he said. "Just the World Cup. The number of people here is incredible."

Even those who were not decked in the most red, white and blue seen outside Independence Day were jumping and screaming whenever Portugal's advances were blocked or when the U.S. team scored a goal.

Carlos Rivera, soccer fan, said he was not prepared to see the crowd when he made the decision to go to the event.

Although he was dressed in the home team's colors, he thought Germany was going to win the World Cup.

"We've been slowly creeping our way to the front," he said, jokingly. "I grew up on soccer. The kids grew up on soccer. The World Cup brings everyone out."

OPINION

Safe Fourth

Talking and planning are the best safety measures; SoberRide offers a safety net.

Independence Day is a national celebration, and for many, that celebration includes alcohol. The summer overall and July 4 in particular are times of greater risk for drinking and driving.

Make a plan. Plan to celebrate with access to public transportation. Plan to have a designated driver. Plan to celebrate in a place safe and comfortable to spend the night.

But in case those plans go awry, here is a safe alternative.

The Washington Regional Alcohol Program will offer free taxi rides home (up to $30) beginning 10 p.m. the night of July 4 for six hours until 4 a.m. the morning of July 5. Participants must be at least 21. Call 1-800-200-TAXI.

On July 4, 2013, nearly 300 people used WRAP's SoberRide service rather than possibly driving home impaired.

In summer, 44 percent of all U.S. traffic deaths are caused by alcohol-impaired drivers, according to statistics provided by WRAP. SoberRide is a way to help keep local roads safe from impaired drivers during this traditionally high-risk holiday.

For parents of young adults who may be living at home and parents of those under 21, this is time to talk. Ask about plans, ask specifically about getting home. Remind those over 21 to take the WRAP phone number with them.

While you hope that young adults under 21 aren't drinking — because there are lots of dangers to binge drinking beyond drinking and driving — you know that many of them will be drinking. Let your younger family members know that you would much rather pay for a cab or come get them yourself than run the risk of losing them.

Since 1993, WRAP's SoberRide program has provided 60,565 free cab rides home to would-be drunk drivers in the Greater Washington area.

100K Reasons to Find People Homes

BY MAURA WILLIAMS
INTERIM EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR/FACETS

Sandara was scared of her spouse so she fled and left her life and job behind. Tom suffered from an undiagnosed disease that cost him his job, home and life savings. These unfortunate events led to both becoming homeless and living in the woods of Fairfax County. That's where on a cold winter morning volunteers organized by FACETS and other local nonprofits found them while participating in the 100,000 Homes Fairfax: A Home for All Campaign, which is part of the national 100,000 Homes program, which counts, photographs, and interviews the chronically homeless in an effort to end homelessness.

Fairfax County has nearly 2,900 people who are homeless—14 percent of whom are chronically homeless. Over the course of three mornings, our volunteers met and interviewed more than 400 people who are chronically homeless. The findings were used to create profiles of people to ensure that each individual experiencing homelessness is counted and that their progress in finding housing and services can be better tracked.

Maura Williams

Supporting the County's 10-year plan to end homelessness, the 100,000 Homes Campaign is focused on building efficient local systems that target resources to individuals who are most vulnerable. Campaign partners are committed to getting half of the people most vulnerable who are chronically homeless in supportive housing in three years—which will save money and possibly lives.

Already we have seen success. With the data collected by staff and volunteers, we were able to connect Sandara and Tom with services that have helped them regain their lives, safety, and dignity. Less than a year later, we celebrated with each of them and 16 others at a housewarming celebration, hosted by FACETS, a nonprofit that opens doors by helping those who suffer the effects of poverty in Fairfax County.

During the housewarming, we welcomed these neighbors experiencing homelessness into their own apartments through our new program called TRIUMPH II Housing, which also provides supportive services. These recent successes have propelled the community to meet our goal of 50 people housed in a year—and we still have two years to go for this campaign with a goal of housing 50 people each year!

