Garden Club Member Receives Award of Honor

At a recent award ceremony at George Washington’s River Farm in Alexandria, Dominion Valley Garden Club member Millicent “Millie” Rever of Fairfax Station received the National Garden Clubs, Inc. Award of Honor. Among Rever’s achievements and activities that helped earn her the award are her years working with students at Keene Mill Elementary School, where she taught soil preparation, planting in raised vegetable gardens, planting trees around buildings and setting up water and butterfly gardens.

Rever helped the school become Certified for Wildlife Habitat by assisting in establishing an area for birds and animals around the school.

Chief Investigating Cyberbullying of Dead Female Firefighter

Search for Nicole Mittendorff called off after police “preliminarily identify” female remains, find suicide note found in her abandoned vehicle.

The Connection

Additional reporting by Reem Nadeem

The search for Nicole Mittendorff, a paramedic-firefighter based at Fire Station 32 in Fairfax Station, has been suspended after search teams recovered female remains in Shenandoah National Park they believe to be hers, a release from Virginia State Police said on Thursday, April 21.

Two days later, Fairfax County Fire & Rescue Chief Richard Bowers addressed a series of online posts harassing Mittendorff that came to light as the search ended.

“We at Fairfax Fire and Rescue are aware of the posts and are looking into the matter,” Bowers said in the April 23 statement.

“I assure you that my department can not and will not tolerate bullying of any kind. At this time, we are respecting the privacy of Firefighter-Paramedic Mittendorff’s family, and providing support to the men and women of the Fairfax County Fire and Rescue Department who are grieving under these challenging circumstances. We will thoroughly investigate this matter and take any appropriate actions needed. However, right now we ask that we be allowed to grieve the loss of one of our own.”

Fairfax County spokesperson Tony Castrilli issued a similar statement asking for people to respect the privacy of Mittendorff’s grieving family and co-workers. He added, “If you or someone you know is experiencing a mental health crisis, or is looking for support, call PRS CrisisLink, 24/7, at 703-527-4077 or text CONNECT to 855-11.”

Mittendorff, a 31-year-old Woodbridge resident, had been missing since her last known contact and the vehicle she was last known to be in was found early on Tuesday in the Shenandoah National Park Whitemark Canyon trail entrance.

An extensive search of the wilderness terrain began immediately and continued until 2 p.m. on April 21, when Virginia State Police and National Park Service personnel located female remains more than a mile from the same trail entrance where Mittendorff’s car was found. They were 330 yards from the trail in “treacherous rocky terrain,” Virginia State Police spokesperson Corinne Geller said in a statement.

Virginia State Police have made the preliminary identification it was Mittendorff they found, though the remains are being taken to the Manassas Office of the Medical Examination for an autopsy, examination and confirmed identification.

Though it wasn’t initially released, the state police later said a suicide note was found in Mittendorff’s car; they do not suspect any foul play in her death.

Thursday night April 21, Fairfax County Fire & Rescue Chief Richard Bowers said, “I, along with the men and women of the Fairfax County Fire and Rescue Department, are profoundly saddened to learn that the body found earlier today in the Shenandoah National Park is thought to be that of Firefighter-Paramedic Nicole Mittendorff. As we wait for further information, we continue to extend our thoughts and prayers to Nicole’s friends and family.”

Bowers visited Station 32 the next day but did not speak to media; his focus was checking in on Mittendorff’s co-workers and family, and seeing their needs are met.

“We believe that Nicole has been found and is finally coming home, however not in the way we anticipated,” Mittendorff’s sister Jennifer Chalmers said after the announcement that state police had found remains. “This is not the positive outcome that we continued to hope and pray for over the past week. We thank everyone for their time, dedication and support in our search to find Nicole and ask that you keep our family in your prayers in the challenging days ahead.”

On Wednesday April 20, Fire Station 32 hosted a public vigil for Mittendorff. Family, friends and other supporters swelled in the station’s garage.

“There is a candle…that is the candle of hope to bring Nicole home,” Chief Bowers said. “That candle will burn here, at Fire Station 32 until Nicole comes home. The flowers represent the vibrant Nicole that we all know,” Bowers said.

