Historic Vienna to Hold Spring Membership Meeting

The Historic Vienna, Inc. Spring Membership Meeting will be held on Tuesday, March 24, at 7:30 p.m. in the Council Chamber of the Town of Vienna Town Hall, 127 Center Street, South. A brief business meeting will open the meeting, and will include the presentation of the 2015 Vienna Heritage Preservation Award to Tommy Staats, founder and owner of Staats Developers, Inc., for his restoration and redevelopment of the building at 120 Church Street, NE, in Vienna.

Originally a dry goods store constructed in the 1920s, 120 Church is now the home of Cocoa Vienna chocolatiers, and the office of Staats Developers. Several generations of Vienna residents remember the building as the home of ‘Once upon a time,’ purveyors of dolls, toys, stuffed animals, puppets, books, dollhouses and dollhouse accessories.

April 2015 is the 150th anniversary of the assassination of President Abraham Lincoln. The speaker for the evening will be Craig Howell, a professional tour guide who specializes in Civil War battlefield tours. Howell’s presentation for the meeting is titled, “Dueling Conspiracies of the Lincoln Assassination: Confederate Plot or Stanton’s Cabal?” His talk will include mention of Union Sergeant Boston Corbett, the man who killed the assassin Booth. Corbett was stationed in Vienna for part of the Civil War. The Membership meeting is free and open to the public. Refreshments will be served.

The Town of Vienna Creates a Public Art Commission

During the Feb. 23 Town Council meeting a Vienna Public Art Commission was formed to advise and assist the Vienna Town Council on matters relating to the advancement of public art in the Town, including the development and funding of a public art program. The Commission will be located in Chapter 28 of the Vienna Town Code.

The proposal for a Vienna Public Art Commission evolved from the research for a M. Jane Seeman Memorial by the Mayor’s Advisory Committee, established in July of 2014. The time, talents and treasures of Town citizens and businesses in the community, with coordination from Town staff and art professionals, were employed to create the ordinance, commemorating the one-year anniversary of the passing of former Mayor M. Jane Seeman.

Freeman Store Launches New American-made Products

2015 season kicked off on Feb. 28.

Freeman Store and Museum, on Historic Church Street, kicked off its 2015 season on Feb. 28, introducing vintage puzzles and toys, and antiques to its collection of Vienna-logo, made-in-Virginia and American-made nostalgic products. Known locally as Freeman House, the store and museum is owned by the Town of Vienna and operated by Historic Vienna, Inc.

“We’re focusing on pieces made by American artists, especially local ones,” said Historic Vienna, Inc. store committee chair, Nancy Moats. To that end, HVI board members are visiting craft shows around the metro D.C. area, seeking items that harmonize with HVI’s mission of preservation and education. Functional wood art, such as bowls, handmade garden ornaments, and recycled ice cream urns from Thelma’s are to be on the floor this spring. The store plans on selling artwork produced by area high school students. The “penny” candy – which, actually, costs more than a penny-a-piece, is still one of the store’s most popular items with children. Grave’s Mountain preserves, a made-in-Virginia product, and Virginia peanuts anchor the food stock.

Shopkeeper Patti Bentley works closely with HVI president Anne Stuntz and Moats to bring in more artisan-style pieces.

IT’S NOT JUST INVENTORY taking a new focus. HVI plans on adding special events throughout the year, particularly on Church Street Sunday, starting in May, when Historic Church Street closes down for a few hours and becomes pedestrian-friendly. HVI and Freeman House plan on a more-visible presence along the roadway on Church Street Sunday.

Spring events, currently planned, include the annual Easter Egg Roll, Saturday March 28, 10:30 a.m., Freeman House lawn; Historic Vienna Annual Used Book Sale – new dates - April 17, 18 and 19, Vienna Community Center; Walk on the Hill - Sunday April 26, (rain date May 3), 2 to 5 p.m. Historic Windover District; Secession Vote Re-enactment, TBA – May, Freeman House.

