Express Lanes, Transit Planned for I-66

Improvements will be made from Capital Beltway to Haymarket.

BY JANELLE GERMANOS
THE CONNECTION

Express lanes and rapid-bus transit could be coming to Interstate 66, Virginia Governor Terry McAuliffe announced on July 17. “Interstate 66 is broken. Commuters are stuck in traffic, limited in the travel choices they can make and unable to predict how long their trip will take on any given day,” McAuliffe said. “Giving Virginians more choices and a better, safer travel experience on I-66 is one of my top priorities, and today I am proud to announce the beginning of that effort.”

The plan, which includes three regular and two express lanes in each direction, bus service, and improved commuter parking, would be implemented from the Capital Beltway to Haymarket.

“Today’s announcement that we could be starting construction by 2017 on Express lanes like solution to I-66 congestion is outstanding news. I-66 is our most congested corridor and this gives me great hope that we can improve the quality of life for all Northern Virginians,” said Supervisor Pat Herry (R-Springfield.)

The project, which spans 25 miles, will cost an estimated two to three billion dollars. The express lanes would operate similar to those on Interstate 495 and those being constructed on Interstate 95, which base the cost of the toll on time of day and congestion.

“I have been a longtime advocate for an ‘Express Lanes’ like solution for I-66 which would open this corridor up to reliable time advantaged mass transit and carpooling, extend a growing network of lanes dedicated to mass transit and carpools, and ease congestion on I-66 and surrounding roads like Route 50, Route 29 and Braddock Road,” Herry said. “I want to thank Transportation Secretary Layne for continuing to keep this project a priority for the Commonwealth of Virginia.”

Officials announced the plan at a meeting at VDOT’s Fairfax office on July 17.

“Over the last couple of months the Virginia Department of Transportation has worked closely with the Department of Rail and Public Transportation, the Office of Transportation Public-Private Partnerships and Fairfax and Prince William counties to devise a plan that will reduce congestion on I-66 by increasing capacity and giving travelers more choices. Today we kick off 17 months of rigorous environmental study and robust community involvement. By the end of 2016 our plan is to complete environmental work, identify funding sources, receive federal approval, and move forward on a plan to turn I-66 into the efficient, multi-modal corridor that Virginia’s economy needs,” said Virginia Secretary of Transportation Aubrey Layne.

Express lanes on Interstate 95, which will run from Stafford County near Garrisonville Road up to 395 near Edsall Road, are expected to open in early 2015. All drivers will be required to purchase E-ZPass or E-ZPass Flex in order to use the lanes, and only vehicles with three or more passengers can ride toll free.

Realtors: Numbers Indicate Stable Housing Market

June home listings climb, with slight dip in sales.

The Northern Virginia market recorded increased inventories, providing buyers with more choices. Nonetheless, buyers are challenged by affordability and accessing credit.

The June market in Northern Virginia continues the trend of sales numbers coming in just under those from one year ago at this time, but the signs of a stable market have led to an increase in sellers planting signs on their lawns.

"It is all about managing expectations," said Lorraine Arora, Managing Broker at Long & Foster Real Estate in Springfield. "Some buyers are nervous. When houses are priced correctly, homes will sell." Arora explained that since there was no activity in winter months, there was pent up demand for this region's early spring season. Now, she explained, prices are higher but not all sellers are getting their full price. Buyers are less willing to engage in bidding wars.

The housing affordability may continue to be a challenge in the region, said Mary Bayat, 2014 chair elect of the Northern Virginia Association of Realtors. "While the slightly rising home prices indicate an improving market, people are just not making quick decisions to buy." Bayat, a broker/owner of Bayat Realty in Alexandria, also noted that the current tight mortgage regulations have been a drag on buyers' loan process. She noted that mortgage standards are under scrutiny by industry and housing groups at this time.

The Northern Virginia Association of Realtors reported on June 2014 home sales activity for Fairfax and Arlington counties, the cities of Alexandria, Fairfax and Falls Church and the towns of Vienna, Herndon and Clifton.

A total of 2,174 homes were sold in June 2014, a 12.90 percent decrease below June 2013 home sales of 2,496.

Active listings continued to show an increase this month compared with 2013. Listings were up 47 percent over last year, with 4,777 active listings in June, compared with 3,247 homes available in June 2013. The average days on market for homes in June 2014 was 30 days, an increase of 25 percent compared to the 24 days on market for homes in June 2013.

Average home sale prices increased slightly this June to $580,013. This is up 3 percent compared to June 2013, when the average price was $563,223.

The median sold price of homes this June, which is $505,000, rose by 1 percent compared to the median price of $499,900 in June 2013.

The 2,047 new pending home sales in Northern Virginia in June is a decrease of 9.62 percent compared with 2,265 contracts that were pending in June of last year.

Give Blood, Give Back to Community

When Mitch Kiefer was 6, his 3-year-old brother Brent was diagnosed with leukemia.

Brent recovered, but Kiefer remains committed to helping others suffering from similar illnesses.

Now, Kiefer, a student at Paul VI Catholic School in Fairfax, is planning a second blood drive in Clifton in honor of his brother.

"Most of the time when he needed blood, it was there for him. I feel like for everyone who needs blood, it should always be there for them," Kiefer said.

Along with help from friends and family, Kiefer hosted a Panther Pints blood drive in April. The next drive will be Aug. 1 at St. Andrew the Apostle Catholic Church in Clifton from 2:30-7 p.m.

"INOVA was really great to my family, and I want to do this as a way to give back," Kiefer said.

At the last blood drive, 44 participants were eligible to donate blood.

"It was a great turnout,"

Kiefer said.

