Special Guests Highlight Great Falls Citizens Meeting

Local Boy Scouts meet State Sen. Favola, Del. Murphy.

BY ANDREA WORKER
THE CONNECTION

The monthly Great Falls Citizens Association (GFCA) meeting offered several special guests on the agenda for the March program, both as speakers and as attendees. Nearly one side of the meeting hall was taken up by Great Falls Boy Scout Troop 673. Scout Master Glenn Prickett explained the scouts' presence at the school night event. "In order for the scout to reach first class rank, he must meet with an elected official. It's important that our youth learn the value of participating in our government process," said Prickett. "We were thrilled to be invited and have this chance to meet our local representatives."

Prickett was referring to Virginia State Sen. Barbara Favola (D-31) and Del. Kathleen Murphy (D-34). The two state legislators were on hand to tell their constituents about the successes – and disappointments – of the most recent session that ended last week.

"The good news," Favola told the assembly, "is that I believe this year there was much less partisanship than in years past. There was some real communication between members on both sides of the aisle."

AMONG THE SUCCESSES that Favola announced were the securing of major funding for mental health issues for youth. "I'm sure you all remember the tragedy when (Virginia) Sen. Creigh Deeds was attacked by his mentally ill son, who then killed himself. Sen. Deeds found very little help from the system when trying to help his son. We want to do everything we can to prevent further such tragedies."

Favola also reported on bills that address sexual assaults on college campuses, that offer assistance to foster youth in furthering their educations, and that require homecare providers and hospices to report disciplinary action against staff members to the state's Department of Health. Before the passage of this bill, there was no requirement that these providers tell anyone of wrongdoings by staff members who interact with patients. An ethics bill was also passed that included the establishment of an Ethics Council in the Legislature. "It's not perfect," acknowledged Favola. "It was passed in the eleventh hour. We will have to go back to that one, but it's a start and gives senators and delegates a place to discuss things before there is a problem."

Among the disappointments in Favola's view were the failure to pass any type of gun safety legislation and the failure to move forward on Medicaid expansion in the

State Sen. Barbara Favola (D-31) and Del. Kathleen Murphy (D-34) were the distinguished speakers at the March meeting of the Great Falls Citizens Association. The elected officials were asked to speak to the question: "What's going on in Richmond" as the latest legislative session has just concluded.

Members of Great Falls Boy Scouts Troop 673 were invited to attend the meeting. The scouts need to interact with an elected official in order to advance in their scout ranks. state, leaving money that Virginians have already paid on the table, rather than being put to use to insure more citizens or improve health services.

Del. Murphy, just recently elected to the Virginia House of Delegates in January, was equally disappointed that gun safety bills failed to pass in this session. "We couldn't even get some of these to a hearing. That has to change," declared Murphy. The bill that Murphy supported was designed to keep guns away from persons with repeat convictions for domestic violence. "We were even willing to compromise and prohibit gun ownership for this group for just one year. Even that couldn't get through, when it is widely understood that when guns are available to persons who have committed such violence, then those guns will often be used against the victim."

After each elected official spoke, the floor was open to questions – and the Boy Scouts jumped right in. There were several questions about gun ownership and the potential threat to the Second Amendment. "We are not talking about what many see as gun control, interfering with a law-abiding citizen's right to bear arms," she explained. "But people who commit violence, repeatedly, against others should not have the same right to own guns. That's common sense, not gun control."

Seventh grader Matthew Fitzgerald of the Great Falls Boy Scout Troop 673, asked his governmental representatives a question about transportation safety for school children, giving a personal example of a serious situation that he had experienced aboard his own school bus. State Sen. Favola answered, discussing some options, and also suggesting that greater fines might be the answer for drivers who ignore the school bus stop signals.

Gun laws, transportation issues and education continued to be the main subject of the questions posed, both from the scouts and the adult citizenry. Favola took some time to briefly outline the recent history and the process of project development since the 2013 passage of the transportation funding bill. She also agreed with several comments about the difficulty that Virginia students have in getting into Virginia colleges, versus students from out of state. "We need more funding and support for our state institutions," she said. "We are creating a brain drain in Virginia. Students who go out of state for school frequently don't return after graduation. We need those educated young people with strong ties to our communities."

BEFORE THE GUESTS DEPARTED and the usual business of the association was taken up, GFCA board member Phil Pifer treated the audience to two compositions in contention for the state song of Virginia. "We haven't had one since they retired 'Carry Me Back to ole Virginny' in 1997," he said. After listening to each and viewing a slideshow that provided the lyrics for both "Our Great Virginia," and "Virginia, the Home of My Heart," Pifer called for a straw poll, asking that the gathering choose their favorite. "Virginia, the Home of My Heart," was the hands down winner.

More about GFCA can be learned from their newly updated website at www.gfca.org.

Leadership Fairfax Hosts Supervisors Breakfast

State of the County Address, supervisors' questions and an award ceremony top the agenda.

BY ANDREA WORKER
THE CONNECTION

The agenda and the speakers have to be of significant interest to get some 300 people to brave local traffic and attend a meeting that started at 7:30 a.m. Leadership Fairfax (LFI) apparently succeeded in offering both in the ballroom of the Fairview Park Marriott on Friday morning, March 13, hosting its 24th Annual Board of Supervisors Breakfast. This was a chance to hear in person the State of the County from Sharon Bulova, chairman of the Board of Supervisors, and to participate in an "Ask the Supervisor Questions" forum with all but one member of the board in attendance.

Before the supervisors took to the dais, there were the welcoming addresses and remarks of gratitude to supporters like Presenting Sponsor TD Bank and Coffee Sponsor Atlantic Realty Companies by LFI President and CEO Elizabeth Murphy. There was also a ceremony to honor Dean Klein, recipient of the 2015 Katherine K. Hanley Public Service Award. Now in its 12th year, the award recognizes sustained contributions by public-sector employees, nonprofits, or appointees to a public board, authority or commission and is intended to honor outstanding accomplishments and lasting contributions to the quality of life in the community.

Rodney Lusk, chair of the award Selection Committee, called the choice of Klein as the award winner a unanimous one, noting that since Klein's 2009 appointment to director of the Fairfax County Office to Prevent and End Homelessness, Fairfax County is now seen as a national leader in this effort. "Dean has spearheaded a 33 percent decrease in the number of homeless in the county," cited Lusk, "and a 288 percent increase in moving people out of emergency shelter and into permanent housing."

THE NAMESAKE OF THE AWARD and a former chairman of the Fairfax County Board of Supervisors, Katherine Hanley, was next to praise Klein. She began by reading his lengthy job description. "I think the only more daunting positions one could hold would be Director to Achieve World Peace, or End Traffic Jams on I-66, but I am happy to say he's successful — and really good at it."

The final presenter was U.S. Rep. Gerry Connolly (D-11), who said that Klein was a true leader in his position because he brought a "clear sense of the mission, a passion for the work, and metrics — the ability to measure our efforts." Klein then accepted his award, saying he was humbled by the honor. Likening his acceptance to the Oscars — "There are too many people to thank in too short a time" — Klein did single out Connolly "for his belief that we can end homelessness in Fairfax County," Elizabeth Klein "for bringing this group together," and "all of the individuals, our nonprofits, our partner businesses and our faith community who all work together."