As of Friday morning April 22, the candle and flowers were set up at the entrance to the station, with the candle continuing to burn. “Nicole is a beautiful, beautiful young woman and very much loved by her public safety family,” Fairfax County Board of Supervisors Chairman Sharon Bulova said at the vigil. “And public safety is a family and Fairfax County is a family.”

Liz Moisey competed with Mittendorff in triathlons to raise money for the Leukemia and Lymphoma Society. “She was incredibly well-respected and very friendly. I have a lot of friends who became close with her doing certain races,” she said.

Sandy Lohr, a member of Mittendorff’s Woodbridge church, also attended the vigil to show support and pray for Mittendorff’s return. “She was very friendly, was in church mostly every Sunday and Sunday school,” Lohr said.

Members of Fire Station 32 were not available to speak with the media before press time. As investigators continue to piece together the timeline between Mittendorff’s last contact and the vehicle being found, they ask anyone with information to call Virginia State Police at 703-803-0026 or #77 on a cell phone, or email at questions@vsp.virginia.gov.
Governor’s action brings Virginia in line with 39 other states.

L ast week, Gov. Terry McAuliffe (D) restored the voting and civil rights of more than 200,000 Virginians who were convicted of felonies, served their time and completed any supervised re-lease, parole or probation require-ments. This moves Virginia into the main-stream; only 10 states have more re-strictive policies about voting for people who have been convicted of felonies. Previously, Virginia had been one of the most restrictive states in terms of restoring voting rights. Four-teen states automatically restore voting rights once the individual’s term of incarceration is over, and two states allow absentee voting from prison. While some claim partisan motivation, with most of those affected presumed to be Demo-crats, getting these men and women registered to vote and to the polls is unlikely to result in new voters in November. Studies show that people who were previously convicted of felonies who are eligible to vote register and vote at lower levels than the general popula-tion, according to the New York Times http://nyti.ms/26kN52, with a registration rate of around 30 percent and about 20 percent actu-ally voting, although some suggest voting rates of between 10-15 percent. If, as the studies suggest, 55 percent of those would vote Demo-cratic, then likely new Democratic voters would be around 22,000. While that’s a lot less than 200,000, it’s also more than the margin of victory in quite a few statewide races. Consider that Attorney Gen-eral Mark Herring (D) won his race by about 900 votes out of more than 2 million cast. These new voters could have an impact on statewide races. Districts for members of Virginia’s General Assembly are so gerrymandered, it’s hard to imagine that the impact of these new voters will be huge in terms of local representation. In a Democracy, it’s better when more people vote. McAuliffe said: “If we are going to build a stronger and more equal Virginia, we must break down barriers to participation in civic life for people who return to society seeking a second chance. We must welcome them back and offer the opportunity to build a better life by taking an active role in our democracy.” Again, this action brings Virginia into line with 39 other states, with more than 20 states having less restrictive policies. For example, on Feb. 9, 2016, the Maryland General Assem-bly overrode the Governor’s veto and restored the vote to all convicted felons immediately upon their release from prison. Previously, people convicted felonies in Maryland had to complete all parole and probation before they were able to vote. In Virginia, such individu-als have to complete their term of incarcera-tion and their term of parole or probation be-fore voting rights are restored. — MARY KIMM

Letters to the Editor

Clean Energy Creates New Opportunities

To the Editor:

This Earth Day, April 22, the United States signed the Paris Agreement, which required un-precedented international coop-eration to address climate change by reducing carbon pollution. Even before the agreement is for-mally signed, countries have been taking action by investing in clean, renewable energy - a necessary step to meet commitments of car-bon reduction.

The United States current con-trIBUTION to climate action includes policies like the Clean Power Plan. Renewable energy innovation has created good jobs here in Virginia and other states. Governor Terry McAuliffe has repeatedly con-firmed he will take strong climate action and cut harmful pollution. Gov. McAuliffe recognizes the risks of sea level rise that is already flooding Virginia’s coast, threatening military assets, and cultural gems like Tangier Island.

The dirty fossil fuel industry is influencing our representatives in state governments and Congress to try to block the Clean Power Plan and other lifesaving public protec-tions. Our smart economic, politi-cal and community leaders are seizing the opportunity that cli-mate action provides to create thousands of jobs, drive innovation, and foster economic growth. This Earth Day, with the signing of the Paris Agreement, I celebrate the chance to protect our economy and our public health in Virginia.