Brent has been supportive of his brother running the blood drives, and thinks it's a great idea.

"It was there when he needed it, and he's really happy that I'm doing this. He also thinks that there should always be blood for those who need it," Kiefer said.

Kiefer points out that his school, family and friends have helped him when it comes to organizing the blood drives.

"Only three percent of people donate blood on a regular basis, so it can be hard to find people to donate," he said. "Some people, depending if they've been out of the country or have health problems, can't donate, but I think a lot of it is that people think it takes too much time. I really wish more people would donate on a regular basis."

The goal for the Aug. 1 blood drive is 50 appointments, and

Jacob Augelli, an eighth grade student at Robinson Secondary, finished in fourth place overall in the 2014 United States Geography Olympiad, junior varsity division. The competition consisted of two parts: a written exam and a quiz bowl tournament; Augelli placed sixth in the exam and tied for seventh in the quiz bowl tournament; overall scores were compiled by averaging each competitor's ranking for each part. Over 70 junior varsity students from as far away as Guam competed in the written exam and in a preliminary quiz bowl round, while those with high scores advanced to the final quiz bowl round. Questions ranged in difficulty from naming countries by their capital to identifying obscure islets in the North Atlantic. The top four varsity students earned the right to represent the USA at the 2014 International Geography Olympiad in Krakow, Poland, this summer. The Geography Olympiad was sponsored by Houghton Mifflin Harcourt and HISTORY, commonly known as the History Channel, which also sponsors the National History Bee and Bowl. ## Tragic Consequences Money lost by refusal to expand health coverage, but also life, health and livelihood.

The Virginia General Assembly's refusal to expand Medicaid, extending health coverage to as many as 400,000 Virginians has resulted in the loss of about $1 billion in direct payments.

But that understates the loss, failing to calculate the cost of the lost health of thousands of Virginians.

Consider one relatively young man, treated by the Health Wagon, who is losing his vision to untreated diabetes because he has no health coverage, his diabetes went undetected for years and can't afford monitoring or medicine. Once diabetes begins to take its toll, it cannot be reversed. Once the man is blind and unable to work, he will likely be covered by Medicaid because he is permanently disabled.

The Centers for Disease Control says chronic illnesses are "the nation's leading causes of death and disability, leav[ing] in their wake deaths that could have been prevented, lifelong disability, compromised quality of life, and burgeoning health care costs. ... Heart disease, stroke, cancer, diabetes, obesity, and arthritis are among the most common, costly, and preventable of all health problems."

EDITORIAL

Consider the hundreds or thousands of Virginians who are not receiving routine care or screenings of any kind, whose cancer or high blood pressure or heart disease or diabetes, or even mental illness, rob them over time of their ability to work, to care for themselves or their families. Many will die of illnesses that could have been prevented or treated. The human toll is incalculable, unbearable and unnecessary.

It is unfair that health coverage depends on what state you happen to live in, that an ideologically driven General Assembly can determine your fate. If you are poor and live in a state that has chosen to accept expansion of health care with Medicaid, you have health insurance, for example in the bordering states of West Virginia, Kentucky and Maryland. But if you are poor and live in Virginia, or one of the other states that has refused to expand Medicaid, you are out of luck, out of health and possibly out of life.

Business groups and chambers of commerce around Virginia, including the Fairfax County Chamber of Commerce, support the expansion of Medicaid in Virginia under the Affordable Care Act. One persuasive factor for the business community is that expansion would create an estimated 30,000 jobs and pump hundreds of millions of dollars into Virginia's economy. Hospitals support expanding Medicaid which would offset many of the costs of caring for uninsured populations.

In Virginia, Medicaid eligibility for adults without disability is almost nonexistent, limited to parents with incomes below 51 percent of poverty, or about $11,900 a year for a family of four, according to the Kaiser Family Foundation. Adults without dependent children remain ineligible regardless of their income.

Under the Affordable Care Act, people with incomes 100 - 400 percent of poverty qualify for subsidies on their health insurance premiums when they purchase coverage through a Marketplace. Because the Affordable Care Act envisioned low-income people receiving coverage through Medicaid, people below poverty are not eligible for Marketplace subsidies. As many as 400,000 adults in Virginia fall into the coverage gap because they don't qualify for Medicaid under Virginia's rules, among the most stringent in the nation, but earn less than the poverty rate, so not enough to qualify for subsidies.

'Living Wage' Tough to Achieve in Northern Virginia

Housing and job opportunities needed to relieve poverty.

BY MARY AGEE

NORTHERN VIRGINIA FAMILY SERVICE PRESIDENT AND CEO

On the surface, Martha Ordon is living the typical Northern Virginian life. She works as a medical receptionist at a doctor's office in Fairfax, and talks proudly about her 16 year-old daughter, a socially-active junior who plans to study business in college when she graduates. The reality is a little bit more complicated.

Martha and her daughter moved to Fairfax in 2008 from Louisiana. Her friend had urged her to make the move to Northern Virginia, telling her about the fantastic quality of life: the great schools, the strong job market and the sense of community. What her friend hadn't mentioned was the high cost of living. In Louisiana, Martha had worked as a cook in a Catholic school and always made enough to pay her bills. In Fairfax, she took a full-time job as a cook making $10.50 an hour and a part-time job as a retail sales associate making $8 an hour. With two jobs, Martha could pay her bills, but she rarely got to see her daughter. When Martha lost her job as a cook, she began working retail full-time but could no longer make ends meet.

In 2012, Martha and her daughter were evicted from their apartment. They lived in a hotel until a space became available at a local family shelter. Martha recognized that in order to pull her life back together and provide a stable home for her daughter, she would need a living-wage job. She also realized that her previous experience as a cook was not going to help her rise above the poverty

NEWS Paycheck Gender Wars?