After the award presentation, LFI Class of '99 graduate Casey Veatch took control of the proceedings, introducing the Board of Supervisors, and acting as moderator. Veatch informed the audience that the supervisors had been given a "homework assignment" to present an inspirational quote and explain their choice. The answers were varied. Retiring Supervisor Michael Frey (R-Sully District) chose words from "that great American philosopher, Garth Brooks." Also retiring, Supervisor Gerry Hyland (D-Mount Vernon) went for the more traditional with the famous "Ask not what your country can do for you," quote from President John F. Kennedy. Supervisor John Cook (R-Braddock) echoed the sentiments of Clint Eastwood's 1970's Dirty Harry character, "A man's gotta know his limitations." "Getting out in the community helps us know our limitations and stay grounded," said Cook. Bulova said the past year had given her opportunities to make use of her quote: "Never let a good crisis go to waste." At the conclusion of Bulova's summary, moderator Veatch then began asking "the tough questions."

Supervisor John Foust (D-Dranesville) was asked to speak about the board's recent adoption of a Strategic Economic Success Plan. "There are several parts to the plan, but basically, we need to come up with ways to diversify our economy, rather than relying so heavily on Federal Government business. We need to review our systems and procedures to make them more business friendly and create spaces where

Memorable Achievements of 2014

Sharon Bulova's bullet points for memorable events and achievements for the county in 2014 included:

- ❖ The opening of the Silver Line Metrorail service from Wiehle-Reston East Station in Reston through Tysons and into the District, noting that the Wiehle Station is one of the busiest stations in the entire system.
- ❖ The implementation of the Express Lanes on I-95
- ❖ The major revitalization of Springfield Town Center
- ❖ Bicycle Master Plan — citing the addition of a heavily used Bike Room at the Wiehle Station.
- ❖ Additions and improvements to Fairfax County Parks and Recreation Facilities, with local trails that connect to national trails traversing the entire eastern seaboard from New England to Key West.
- ❖ Full Day Mondays — standardizing the school day for the entire week in elementary schools
- ❖ The opening of the first urban-style school in the district using a re-purposed abandoned commercial building people want to be."

Supervisor Pat Herrity (R-Springfield) responded to a related question. "To fuel our growth, we need to leverage our resources, what's working well for us now. We need to develop and support centers of research. We need to work on our zoning and permitting and find a way for our people to say 'yes.' And we need to keep Dulles Airport strong."

Cook called for increased technical and skills training in our school systems. "We need to better connect the education with the job with the student. And that may sometimes be outside the traditional 4 year degree."

THE SO-CALLED "DAILY DOUBLES" were next on the questions agenda, and Veatch called on two supervisors to offer the pros and cons for each of several controversial topics.

On adding a Meals Tax in Fairfax County, Foust gave the opposing viewpoint stating that the public was against the additional tax and that it would hurt the local restaurant business. Hyland disagreed, citing similar taxes in Alexandria that have not harmed competition there. "We can't keep hitting the real estate stream for our revenue. We need to diversify," he insisted.

Bulova and Frey were handed the topic of the new Ad Hoc Police Practices Review Commission. "We can't rest on our laurels," said Bulova, "even though we are one of the safest jurisdictions for our size in the nation." Bulova contends that the commission can enhance and improve the police department and its relationship with the community. Frey's response was that the charge of the commission is too broad to be effective, and that its workings could be "wrapped up in elections."

Frey was immediately handed another hot potato; for or against the recent vote to increase the salaries of the board's members. "I have always supported higher compensation for the board. We are a $7 bil

Comstock Announces Military Academy Day

U.S. Rep. Barbara Comstock (R-10) announced the annual 10th Congressional District Military Academy Day. This year's Military Academy Day will be held Saturday, April 11 from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the Loudoun County Public School Administration building located at 21000 Education Court, Ashburn. The event is free and open to all students, parents and guidance staff who are interested in learning more about the nation's military service academies.

"Our military service academies educate and train the future leaders of the greatest fighting force in the world," said Comstock. "I look forward meeting the young men and women from the 10th Congressional District who have an interest not only serving their country but enriching themselves with an education that will turn them into future leaders of our great country."

Representatives from all of the service academies – Army, Navy, Air Force, Merchant Marine and Coast Guard – will be in attendance. Also, representatives

Fixing the Unfixable

Dynamic father-son duo contributes to educating families about Type I Diabetes.

BY KEN MOORE
THE CONNECTION

Michael Sevila shares the same field as Chicago Bears quarterback Jay Cutler. Like Cutler, who also has Type I diabetes, Michael is the one in charge. “Almost overnight, I had been put in charge of things my body was supposed to do,” he wrote, in the introduction to a book based on his personal experience with Type I diabetes.

Michael remembers being in the hospital Labor Day weekend when he was 12. “I said to my Dad, ‘We have to fix this.’”

“Dads are really good at fixing things, so I thought we could figure this out,” according to Michael, now a freshman at Langley High School. “Only this time, there was no fix.”

Doctors told Michael and his father, Butch Sevila, that he had Type I diabetes, often called juvenile diabetes.

“We knew nothing about Type I diabetes, but the doctors recognized it,” Butch Sevila said. “As parents were were completely taken aback.”

SINCE THE DIAGNOSIS, Sevila, his son and family learned that there’s nothing Michael can’t do. He does need to remain diligent and focused on ensuring his blood sugars are at the right level.

“I have become really good at the math required to calculate how much insulin to do depending on the number of carbohydrates I plan to eat,” he wrote, in the beginning of the book. “I tend to eat better than my friends.”

Save the Date

“It’s very important to manage, because it has negative consequences if you don’t keep it in check,” said Sevila.

Butch Sevila heard children’s book author Cindy Chambers speak at the Rotary Club of Great Falls about her book series (Tell-Me-Town) on educating families about medical conditions.

Sevila contacted Chambers and asked if she would consider writing a book about Type I diabetes, according to Jeff Thinner, chairman of the Rotary Club of Great Falls. The club presented Chambers and doctors with a check Thursday, March 12.

“I don’t want any other kids to go through what we went through, not knowing what’s going on,” Sevila said.

Chambers wrote the book, “Beamer Learns About Type I Diabetes,” as part of her Beamer Book Series. Michael is the main character, and his football coach, father, friends and teammates all make appearances.

His doctor, Dr. Otilia Neacsu, nicknamed Dr. Nachos, says the book “makes a huge impact on our families.”

“It’s a privilege to watch him grow,” the Inova Fairfax doctor told the Great Falls Rotary on Thursday, March 12.

“The book will end up saving lives because families will know what they see when they see Type I diabetes,” Chambers told the Rotary at their weekly breakfast at River Bend Golf and Country Club.

Michael’s doctors attended the breakfast along with 30 Rotary members. Michael hopes it will help other children going through the same thing he did, especially at the hospital.

Sevila said four students in Michael’s class at Langley have juvenile diabetes.

“It does seem hard at first, but I’ve managed,” Michael said.

“It does have to be controlled,” said his father.

Michael is pictured in the book wearing the same number as Bryce Harper, his fa-

MICHAEL PLAYS junior varsity baseball at Langley, does a 100-mile fundraising bike ride with his father to raise money for juvenile diabetes research, helps with the Great Falls Car Show in October, another fundraiser, and surfs, “wherever I can,” including Coco Beach, Fla.

“While having Type I Diabetes changes my daily routine, it doesn’t change me,” Michael wrote.