FREEMAN STORE AND MUSEUM, located at 131 Church Street N.E. Vienna, is open Wednesday through Sunday, noon to 4 p.m. Freeman Store and Museum is registered as a Virginia Historic Landmark. The building was constructed in 1859 as Lydecker Store, operating as a general store until the late 1920s. It was used by both the Union and Confederate armies during the Civil War. HVI is looking for another employee to job-share the shopkeeper’s position. Contact shopkeeper Patti Bentley at 703-938-5187 or by e-mail at fs@historicviennainc.org.

Vienna Shop Vandalized, $100,000 Damage

Postnet suffered the loss of its equipment and infrastructure in a store rampage.

By Donna Manz
The Connection

When Postnet locked its doors on the evening of Feb. 5, none of the staff could have imagined the destruction its employees would bear witness to the next morning. A vandal, apparently holding a grudge against employees, trashed the printing shop during the night, wrecking all the shop’s equipment – from $44,000 digital presses to the coffee maker and microwave – to the tune of more than $100,000. The store has been closed for business for three weeks now, adding loss of revenue to loss of equipment.

The vandal himself could have not imagined the support the community would give to a valued business nor the disdain that community would express for his crime. Posts of support went up immediately on Facebook and, within days of the attack, painted hearts and expressions of support from the community appeared on Postnet’s windows.

“I was absolutely horrified, sickened, and shocked that someone could have that much hatred and anger to do such a terrible thing, especially to such a lovely community-minded individual and his family,” said Artful Gift Shop owner Peggy James, who showed up immediately with other business people to help clean up after getting a call from Postnet owner James Cudney.

LAURA MAGANE GOYER, who brought friends to decorate Postnet’s windows with hearts and inspiring words, hoped the perpetrator would feel “ashamed.”

“This was hateful, despicable, and, clearly, the act of someone who couldn’t communicate without resorting to violence,” Goyer said, calling the crime a “travesty” that someone would commit a senseless act like that against a business and a family “who gives so much” to the community. “I took it personally because, to me, James Cudney is one of the prominent faces of small Vienna businesses,” Goyer said. Cudney was moved by the community’s support.

“When I came in [Feb. 21], the sun was shining through the windows,” said Cudney. “All the colors came streaming through. I really teared up.

“This comes down to how Vienna reacts,” Cudney said. “Vienna comes together to support one another.”

EVERY MACHINE, every computer, every countertop and desk, even the toilet, was trashed, thrown, or broken. Paint was strewn on walls and equipment … gender-specific slurs (females insults) were painted or carved into walls. When Postnet’s opening employee showed up, she immediately called Cudney. “Get over here right now,” she blurted to Cudney. The employee was frantic, telling Cudney that someone had broken in and destroyed the entire store and conference room. The employee cried as she told him about the vandalism.

Once he understood the dimension of the vandalism, Cudney asked her to “calm down” and call the police.

“Whoever this was,” said Cudney, “is extremely strong, likely male, with a vendetta against female employees here.

“Somebody knows something,” said Cudney. “The person who did this is talking to someone.”

POSTNET VIENNA is offering a $1,000 reward for information leading to the arrest of the vandal. If anyone has information concerning this crime, contact Detective Scott Leroux of the Vienna Police Department, phone 703-255-6332 or by email at scott.leroux@viennava.gov.

Many in the community responded with outrage and support for Postnet and the Postnet owner James Cudney after a vandal did more than $100,000 worth of damage to the printing shop.

Balancing Act: Budgeting for Housing

By David Levine
Executive Director
Good Shepherd Housing and Family Services, Inc.

In our work housing families and individuals experiencing homelessness, many of them have never lived in housing of their own. They have lived doubled up with relatives and friends, camped out in broken-down minivans, or checked into motels for overnight stays. But signing a lease with a commitment to a year’s worth of monthly rent payments — that’s a new or long-term experience for them. And it’s a scary one, too.

That’s when we come into their lives to help them out. Our housing locating and case managers work with them to understand the basics of renting a housing property. Without question, the rental lease gives them rights. It bestows on them the new lawful designation of “tenant.” But a rental lease also comes with new responsibilities.