We also had the chance to celebrate the program's nationwide success. Last week, I attended an event in DC with Becky Kanis, the director of the national 100,000 Homes program, to announce a major milestone as the 100,000th person—a vet who has been homeless from Arlington, Va.—moved into housing through this ambitious effort. In announcing the milestone, she emphatically declared: "We can forever dispense with the Neanderthal view that people don't deserve or aren't ready for housing."

Although the "100,000" number sounds big, it's the people part that makes it special. Through this campaign, we are able to put a local face on homelessness with real stories about real people. Some are grandmothers, fathers, sons, daughters, and friends. Many work and others have protected our nation. When we met them, they lived in cars, encampments or on the streets, but they continued to smile and seemed hopeful that our caring community would help find them a home. And for 100,000 of them and counting, we have.

This summer audiences can cozy up to a delightfully bold Summer Cabaret Series at Herndon's Industrial Strength Theatre. The Series will showcase national and Northern Virginia musical talent including Herndon High School graduates.

According to Evan Hoffman, artistic director of Herndon's NextStop Theatre Company, and area performing artist Jim Van Slyke, there will be about 18 concerts "featuring an eclectic mixture of Broadway stars, nationally acclaimed cabaret artists and some of the finest local singers in the D.C. Metropolitan area."

"I wanted to both provide a new type of program for patrons and provide another venue for the remarkable singers and musicians in our community to demonstrate their remarkable talents. There was nothing like this available in the Dulles Corridor before now!" said Hoffman.

Van Slyke has lived in the Northern Virginia area for nearly two decades and has traveled the world as an entertainer. He has performed at renowned venues such as Birdland and the Friar's Club in New York City and the White House. He has toured with Neil Sedaka and will bring his own Neil Sedaka tribute to the Cabaret series as well.

"It provides an entirely different perspective and will introduce our community not only to some amazing artists but a theatrical and musical experience that is not easy to find in the metropolitan D.C. area!" said Van Slyke.

To give a hint at the talent there is Erin Driscoll who grew up in Herndon and is a leading lady of the musical theatre scene in the D.C. area.

Kim Staley, a Herndon native, who has toured the East Coast fronting Big Bands will be front-and-center.

Along with Kate Merryman, another Herndon High grad and graduate of George Mason University, who has performed on area stages.

Helen Hayes awardee Tracy Lynn Olivera will bring her powerhouse voice and Darden Purcell, a Northern Virginia-based jazz vocalist who serves as Director of Jazz Studies at GMU will entertain.

Bev Cosham and Terry Allen both regulars in the local DC-area cabaret scene will perform too.

From Broadway there will be Karen Mason who has starred in Broadway shows, including "Mamma Mia!" and "Hairspray."

Sally Mayes, a Broadway legend who was nominated for a Tony Award for her performance in "She Loves Me" will be In Herndon too.

2013-14 High School Sports Season Produces Memorable Moments

BY JON ROETMAN
THE CONNECTION

The 2013-14 high school sports season was full of memorable moments and accomplishments, including an undefeated record and national ranking for the Centreville football program, an emotional return to the state tournament for the Woodson boys' basketball team, and the first state championship in the history of T.C. Williams boys' soccer.

The following is a look back at some of the highlights from around Fairfax County.

Fall Sports

The Centreville football team crushed the competition in 2013, going 10-0 with an average margin of victory of 38 points during the regular season. The carnage continued in the postseason, as the Wildcats defeated South Lakes, South County, Stonewall Jackson and Westfield on their way to the Virginia 6A North region championship.

In the Group 6A state championship game, Centreville throttled nationally-ranked Oscar Smith 35-6, capturing the program's first state title since 2000. The Wildcats finished with overwhelming advantages in total yards (338-88), rushing yards (327-14), and time of possession (34:02-13:58).

The victory improved Centreville's record to 15-0 and jumped the Wildcats into the No. 15 national ranking in USA TODAY.

"It's certainly the best team that I've ever been around in 21 years of coaching high school football," Centreville head coach Chris Haddock said. "... We actually talked to our kids a lot about our place in history and setting a higher standard and that's something that the kids wanted to do. They wanted to make history. I don't know where you place us in the all-time teams, but we're certainly one of the best in Northern Virginia and we're definitely the best at Centreville."