He says he knows how different sports affect him and his insulin level.

“Michael, thank you so much for sharing your story,” his doctors told him in front of the Great Falls Rotary last Thursday.

“Although there is no cure yet, I hope to one day say that I contributed to one,” Michael said.

GF Hoops Awards Matthew Poyner Youth Leadership Scholarships

On Saturday, March 7, GF Hoops awarded the Matthew Poyner Youth Leadership Scholarship to four high school seniors from the Great Falls community. The scholarship was named for Matthew Poyner, a sophomore at Langley High School who quietly passed away in his sleep on Feb. 24, 2015. Matthew was an assistant coach for GF Hoops and was working with a fifth grade boys team this season. He was dedicated to GF Hoops and believed strongly in giving back to the community. This year’s recipients are: Gage Beckwith, Nicholas Ehat, Meagan Fountain and Jenny Labovitz. They were awarded the scholarships based on their commitment to GF Hoops and their leadership within GF Hoops. All four recipients were involved with GF Hoops as players, coaches and referees.

WE CHANGE LIVES

Maybe it really is you. Maybe you really don't belong in a "gym."

Many people just don't do well in a typical big box gym. Those gyms are too big, there is nobody to help you, and it's easy to get lost in the sea of people already in shape.

It is hard to get serious about fitness when you feel like you don't belong at the gym, when you feel like nobody really cares about you after you join.

But fitness might be the most important thing to living a healthy life. Being healthy makes you a happier person, a better parent, employee, partner or spouse. Fitness is the key to getting involved in life. You can choose to fully embrace your own fitness life, or you can watch other people living theirs. Only YOU can decide to change your life and body when you are ready.

At Koko, we understand all of this, which is why our company was founded over a decade ago. We are the small, alternative fitness choice that exists for people who feel they don't fit into that impersonal big box fitness center.

If you like lots of help and guidance, then we are for you. If you like a small, comfortable place to work out with people just like you, then Koko is your gym. If other gyms have failed you and you felt lost in the crowd, we are here to make sure that this time -- with personal guidance and the proven Koko training methodology -- you will succeed.

Don't take our word for it, come see us for yourself. We offer a full 30-day membership, including full access to our training and coaching programs, for only $30. Come experience what makes Koko so special. Meet our clients and our staff, and give us a chance to prove that this time you will succeed.

Fitness has to be part of your life; it shapes the way you live today and how you'll look and feel tomorrow. If you have failed before in fitness, remember that there is a place here in our community that is truly different and willing to prove it to you. This time, it is all about you. This time, you will change your life.

Yours in fitness,
The Team at Koko FitClub

Try us 30 days risk free for just $30. Meet our team, talk with our members, and enjoy all that the digital gym has to offer. There is no obligation: If you don't love Koko in 30 days, we haven't earned your business.

*Some restrictions may apply. See club for details.

Koko is all about family for us... it was my 17 year old who begged me to give it a try. I loved it at first because it was easy to fit into my schedule and was something fun for me to do with my teenager. Now I love KOKO because I see the results and I feel so much better. KOKO is just a part of my life. KOKO is like no other fitness experience. It's not a regular gym (thank God -- no mirrors!). And it is an easy way to fit exercise into your schedule without it being a drag. I actually like working out now which was certainly not the case before. KOKO is fun because it challenges you individually, is efficient and gets results! I recommended it to my neighbors and now they're KOKO Nuts too!

~ Leesa Donner, Great Falls

I previously belonged to three other gyms in Reston, and I had never made it a full year before my attendance dropped off. With Koko, however, I recently passed my two year anniversary and am still going strong. I love that I can get a full body workout every time in less than an hour.

The cardio and strength workouts continue to push me to work harder than I ever did on my own at previous gyms. As a result, I'm in the best shape of my adult life. And the desire to keep feeling this healthy and strong keeps me coming back. Thanks Koko!

~ Watt H., Reston, VA

There is absolutely no way I would achieve what I do at this club ANYWHERE else. I've lost over 15 lbs, my blood pressure is lower, and I am looking and feeling better than I have in 10 years!

OPINION

On Police Information and Secrecy

Time for change in public access to police information.

The first meeting of the Fairfax County Ad Hoc Police Practices Review Commission will take place next Monday, March 23, and it comes with hope for real change.

Police could take one step that would signal that they are serious about regaining public trust.

Police departments in Northern Virginia should let go of their relentless pursuit of secrecy. Police departments all over the country routinely allow access to police reports, incident reports, dashboard video and many other sources of information without harm, all things that police here refuse to allow the public to see.

The first paragraph of Virginia Freedom of Information Act, passed by the General Assembly in 1968, states that all public records “shall be presumed open.” But the legislation includes an exception that allows police to withhold “complaints, memoranda, correspondence, case files or reports, witness statements and evidence.”

Police officials in Fairfax (and also in Arlington and Alexandria) have adopted what they call a “blanket” approach to using their exemption. That means they have decided to withhold any document they can without any analysis of whether they should, whether the case is open or closed, whether they are about a “police-involved shooting” or information requested by a family about a homicide victim.

It is only because of legal action by the family of John Geer, shot dead by a Fairfax County police officer in the doorway to his own home in August 2013, and the resulting court order that we know details of what happened that day. And what we now know confirms that the information released by police was incomplete and misleading at best.

We’ve learned that we cannot trust the leadership at the Fairfax County Police Department to tell the truth voluntarily on these matters. (See Editorial: “Not the First or Only Time,” Connection, Feb. 11, 2015.)

Repeating what we have said in this space many times: Police wield power unlike any other entity — the power to detain and question, the power to arrest, the power to respond with force when necessary, sometimes deadly force.

With that power, comes responsibility — the responsibility to operate openly and with transparency, the responsibility to make available the greatest possible amount of information, especially the responsibility to provide the public with a full picture of what happened when something goes wrong.

Most Northern Virginia residents think very highly of their police. We are very safe here. People understand that sometimes mistakes happen, that sometimes force is needed, and that sometimes police will exercise deadly force. What they are unlikely to accept is secrecy that shrouds mistakes, and failure to take responsibility for explaining events of deadly force.

It’s clear that discretion about when to withhold information cannot be left up to the police department.

Surrounded by History, Inspired by Legacy

Delegate reflects on freshman year in Richmond.