An infill project of ten single-family homes is under construction.

Park Pointe subdivision East side of Gambrill Road, near the Fairfax County Parkway
Eighteen single-family homes on 7.7 acres have been approved; the plan is still under site review.

Corbet Manor Around 7717 Gambrill Road
Seven single-family homes are going into 4.5 acres of what were previously unconsolidated parcels of land. The site plan for the project is still under review.

Laurel Hill Adaptive Reuse Area: Liberty Crest at Laurel Hill 8400 Lorton Road
Phase I of transforming the the 80-acre former reformatory property — scheduled to be completed in roughly a year’s time — includes setting up 165 apartments in former prison cells and common spaces, building out 107 homes and modernizing the infrastructure. Phase II will add more apartments, condos and 110,000 square-feet of retail space.

Monopole in Clifton
Around 12895 Clifton Creek Road
The Clifton Creek substation of Dominion Virginia Power already has a monopole on a 95-acre site around 12895 Clifton Creek Road, however Dominion and Verizon Wireless have applied to move the pole to a different location with more height. The plan was approved by the Board of Supervisors in July 2015.

Springfield Town Center 6500 Springfield Mall
Next to open at the 1.35 million square-foot revitalized shopping center is Zinburger Wine & Burger Bar, scheduled to part its doors. Later stages of redevelopment planning for the area include residential, office and hotel space — the timing of which is all market-dictated. A release from PREIT said another 73,000 square-feet of tenant space was committed for 2016.

Fairfax Water is planning to reconfigure the quarry as a reservoir in two phases: Phase I will establish storage of around 1.8 billion gallons 2035, while Phase II should add another 15 billion gallons of storage capacity by 2085.

Woodglen Lake Dredging Southeast of Sideburn Run and Zion Drive
The project began with fish relocation to Lake Accotink in November 2014 and is now nearly complete. The contractor is adding vegetative plugs to the bottom of the lake that will support a new fish population. In late May or June this summer, the Department of Game and Inland Fisheries will begin restocking the lake with fish, the first in a three-year cycle.

Not Alone with Fragile X Syndrome

Jimmo Grande of Fairfax Station may never get to teach his ten-year-old son Jimmo to throw a baseball. Jimmio was born with effects from an inherited genetic mutation called Fragile X that can cause moderate to severe mental impairment and learning disabilities, and is linked to autism spectrum disorder.

Instead, Jimi and his wife Buffy have become involved with the Northern Virginia Fragile X Families organization, supporting other parents and families with children like Jimmo and helping connect them with resources.

“It's motivating when you have a child that's impacted by it,” Jimi said during a mile-long Fragile X families fun walk at Burke Lake Park on April 24. The $55,000 raised by the walk will help fund a new national molecular bank of blood samples from individuals with the Fragile X mutation syndrome.

Occurrence of Fragile X syndrome affects around 1 in 3,600 males and 1 in 4,000 to 6,000 females.

With more readily available samples from these individuals, it will hopefully encourage researchers to conduct more experiments in search of a cure.

AS A FATHER, Jimi said, “This is something I can do and feel good about.”

Jimi's wife Buffy who organized this walk, the fourth annual Fragile X walk in Northern Virginia, described the experience many families with children with the mutation have gone through as “a stage process.”

“...there's accepting,” Buffy said, “help the child, then help the greater good.”

Up to this walk, the Northern Virginia Fragile X Family group has raised more than $130,000 in support of the National Fragile X Foundation and establishing a specialized clinic in Washington, D.C.

Last year's money raised from the walk helped establish the national molecular bank. No such bank existed before, and lack of access to samples from people with Fragile X was a deterrent to researchers, Jimi said. “We wanted to shake the scientists.”

In addition to raising money, a major component of the annual walk at Burke Lake Park is a celebration for families at the end of the walk in the park's playground and train station area. Princesses from Disney’s "Frozen," Elmo from "Sesame Street" and Spider-Man walked around and took pictures with children while others went on train rides, had their faces painted or received mermaid-shaped balloons with surprising anatomical detail.