The responsibilities are not easy. Paying rent on the first of the month is their highest priority. Keeping in line with rental community rules and regulations is equally important. Making sure that they keep their housing in a good condition is another one. Excessive damage and wear-and-tear of their rental housing will make their security deposits — the one they had struggled for weeks to pull together — vanish into thin air.

We know the hardest part is making that rent payment on the first of each month. It is a real balancing act. As the sociologist Judith Venkatesh once noted about low-income families living in South Chicago who struggled to make rent payments: “This does not mean people fail to plan but … there are separate temporal horizons, one in the immediate future and the other a longer way off.” In other words, these families focus on the expenses to be paid today, not tomorrow or next month.

In its just released poverty study of women and girls in the Washington D.C. metropolitan region, the Washington Area Women’s Foundation included information on the average monthly expenses faced by poor families living in our region. Drawing on 2013 U.S. Census Bureau data and other datasets, the author of the study provided measures of economic security for what a family of three without public assistance would need to pay its expenses.

For example, even at $1,325/month as the average rent in Fairfax County, this monthly rent is actually not the most costly of the family’s household expenses. In fact, at an average of $1,821/month, the highest monthly expense is for childcare. All told, when all the expenses are added up, a typical family of three would need $8,572 in annual income in Fairfax County to afford to live comfortably there and cover all its expenses.

The federal poverty line annual income for a family of three is $19,530. As many families experiencing homelessness are earning just above the poverty line, the amount of income needed to live without worries in Fairfax County is a long way off for them. Still, even for low-income families and individuals experiencing homelessness, our case managers and housing locators can make a world of difference. They work to find them very affordable housing within a shrinking pool of this kind of housing. Once housed, they support them in getting a budget in place — and then we can only hope that nothing upends their budgets.

No medical emergencies. No transmission repairs on their cars used for work. No one-time spikes in their heating costs. It is a balancing act.

Sophomore Connolly Propels Oakton to Region Championship

Cougars limit Virginia Tech signee Koshuta to 10 points.

By Jon Roetman

The Connection

Oakton forward Delaney Connolly throughout the season has shown a willingness to step behind the arc and shoot. Initially, head coach Fred Priester desired a more conservative approach from the 6-foot sophomore. As the season progressed, Connolly received Priester’s blessing to fire away from 3-point range.

On Saturday night, Connolly didn’t hesitate to launch from long distance, and the results helped the decorated Oakton girls’ basketball program bring home another trophy.

Connolly knocked down four 3-pointers, scored a game-high 20 points and helped Oakton beat Madison 50-42 in the 6A North region championship game at Robinson Secondary School. It was the Cougars’ first region championship since 2012, when Oakton went undefeated and won the AAA state title.

Connolly helped in the paint Saturday night, grabbing nine rebounds while contributing to a group defensive effort against 6-foot-2 Madison post Kelly Koshuta. But it was her perimeter performance that had the greatest impact.

“All year long, we’ve been working with her, working with her, working with her,” Priester said. “First game of the season, she was her, working with her, working with her,” Priester said. “In its own way, because of the way the format is, [the region championship game] is sort of a game that’s hard to get ready for — you know you’re going to advance anyway,” Priester said. “… The thing about this is no one can take this away from you. That banner goes up in your gym. … [Coaches and players will] never forget that.”

THE COUGARS held Koshuta without a field goal in the fourth quarter and pulled out the win.

“She’s such an incredible player,” Priester said. “Slowing her down just means keeping her under 30 [points]. … I know she got in a little foul trouble early. I know she didn’t seem to be her usual self moving around.”

Oakton guard Lindsey Abed finished with 11 points and Alex Marquis finished with 10. Sophomore center Maddie Boyle had six points and five blocks.

Aidan McWeeney knocked down a trio of 3-pointers for nine points, and Morgan Simpson added seven.

Each team clinched a berth in the state tournament by reaching the region final. The semifinals are Friday in Richmond.

“In its own way because of the way the format is, [the region championship game] is sort of a game that’s hard to get ready for — you know you’re going to advance anyway,” Priester said. “… The thing about something like this is no one can take this away from you. That banner goes up in your gym. … [Coaches and players will] never forget that.”