BY KATHLEEN MURPHY
STATE DELEGATE (D-34)

It has been scarcely two months since a snowy day in January when voters in McLean, Great Falls and Sterling chose me, in a special election, to represent them in the Virginia House of Delegates. Since then, everything has moved at warp speed! I won the election on a Tuesday and was in Richmond the following Thursday to be sworn in. The 2015 Session of the General Assembly began less than a week later. I am so honored to represent our community. When I stood on the floor of the Virginia House of Delegates, raised my right hand and swore to protect and defend the Constitution, it took my breath away. I was surrounded by history, by the legacy of delegates who have come before us: Patrick Henry, Thomas Jefferson, James Madison, James Monroe and so many more. These were the founders of our democracy. I continue to be inspired by their legacy. During the 45-day Session, we considered over 2,000 bills. I was appointed to the Finance Committee and the Committee on Privileges and Elections. The pace was non-stop. However, I carved out time almost every day to meet in my office with constituents who had travelled to Richmond as citizen advocates on matters before the General Assembly. I joined two caucuses, groups of Delegates with a common interest in a particular issue. The Military and Veterans Caucus focuses on creating jobs and educational opportunities for veterans and their families. I also joined the Renewable Energy Caucus, which is focused on the best utilization of all our energy resources in Virginia to help us lower costs and protect our environment. One important accomplishment of the 2015 Session was passage of the Omnibus Ethics Reform Bill. I believe this is a major step forward in the effort to deliver an honest, open government for all Virginians. We also passed bills to help protect students from sexual assault on college campuses that will facilitate collaboration between college staff and law enforcement and provide victims with safe avenues for reporting an assault. At the beginning of the Session, Virginia government faced the need to reduce expenditures because of a shortfall in tax collections. I am pleased that Governor McAuliffe stepped up to protect funding for K-12 public education. All Virginian children deserve access to a quality education, no matter what their economic background. I was disappointed when the House Education Committee refused to pass my bill calling for a plan to implement full day kindergarten in Loudoun County, one of only four Virginia jurisdictions that do not provide universal full day kindergarten. I was also disappointed that we were unable to break through the blockade in the House of Delegates that prevents any meaningful progress toward gun safety. I introduced a bill to bar any criminal convicted twice of violent domestic abuse from having access to guns for a period of time, but even this common sense measure was defeated by the sub-committee that controls all such legislation. As a new delegate, I had a very rewarding and productive experience during my first session in Richmond. I found my colleagues in the General Assembly, whether Democrat or Republican, rural or urban, to be truly dedicated to pursuing the best interests of their constituents. I was pleased at how many of my fellow delegates reached out to help a freshman learn the ropes. I look forward to continuing to work with my colleagues to craft bills that will help create jobs, strengthen the middle class, and work toward building the new Virginia economy.

BY TIM PETERSON
THE CONNECTION

After a friend of South County High School senior Sakira Coleman was sexually assaulted while running on a local public path, Coleman decided to take action and started the “Fight for Your Right to Run at Night” program.

“I don’t like feeling helpless,” Coleman said. “This is about raising awareness.”

The senior has also served as president of the school service club “Stallions Lend a Hand” and volunteered at Greenspring Retirement Community, a workload that in addition to actual schoolwork requires “no sleep ever” to maintain.

Coleman and 22 other peace-promoting students and student organizations were recognized March 15 at the Student Peace Awards of Fairfax County, held at Mountain View Alternative High School in Centreville. From anti-bullying event organizers to student association presidents and volunteers in the community, the student leaders were chosen for exhibiting high moral and civic values.

“The number of ways to peace is limited only by the human imagination,” said Dr. Margaret Fisher with the Peace Awards coalition as she opened the program. “Seemingly endless suffering in the world can give way when we join our strengths together.”

The peace awards started in 2006 with one high school and faith-based sponsorship. The event has grown such that now each public high school and three private schools in Fairfax County may select students for the awards and there are 14 faith-based and secular sponsors.

This year schools were also able to select organizations to honor, including: the Anti-Bullying Committee of Cedar Lane School in Vienna, the Dare to Care anti-bullying group of Hayfield Secondary School in Alexandria and The Peer Mediation Program of J.E.B. Stuart High School in Falls Church.

As students were called to the stage in the Mountain View auditorium, they received a copy of Mark Andreas’ book “Sweet Fruits from a Bitter Tree.” Along with a monetary award, each student also chose a charitable organization to which $100 would be donated in their name.

Guest speaker Vickie Shoap, restorative justice specialist for Fairfax County Public Schools, addressed the audience once the students were recognized.

“When I looked at what these students have done,” said Shoap, “I was humbled and lifted. There is hope for the future.”

Shoap referenced the nonviolence and civil disobedience that characterized the work of the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr, commenting that “We’re all fighting for human rights.

“We’re change agents,” she continued. “It’s hard to talk about things that are difficult in their communities.” But, Shoap said, “You’re connected to a growing global community of peace-makers.”

Though mostly upper-classmen were recognized with peace awards, Seungmin Lee of Rocky Run Middle School represented the next wave of peacemakers. His artwork was featured on the back of the event’s program and won first place in the Fairfax Lions Club 2014 Peace Poster Contest.

Lee used colored pencils to depict a red, white and blue dove flying over a globe and a peace sign, with hands of various skin tones reaching towards it. “It’s about people sharing, understanding each other, that peace is beautiful,” said Lee.

Sakira Coleman commented that although the students receiving awards have done a lot for promoting peace and reducing violence, “There’s always more to do. It’s nice to see we’ve already started.”

Award winners not present included Nimra Bilal, a senior at Mount Vernon High School; Hanna Shiferaw, a senior at Quander Road School in Alexandria; and Reem Mohamed, a senior at the Thomas Jefferson High School for Science and Technology.

Lifesaving Dogs Honored in Great Falls

Seneca Hill Animal Hospital, Resort and Spa welcomes dogs returning from Afghanistan.

On March 10, Seneca Hill Animal Hospital, Resort and Spa hosted an event at their facility in Great Falls to celebrate the retirement and repatriation of 21 life-saving Mine Detection Dogs (MDDs) from Afghanistan. These dogs recently arrived in the U.S. to join families from around the country who are opening up their hearts and homes to these incredibly deserving dogs. Over the past three weeks, Seneca Hill has been providing all of the MDDs that arrived in D.C. with excellent veterinary care and boarding in their world-class kennel. These animals have spent the past six to eight years “sniffing out” landmines and saving lives in Afghanistan, and they are now being adopted by American families through an innovative partnership between the Marshall Legacy Institute (www.marshall-legacy.org), the U.S. Department of State’s Office of Weapons Removal and Abatement (PM/WRA) (www.state.gov/t/pm/wra), SPCA International (www.spcai.org), Mission K9 (www.missionk9rescue.org), and Seneca Hill Animal Hospital Resort and Spa (www.senecahillvet.com).

For more than a quarter of a century Seneca Hill has been providing compassionate, quality pet care in the Greater Washington Area. Seneca Hill is a family-owned, state-of-the-art pet care facility where veterinarians, technicians, doggie day care specialists, grooming stylists, swim instructors, and dog trainers are all committed to excellence in pet care and client service. The owners of Seneca Hill, Dr. Janice Homan and John Homan, have been strong supporters of the Marshall Legacy Institute (MLI) for the past twelve years and insisted on supporting the retirement of the canine heroes upon their arrival in the United States. The Homans and their staff have worked over the past several weeks to ensure that the dogs arriving in DC acclimated to their new surroundings and were given any needed veterinary care.

During the ceremony, Perry F. Baltimore, the President and CEO of the Marshall Legacy Institute, spoke to the gathered audience about the work these dogs accomplished in Afghanistan, and presented the Homans and their staff with a plaque and certificates of appreciation as a small gesture of thanks for their generosity. Steve Costner, Deputy Director of the U.S. Department of State’s Office of Weapons Removal and Abatement (PM/WRA), then addressed the audience, sharing the State Department’s role in helping to retire the 21 MDDs and his office’s strong support for demining operations in Afghanistan. He stated that MLI is one of the original five organizations that the State Department has partnered with since 1997 to do this sort of work around the world. Each of the retired dogs that remained at Seneca Hill was then brought out for photos with the audience members, including the sponsors of the dogs, the new adopters, and the State Department, MLI, and Seneca Hill staff. Following the ceremony, most of the dogs left with their adopters to go to their new homes, with only two dogs remaining at Seneca Hill to await their pick-up later this week.