Across Northern Virginia, men pull larger paychecks than women; disparities larger than national average.

BY MICHAEL LEE POPE
THE CONNECTION

When Lola Arce de Quintela first moved to Oakton 20 years ago, she noticed something about the way men and women arranged their professional careers around their family lives in Northern Virginia. Men took high-powered jobs with large paychecks, while women often dropped out of the workforce to take care of growing families. If women had full-time jobs, she says, they would often select positions that were not as demanding so they could focus their time and attention on their children while husbands and fathers pulled in six-figure salaries.

"The other women who live on my block are teachers," said de Quintela, a freelance translator. "Their husbands are attorneys or they work for the World Bank."

On a national basis, women make 77 cents for every dollar men make. But here in Northern Virginia the disparities are greater, especially in wealthier areas. Nowhere is this trend higher than 22124, the suburb of Oakton, where the average median income for full-time female workers is $77,000. The men in that ZIP code pull in almost $130,000. That means women who live in Oakton and are full-time, permanent workers earn 60 percent of what men earn.

"It's very difficult to have a family and raise kids when you have two people with high-powered careers that demand a lot of time and attention," said de Quintela. "So a lot of women tend to find work that's more flexible and not as demanding, which means they earn less money. It's a trade off."

CENSUS RECORDS show disparities tend to be greatest where people earn the most money. In the Fairfax Station ZIP code 22039, for example, the average annual male median salary is $134,000. That's one of the highest in Northern Virginia. By contrast, women in this area earn $86,000 a year. That's still a high salary for the region, but women who live in Fairfax Station earn 64 cents for every $1 the men who live there make.

Demographers say some of this may be explained by a concept they call "labor force attachment," which essentially means that women are less attached to the labor force than men.

"Given the traditional understandings about who cares for children or aging parents, what we often see is that women take on those roles," said Annie Rorem, policy associate in the demographics research group at Weldon Cooper Center for Public Service at the University of Virginia. "We often see differences in female and male earnings that are related to, although I would not necessarily say caused by, family structure."

This trend is less evident in ZIP codes where salaries are lower, and the roles are even reversed in some of areas with the lowest salaries. In Bailey's Crossroads, for example, women earn $59,000. But men earn $46,000, the lowest salary of any Fairfax County ZIP code. That means men earn about 22 percent less than women here, a phenomenon that indicates workers here are attached to the labor force in a way that's different from people at the top of the earnings scale.

"What we are probably seeing in Bailey's Crossroads is women who are nannies of families that make a lot of money," said Veronique de Rugy, a senior research fellow at the Mercatus Center at George Mason University. "They make a lot more money than their male counterparts who are working in construction or putting up drywall."

ACADEMICS WHO look at these numbers say the imbalance of salaries between men and women can be explained by looking at how the genders participate in the labor force differently. A recent study by the George Mason School for Regional Analysis concluded that Arlington County has the highest labor force participation rate for women in the region while the District of Columbia has the lowest. Meanwhile, suburban areas of Fairfax County have much lower female participation rates than urban areas such as Arlington or Alexandria.

"If you're looking at why men are earning more, it's because in those cases women who might have a higher earning potential are not in the labor force, they are staying home to raise a family," said David Versel, senior research associate at the Center for Regional Analysis. "That's obviously less true than it was a generation or two ago, but that's the easiest way of looking at this."

Although the disparity between salaries earned by men and women are glaring, researchers who look at the data warn not to jump to conclusions about gender inequality. These numbers show that men and women who live in the same ZIP codes earn different salaries, it does not say that they receive different salaries for doing the same work. They probably say more about how women and men approach the labor force differently than how employers choose to compensate their employees.

"This doesn't necessarily mean that we are talking about any active gender inequality in the sense of discrimination or men and women being paid different amounts for the exact same labor," said Rorem. "One thing that's important to keep in mind when you are looking at all full-time year-round workers is that one thing you don't pick up is experience between workers."

Eight FCPS Students Win College-Sponsored Merit Scholarships

Eight Fairfax County Public Schools (FCPS) graduates from the class of 2014 have been named winners of college-sponsored scholarships by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation (NMSC).

Recipients of college-sponsored scholarships from the NMSC, with their probable career fields in parentheses, are:

- ❖ Celia Islam of Vienna, Marshall High School (medicine), National Merit George Washington University Scholarship.
- ❖ Brian Clark of Burke, Thomas Jefferson High School for Science and Technology (TJHSST) (engineering), National Merit Case Western Reserve University Scholarship.

❖ Adam Friedman of Fairfax, TJHSST (environmental science), National Merit Emory University Scholarship.

❖ Nicholas Jones of Round Hill, TJHSST (aerospace engineering), National Merit University of Central Florida Scholarship.

❖ Thomas Lunn of Potomac Falls, TJHSST (international relations), National Merit Bowdoin College Scholarship.

❖ Timothy Ruitter of Centreville, TJHSST (biomedical engineering), National Merit

University of Georgia Scholarship.

❖ Vishal Talasani of Alexandria, TJHSST (economics), National Merit University of Chicago Scholarship.

❖ Tony Xiao of Herndon, TJHSST (film production), National Merit Vanderbilt University Scholarship.

College-sponsored Merit Scholarships provide between $500 and $2,000 annually for up to four years of undergraduate study at the institution financing the scholarship. Nationwide, approximately 7,600 students have won Merit Scholarship awards in 2014.

WSHS Grad Berglund to Play at Northwestern-St. Paul

Q&A: Sharpshooting guard fan of Minnesota Vikings, Twins.