You’ll note there’s no question mark after the “I.” If any grammatical mark, there could be an exclamation point, but that’s undercutting my reaction a bit. I am not referring to the usual happy-lucky-grateful to be alive sentiment I regularly express in this space; it’s micro more than macro. What I am specifically referring to is the winter weather and its predictable effects on appointments: cancellations in general, chemotherapy cancellations to be Kenny-column specific.

Yesterday, March 5, the Washington, D.C. Metropolitan Area received approximately six inches of snow, give or take, complicated further by the previous days’ ever-unpopular “wintry mix.” Ergo, governments and schools were closed and many lives were put on hold, for a day at least, as more than likely, the patients were likely to be re-scheduled. All well and good, mostly, except when you’re a “terminal” cancer patient and your chemotherapy infusion (your presumptive life-saving/sustaining treatment) is to be administered that day – then it is not so good. Then your life passes before you even faster than when your oncologist first advised you of your extremely unexpected, abbreviated life expectancy/ prognosis for me, it was “13 months to two years.”

Fortunately, Thursdays are not my chemotherapy day, Fridays are. But what brought this column’s subject into focus was a call I received Thursday evening from the Infusion Center providing me/patients with a special incident/weather phone number to call to find out if the Center would be open the next day: what hours, etc. This was the first time – in six years of non-stop treatment – when I was given such a specific number/circumstance to call. Previously, I would have simply called the Center or “cell-phoned” my oncology nurse (I have no number on speed dial), to learn of any closures or delays. But, and this is the luck I referred to in the title, never had I experienced any weather related/cancellation related reason to stress/call. Never experienced the anxiety of wondering, worrying and waiting to learn whether or not my scheduled/ordered medication treatment could go in as scheduled. Now, whether skipping/delaying treat- ment really matters in the medical world’s reality, I can tell you this: in my world, the patient’s world, it seems like matters an awful lot. Rescheduling feels like you’re losing days of your life. What little I know (and it’s very little; it’s mostly what I feel and think) is that any change in fre- quency, duration, reduction in medicine and think) is that any change in fre- quency, duration, reduction in medicine

Now that I know what to make of things externally, and of course, internally. Controlling one’s emo- tion date, can’t be a good thing, certainly not a preferred thing; again, in my head, anyway.

And it’s these feelings that can complicate the cancer experience: knowing what to make of things externally, and of course, internally. Controlling one’s emotions so as not to exacerbate an already difficult situation is my macro cross to bear. However, sometimes the elements of weather can weaken that resolve. After six years, I should know better, and usually do. But receiving that phone call last evening was a reminder of how fortunate and yet sort of clueless I’ve been about what has happened to other patients and what hasn’t happened to me.
Public Commission To Review Police Policy

Over some objections, Bulova launches ad hoc commission in wake of police shooting and obfuscation.

By Ken Moore

The Connection

Supervisor Michael Frey did not mince words when voicing opposition to Chairman Sharon Bulova’s establishment of an ad hoc police commission Tuesday, March 3.

“This is not the time nor the right way to proceed,” said Frey (R-Sully).

Bulova’s commission will include law enforcement, legal experts, citizens, academics, public information officers, and media.

Fairfax County Police officer Adam D. Torres shot and killed John Geer of Springfield inside the doorway of his own home on Aug. 29, 2013. Police were called following a domestic argument, and spoke with him for more than half an hour while he stood in his doorway, unarmed, with his hands raised and resting on the frame. Geer was shot in the chest and died in his house without receiving medical attention. It took more than 16 months, a $12 million civil suit by Geer’s family, intervention by a U.S. senator and a court order to get the first information on the shooting, which came in January when police named Torres.

FAIRFAX COUNTY released more than 10,000 pages of documents about the shooting and the investigation on Jan. 30, 2015, in response to the court order. The documents revealed that four other officers on the scene disagreed with Torres, who said Geer moved his hands rapidly down from his head towards his waist prompting Torres to shoot.