The Right Fit: Choosing a Summer Camp

How parents can ensure positive summer experiences for their children.

BY MARILYN CAMPBELL
THE CONNECTION

Though the official start of spring is still days away and the fridity of winter is still recent on the minds of many, Janelle Wright, a Potomac, Md., mother of two, has already mapped out the summer for her children.

Wright did research before signing up her 13-year-old daughter, Corrine, in an academic camp geared toward boosting her English composition skills, and enrolling her 12-year-old son, Teddy, in a camp for children whose needs fall just outside the norm.

Indeed, experts say social interactions, a chance to have fun and an opportunity to fill the time between family trips are just some of the benefits of summer camps.

There are camps for every child, no matter their needs.

"I spoke to the camp and shared with them up front that my son might need help socializing with other kids," said Wright. "He might need directions repeated to him. I did that so I could drive away in peace knowing that he'd be fine. It's different for my daughter because she doesn't have any challenges. I don't have to call the camp and talk to them like I do with my son."

WHETHER A CHILD is typical or falls slightly outside the norm, doing a bit of research and exercising forethought are good ideas when selecting summer programs. In fact, advanced planning and registration for summer camp is essential in the Washington, D.C., region, say educators.

"It's important to find an activity that kids already like to do. It's summer so kids should have fun," said Linda Gulyn, Ph.D., professor of psychology at Marymount University in Arlington.

"Choose a camp where they won't feel lonely. It helps to sign them up with a buddy, especially in late elementary and middle school so they'll have one or two people at camp they already know. That really does matter."

If choosing a specialty camp, summer might not be the time for embarking on a new activity, however. "Summer camps may not be a time to have kids do something completely new," she said. "For example, if a child has never played golf, you might not want to invest money in a golf camp if you aren't sure your child will enjoy it. A child needs to feel like this is not school where they are struggling to learn a new activity."

The most important thing is for parents to do their research.

"Interview the camp director," said Lois McCabe, head of school for The Diener School in Potomac. "What does the day look like? How structured or unstructured is it? It is good to have a mix of both."

This is particularly true for children with special needs. "You want to make sure the camp understands the needs of special needs children," said McCabe. "You don't want to throw them in this big unstructured environment with other kids and hope for the best. You want to make sure your child's peer groups understand your child."

"Parents should consider a camp that taps into their child's strengths, the size of the groupings during the day," said Susan J. Johnson, Ph. D., of Commonwealth Academy in Alexandria. "Consider the length of time for each activity."

Johnson advises that parents try coordinating their child's attention span with the camp's schedule. "Match camp schedule with body clock of the child," she said. "Schedule afternoon camp for children who naturally sleep late in the mornings, for example."

INFORM THE CAMP'S STAFF if a child has allergies, medical needs or phobias. For special needs children, Johnson says camp counselors and directors should be "aware of a child's specific learning disabilities, and trained in how to teach children with learning disabilities, present directions, teach multiple strategies for learning new skills and always incorporate hands-on learning activities."

For children who are prone to feeling anxious about going to camp, Johnson suggests parents do a practice run to camp and visit the campus or building. "This will ease first day anxiety and give the camper self confidence that he or she knows his way around," she said. "Meet the counselors if possible."

There are also options if parents want their children to enjoy typical camp activities like swimming and arts and crafts combined with academics. For example, Wright chose an English program at St. Andrew's Episcopal School in Potomac for her daughter.

"[Our] summer programs encompass academics for credit or enrichment and the arts [including] visual, performing and culinary," said Monique McMillan-Jackson, director of summer programs. St. Andrews also offers sports and technology camps.

Campers who attend Summer at Norwood in Potomac can expect to "camp outside the lines," said Kevin Rechen, director of auxiliary programs at Norwood School. The school's camps run the gamut from art, science, technology and adventure to academics, dance, sports and theater.

SOME DAY CAMPS are structured to allow parents to choose the week their child will attend camp based on the camper's interests.

"We have a theme for every week that is packed with field trips and special events" said Fred Lowery, owner of Kiddie Country in Burke, which is running 11 weeks of camp this summer. "All of the camp activities are related to the theme. There are field trips to the Maryland Science Center, a Washington Mystics game, Reptiles Alive and Hershey Park. On site, we have everything from mad science to jugglers to swimming."

Traditional camp experiences, like opportunities for socializing with peers, are still found in specialty camps.

"As [campers] learn to identify, measure and combine ingredients, they are also learning important life skills, working together as a team and ultimately creating a delicious meal," said Jennifer Bashaw, curriculum development coordinator at Tiny Chefs, Inc. "Children leave our camps with a greater confidence in their kitchen skills and personal creativity."

lion company with 11,000 employees. Our constituents rightly expect to see us at events on weekends and at night. The time has long since passed that we could be considered part-timers," he said. "And we need to be able to attract from the best to encourage competition for each seat." Supervisor Linda Smyth (D-Providence) voted against the proposed salary increase. "We are in tight financial times, facing cuts today, and projected harder times and cuts in 2017. In most cases we haven't been able to support 6 percent salary increases in total for the last several years for our employees. How can we justify an increase like this for ourselves?"

And the final "Daily Double:" Who should control local roads: The county or the state? "In 47 out of 50 states, local government controls local roads. We are better equipped to be more responsive," said Cook. "We certainly get all the complaints," he added. Cook warned, however, that taking control of roads would require a funding mechanism, or the consequences could be disastrous. For the opposition, Supervisor Penny Gross (D-Mason) noted that the start-up costs could be astronomical and that the liability issues were of great concern. "There's no proof available that local control would really improve the situation," she said, "and I am fairly certain that local taxes would have to go up significantly to cover the costs."

The Reston Chorale to Present 'Choral Splendor: Music of France'

On Sunday, March 22, The Reston Chorale will present Choral Splendor: Music of France, featuring Louis Vierne's Messe Solennelle in its rarely heard original form: With mixed chorus and two organs. The performance — taking place at 4 p.m. in Saint Luke Catholic Church of McLean — will be accompanied by Saint Luke organist Paul Skevington and The Reston Chorale's keyboard artist, Tordis Fahringer.

Just as Vierne intended, the mass will be performed with musical forces at opposite ends of the church. At the front, Skevington will be at the keyboard of Saint Luke's 61-rank Steiner-Reck organ. With 3,169 pipes, it is one of the largest pipe organs in Northern Virginia. The Reston Chorale will sing from the rear, accompanied by Fahringer on a two-manual Roland choir organ.

"The audience will literally be surrounded by this grand musical dialogue between the pipe organ and the Chorale," said Artistic Director David B. Lang. "It's extremely rare for this composition — one of the most unique masses ever written — to be heard in its original form. We are very grateful to R.A. Daffer Church Organs, Inc., for providing the Roland organ, enabling us to present Vierne's masterpiece as the composer intended: with two organs."

Choral Splendor: Music of France will also feature Notre Père and Four Motets by Maurice Duruflé, Cantique de Jean Racine by Gabriel Fauré, Psalm 150 by César Franck and a choral arrangement of Charles-Marie Widor's magnificent "Toccata" from Organ Sym- phony No. 5.