Centreville center Josh Smith, guard Kainoa O'Connor, running back/kick returner AJ Turner, wide receiver/defensive back Charles Tutt, and linebacker Tyler Love earned VHSL all-state honors. Linebacker Chad Wiggins was the 6A North region and Conference 5 Defensive Player of the Year, and quarterback Scott Walter was the conference Offensive Player of the Year. Haddock received conference and region Coach of the Year honors.

In golf, Connor Messick, Juhee Bae, Vishal Giri and Mike Sciorra helped Chantilly win the Virginia 6A state championship. Sciorra won the individual state title, and Bae won the girls' state championship.

In field hockey, Westfield won the first state title in Starr Karl's decorated coaching career, which includes more than 300 wins in 24 seasons. The Bulldogs defeated two-time defending champ First Colonial 2-1 in the Virginia 6A state final.

In cross country, the Chantilly boys' and the Oakton girls' teams captured Virginia

6A state titles at Great Meadow. The W-L girls' team produced the best finish in program history, taking state runner-up. Oakton senior John Stoney won the boys' individual championship, and West Springfield senior Caroline Alcorta won the girls' individual title with a meet-record time of 17 minutes, 13 seconds.

"I was just hoping to win," Alcorta said. "I didn't expect to get the course record."

In volleyball, Langley won its first state championship, beating First Colonial in the Virginia 6A final. The Saxons became the first team from the old Northern Region to win a state title.

"I think the fact that most of the players had been to states the year before helped a lot with preparation and the mental aspect of the game," Langley head coach Susan Shifflett wrote. "Obviously, we were very talented, as well. First time I have ever had two outstanding outside hitters (Jessica Donaldson and Rachel Andrejev). Sisi Holderman (libero) really stepped the second half of the season. And of course, there is Alex. That helps a lot."

Winter Sports

Members of the W.T. Woodson boys' basketball team dealt with the death of two classmates during the 2014 6A North region tournament. While the tragedies affected the emotions of several Cavaliers, the team found a way to continue winning and eventually captured the program's second consecutive region title.

Woodson secured a berth in the Virginia state tournament by defeating Herndon 63-62 in overtime in the region semifinals. The following evening, Woodson defeated Lake Braddock 66-56 in the region final. The Cavaliers had lost their previous three matchups with Lake Braddock by a combined eight points.

"[I'm] really happy for our kids, really happy for our school community," Woodson head coach Doug Craig said. "This was a very difficult week. The fact that our Cavalry (student section) was out in such great numbers says a lot about the school community. To give them an hour-and-a-half, hour-and-45-minute distraction tonight, something to feel good about, that's what sports is supposed to be about at the high school level."

The Wakefield boys' basketball team won the 5A North region championship and advanced to the Virginia state tournament for the second consecutive season. The Lake Braddock boys' basketball team repeated as Patriot District/Conference 7 champions. The Herndon boys' basketball team won the Conference 5 championship and finished with a 23-3 record. The West Springfield girls' team reached the state tournament for the fourth time in five years. The South Lakes boys' and girls' basketball teams won Conference 6 championships.

In wrestling, Robinson won its third Virginia state championship in four years. Rams' heavyweight Jake Pinkston won his fourth consecutive region championship, reached the state final for the fourth straight year and won his second state title.

Centreville junior Tyler Love, after winning a state title with the football team in the fall, captured the 195-pound state wrestling championship.

In gymnastics, Washington-Lee won its third consecutive region championship and finished third at states. McLean finished region runner-up for the third straight year, and placed second at states. T.C. Williams, fielding its first complete team since the early 1980s, won the Conference 7 championship.

"I just remember being a freshman and having to compete with other teams," T.C. Williams junior Grace Girard said. "Now I have my own girls to compete with and it's a great feeling."

South County's Collea Burgess won the 6A North region all-around title. Hayfield's Molly Overstreet won the individual bars state championship, and Westfield's Katie Freix finished third in the all-around.

In swimming, the Oakton girls' and Robinson boys' teams took home state championships. In Maryland, the Wootton girls' team won a state championship, edging rival Churchill. The Wootton boys' team finished runner-up.