“I think there will be a time to do this, but I think this is after we deal with pending outcome of the Geer case,” said Frey on Tuesday.

But that could take years, Bulova said, during Tuesday’s Board session.

The commission will review existing policies, practices and programs regarding police-community relations, police-involved incidents and laws regarding the public release of information.

“Our board has been taking a hard look at our policies involving the timing and manner of releasing information in the case of critical police-involved incidents,” Bulova said. “This effort can be greatly enhanced by engaging with the community in an open, transparent way.”

“This effort can be greatly enhanced by engaging with the community in an open, transparent way.”

— Sharon Bulova

THE POLICE DEPARTMENT celebrates its 75th anniversary this year, said Bulova.

“Fairfax County is the safest jurisdiction of its size due in no small part to the hard work and dedication of our public safety personnel,” she said. “The Board of Supervisors and the Police Department recognize the importance of maintaining that public trust and the importance of always reviewing policies and practices and seeking to improve.”

Supervisor John Cook (R-Braddock) commended Bulova for putting Fairfax County in a leadership role on a critical matter.

“This is more than one case, it’s part of a national discussion,” he said.

“We want to take the time to get this right,” said Herrity.

The board approved Cook’s amendment that a review of crisis intervention training within the police department be added to the commission’s scope of work.

But Herrity and Cathy Hudgins (D-Hunter Mill) also raised concerns saying that the board itself be more involved in the review.

“It’s been over two years since we have had a Public Safety Committee meeting, although one has been promised for some time,” said Herrity. “The board needs to have a discussion in open session on these critical issues.”

“I think it is the board that should be clearing the mind of the citizens as to where we are,” Hudgins said. “This is not the way I would like to do this.”

Frey believes the commission will solely focus on the Geer case. “This is the latest reaction to a nasty situation in the media,” he said. “I guarantee that focus will not be on process, it will be on this case.”

The commission will review all police department policies related to critical incidents including how and when information is released to the public,” according to a release issued by the county. It will also review police policies related to use-of-force training policies, threat assessments and the Internal Affairs Division.

“The commission will also review practices related to the release of information … along with the relationship between the FCPO and the Office of the Commonwealth’s Attorney, and the provisions of the Virginia Freedom of Information Act.”

“We will be better at the end for having done this,” said McKay.

IN OTHER MATTERS, the board held a 90-minute closed session.

“This is not the time nor the right way to proceed.”

— Michael Frey (R-Sully)

Afterwards, Vice Chairman Penelope Gross announced that County Attorney David Weight will retire June 30, 2016 and will reorganize the day-to-day operations of the office.

The board will begin the search process for a county attorney by the end of this year.
Luxury Apartments Popping Up
Renters want resort-like amenities and access to transportation.

By Marilyn Campbell
The Connection

After a long, hard day at work, Jordan Coleman comes home to a large apartment with modern amenities, including a 24-hour concierge, ample living space, a state-of-the-art fitness center and a pool. The apartment features high-end appliances and finishes as well as an open, flowing layout and large walk-in closets. Coleman—a lawyer and Capitol Hill staffer—shares the pricey rent with a friend. The complex is owned by Avalon, which has properties in Arlington, Fairfax, Herndon, Falls Church, Tysons Corner and Vienna, Virginia, as well as Bethesda, Maryland, and Washington.

The demand for high-end apartments in the Washington, D.C., area is high, with rents soaring over the $7,000 mark. There are some who say the luxurious living spaces and carefree lifestyles are worth the extra money.

“There are two kinds of people who would be inclined to spend that kind of money in the luxury rental market,” said David Freishtat, who teaches in the Masters in Real Estate Development program at the University of Maryland and practices law in Potomac, Md. “First there are fairly successful, young people who buddy up and share an apartment with two or three friends. They can afford to spend 35-40 percent of take home pay in housing. They don’t spend much on food because they don’t have a family to feed,” he said.

“Empty-nesters who’ve sold their homes and decided to downsize are also inclined to rent high-end apartments. If they bought their house 20-30 years ago and sold it recently, they’re flush with cash,” said Freishtat. “They might be looking to buy a house in Florida or Arizona where there’s no income tax, but for the year and a half until they make that decision they’re going to live in a nice apartment because they’ve always lived in a nice house so they’re adaptable to those kinds of apartments.”