Concert tickets may be purchased online, in advance, at www.restonchorale.org, or at the door one hour before the performance at Saint Luke Catholic Church, 7001 Georgetown Pike, McLean, Virginia. Online tickets are $20/Seniors (62+) and $25/Adults (18-61); ticket prices at the door will be $25/Seniors and $30/Adults. Youth 17 and under will be admitted for free when accompanied by an adult or senior ticket holder. (Youth tickets are required.)

Established in 1967, The Reston Chorale is an auditioned, mixed-voice chorus with a full repertoire including choral masterworks, American classics, pops and new compositions. In March 2014, the Chorale presented the world premiere of Donald McCullough's The Essential Life, which commemorated the 50th Anniversary of Reston and the 100th birthday of founder Robert E. Simon, Jr. The Chorale performs signature events throughout the year in Reston and at a variety of venues including the Kennedy Center, Wolf Trap, George Mason University Center for the Arts, and the Rachel M. Schlesinger Concert Hall and Arts Center. The Reston Chorale is a nonprofit 501(c)3 organization and supported in cooperation with the Arts Council of Fairfax County, the Virginia Commission for the Arts, the National Endowment for the Arts, corporate grants, and individual donors.

Langley sophomore striker Jacob Labovitz scored two goals during the Saxons' season-opening 3-0 win over Wakefield on Monday.

Senior captain Max McKee (9) and the Langley boys' soccer team opened the 2015 season with a 3-0 win over Wakefield on Monday.

Labovitz's Goals Push Langley Past Wakefield

Saxons have sights set on state championship.

BY JON ROETMAN
THE CONNECTION

The 2014 Langley boys' soccer team squandered a stellar regular season by losing to McLean in the opening round of the Conference 6 tournament and failing to qualify for regionals.

On Monday, the Saxons opened the 2015 campaign on a much more pleasant note.

Langley traveled to South Arlington and blanked Wakefield 3-0, taking the first step in what the Saxons hope is a state championship season. Sophomore striker Jacob Labovitz scored a pair of goals for Langley, and sophomore Sam Golan added an insurance goal late in the match.

"Coming in, we're very optimistic," Langley head coach Bo Amato said. "... We're young, but we're good."

PHOTOS BY LOUISE KRAFFT/THE CONNECTION
Senior midfielder Daniel Levetown is a captain for the Langley boys' soccer team.

After starting the 2014 season with a loss to Yorktown and a scoreless tie against Wakefield, the Saxons went 10-0-1 in their final 11 regular-season matches. But Langley's season came to a crashing halt in the conference quarterfinals, when the Saxons lost to McLean, 1-0.

Labovitz said the loss drives the Saxons.

"It makes us [hungrier] for this year, to win it," he said. "It's always in our back pocket [as motivation] to keep winning. We're going to come back stronger this year, definitely."

What did Labovitz learn from the loss?

"I learned no matter what seed you are, no matter where you are in the tournament," he said, "anyone can beat anyone any day."

Labovitz helped Langley get off to a strong start against Wakefield on March 16, scoring the team's first goal of the season in the 24th minute. In the second half, the sophomore gave Langley a 2-0 lead with a goal in the 54th minute.

Amato said he's looking for Labovitz to score 20 goals this season.

"He's a good player," Amato said. "... He just works so hard away from practice. He wants to be a better athlete. He goes and does things to make himself a better soccer player. He has no ego whatsoever. He just wants to get better and better and better."

Amato described the team's mindset in a similar fashion.

"They're hard-working," Amato said. "One of the beauties of this group versus some of the other Langley teams is there's really no egos, which is terrific. Typically, we've got some guys that think they're better than everybody else [and] that ends up being more of a cancer than [a benefit]."

Langley's senior captains are midfielder Daniel Levetown, striker Max McKee and goalkeeper Cole Stinger.

Langley will travel to face Yorktown at 7 p.m. on Wednesday, March 18. The Saxons' home opener is Tuesday, March 24 against Chantilly.

"[Our goal is] definitely win states, [it] has always been our minds," Labovitz said. "But [we need to] get past districts, I'd say, first."

Madison Suffers Overtime Loss to Cosby in State Semis

Warhawks senior Koshuta finishes with 32 points, 11 rebounds.

Madison senior Kelly Koshuta stepped to the free-throw line with 4.3 seconds remaining in regulation on Friday night, needing to make a pair to keep her high school career alive.

First attempt: good.

Second shot: good.

Koshuta's clutch moment at the charity stripe forced overtime against Cosby in the 6A state semifinals and was part of yet another big-time performance from the 6-foot-2 Virginia Tech signee. On this night, however, a double-double wasn't enough to lift the Madison girls' basketball team to victory.

Cosby opened overtime on a 7-0 run, outscored Madison 20-10 during the extra period and earned a berth in the state final with a 70-60 victory on March 13 at VCU's Siegel Center.

Cosby will face Bethel in the 6A state championship game at 9 p.m. tonight.

Koshuta scored nine points in the fourth quarter, helping the Warhawks overcome a six-point deficit, and another five in overtime. She totaled 32 points on 13-of-29 shooting and grabbed 11 rebounds.

Koshuta finished her high school career second on Madison's all-time scoring list and first in rebounding. She missed her entire sophomore season with a torn ACL.

"Playing at Madison my entire high school career has been great," Koshuta said. "This season was definitely something different. We made it further than we have ever, so that was awesome. I'm definitely going to miss it a lot."

Great Falls Girls Win County League Tournament

The Great Falls fifth grade girls basketball team took home the first place trophy in the Fairfax County Youth Basketball League tournament defeating Chantilly by a score of 36-32. This represents back to back FCYBL tournament championships for these fifth grade girls who reside in Great Falls, Vienna and Herndon.

Scoring was led by the Arnolie twins, Gracie and Alayna, who earned extra hardware this season when they both received All-County Most Valuable Player awards. Alayna was also recognized as the Most Valuable Player for the tournament. Casey Kerrigan and Allie Wakeman played tenacious defense while Caitlyn Shumadine set the offensive tone early in the game hitting a three pointer. Kiera Kohler led the team in blocked shots and Reese Torres crashed the boards to be one of the lead rebounders. Maya Kanaan and Annabeth Holsinger raced back to prevent any fast breaks and contributed critical baskets in the second half. Kayla Rolph was instrumental in assisting the team on the path to the Championship but was unable to attend the final game.

The team is coached by Christie Shumadine, Aric Holsinger and Harold Rolph who want to give special thanks to the Great Falls Boys fifth Grade team for scrimmaging the girls every week to improve their game. The girls finished the regular season with a 14-1 record averaging 46 points per game and holding their opponents to an average of 19 points per game. The girls now move into their AAU season with NOVA 94 Feet and are looking to up their National ranking from 11th place.

A Letter of Thanks

To the Editor:

In the darkest hours, friends, family, and complete strangers can lift us up in love. This rang true following the untimely death of our youngest son Matthew on February 24. Matt was a healthy, athletic 16-year-old; an exuberant soul who packed each day with moments of compassion and excellence. He found ways to connect with everyone he met.

We celebrated Matt's legacy with spontaneous and generous support from old friends and new in Great Falls and the surrounding communities.

When #poynerstrong emerged as a window into social media messages of grief and condolence we were comforted. Photo buttons, green and gold ribbons, wristbands and "red outs" gave us a reason to smile. The staff at St.