Spring Sports

The T.C. Williams boys' soccer team entered the 2014 season with hopes of getting past the region quarterfinals. The Titans took care of that — and then some.

TC won the first state championship in program history, beating Washington-Lee 2-0 in the Virginia 6A state final.

The Centreville girls' team reached the 6A championship match, but fell short against Battlefield, 0-0 (4-3), in a penalty-kick shootout. The Wildcats finished region and state runners-up despite winning just three of their first 10 matches.

The South County softball team won the program's first state championship, beating previously undefeated Cosby 4-1 in the 6A final. Stallions pitcher Rebecca Martin finished her high school career with another gem in the circle, tossing a complete-game three-hitter while striking out 10. Catcher Haylea Geer hit a momentum-swinging solo home run in the fourth inning.

In lacrosse, the Robinson boys' and Westfield girls' lacrosse teams won state championships. Westfield defeated Oakton 13-11 in the girls' final after losing to the Cougars in the Conference 5 and 6A North region championship games. Robinson started the season 1-3 before closing with 17 straight victories, including a 9-7 win over Langley in the state final.

In baseball, Chantilly won the first region championship in program history and reached the Virginia 6A state final. McLean reached the state semifinals, the furthest postseason advancement in program history.

In track and field, T.C. Williams brought home the Virginia 6A boys' state championship. The South County girls' team finished state runner-up. In Maryland, the Wootton boys' team finished 4A state runner-up.

In tennis, the Lake Braddock boys' team defeated Langley in the Virginia 6A state final. The Oakton girls' team finished state runner-up. Oakton's Adrien Bouchet won the boys' singles championship, and Lake Braddock's Jacob Daugherty and Long Huynh won the boys' doubles title. Oakton's Lizzie Stewart won the girls' singles title and Stewart and Lindsey Le won the girls' doubles championship for the Cougars.

In their signature royal blue caps and gowns and Kelly green sashes, over 500 South Lakes High School seniors crossed the Patriot Center stage and joined the ranks of high school graduates Wednesday, June 18: 114 seniors were “Honor Graduates,” meaning that they had a cumulative grade point average of 4.0 or higher, according to Kimberly Retzer, principal of South Lakes High School. Many graduates also earned International Baccalaureate diplomas.

After processing in to “Pomp and Circumstance,” the graduates and their hundreds of family members, friends and teachers were addressed by the first speaker: Dana Walker, assistant principal of the Class of 2014.

“Let’s recall our first few weeks as freshman when many of us were tiny, scared, worried, quiet, clueless — yes, we truly started from the bottom, and now we are here,” Walker said, paraphrasing a popular song by Drake. “This class will be remembered as creative and bright, challenging, athletic, talented, and extremely unique,” he added.

The graduates are all headed in different directions, and they all come from different places, Walker said. Some will attend college, while others are entering the military or the workforce. Some graduates are the first in their families to graduate from high school or attend college, he said.

THE FIRST STUDENT SPEAKER, Melissa Thomas, spoke of the “everlasting family” that she felt a part of — the Seahawks community. She reflected on her first day of high school and the confusion and fear she battled with her friends and classmates, as well as how much she and her peers have grown since then. “Here we are,” she said. “We did it.”

Antonia Nagale, the second student speaker, began her speech with a selfie from the podium with her classmates behind her, sparking many laughs from the audience. “Well as I approached the podium today, I couldn’t help but think to myself, let me take a selfie,” she said. She went on to talk of the selfies from her past four years and the change they showed.

Comparing high school to “the toddler years,” Nagale spoke of how coloring inside the lines is no longer an expectation. “I hope you learned to be the kid who scribbles on the edges of the page, the one who is not afraid to create color outside the constraints of black and white,” she said to her classmates.

THE BRUCE BUTLER LEADERSHIP award was awarded by the faculty of South Lakes High School to Megan DeSisti for her outstanding scholarship, leadership and service. “Adjectives that describe Megan include bright, gracious, caring, talented, passionate and hardworking,” Retzer said, adding that counselors and teachers had recognized her acceptance of other students and work to “better the lives of those around her.”