“The trade off in these buildings is that they are in great neighborhoods,” said Coleman. “They’re new construction and the layout is like you’re living in the suburbs, but with the convenience of living in the city. There are kitchens, bathrooms, living spaces are fluid and the closets are ridiculously large.”

ONE OF THOSE NEIGHBORHOODS is Reston Town Center in Reston, Va., with restaurants and shops and public transportation.

A new, luxury apartment building will have 360 apartments with easy access to such a lifestyle.

The Harrison at Reston Town Center is now open, promising 28,000 square feet of luxury, resort-style living, and an easy trip to downtown Washington, D.C. for work or play.

At The Harrison, where rent runs from just under $2,000 to as high as $6,650 a month, residents are offered such amenities as a culinary demonstration kitchen; a private dining room for wine tastings; a gaming area that offers pool, shuffleboard, chess, and card tables, a massage room, a spin studio and a 24-hour gym with state-of-the-art equipment. The pet-friendly property even caters to four-legged friends with a dog park and pet spa.

“People now want to simplify their lives,” said Karen A. Kossow, Vice President of Marketing, Community Realty Company, Inc. which provides leasing and management services for The Harrison. “They want an opportunity for a healthy and enriched lifestyle. For example, with the fitness center and lounge area, there are opportunities for socialization. You can keep your pet here, and there’s even a place to walk your dog or give it a shower. If you work from home there are offices with a printer and fax and conference rooms where you can hold a meeting. These things just make your life easier and simpler and give you more time to enjoy life.”

Also at Reston Town Center is The Metropolitan, owned by Kettler, a real estate development firm based in McLean, Va., and which manages apartments throughout Northern Virginia. Residents at some of the firm’s properties pay more than $7,000 a month for features such as 17-foot ceilings, floor-to-ceiling windows, wood flooring and ceramic tile bathrooms.

Kettler is also putting the finishing touches on The Acadia, a 411-unit, high-rise luxury apartment building in the Metropolitan Park section of Arlington, Va., and plans to begin leasing units this spring. In October, the firm will begin construction on m.flats Crystal City. It will be Kettler’s sixth property in the Pentagon-Crystal City neighborhood in Arlington.

“Our m.flats apartments are meeting a growing demand for living spaces within walking distance of work, shops and entertainment,” Robert C. Kettler, chairman and chief executive officer of Kettler, said in a statement. “Many young people are forming families later in life. As a result, they not only want to enjoy the vibrancy of city life, but live in an apartment that has many conveniences and amenities.”

At Bent Tree in Centreville, Va., managed by Lincoln Property Company, high-end units include cathedral ceilings, walk-in closets, lighted tennis courts, racquetball courts, a resort-style swimming pool, a cyber café, a fitness center, bike trails, barbeque and picnic areas and a spacious club house where people can hang out.

Proximity to transportation is another bonus, said Jeremy Feldman of Bent Tree. “You have the Fairfax Connector and we’re near the Metro.”

Luxury apartments that offer residents access to public transportation are doing well. Twenty percent of the units in The Harrison have already been rented, even before its grand opening.

Easy access to public transportation and close proximity to restaurants and shops attract residents to luxury apartment communities like The Harrison at Reston Town Center in Reston.

Grand Opening: The Harrison at Reston Town Center

The Harrison at Reston Town Center invites the public to its grand opening weekend, Saturday and Sunday, March 14-15: noon — ribbon cutting; 1-4 p.m. — property tours, cooking demonstrations, wine tasting, fitness class. RSVP for the grand opening events at www.liveharrisonapts.com.

Historic Virginia in Gardens

Located in a pastoral setting with grazing horses nearby, this graceful 1987 Georgian Revival house in Clifton draws its inspiration from historic Williamsburg.

dowel bar, solid cherry doors throughout, a master suite with his and hers dressing rooms and a sleek bath with heated marble floors. The eco-friendly, award-winning stable complex contains a four-stall barn, equipment storage, dry lots, round pen, composting system and pastures. Randall and Joan Onders, owners.