Amy Berglund was a four-year standout sharpshooter for one of the top high school girls' basketball programs in Virginia.

As a freshman, Berglund received all-district honorable mention and helped West Springfield win the Patriot District title and reach the state semifinals. As the years went by, the accolades grew: second-team all-district as a sophomore, first-team all-district as a junior, and, eventually, first-team all-state and conference Player of the Year as a senior.

During her senior campaign, Berglund surpassed the 1,000-point milestone for her career and eventually finished second on the program's all-time scoring list. In a game at West Potomac, Berglund made 13 of 14 field-goal attempts for a career-high 30 points. The Spartans beat T.C. Williams to win the Conference 7 championship and advanced to the state tournament with a region runner-up finish.

Berglund, a 2014 West Springfield graduate, will continue her basketball career at the University of Northwestern-St. Paul. Berglund recently participated in a Q&A via email with The Connection.

Connection: What made University of Northwestern-St. Paul the right fit for you?

Berglund: All my family lives in Minnesota so I will be extremely close to them, the strong academics that also integrate faith/Christianity into the learning and the experience, and I loved the basketball program there with an amazing group of girls and coach. My parents approved since they got married at the chapel on campus.

Connection: What will your major be?

What position will you play?

Berglund: I plan on majoring in kinesiology with a minor in biblical studies and possibly business. I will be playing the 2/3 guard.

Connection: At what age did you start playing basketball? When did you realize playing college basketball was a possibility for you?

Berglund: I started playing around with basketball at age 6, following in the footsteps of two older brothers who played. Ever since I can remember, I dreamed of playing college basketball, but my ninth-grade year was when I realized it was something I could really accomplish.

Connection: Did you play any other sports at West Springfield?

Berglund: I played lacrosse my senior year and it was an awesome experience with great coaches and teammates!

Connection: What's your favorite memory of playing high school basketball?

Berglund: Meeting and competing with my best friends. Also, winning the Patriot Conference my senior year, because no one would have picked us to win it at the start of the season. Our team was so close off the court that we all played with amazing chemistry on the court.

Connection: If you could change one thing about your high school athletic career, what would it be?

Berglund: The only thing I would change is that it could have gone by slower because it was the best part of my high school experience and I already miss being a Lady Spartan.

Connection: What kind of traits, physical or mental, does it take to be a good perimeter shooter?

Berglund: Physically, I think a good shooter needs to have running endurance and a lot of leg strength so by the end of the game they have enough left in them to get a good jump for the shot. Mentally, a good shooter needs to have the confidence to keep shooting even if the shots aren't going in at first and the focus to keep making shots when they are hot during a game.

Connection: Did you have to put in a lot of work to become a good perimeter shooter, or did it come naturally?

Berglund: It did take a lot of work and hours of repetition to become a good shooter but it is what I love doing so I did not mind. I was lucky to have parents who would spend hours standing under a hoop rebounding for me.

Connection: What is your personal best for consecutive 3-pointers made?

Berglund: I recently made 31 3-pointers in a row when I was practicing with the goal to make a lot of them in a row.

Connection: What is your career high for points in a game at any age?

Berglund: My career high for points in high school was 30 which came during my senior season. I ended up shooting 13-14 that game and I missed my last shot which, ironically, was the easiest shot of the game, a layup.

Connection: Who is your favorite music artist? Why?

Berglund: Tim McGraw, because I love his voice and he has so many great songs.

Connection: What is your favorite movie? Why?

Berglund: 'Miracle on Ice,' because it is the greatest sports movie ever and so inspirational.

Connection: Favorite food?

Berglund: Cheeseburger.

Connection: What is your favorite hobby outside of basketball?

Berglund: I like to hike and camp.

Connection: What location is the farthest you have traveled from the Washington, D.C. metro area?

Berglund: The farthest I have been from D.C. was during a trip to Colorado.

Connection: Are you a pro sports fan? If so, who are your favorite teams?

Berglund: Minnesota Vikings and Minnesota Twins!

Swimming for a Cause at South Run Pool

On Sunday, July 13, the South Run Community Pool held their annual Swim-a-Thon charity event to raise funds and awareness for cancer, a cause that runs deep through this close-knit neighborhood community. On what felt like the hottest day of the summer thus far, participants gradually streamed in to partake in the 7th iteration of the Swim-a-Thon, which was coordinated this year by friends Ryan Kelly, Liam Kelly, Nick Porter, Michael Murphy, and Jordan Krug, all members of the South Run swim team.

With a tent and table set up in the corner of the pool deck to collect donations, dozens of people blanketed the pool, swimming laps "for the cure," with proceeds going to INOVA hospital's "Life with Cancer" program.

After people finished swimming, they recorded the number of laps they swam, and helped themselves to a snack and a cold beverage.

This year, 31 people swam a total of 1,270 laps, and donated almost $1,500 on the day of the event, with money still being collected.

Swim-a-Thon was created as a way to engage the community in the fight against cancer; a fight that has deeply affected many South Run families over the years. Given another successful iteration of this event, the South Run community seems to be keeping that fight alive one stroke at a time.

WFCM Still Operating, Closing Thrift Store

To the Editor:

An open letter to the community

Dear Partner in Service:

For 27 years, Western Fairfax Christian Ministries has provided life-essential support to individuals and families in our community with the assistance of hundreds of volunteers, churches, donors, and partner organizations. In 1998, WFCM started selling clothing to the local community as a way to generate revenue to support the vital ministries we offer – this was the nexus of what has grown into our current thrift store.