Thomas a Becket Church scrambled to host hundreds of mourners at Matt's funeral mass and the staff at McLean Bible Church opened their doors for a celebration service where friends and family paid tribute in words and music to Matt's memory.

Counselors and administrators at Langley and Paul VI high schools tended to the emotional and spiritual needs of Matt's friends, as did his Young Life leaders. The Northern Virginia baseball community, Great Falls Basketball and Great Falls Little League all recognized his commitment and leadership both in and out of the game.

The unexpected loss of a young life is hard to understand. For Matt's friends, the shock of losing a friend was tempered by the opportunity to talk and share their feelings about Matt and about life in general.

I want to believe that through their grief each person found the peace and strength to live their life with the same exuberance that Matt led his.

As sad as our loss is, we have new memories thanks to the outpouring of love, support celebrating his short life. We are grateful for this gift. We have a renewed appreciation for the sincere generosity of this community he loved and we say thank you with open arms.

Money Matters

By KENNETH B. LOURIE

It always does, and there always are; especially if you have to work for a living and cancer is a part of that living. Granted, I'm extremely happy to be able to still make a living, cancer diagnosis notwithstanding, but a cancer diagnosis, particularly a "terminal" one, is hardly "notwithstanding." In fact, it is almost impossible to withstand. Oh sure, there are good days, and of course bad days, but mostly - for me, anyway, there is a daze in between. And that "between" is what's rocky about this hard place.

Since most things cost money, and money doesn't grow on trees (nor is it made from trees by the way); allocating it, when you have cancer, is complicated. Do I spend it now (whether I have it or not), as a means of reinforcing a positive but premature end? Or do I not spend it and plan for a longer-than-predicted life expectancy while depriving myself of the pleasure in the interim? Or do I rationalize the expenditure and reward myself for good behavior - so to speak, figuring that the high will be more beneficial than the low and create exactly the kind of energy my body needs to combat the cancer? Or do I minimize all of it and live my life as normally as possible? If only it were that simple.

"Normally as possible" left the building on February 27, 2009, the date I received my stage IV, non-small cell lung cancer diagnosis (my ground zero) with its "13-month to two-year prognosis." At that point, your brain stops functioning as it has for the entirety of your previous life (54½ years for me). Life, as you knew it, is sort of over; not done, but most assuredly, it will be different, and your perspective and emotional underpinnings will be changed forever - whether you expect them to be or not.

It doesn't mean, as an example, that you'll never laugh again or make self-effacing jokes, but neither can you look at, or live, life as naively as you have. Living forward becomes way more complicated, and viewing it all, planning for it all, can only be considered through the prism of cancer. And though certainly I can boast of some success surviving six-plus years post-diagnosis, it really has been mind over matter. Even though cancer is constantly on my mind, I've tried not to let it matter. (Much easier written about than actually managed.)

Juggling emotions has been difficult enough, but managing money, allocating resources and planning a financial future while living a precarious present, is all it's cracked up to be. Yet, if I don't find a way to maintain my status quo/balance emotionally, I may very well become a victim of my own circumstance. As much as I'd like to invoke Curly Howard (while looking in the mirror): "I'm too young to die, too handsome; well, too young, anyway" as an arbiter of reason, the reality is: cancer is the big dog and I'm just sitting here on the porch.

Kenny Lourie is an Advertising Representative for The Potomac Almanac & The Connection Newspapers.

Welcome!! Great Falls “Egg Hunt” 2015

WOW...30 years ago we invited the children of the community to a small “EGG HUNT” to show our gratitude to Great Falls for making us feel so welcome when we decided to open our doors in the Village Centre. Look where we are now!!! 31 amazing years later and eventually with the wonderful partnership of the Optimist Club and the support of many many local businesses, friends and neighbors, this event has become a tradition of this community.

We feel honored and proud to be able to bring this to the families of Great Falls and we hope that through this festival we are able to show our tremendous gratitude and appreciation for your continued support of our family and our business. We would not be here were it not for your loyal patronage. Enjoy the day and Happy Hunting!

**Just as a reminder, 100% of the ticket sale proceeds are collected by, and benefit the Great Falls Optimist Club Youth Fund and stay in Great Falls too!

Promise Yourself:

- ☺ To be so strong that nothing can disturb your peace of mind;
- ☺ To talk health, happiness and prosperity to every person you meet;
- ☺ To make all your friends feel that there is something in them;
- ☺ To look at the sunny side of everything and make your optimism come true;
- ☺ To think only of the best, to work only for the best, and to expect only the best;
- ☺ To be just as enthusiastic about the success of others as you are about your own;
- ☺ To forget the mistakes of the past and press on to the greater achievements of the future;
- ☺ To wear a cheerful countenance at all times and give every living creature you meet a smile;
- ☺ To give so much time to the improvement of yourself that you have no time to criticize others;
- ☺ To be too large for worry, too noble for anger, too strong for fear, and too happy to permit the presence of trouble.

Visit the Great Falls Village Centre!

The Great Falls Village Centre is located around the lovely village green in the heart of Great Falls, Virginia. We have been part of Great Falls, Virginia throughout its extensive growth and development and have worked hand in hand with the residents of Great Falls to enhance and build the sense of community that is prevalent today. We offer boutique shopping, delicious restaurants and quality services right in the center of town.

There is always something fun going on at the Village Centre, from weekend events like Cars & Coffee and the Farmers Market to Summer Concerts on the Green, 4th of July Parade, annual Christmas Tree Lighting, Halloween Spook-tacular, art exhibitions and more! Visit our Website: www.GreatFallsVillageCentre.com or just stop by and see why the Great Falls Village Centre is not only located in the center of town, but truly is the "heart" of the community.

We are proud to welcome our newest tenants: The Great Falls Creamery is a local, family-owned business offering all-natural ice cream from a dairy farm featuring grass-fed cows. They serve many different flavors of fresh ice cream with seasonal favorites, as well as soft serve. The Creamery features indoor, as well as outdoor, seating next to the beautiful Village Green. We will also freshly hand-pack ice cream for you to take home. In addition to ice cream, the creamery offers fresh organic milk, eggs, cheese, butter, yogurt, local cider and freshly made pies. Located behind the Old Brogue.

Birthstones

January - Garnet

Garnet, the birthstone for January, signifies eternal friendship and trust and is the perfect gift for a friend. Garnet, derived from the word granatum, means seed, and is called so because of the gemstone's resemblance to a pomegranate seed. References to the gemstone dates back to 3100 B.C., when the Egyptians used garnets as inlays jewelry. Garnet is the name of a group of minerals that comes in a rainbow of colors, from the deep red of the pyrope garnet to the vibrant green of tsavorites.

February - Amethyst

Amethyst, the gemstone believed by ancient Greeks and Romans to ward off the intoxicating powers of Bacchus, also is said to keep the wearer clear-headed and quick-witted. Throughout history, the gemstone has been associated with many myths, legends, religions, and numerous cultures. English regalia were even decorated with amethysts during the Middle Ages to symbolize royalty. It has been associated with many myths, legends, religions, and numerous cultures. Amethyst is purple quartz, a beautiful blend of violet and red that can found in every corner of the earth. Historically, the finest amethyst were found in Russia and were featured in much royal European jewelry.