“It's nice for families to come and be themselves,” said Andrea Greighton of Oak Hill. “Three of her four children live with effects from the Fragile X mutation, including her 17-year-old son Jeffery who is more on the social and interactive end of the spectrum and manager of the Chantilly High School varsity football team. Normally out in public, she said, “There’s an awareness, you always have to adapt: Crowds can be overstimulating.”

But with more than 200 people who understand the spectrum of effects Fragile X can have, from loud outbursts to just impatient shirt-tugging, the post-walk celebration is a safe environment, the National Fragile X Foundation Mid-Atlantic Region Leader Joe Garera said.

“You just don't worry about it,” Garera said. “Someone has a meltdown, you give them space.”

Garera also praised the “great model” the Grandes and the Northern Virginia Fragile X families have established with their walk together.

“...their tagline is ‘You’re not alone,’” he said. “That's really what families feel like when they're leaving here.”

FAMILY AND SUPPORTERS of Kevin Troutman, a senior at Herndon High School, learned about the walk on Facebook and show up en masse for their first walk.

“I'm happy to have people support me,” Kevin said. “I liked the walk, it was interesting and fun.” Kevin benefits from Herndon's special education program and work transition program, which helped him to become a volunteer at Falcon’s Landing Military Retirement Community in Sterling and the Herndon Library.

Kevin's father Jim said, “It’s refreshing to see this number out here and the things they do for the kids.”

Neither of Eylssa Pinkard’s daughters have Fragile X, but the Springfield residents came to support their friends the Grandes and the other families.

“It's great for our girls to learn to support Jimmo their friend,” Pinkard said, “and to serve others in the community, to think outside ourselves.”

GOP Women of Clifton to Host Author Peter Pollak

The Republican Women of Clifton (RWC) welcomes Peter G. Pollak, author of five thrillers, to present at its May meeting. The event will take place Wednesday, May 18, at Fairview Elementary School, 5815 Ox Road, Fairfax Station. New member orientation will begin at 6:45 p.m., followed by the social half-hour at 7 p.m. and presentation at 7:30 p.m.

Pollak began writing in retirement, and is fulfilling an interest developed in his teens. He is a graduate of Oberlin College, with a degree in history, and earned his graduate and doctorate degrees from University of Albany in history and education. He taught at Albany, served as editor of two newspapers, and created his own business called readMedia, a press release delivery service. His first book, “An Expendable Man” was self-published in 2009. Since then, he has written four more books, his most recent, the thriller, “A House Divided,” the subject of this presentation. It explores the threat of terrorism, anti-Semitism, moral relativism, and the lack of leadership on college campuses through the experiences of a student and her family. “We think members and guests alike will enjoy learning about the leaderless environment on some college campuses that is the backdrop for this story,” noted president Bonnie Burkhardt.

Pollak divides his time between Baltimore and Hamilton County, N.Y. where he lives with his wife. He has two children and four grandchildren. Books will be available for sale and signing after the meeting.

New RWC members are invited to orientation at 6:45 p.m., preceding the social time, to meet officers and committee chairs and learn about local opportunities for conservative activism.

Attendees are invited to contribute $5 at the door for the Tragedy Assistance Program for Survivors of our fallen heroes, a 2016 RWC charity partner.

Woodson Baseball Runs Into Hot West Potomac Lineup

Cavaliers drop to fifth place in Conference 7 with 5-5 record.

By Jon Roetman
The Connection

The Woodson baseball team entered Tuesday's game at West Potomac having won three straight games and five of its last six, including a 10-7 victory over Lake Braddock on April 21.

The Cavaliers' streak of success came to a crashing halt, however, as the Wolverines feed-off on Woodson pitching for nine extra-base hits.

Woodson tallied seven doubles and a pair of home runs and took over sole possession of fourth place in Conference 7 with a 7-2 victory over Woodson at West Potomac High School.

The Cavaliers' other run came in the sixth on an RBI groundout by Jack Donohue. Mitchell Clarke led the efforts of Becklund and Jackson from a season standpoint, he said they didn't have their best stuff.

Woodson left-hander Tyler Becklund suffered the loss, allowing five earned runs in 2 1/3 innings pitched. Senior Clayton Jackson pitched in relief.