Over the years, the community has been generous with their donations of time, clothing, and household goods to keep the thrift store running. We are immensely grateful for this support. Not only has the thrift store provided low-cost, quality goods for our customers, it has also allowed us to meet the clothing and household needs of our clients seeking assistance.

For the past couple of years, however, the thrift store has not generated enough revenue to cover the costs of its operation. A change in location presented challenges to the ministry. After months of prayerful consideration, the Board of Directors has determined that operating the thrift store is no longer the right choice financially for WFCM. The thrift store will close Aug. 15.

This is a season of change for WFCM. The thrift store has been an important part of our ministry and we are grateful for your partnership. We know that needs still exist in our community for assistance with clothing and household goods. We know that a need also exists for our donors who desire to help others by contributing their used items. And, we will continue to work to meet those needs.

WFCM is developing partnerships with churches and organizations in our community with clothing closets who will be able to serve our clients and receive in-kind donations. We will distribute details on this new process when they are finalized.

We have enclosed a document to help address questions you may have, but please contact us if you have other questions or concerns.

Although the doors of the thrift store will be closing, WFCM is expectant to see what God has in store for us in the future as we seek to be an extension of God's love in this community.

line. During her shelter stay, Martha discovered Training Futures, the nationally-recognized, workforce development solution of Northern Virginia Family Service.

Training Futures is a free program for adults who are determined to gain the skills to excel in professional, administrative roles. The 6-month curriculum not only teaches college-level administrative skills such as the Microsoft Office Suite, customer service, records management, medical terminology, business English and business math, but also through a partnership with Northern Virginia Community College, offers eligible trainees the opportunity to earn up to 21 college credits and a Career Studies Certificate in Business Information Technology.

Trainees come to Training Futures Monday – Friday, 9 a.m. – 2 p.m., and often arrive early and stay late to master course work. They are outfitted in the Training Futures Clothing Closet and expected to wear business professional clothes every day. Each trainee reports to a “supervisor,” or staff member, who coaches them around attitude and business habits, encourages them and above all else, holds them to high “corporate” expectations. When trainees arrive for their first day at their new professional, administrative job, they not only have the skills to add value, but also look and act the part of an excellent employee. Martha knew she had found the pathway to the life she imagined for herself and her daughter. Within five weeks of graduating from this exciting program, Martha landed her position as a medical receptionist, making $14 an hour.

While at the shelter, Martha was also referred to the Bridging Affordability Program. Bridging Affordability is administered by Northern Virginia Family Service in partnership with Fairfax County Department of Housing & Community Development. The program combines rental subsidies and case management supportive services with the intent of moving families forward toward self-sufficiency. Bridging Affordability has given Martha the time and financial breathing room to attend Training Futures and work towards a living wage. As Martha nears the end of her time in Bridging Affordability she is paying down debt which will allow her to purchase a car and further broaden her housing options. She has increased her income 57 percent since starting the program, thanks to the training and subsequent employment she found following Training Futures, but still needs to consider affordable housing options, which are rare in this area.

The comprehensive nature of NVFS programs, including Workforce Development and Housing Services, provide clients with a unique opportunity to achieve several substantial goals at one time. NVFS has made the investment to ensure that when clients who seek our services for one issue may access the full range of our programs to increase the odds of achieving self-sufficiency. In the community, NVFS has been working with partners in both the nonprofit and government sectors who recognize the cross section between these two service areas. Families will not be able to maintain stable housing without living wages, and our efforts to solve the housing program in Northern Virginia are contingent upon holistic solutions that address both of these issues, together.

PUBLIC NOTICE
CORRECTIVE ACTION PLAN IMPLEMENTATION FOR
AN UNDERGROUND STORAGE TANK (UST) SITE
JUNE 23, 2014

There has been a release from an underground storage tank system at:

Fairfax County Department of Vehicle Services
 Newington Maintenance Facility
 6900 Newington Road
 Lorton, Virginia, 22079

The Virginia Department of Environmental Quality (VDEQ) has worked with Fairfax County to develop and implement a Corrective Action Plan to address cleanup of petroleum hydrocarbons at the site. If you have any questions regarding the cleanup please contact:

Randy Chapman, Environmental Specialist Senior Project
 Manager Virginia Department of Environmental Quality
 Northern Regional Office
 13901 Crown Court
 Woodbridge, VA 22193

 Randy.chapman@deq.virginia.gov
 www.deq.virginia.gov

As part of the corrective action process a Corrective Action Plan was submitted to the Northern Regional Office of VDEQ on September 6, 2013. The Corrective Action Plan consisted of measures to be undertaken during the installation of storm sewers and other utility structures associated with site renovation activities at the Newington bus maintenance facility in Lorton, Virginia. The Corrective Action Plan was essentially composed of the following measures:

1. Petroleum-impacted soil encountered during site development activities was excavated, removed from the site, and properly disposed of;
2. Utility trenches located within petroleum impacted soils were lined with a polyethylene barrier to prevent petroleum migration into the utility trench or bedding gravel;
3. Confirmatory soil samples were collected at the base of the utility trench excavations and submitted to the VDEQ for review.

The Corrective Action Plan implementation was carried out between September 7, 2013 and December 7, 2013. If you would like to review or discuss the implementation of this Corrective Action Plan with the staff of VDEQ, please feel free to contact Randy Chapman who is listed above. You may also contact:

VDEQ Northern Regional Office will consider written comments for a period of thirty days from the first date of this notice regarding the Corrective Action Plan implementation and may decide to hold a public meeting if there is a significant public interest. Written comments should be sent to the VDEQ at the address listed above. VDEQ requests that all written comments should reference the tracking number for this case; PC # 2014 2041

You get the windows, we pay the interest

The problems with plastic, vinyl windows:

- Even through normal temperature changes, vinyl windows and patio doors can expand, contract, warp and leak.
- If their seals break and the insulating gas escapes, your energy efficiency goes out the window.