March - Aquamarine

The two birthstones for March are aquamarine and bloodstone. The name aquamarine is derived from the Latin word aqua, meaning water, and marina, meaning the sea. This gemstone was believed to protect sailors, as well as to guarantee a safe voyage. The serene color of aquamarine is said to cool the temper, allowing the wearer to remain calm and levelheaded. Its pale, cool color beautifully complements spring and summer wardrobes. Aquamarine is most often light in tone and ranges from greenish blue to blue-green; the color usually is more intense in larger stones. The second birthstone for March is bloodstone, a dark-green jasper flecked with vivid red spots of iron oxide. This ancient stone was used by the Babylonians to make seals and amulets and was believed to have healing powers - especially for blood disorders. It is sometimes called the martyr's stone as legend tells that it was created when drops of Christ's blood stained some jasper at the foot of the cross.

April - Diamond

As the April birthstone, diamonds are the ideal gift for a loved one. And now you have more choices than ever. Get creative and give the ultimate gift of beauty: a fancy-color diamond. Fancy-color diamonds are natural, rare and truly exotic gem of the earth. Diamonds in hues of yellow, red, pink, blue, and green range in intensity from faint to vivid and generally the more saturated the color, the higher the value. In fact, diamonds sparkling with intense color are rare and may be priced higher than a colorless diamond of equal size. Because fancy-color diamonds are very desirable, color is sometimes introduced in a laboratory.

May - Emerald

As the birthstone for May, the emerald, a symbol of rebirth, is believed to grant the owner foresight, good fortune, and youth. Emerald, derived from the word smaragdus, meaning green in Greek, was mined in Egypt as early as 330 B.C. Today, most of the world's emeralds are mined in Colombia, Brazil, Afghanistan, and Zambia.

June - Pearl and Alexandrite

June counts three gems as birthstones, pearl, Alexandrite, and moonstone.

Historically, pearls have been used as an adornment for centuries. They were one of the favorite gem materials of the Roman Empire; later in Tudor England, the 1500s were known as the pearl age. Pearls are unique as they are the only gems from living sea creatures and require no faceting or polishing to reveal their natural beauty.

Alexandrite

A relatively modern gem, Alexandrite, was first discovered in Russia in 1831 during the reign of its namesake, Czar Alexander II, and is an extremely rare chrysoberyl with chameleon-like qualities. Its color is a lovely green in both daylight and fluorescent light; it changes color to a purplish red in incandescent light.

Moonstone

The third birthstone for June is the Moonstone. It was given its name by the Roman natural historian Pliny, who wrote that moonstone's appearance altered with the phases of the moon - a belief that held until well after the sixteenth century. A phenomenal gemstone, moonstones show a floating play of light (called adularescence) and sometimes show either a multirayed star or a cat's eye. Considered a sacred stone in India, moonstones often are displayed on a background of yellow (a sacred color) and are believed to encapsulate within the stone a spirit whose purpose is to bring good fortune. Part of the family of minerals called feldspar, moonstone occurs in many igneous and metamorphic rocks and comes in a variety of colors such as green, blue, peach, and champagne.

July - Ruby

nation, and are said to guarantee health, wisdom, wealth and success in love. Ruby is a variety of the gems species corundum. It is harder than any natural gemstone except diamond, which means a ruby is durable enough for everyday wear. Fine-quality ruby is extremely rare, and the color of the gem is most important to its value.

August - Peridot

Two birthstones are available for August birthdays: Peridot and Sardonyx.

Peridot is said to host magical powers and healing properties to protect against nightmares and to bring the wearer power, influence, and a wonderful year. As peridot is a gemstone that forms deep inside the Earth and brought to the surface by volcanoes, in Hawaii, peridot symbolizes the tears of Pele, the goddess of fire and volcanoes. Today, most of the peridot supply comes from Arizona; other sources are China, Myanmar, and Pakistan.

Sardonyx

Sardonyx is a form of onyx and is recognized by its layers of reddish brown and white banding. It was popular with the ancient Greeks and Romans who carried into battle talismans of sardonyx engraved with images of heroes such as Mars or Hercules, believing that this would bring courage and victory. Because of its attractive banding, sardonyx has long been used to fashion cameos (carved raised figures) and intaglios (the reverse of cameos). This gemstone is found throughout the world.

Birthstones

FROM PAGES

According to folklore, will protect your loved ones from envy and harm. Medieval clergy wore sapphires to symbolize heaven, while commoners thought the gem attracted heavenly blessings. Blue sapphires range from very light to very dark greenish or violetish blue, as well as various shades of pure blue. The most prized colors are a medium to medium dark blue or slightly violetish blue.

October - Tourmaline and Opal

October is another month with two birthstone choices - Tourmaline and Opal.

Tourmaline has become a favorite gemstone among jewelry designer, and gem collectors the world over. Since it is available in a wide variety of colors, it is ideally suited to almost anyone's taste.

Tourmaline also is known for displaying several colors in the same gemstone. These bi-color or tri-color gems are formed in many combinations; gemstones with clear color distinctions are highly prized. One multi-color variety is known as watermelon tourmaline, and features green, pink, and white colors bands; to resemble its namesake, the gemstone is cut into thin slices having a pink center, white ring, and green edge.

The name opal derives from the Greek Opallos, meaning "to see a change (of color)." Opals range in color from milky white to black with flashes of yellow, orange, green, red, and blue. An opal's beauty is the product of contrast between its color play and its background. Opal is a formation of non-crystalline silica gel that seeped into crevices in the sedimentary strata. Through time and nature's heating and molding processes, the gel hardened into the form of opals.

November - Topaz and Citrine

Two gems are appropriate for November birthdays - Topaz and Citrine.

Topaz is a gemstone available in a rich rainbow of colors. Prized for several thousand years in antiquity, all yellow gems in antiquity were called topaz. Often confused with citrine quartz (yellow) and smoky quartz (brown), quartz and topaz are separate and unrelated mineral species. The most prized color of topaz is called Imperial topaz after the Russian Czars of the 1800s and features a magnificent orange body color with pinkish undertones.

Citrine, the other birthstone for November is known as the "healing quartz". This golden gemstone is said to support vitality and health while encouraging and guiding hope, energy and warmth within the wearer. Citrine can be found in a variety of shades ranging from pastel yellow to dark brownish orange. It is one of the most affordable of gemstones and plentiful in nature.

December - Tanzanite, Zircon, and Turquoise

The three birthstones associated with December are Tanzanite, Zircon, and Turquoise.

Discovered in the late 1960s in Tanzania, and found exclusively in this tiny area of the world, tanzanite exhibits a rich violet-blue color for which the gemstone is treasured; often it is heat-treated to achieve this color. Colors range from blue to purple, and tanzanites that are medium dark in tone, vivid in saturation, and slightly violet blue command premium prices.

Derived from the Arabic words zar and gun, meaning gold and color, zircon is found in a wide range of colors such as: blue, yellow, orange, brown, green, colorless, and red (the most prized color). For many years colorless zircon was used to imitate diamonds. Folk wisdom grants zircon the power to relieve pain, whet the appetite, protect travelers from disease and injury, to ensure a warm welcome, and to prevent nightmares guaranteeing a deep, tranquil sleep.

The name turquoise, from the French expression Pierre tourques or Turkish stone, originated in the thirteenth century and describes one of the oldest known gemstones. Turquoise varies in color from greenish blue, through robin's egg-blue, to sky blue shades and its transparency ranges from translucent to opaque.