❖ Poplar Grove 11600 Lakeswood Lane, Fairfax Station Time stands still at Poplar Grove. A curving driveway leads visitors through towering oaks and flowering cherry and plum trees to a slower, more gentle way of living. The warm cream colored Federal-style home was built in 1964 and renovated quite literally from the ground up in 2001. The owners, one a landscape architect of world-class talent and the other a graduate of DuPage School of Horticulture and a seventh-generation Virginian, Poplar Grove

Clifton - Fairfax Station Carved a paradise of 18th-century grandeur out of what had been seven overgrown acres. The owners’ passion and expertise brought to life a two-level Colonial parterre kitchen garden with boxwood topiary, oyster-shell walkways and a climbing-rose-covered chicken coop for collecting daily eggs. Nearby is a vineyard with over 400 Petit Verdot grape vines. Visit the swimming pool garden and follow a shady path that leads to the secret white garden with a pond and splashing fountain. In fact, fountains can be heard bubbling and splashing in every direction. Another fountain brings wandering guests to an alfresco dining area reminiscent of Charleston. Inside, visitors find grand moldings, sparkling chandeliers and museum-quality artwork and antiques. This property is a must-see for antiques enthusiasts and avid garden designers alike. Master Gardeners will be available to answer questions in the gardens. Charles Prillaman and Parker Jennings, owners.

Places of Interest:
❖ Clifton Historic District. Well preserved and easy to walk, Clifton maintains the small-town feel of the turn of the twentieth century. Most homes were built in the late 1800s or early 1900s. Adaptive reuse is evident in the homes turned into thriving shops, businesses and restaurants. A stop on Virginia Civil War Trails, most of the buildings have plaques that explain their history. Watch for the commuter trains that still pass daily at the railroad crossing. CliftonVA.org

❖ St. Mary of Sorrows Catholic Church, Ox Road and Fairfax Station Road. Dedicated in 1860, St. Mary’s Catholic Church was built by Irish immigrants who came to work on the railroad. Here, Clara Barton nursed wounded soldiers evacuated from the Battle of Second Manassas. Still in use today, it is now a Historic District and a stop on the Virginia Civil War Trails. Four Sun Design remodeling projects named Washington-area “Contractor of the Year” winners.

By John Byrd

It’s been a good year for Sun Design Remodeling.

In January, the full-service design/build remodeler won four “Contractor of the Year” awards from the Washington, D.C. chapter of the National Association of the Remodeling Industry (NARI). Then, in February, an already locally-honored gourmet kitchen was named category best (“kitchen above $150k”) in the 10-state southeastern region.

Winning projects include: a rear elevation poolside recreation solution; a French Country gourmet kitchen (the southeastern regional winner); an open kitchen plan in a traditional interior style; and a lower-level build-out to designed for use by three generations.

French Country Kitchen Is Local and Regional COTY winner: Residential Kitchen Over $120,000

For Dr. Rick Layfield and his wife Kelly Layfield, the search for their dream kitchen started shortly after they purchased their 3,700-square-foot, four-bedroom home in Clifton eight years ago.

“The kitchen suite was a primary selling point,” Kelly Layfield said of the 400-square-foot room.

But she found the rear of the house dark and dated. Sightlines to the children’s backyard play areas weren’t well-aligned. And there was a visually obstructive bulkhead over the primary food preparation zone.

Also, the pentagon-shaped food preparation island and dining counter wasn’t well suited for in-kitchen dining. And the corner breakfast area was cramped — making it hard to access a door to the back porch which used to be a pathway to the family’s outdoor grill.

Fortunately, Kelly Layfield’s first meeting with designer John Benson was productive from the start. He proposed a rectangular food preparation island and dining counter wasn’t well suited for in-kitchen dining. And the corner breakfast area was cramped — making it hard to access a door to the back porch which used to be a pathway to the family’s outdoor grill.