The solution is our Fibrex® window:

- We're the replacement window division of Andersen, and they developed our Fibrex material to meet their superior standards.
- Fibrex is so strong it helps prevent glass movement, seal failure, and discomfort in your home.
- Our exclusive Fibrex material is twice as strong as vinyl, and—unlike wood—requires virtually no maintenance.*

Top and bottom: Baby photos of future assistance dogs

Puppies Destined for Important Work

Bred, donated and/or rescued for assistance dog training by paws4people.org, these “baby pictures” will be shared with the children and veterans matched with each dog.

But until then, the puppies will receive comprehensive training. Training begins at the Training Center in Wilmington, Del. The specific training is proprietary, but includes learning how to navigate different surfaces and challenges and how to handle stress. At around six weeks, they curl up in a transport van and make the drive to the Puppy Development Center, currently in Georgia. There, they continue with socialization training as they work students who are autistic at the Lionheart school, with both puppies and students getting more comfortable with new situations and people.

At 16 weeks, they pile back into the van and are met by inmate trainers at Lakin Correctional, in West Virginia. It is here that the core of “command set” training happens.

Each dog will learn 110 commands before being matched with a “client.”

After 12 - 15 months of socialization and command training, they will each be matched with either a child or a veteran. From that point, the puppies will be trained specifically to meet their new “handler’s” needs.

During that specialized training, the dogs remain in prison. These pictures will help the newly matched children and adults get through that initial separation.

Reading Retriever

Samson serves as one-dog audience to young readers at local libraries.

BY THOMAS FRIESTAD
THE CONNECTION

Since his puppy days, Golden Retriever Samson has been an eager participant in a program custom-made to display the most admirable qualities of man's best friend. He and volunteer Tricia Lowney of Fairfax Station, his owner, have participated in the popular "Read to the Dog" program at four local libraries since 2012.

Lowney and her husband introduced the program locally in 2007 with their previous dog, starting at Pohick Regional Library, after hearing about a comparable program at a library in Stafford.

"My husband and I have a niece and nephew in Stafford who both had some learning issues, and they had gone to a library with a dog there, so when they told us about it, we thought we would see if it could be a possibility here," Lowney said. "However, that program was different from ours; whereas they brought a dog in and gathered the children around it, we bring in four or five dogs, and children come in and sit with individual dogs for 15 minutes and read to them."

Lowney said the "Read to the Dog" program is part of voluntary organization "People Animals Love," which allows dogs and their owners the opportunity to visit different locations, such as the Armed Forces Retirement Home, and provide inhabitants with a little extra canine companionship. She said dogs are also certified for "Read to the Dog" through "PAL," going on visits to ensure they can follow basic commands and get along with people.

"The best thing about these visits is seeing the seniors emotionally react," Lowney said. "You're going into an environment where someone is completely inward, then you pick up their hand and put it on a dog, and their eyes light up. There's a smile in their eyes."

Lowney said children's reactions to "Read to the Dog" events are near universally positive, and because of the progress many of them show between multiple events, she does not see herself stopping participation in them in the foreseeable future.

"You can see physical and emotional changes in the children who participate; you'll have a child come in and they're whispering with no volume, and when this happens, I'll take Sammy's ear, lift it up and say 'Oh, he can't hear you,'" Lowney said. "After a while, their volume comes up, their confidence comes up, their reading potential and skills increase, they'll even bring in more advanced books to read. The most important thing is that there's no judgment; if they get the words wrong, Samson doesn't care, and it's just wonderful."

Becoming Best Friends

Frodo and Sam have become best friends – sort of. My husband and I adopted Frodo from Home Alone Cat Rescue several years ago. He is part Maine Coon and part American Bobtail, with a funny short tail. He may have been mistreated by a previous owner because he is afraid of everything, especially ceiling fans. He quickly became comfortable in our home as an “only cat.”

We adopted “Sam” in September of 2012. She was an adorable tabby kitten, part of a feral litter living outside of a restaurant in Washington D.C. Lee District School Board Member Tammy Kaufax and her two high school aged kids, Halle and Matthew, were fostering the litter as part of a school project.

Tammy showed me a photo of the kittens in August of 2012 during the Springfield Bridge Walk and I fell in love with the smallest kitten with tiger markings. As soon as Sam had gained enough weight to be adopted we brought her home as a companion for Frodo.

It took a few weeks for the two cats to get used to each other, but now they play together and chase each other around all the time. They are so cute together, especially when Sam hides behind the bedroom door and ambushes Frodo when he walks into the room. Animals add so much to your life!

Caring for Aging Pets

Jason Overman of Springfield Animal Hospital shares some best practices.

BY JANELLE GERMANOS
THE CONNECTION

Even for those pet lovers who pay close attention to the health and well-being of their pets, it's not uncommon for owners to be unaware of when their pet is reaching the point of becoming a senior.

Because the lifespan of pets can vary, it's important to do extensive research, and to take pets to the vet at least once a year.

Generally, smaller dogs are considered seniors when they reach ages seven or eight, and larger dogs are considered seniors around age five or six, said Jason Overman, veterinarian and medical director at Springfield Animal Hospital.

“For dogs, it can vary depending on the breed,” he said.

Common health problems for older dogs include arthritis, dental disease, kidney problems, cancer, heart problems and more.

“It's important to look out for a change in appetite and water consumption, and generally any behavior they may be doing that they typically haven't before,” Overman said.