While Woodson head coach Brett McCollery praised the efforts of Becklund and Jackson from a season standpoint, he said they didn't have their best stuff on Tuesday.

“[West Potomac is] a team that can hit mistakes,” McCollery said. “We left some pitches up, obviously. They had a ton of extra-base hits tonight.”

Third baseman Peter Donohue was Woodson's most productive hitter on Tuesday, finishing 2-for-3 with a double and a solo home run. Donohue's solo shot came in the second inning and tied the score at 1.

The Cavaliers' other run came in the sixth on an RBI groundout by Jack Donohue. Mitchell Clarke led off the inning with a double.

The loss dropped Woodson's record to 8-7 overall and 8-2 in Conference 7 heading into Friday's action.

South County improved to 12-3 overall and 8-2 in Conference 7 with a 7-1 victory over West Springfield on Tuesday.

The Stallions have won three straight after suffering back-to-back losses against Lake Braddock and West Potomac.

Lake Braddock Baseball Blanks Mount Vernon

The Lake Braddock baseball team bounced back from a loss to Woodson with a 16-0 road victory over Mount Vernon on Tuesday.

The win improved the Bruins' record to 12-3. Lake Braddock is in a three-way tie with Annandale and West Springfield for first place in Conference 7 with an 8-2 record.

The Bruins were scheduled to face Riverdale Baptist on Wednesday, after The Connection's deadline. The Bruins will host West Potomac at 6:30 p.m. on Friday, April 29.

Robinson to Honor Girls’ Soccer Coach Rike

Robinson Secondary School will honor its girls’ soccer coach, Jim Rike, prior to the Rams’ home game against Potomac Falls at 7:15 p.m. on Monday, May 2.

Robinson Boys’ Lax to Face Landon

The two-time defending state champion Robinson boys’ lacrosse team will close its regular-season schedule with a road game against private school power Landon at 7:15 p.m. on Tuesday, May 3.

Landon, located in Bethesda, Md., is ranked No. 16 in the latest Nike/Lacrosse Magazine national poll. The Bears are 13-3 heading into Friday’s action.

Robinson improved to 12-1 overall and finished undefeated in Conference 5 play with a 10-1 victory over Herndon on Tuesday.

A child’s first residential summer camp experience can be fraught with emotions that run the gamut from excitement to terror. While glee at the thought of a summer filled with sports, swimming, crafts and new-found friendships can be the dominant feeling, the thought of an extended period of time away from home can cause sadness and anxiety for both parents and their children.

An American Camp Association study showed that 96 percent of children who attend sleep away camps experience homesickness at some point during their stay. While these emotions are normal, parents can help children tame the pre-camp jitters. The life-long lessons gained from such camps make it worth the effort.

"Becoming comfortable with your child being away at summer camp, perhaps the first extended separation you have had, is a matter of trust," said David Kaplan, Ph.D. of the American Counseling Association in Alexandria, Va. "Trusting your child that they can handle themselves without your supervision. Trusting that they can handle relationships with other children. Trusting that they can get up in the morning, take a shower, wash their clothes, and change their sheets without your prodding."

ACKNOWLEDGING THAT HOMESICKNESS is normal and many campers experience it, can help children accept and cope with their emotions. "Expecting to miss home and feel somewhat anxious helps children accept and cope with their emotions. "Expecting to miss home and feel somewhat anxious helps children feel less surprised and overwhelmed when it occurs," said Barbara Meehan, Ph.D. executive director, Counseling and Psychological Services, George Mason University in Fairfax, Va. A child’s apprehension can be eased when parents share their own camp experiences, particularly positive memories. "Don’t let your child get caught up in your own anxiety about learning for camp," said Linda McKenna Gulyn, Ph.D., professor of psychology at Marymount University in Arlington, Va. "Kids sometimes worry about the parents they left behind. Be positive, but not sad that your child is leaving."

Meehan says that developing a few self-soothing activities like playing outdoors or reading is one strategy for helping children deal with feelings of missing home. Identifying people with whom young campers can share their emotions is another means for dealing with homesickness. "Talking to a camp counselor and even peers can help ease the difficult feelings and often they will learn they are not alone," said Meehan.