Benson also helped Layfield explore the lighter, more textured hues she had been seeking: marble subway tile wall covering; surfaces in Granite Bianco Antico; white cabinets with glass facings; and an oven backsplash in a white quatrefoil tiling. The coffers, likewise, are delineated in a white and gray duotone.

“This is just the balance I was looking for,” Layfield said. “It feels like home.”

BEST RESIDENTIAL KITCHEN: Sun Design’s winning kitchen solution takes full advantage of a 13’ cathedral ceiling with a two-level window wall. Owner Melynda Britt says the space is much better organized, yet more accessible — perfect for entertaining.

Open Floorplan Defines Casual But Elegant Kitchen Residential Kitchen; $80k to $120k; COTY Honorable Mention

Steve and Melynda Britt’s four-bedroom colonial in Vienna offered considerable charms when the couple purchased it 10 years ago.

There was a nicely finished library and living room, a formal dining room and a sizable family room in the back half of the house with a 13-foot cathedral ceiling framing a lovely view of mature landscaping.

For Melynda Britt, the larger goal was a kitchen footprint that offered an efficient work space — integrated with the surrounding great room.

“Since the emphasis was on a more intelligent use of limited square footage,” Sun Design’s Durosko said, “we thought custom-built-ins would help create better coordinated work zones.”

Critiquing the kitchen now, Britt is amazed at how much more effectively the solution works on several fronts: The food preparation island protects the cook’s work triangle, and is positioned for easy service to the family room; the beverage station, an effective space divider, is accessible from both the breakfast area and family room; the coffee bar is situated between doors leading to the dining room and the breakfast room, out of the chef’s way; the kitchen’s mosaic tile flooring has been replaced by a refinished hardwood floor.

“We can now comfortably entertain 20-25 guests,” Britt said. “Better yet, the space is really warm and comfortable.”

Finished Lower Level Offers Multi-Gen Family Solution COTY Honorable Mention

Eric Park and his wife Tina, both physicians, were already quite busy 10 years ago when they purchased a 3,400-square-foot two-level neo-colonial in Falls Church.

“Our plan all along was to create a family home,” Tina Park said. “We saw the lower level eventually playing a part in our daily lives, but were only using it for storage. It wasn’t until my mother began regularly helping us with the girls that we began looking at the house more closely.”

At first Park’s mother, Kay, would stay in the guest room, but gradually everyone started looking at ways to increase available privacy.

It’s at this point that Sun Design Remodeling enters the story.

“A basement conversion is challenging,” said Sun Design’s Liz Lee-Sint, who guided the Park project from concept to completion, “especially when it’s going to be mainstreamed with the rest of the house.”

For Kay, the top priority was a suite with all the features of independent living, including a private entrance, a comfortable master suite and a fully functional kitchenette with dining for four.

On a separate note, the Parks envisioned a 195-square-foot family fitness center and a children’s play zone with custom built-ins.

Describing the finished décor as “modern Asian contemporary,” Tina Park stressed simple lines, soft tones and open visuals.

“It’s really the nicest place in the house now,” Park said. “And it satisfies so many different needs that it’s become our main gathering place.”

House and grounds reconciliation judged this year’s best Exterior Solution/COTY Grand award winner

As Monte Zaben tells it, the rear elevation to his 8,300-square-foot colonial in Fredericksburg was so sun-exposed it was uncomfortable sitting by the pool he had just installed the year before.

After researching several options, however, he stumbled on Sun Design’s portfolio of indoor-outdoor solutions, and set up a meeting.

Combining an extended radius that steps down to the pool with vaulted entrance way, the structure’s architecture is welcoming.

Tapered craftsman-style piers support a seam metal roof. Inside, three distinct activity zones flow together: an open-air lounge; a covered poolside vista with a pair of wicker chairs; and an outdoor kitchen equipped with a traditional grill, a power burner and refrigerators. A second level grilling deck is now, likewise, under roof.

Happy with the outcome, Zaben said he enjoys the outdoor kitchen so much he was out grilling one of his specialties this past January. “We make regular use of the outdoor space every day,” he adds. “It’s very much a part of our lives now.”