Dental diseases are common among dogs, so it's important for owners to start using dental products on their dogs as soon as possible.

“Most people don't really think about what's going on in their dog's mouth. They really don't ever look at it until we show them here at the vet. They're usually very surprised,” Overman said.

Cats are generally considered seniors around age 7. Common problems in older cats include hyperthyroidism, kidney disease and arthritis.

According to Overman, there are several things pet owners can do to help assure that their older pets are comfortable.

“For dogs, it's important to put down rugs on any hardwood floor areas, and on stairs, putting down runners is helpful,” Overman said.

For cats, comfortable and heated beds can be helpful. Both dogs and cats appreciate a high-quality bed, Overman said. Overman also advises pet owners to avoid giving their pets any over the counter medications without first consulting a vet, and to avoid any human medications. “Cats can be very sensitive to these and it can lead to other problems,” Overman said.

Pet insurance is also crucial for pets, as it can be more difficult to get insurance when pets become older. Fish oil supplements are also helpful for pets as they get older.

Nutrition can help dogs and cats live healthier lives, said Nikki Logan, manager at natural pet food store Felix & Oscar in Springfield. “A lot of senior pets are overweight. Foods that are higher in fiber and have less artificial ingredients can help keep a pet's weight to a minimum,” Logan said.

Matt O'Leary, a longtime pet owner and employee at Felix & Oscar, stresses that when it comes to caring for an older pet, knowledge is power.

“The more you know about the food, the better off your pet will be. A lot of it has to do with genetics, but making sure the pet is eating well is a great way to prolong a happy and healthy life,” he said.

Overman advises pet owners to visit websites like the American Animal Hospital Association at www.aahanet.org to read more about caring for pets at every age.

Nikki Logan and Matt O'Leary, employees of Felix & Oscar, a natural pet food store in Springfield, admit that their pets probably eat better than they do sometimes.

"With all of the processed and artificial stuff that's in fast food, I would definitely say yes," Logan said.

But with the wide selection of non-processed and natural pet food and treats at Felix & Oscar, who could blame them?

With good nutrition and care, pets can live happier, healthier lives, said Logan, a manager at Felix & Oscar, who has been working at the store for almost seven years.

"People often ask us, why can't I just buy food for my pets at the grocery store? Our main goal here is to educate," she said.

Pet food at the grocery store can contain by-products and fillers, and some pet owners don't recognize the importance of reading the label of products they buy. At Felix &

Oscar, reading labels is encouraged. Customers will find products without artificial ingredients that are found in a lot of other pet food.

"It's important to be aware of what's going into your pet's body," Logan said.

As recent trends have encouraged people to consider what's going into their food, O'Leary said it's common sense for pet owners to consider the same for their dog or cat.

"If you wouldn't eat it, why would you feed it to your pet," he said.

Felix & Oscar provides food that is close to what dogs and cats would eat in the wild. The store includes a selection of raw meat and bones, natural food and treats, and more.

Logan advises pet owners to avoid any products with soy meal, artificial flavors, meat by-products, and corn and wheat-gluten, among others.

Eating natural, nutritious food can provide multiple benefits for pets, employees of Felix & Oscar explain.

"For some dogs, say one who has cancer, we can help the owner shop for certain lower glycemic foods, which is healthier for the dog," Logan said.

Felix & Oscar has a wide selection of healthy dog and cat food, including Nature's Balance, Orijen and K9 Naturals. There's even a bakery section that features delectable treats for pets.

"Knowledge is power. The more you know about your pet's food, the better of your pet will be," O'Leary said.

Diana and Steve Greiner, owners of Felix & Oscar, started their business to provide natural, wholesome food for pets. Felix and Oscar are the names of a cat and dog they adopted from the Fairfax County Humane Society.

"Pets are just so happy when they come in here, and their owners are too," O'Leary said.

Lizzie and Yola, the Life Saving Labs

About eight years ago, a very special dog came into our lives – and the lives of many others. We signed up with Guiding Eyes for the Blind to be Puppy Raisers. Our task was to spend a year with a puppy, providing socialization, some basic training, and preparing the dog to go on to advanced training before joining a blind person to be a life team. It's difficult to think about having a dog in your life for a year and then giving her up, but this was important work that could change someone's life, and the program was really well done, so off we went. Elizabeth, a beautiful black Labrador retriever, was soon a part of our household. Blind people came to talk to our class on several occasions, emphasizing what a powerful service this was for them.

About three-fourths of the way through our scheduled time together, Elizabeth had a third recurrence of an ear infection, which was a minor problem, but it took her out of the program, as guide dogs cannot have any lingering medical issues. We were offered the opportunity to keep Elizabeth as a pet. We accepted with delight and Lizzie, as she had become known to us, became a permanent part of our family. Today, she pretty well rules the roost around here.

Our time with Lizzie began with the idea of service and so we looked for other ways she could serve. She is pretty large as Labs go and was a bit too rambunctious as a youngster to be a hospital visitation dog. Fortunately, someone told us about the dog blood donation program

– we found Lizzie's service opportunity.

Like most people, we had never heard of dog blood donation, but we learned that there is more than one type of dog blood and a blood supply is needed for surgeries, just as for people. In some places, dogs are raised just to be blood donors, a grim sounding life, and so the Blue Ridge Veterinary Blood Bank, a wonderful organization that runs its programs on the strength of volunteers and donations, began a voluntary blood donation program. We signed up with Lizzie.