Encouraging a child to make friends and become involved in camp activities will put the focus on the positive aspects of camp. Packing letters and stamped envelopes and developing a plan for letter exchange can help a child feel connected to their families. "Isolating and avoiding what feels hard can often worsen anxiety and homesickness," said Meehan.

There are times however when a child might not be ready for residential camps. The American Camp Association reports that while most cases of homesickness subside, there are cases — if a child is not eating or sleeping, for example — when it could be time to seek help. "Consult with camp professionals about resources if your child’s anxiety worsens or persists," said Meehan.
Summer Camps Education & Activities

From Colonial History to Future Entrepreneurs

By Marilyn Campbell
The Connection

This summer dozens of elementary school-aged children will travel back in time to the Colonial Era where, among other things, they’ll learn to spin cotton into cloth for garments.

Learning how to run a lemonade stand like a Fortune 500 company and use the profits to invest in the stock market will be on the agenda for other local children. Both activities are offered by local specialty camps aimed at giving children opportunities to explore their interests in a way that they cannot during the school year.

“I think summer camps are a great way to promote thriving if it is done right,” said Carolyn Lorente, Ph.D., Professor of Psychology at Northern Virginia Community College in Alexandria and a camp consultant. “During the school year, there is so much emphasis on testing that the creative and collaborative nature of children gets lost. A great camp can create space for our children to flourish.”

SPECIALTY CAMPS offer young campers a chance to focus on a specific area of interest such as cooking, financial literacy and even gaming.

For example, Spark Business Academy, a Northern Virginia based organization that teaches financial literacy to young students, is offering its Future Millionaires Camp in Arlington. Students learn about money concepts that range from setting up a lemonade stand that makes a profit to understanding the stock market.

“The name is definitely tongue in cheek,” said Chuchi Arevalo, the organization’s founder. “We teach personal finance, leadership and innovation. We give them life skills that they aren’t learning in school and promote financial literacy that is fun even for students in first and second grade.”

RISING FIFTH- and sixth-grade students will get a chance to take a trip back in time this summer at Mount Vernon’s Camp Washington. During each of the three one-week sessions, campers explore the history of George Washington’s estate and learn about his legacy.

From farming and spinning fibers into cloth to making ice cream and meeting the estate’s heritage breed animals, hands-on activities will give campers a glimpse of many aspects of early American life at Mount Vernon.

Campers can explore diverse interests in specialty summer camps.

“During the school year, there is so much emphasis on testing that the creative and collaborative nature of children gets lost.”

YOUNG GAME DESIGN aficionados can spend the summer with Mason Game & Technology Academy’s (MGTA) camps. Students take classes such as Game Design, Creation and Entrepreneurship, Minecraft and Cyber Defense.

“We run our classes at Mason in Fairfax, Loudoun, and Prince William,” said Vera Lichtenberg, Director of the Mason Game & Technology Academy at George Mason University. “We also do a great deal of community outreach to train teachers, engage underserved students, and generally, help students realize that Game Design is a STEM field that not only engages those who love technology, but also those on the artistic side: writers, music composers and designers.”

MGTA is part of the Mason Computer Game Design Program and the Community Outreach Youth Program for the Virginia Serious Game Institute.

Students in the Mason Game & Technology Academy Summer Camp will be offered classes in Game Design, Creation and Entrepreneurship, Minecraft and Cyber Defense.

Academic Camps Combine Education and Fun

Local camps help students maintain school skills in a relaxed environment.

By Marilyn Campbell
The Connection

One summer Ana Lado created a summer camp activity for students at her neighborhood pool. The Marymount professor set up a picnic area, and included activities and books. Her plan was to engage the students and give them the opportunity to read and build reading skills while still enjoying fun activities traditionally associated with summer.

“I got six kids who were older to read to six kindergartners. I chose kids who had potential, but who were at risk,” said Ana Lado, Ph.D., professor of Education at Marymount University in Arlington. “Reading with a kindergartner or first grader for 15 minutes got the students reading and built their confidence.”

This summer Lado and her colleagues at Marymount are offering “3E: Explore, Enjoy, Enrich,” one of several area camps with an academic component. Their goal is to enable students to brush up on, gain or maintain academic skills in a relaxed environment.