An honor graduate and IB diploma candidate, DeSisti will be attending the University of Virginia in the fall. “Megan doesn’t do things halfway,” Retzer said. “It’s just not her style.”

As for the graduates’ future, “set your own unique course,” Walker said. “Have the confidence to be different. Celebrate your successes. Embrace your failures, and learn from them. Speak up for yourself and the voiceless. Look beyond yourself, and make good decisions ... I see greatness in each one of you.”

"One Less Thing"

By KENNETH B. LOURIE

Forrest Gump knew when he voiced over: "Mama got the cancer and died on a Tuesday. I bought her a new hat with little flowers on it. And that's all I have to say about that." And if you watched the movie as often as I did (it was one of my mother's favorites), you may also recall "Mama always said you got to put the past behind you before you can move on." However, as regularly as I try to follow Forrest's and his Mama's sage Greenbow, Alabama advice, being a real-life cancer patient, some days are more difficult than others, especially when your oncology nurse calls the you the day before your every-three-week chemotherapy infusion to tell you that some of the levels tested for in your every-three-week, pre-chemotherapy lab work are abnormal (creatinine too high, GFR too low) which may put a stop to the treatment this week. And if there's one psychological crutch I'll admit to having, it's the need to not miss any of my regularly-scheduled infusions or any of the other scans or miscellaneous appointments as a means not to my premature end.

Although this potential blip in my lung cancer trip has happened previously: white blood cell count too low, potassium too high, blood work hemolyzed; which also led to re-tests, new prescriptions, stoppage of treatment, etc., hearing it is never good news. Among other considerations, it means complications and likely delays concerning things that yours truly, as the patient, doesn't want to think it means: trouble with a capital "T." Nevertheless, the experience is not unfamiliar and mostly the results have been overturned on appeal, if you follow my drift. Still, until the new results are posted and/or the new prescription is filled or the infusions continue, it's difficult to put the past behind you because the present won't let you.

After the initial disappointment has passed, Ron, my oncology nurse, and I discuss my options since medically speaking, everything needs to be re-confirmed. I opt for a re-test immediately in the hope that a second test – a day later, that very day in fact – would provide whatever time my body and/or the lab needed to determine that my results did indeed fall within the normal parameters, for me, and so the infusion could go on – in, actually. If the results are unfortunately still too high/too low, we have a plan for that but since neither Ron nor I are inclined to beat the rush and panic now, we'll patiently (no pun intended) wait for the re-test's results. And since my blood work is always "STAT" (a.s.a.p. for you lay people out there), we'll receive confirmation by 4 p.m. this afternoon, more than enough time to still maintain my infusion schedule for tomorrow and move forward, which for those of us being actively treated, is crucial. At least to this patient, it is (in my head, anyway).

Approximately four hours after my conversation with Ron, including the 45-minute drive to the lab, the 30-minute wait to be drawn and then the 10-minute drive home, Ron calls to tell me that he'll see me tomorrow. The re-test came back normal and we can all proceed with the infusion – and caution as usual. Whether you take Roloids or not, you can spell r-e-l-i-e-f now. Now whether a week's delay due to the levels in my lab work would have actually mattered in the short, middle or long term infusion schedule, one certainly can't know. At least now, I can go forward and not worry as much about the past since we're presently on track once again. Life really is like a box of chocolates. Although I like the caramels and soft centers best.

Meet the new face of lung cancer

Theresa never imagined she could have half of her lung removed through a tiny incision, be up and walking less than an hour later, and home the very next day.

When tests revealed she had lung cancer, Theresa Ott, 50, underwent a minimally invasive surgery with renowned thoracic surgeon Sandeep Khandhar, MD.

Walking immediately after surgery reduces post-operative pain considerably and Theresa was no exception. She is back to her life - pain free and beyond cancer.

With data-driven research and personalized care, Inova is delivering the future of health.

“The whole time I felt like an individual, never a number. Thanks to Inova, we have access to the most advanced medical care right here in Northern Virginia.”

-Theresa Ott, Springfield, VA