For about seven years, Lizzie and her good friend Yola (a yellow lab who also had a career change from the guide dog route) would go to the Old Towne Pet Resort in Springfield about every six weeks to donate. They loved it! Upon arrival, they were warmly greeted by Dr. Valery Latchesorce and Veterinary Specialist Chris Old, who played with them a bit, then settled in with Chris who would hold them (literally spoon with them on a table), while the veterinarian constantly fed them peanut butter as a quick and painless blood draw was completed. If you know Labs, you know the combination of constant attention and food was irresistible. Both dogs went into happy fits whenever we pulled into that parking area.

Lizzie and Yola both celebrated their eighth birthdays in June, which means they have retired from the donor program. During their time of service, Lizzie and Yola each helped over 50 dogs by providing blood for surgeries. It was a great run and we are all glad to have participated.

If you would like to know more about these fine organizations and investigate some of the many ways you might be able to contribute, check out The Blue Ridge Veterinary Blood Bank at www.brbbb.com and Guiding Eyes for the Blind at www.guidingeyes.org.

Becky and LuLu: A Special Bond

The relationship between dog and girl is strong, the bond never to break. I, personally, grew up — and am still growing up with — wonderful dogs. First, there was Leroy. I was born into the middle of his reign on the Randolph household kingdom, and he helped to raise me, the princess of his kingdom. I don't remember much of his life, because he only lived to age 8, and he only spent six years with me. Leroy was an amazing part of the family. He was helpful, strong, and loving.

Once, I tried to ride him like a horse, and you really can't blame me — here I was, only about 3 years old, with a German shepherd Hound mix whose head still came above mine. Luckily, he tolerated me until my mom rescued him. I bet he couldn't thank her enough!

Next came Lacy, who was welcomed to the family when Leroy was about five and I was three. As a pup, this yorkie-bichon mix was a tiny little thing. When she was two, I would crawl around pretending Leroy was the daddy, I was the mommy, and Lacy was our little pup. Now at 7 years old, she still acts like a little puppy dog, and I honestly still remember the day we got her — all the pups in the breeder's pen, and driving home with her snuggled in my lap the whole way home.

Now, LuLu is my most recent addition to the household. We got her when I was eight, almost nine, and now she's two, and I'm ten, almost eleven.

We got her on my parent's anniversary. My mom claims that LuLu is her dog, but I think she might be mine. However, I guess we share her. She and I train together at Krazy for K9s 4H club at Frying Pan Farm Park.

We do competitions and work together to solve problems. She and I run around in our backyard, play, watch TV, celebrate, eat, bake, and so much more together. I've even developed a cupcake tradition on her birthday. Sadly, little Lacy has to wait to celebrate her birthday — she gets her party the same day as LuLu's.

LuLu and I share a special bond. Not any more special than the bond I have or have had with any other of my dogs, but a bond all the same. I hope to accomplish a lot in the training field with her, because dogs deserve to go farther than just the end of your fence. But, I'm still working on her show name. Should it be Super Spot? Fluffy Spirit? I don't know. But we won't settle for just that — we want titles at the end of our show name! We want our names in the headlines! And we want everybody to point at us and say, "Hey, look, there goes that bonded dog-girl pair!"

Grants to Support Animal Welfare

2014 Barkdull Memorial Fund winners announced.

BY ASHLEY DIETZ
THE CONNECTION

On May 13, The Community Foundation for Northern Virginia's Margery Barkdull Memorial Fund for Animal Welfare announced four winners for the 2014 grant process from a group of 12 applicants. The winners are Friends of Homeless Animals, receiving $2,000; Prince William Humane Society, receiving $3,000; The Wildlife Rescue League, receiving $3,000; and The Wolf Trap Foundation, receiving $2,000. Each of these organizations are dedicated to the welfare of animals.

The Wolf Trap Foundation will use the grant to develop and expand its apiary program, started by Chris Faessen, the executive chef at Wolf Trap. The money will buy supplies needed to keep the bees healthy, as well as an observation hive for people to visit.

"We will display bees and use it as an education opportunity," said Michelle Pendoley, director of public relations.

Friends of Homeless Animals is planning to use this grant money to provide emergency medical relief to animals that do not have a home. Prince William Humane Society's grant will support the Seniors 4 Seniors dog adoption program, which matches older pets with senior citizens. The Wildlife Rescue League will provide rehabilitation supplies to licensed wildlife rehabilitation facilities which will help care for wild animals.

For 501 (c)(3) organizations, such as animal shelters, animal rescue programs, conservation organizations and others, looking to apply for this grant in the future, visit www.cfnova.org/form-grant-seekers/barkdull-animal-welfare-fund. The application for 2015 will open next March and be due by April 1. Winners will be suggested by a committee of volunteer area experts, people who serve and work with animals and community donors.

The committee will decide who they think the winners should be based on "what type of impact this grant will have on their program," said Tara Nadel, Director of Communications and Events for the Community Foundation. Those suggestions will go to the board of directors, who will either approve or deny those recommended.

The board will then look at how much the organization is requesting and how much they are willing to fund to determine the final winners. The winners will be announced in June and will receive between $2,000 and $5,000 to help protect animals.

Saving Chewie

Michael, of Burke, and his 1-year-old Chow-Golden Retriever mix Chewie, are enjoying themselves at Burke Lake Park splashing about and having fun.

Michael first got Chewie last April on a trip to Savannah, Ga. Only a month old, Chewie was rescued by Michael at a back alleyway and was eventually accepted into Michael's home.

"He's a lot of work but he's a lot of good", Michael said. "He's a really good dog and does nothing but improve my life."

He talks about Chewie as "young at heart and an avid squirrel hunter."

He added that Chewie was "a great swimmer, can jump really high and is highly trained." They were last seen playing fetch at the edge of the lake with Chewie running in excitement.