Marymount’s 3E camp enables campers to choose what they focus on at camp. In addition to traditional camp activities, the camp will include academic projects like exploring science through nature and electronic gadgets, studying math by making boats, language arts by writing their own stories and fine arts by creating plays and cartoons.

For those who want an in-depth review of a school subject and the chance to participate in hands-on summer camp activities, academic camps fill both needs.

“Academic camps” supplement what students are getting during the school year and allow them to experience subjects and topics that they’re not getting in public school,” said Dan Stalcup, Associate Director for Fairfax Collegiate, a Herndon-based organization that offers summer programs for students entering third through ninth grade.

Programs at Fairfax Collegiate run the gamut from filmmaking and robotics to engineering and classic children’s literature. For example, third and fourth grade students can learn to craft their own short stories during a Story Writing course in Alexandria, Chantilly, and Ashburn.

Programs at Fairfax Collegiate run the gamut from filmmaking and robotics to engineering and classic children’s literature. For example, third and fourth grade students can learn to craft their own short stories during a Story Writing course in Alexandria, Chantilly, and Ashburn.

Campers who enjoy reading and want to delve into award-winning novels by authors such as Madeleine L’Engle or Rebecca Stead can take “Reading Newbury Winners” with sessions in Chantilly, Ashburn, Fairfax, McLean and Reston. Students can spend two weeks reading books that have been awarded the Newbery Medal for excellence in literature for children.

Fifth and sixth graders who love math and want to hone their analytical and logical thinking skills can spend their time engaging in chess, Stratego and other mind-bending activities in the “Brain Games” camp, which will be offered in Chantilly, Reston, Herndon, McLean, Alexandria and Oakton.

Future detectives might enjoy taking a forensic science class in Alexandria, Chantilly, Herndon, Ashburn, Falls Church and McLean. “Students learn about the science in criminal justice, like blood-typing and fingerprinting by actually doing the experiments and seeing them in action,” said Stalcup.

“Students get a lot of personal attention because the classes are small, and the instructors either have or are pursuing a degree in the topic they’re teaching,” said Stalcup. “They’re all very passionate about the subject they’re teaching.”

Academic camps might be a good fit for students who are curious about a particular area of study. “Many parents want something that is both fun and educational, meaning it will help their child keep (busy) and develop skills needed during the school year,” said Tina M. Morris, Child Development Programs Consultant at George Mason University. “I think both parents and educators realize that summer vacation does not have to be a break from learning.”

“I think both parents and educators realize that summer vacation does not have to be a break from learning.”

— Tina M. Morris, Child Development Programs Consultant at George Mason University.

“We’ll try to make sure it has a healthy balance of recreational and educational enrichment activities,” said Morris. “If the campers are enjoying the activities and the counselors are skilled, the program should, as a natural effect, promote the building of positive relationships with their peers and their counselors.”

“A student who is interested in math and wishes to advance to higher levels will benefit, as well as students who need a refresher or a better understanding before moving ahead.”

When choosing an academic camp, parents should look for camps that are not all work and no play. “I want to make sure we have a healthy balance of recreational and educational enrichment activities,” said Morris. “The decision to send a child to a camp that focuses on reading, science, math or another school subject instead of a purely recreational camp is a personal one, says Lado. “There are some kids who can visit their grandparents in Maine all summer and they come back to school in the fall and pick up where they left off,” she said. “Then there are other kids who can’t pick up easily. Those are the kids who would benefit from an academic program.”

Students appreciate the ability to focus on one subject in a relaxed atmosphere in an academic camp. “If kids are taking a subject at a fast-clip pace, but they don’t do well, they miss key skills. The next year they move to a higher level class, but the same problem still exists,” said Lado. “When they take a week or two during the summer and immerse themselves in a subject, they go stronger into the next school year. In camp, it’s the only thing they’re doing academically and they can concentrate on it.”

For example, The Madeira School in McLean is offering summer programs in Trigonometry and Geometry. “These courses are intended for advancement into higher level math classes,” and based on our classes taught during the academic year,” said Ashley Smith, Associate Director of Communications at Madeira. “A student who is interested in math and wishes to advance to higher levels will benefit, as well as students who need a refresher or a better understanding before moving ahead.”

When choosing an academic camp, parents should look for camps that are not all work and no play. “I want to make sure it has a healthy balance of recreational and educational enrichment activities,” said Morris. “If the campers are enjoying the activities and the counselors are skilled, the program should, as a natural effect, promote the building of positive relationships with their peers and their counselors.”
Providence Elementary
STEM Lab Wins Excellence Award

Providence Elementary School’s STEM Lab was recognized as one of 24 programs worldwide as a program of excellence from the International Technology and Engineering Educator Association (ITEEA).

Sponsored by the ITEEA and Paxton/Patterson, the Program Excellence Award is one of the highest honors given to Technology and Engineering classroom programs on the elementary, middle or high school levels. It is presented in recognition of outstanding contributions to the profession and students. The award was presented at the ITEEA annual conference earlier this month.

The Providence Elementary STEM Lab began in 2012. With two teachers dedicated to the lab, it welcomes all students in over 40 classrooms from grades K-6 throughout the year to solve challenging projects using the engineering design process. Each class rotates throughout the lab and spends five continuous days with each rotation solving a different challenge. The students work in teams and collaborate to find the best possible solution to their problem. Failure is encouraged to teach resilience, creativity and determination.

PVI’s Scott Allen Named Girls Basketball Coach of the Year

Scott Allen, the Varsity Girls’ Basketball Coach at Paul VI Catholic High School in Fairfax, has been selected as the 2015-16 American Family Insurance ALL-USA Girls Basketball Coach of the Year.

Coach Allen has coached at PVI for 14 years. During the 2015-2016 season, Coach Allen led the Panthers to a 33-1 finish. The Lady Panthers won the Naples Shootout tournament, their 10th consecutive Virginia Independent Schools Athletic Association title and third consecutive Washington Catholic Athletic Conference title.
Amy Zang says this year all of the Flying Scots were painted in the fall and are looking beautiful. “We’re now doing the bottom paint and then will check all of the boats to be sure they are ready to sail.” Zang is the Director and Owner of the Youth Sailing Day Camp at the Washington Sailing Marina. This year sailing camp begins May 31, the Tuesday after Memorial Day and ends the week of August 15-19th.

“There won’t be many kids the first week because some schools are still in session, but we’ll have it anyway.” The classes run from 9:30 a.m.-4:30 p.m., and are open to rising third graders through 15 years of age.

Zang says the Sunfish is for beginners and the Flying Scot for intermediates. “But we’re going to continue the Skippers Club this year for those kids who have received their Sunfish license and are ready for a less structured class. It’s more like a club, more get out and play games and have fun on the boat.” She says this really started by accident two years ago and became so popular that they have added another class this year. It is a small class of nine kids who have mastered sailing with instructors hopping on and off.

Sailing campers can move to the intermediate stage with a skipper or crew license. The Flying Scot is a 17-foot boat with five campers plus an instructor. It is a bigger boat than the Sunfish with two sails and heads out to the river.

“Some kids learn better with the constant reinforcement of an instructor or they like the immediate feedback."

“The advanced class sails a Hobie Cat that is harder to sail or some students choose racing 420’s. “Four weeks out of the summer, Adventures on a Big Boat is offered on Catalina 25. “The bigger the boat, it reacts differently.”

Classes are already more than 50 percent full for the summer. “Last year we had the best summer ever in my 24 years here or even the 56 years the camp has been in operation.” She continues, “we had just over 1,200 kids. Fantastic. It was due to my staff. If the kids are having fun, they want to sign up for more weeks.” Zang estimates that more than 50 percent of the camp attendees come back, often bringing a friend.

Looking back over the years Zang says she makes constant adjustments. One of these is to have enough instructors to keep up with populations such as learning disabled. Zang is a special education teacher during the school year.

“A number of instructors return every year so we can fine tune their training which makes new instructors this year.” Although Zang has 65 staff on the rolls, on any one day she is juggling 40 sailing counselors, 70 boats and 130 campers in sailing classes. “I tell my instructors everything has to be in its place to make the camp run smoothly.” Zang says, “I feel blessed and lucky. We are like a family.”
