Change of Command

Holbrook relieves Mitchell as Fort Belvoir Garrison Commander.

ated on time-honored values and traditions, not the accomplishments of individuals."

With that opening perspective of selfless service, Ruggles announced the change of command and change of responsibility for the Fort Belvoir garrison leadership ceremony taking place that day, the morning of Aug. 11.

After their two years of service, the base's garrison commander Col. Michelle Mitchell and Command Sgt. Maj. Scott Guillory were formally relieved by Col. Angelia "Angie" Holbrook and Command Sgt. Maj. Billie Jo Boersma, respectively.

The four leaders participated in a traditional rite of passing the garrison flag from one to the other, symbolizing the passing of command and responsibility.

Davis D. Tindoll, Jr., director for the Atlantic Region Installation Management Command, said, "This command team has positioned the garrison for continued success."

In her remarks, Mitchell said it was "a bitter-sweet moment for me."

After 28-plus years of service, she said, "when we passed the colors, it symbolized my last assignment in the U.S. Army."

Both Mitchell and Guillory are retiring from the Army after leaving these posts.

Mitchell highlighted some of the achievements she's overseen as commander, including partnering for the opening of Jeff Todd Way and widening of Route 1, and the opening of an all-new commissary in the next couple months.

"As a team," Mitchell said, "we've achieved every goal we've set over the past two years."

Guillory had some words of advice for the incoming leadership team: "Treat everyone with

'Entertainment ... Like Nothing Before'

MGM officials brief local chamber on National Harbor hotel, casino.

BY GERALD A. FILL
THE GAZETTE

A Vegas-type luxury hotel and casino owned and operated by the MGM Resorts International — soon to open for business on the shores of the Potomac River's National Harbor — was discussed at a Mount Vernon-Lee Chamber of Commerce breakfast meeting on Thursday, Aug. 11.

Bill Boasberg, MGM general manager; Sarah Moore, MGM executive director of Marketing and Retail; and Patrick Fisher, MGM executive director, Hotel Operations, outlined the progress of construction, and the numerous amenities planned for the MGM National Harbor Hotel and Casino at an announced cost of $1.3 billion.

The MGM speakers emphasized that, when opened, the MGM Resorts National Harbor will offer "an entertainment experience like nothing before" in this area.

In his opening remarks, Boasberg said that the resort will be open for business by the fourth quarter of this year. He said that it is their goal to establish a new level of hospitality entertainment in the region, while at the same time they do not plan to compete with the many convention-rich venues offered in the Washington D.C. area. Their strategy is to of

Aiming To Reduce Deer Population

Second Deer Management Program discussed.

BY TIM PETERSON
THE GAZETTE

With an ecosystem struggling to support a deer population several times what's considered to be healthy for a habitat, Fairfax County is preparing once again to initiate its deer management program.

The county held two information meetings about the program, the latter of which was held at the Mount Vernon District Station on Aug. 16.

In addition to the pressure on the ecosystem, overabundant deer also pose hazards in the form of increased collisions with vehicles and the spread of diseases.

The Fairfax County Deer Management Program employs methods permitted by the Virginia Department of Game and Inland Fisheries, including archery, managed shotgun hunts and sharpshooting.

This year, the program begins Sept. 10 and runs through Feb. 25, 2017, in parks and other locations throughout Fairfax County with oversight from the Fairfax County Police Department and in collaboration with Fairfax County Park

Operation Homefront Meets Its Goals

Back-to-School Brigade supports military families.

BY ALEXANDRA TECCO
THE GAZETTE

In a party-like atmosphere the Back-to-School Brigade (BTSB) handed out 750 backpacks filled with school supplies to the children of low- to mid-rank active duty military in Springfield on Saturday, Aug. 13. Although backpack distribution was the event's purpose, the reunion of school friends, snacks, balloons, face painting and the opportunity to meet superheroes and other movie characters left the children all smiles. The military parents, meanwhile, were thankful at receiving the support and care of the community through the event organized by Operation Homefront.

Operation Homefront has three goals, said CEO John Pray, "Provide Relief, Resiliency and Recurring family support." The BTSB is one of the many recurring family support programs. Operation Homefront has a variety of other programs some of which include Thanksgiving and holiday meal support, toy drives and baby showers.

Jeffrey Volling, a soldier stationed at Fort Belvoir, wears his fatigues as he holds his daughter Tatum, 2. Jeffrey's wife, Angela Volling, directs their son Landon, 6, as he holds his recently received red backpack. The Vollings know they've participated in at least the Thanksgiving meals program as well as the BTSB from Operation Homefront. "As a single-income family ... this really helps. We can focus more on food for lunches, shoes and clothes," Angela Volling said.

The combination of a high cost of living and the sheer number of military in the D.C. metro area creates a lot of need that Operation Homefront seeks to address. Their focus on low-mid rank is because "younger military families are usually the ones most in need," said Pray. For these families, something as simple as an unanticipated vehicle repair can easily spiral downward affecting the most basic of a family's necessities.

"Food assistance is the most common form of assistance," said Cyndi Lucas, the community outreach leader of Operation Homefront's D.C. Metro branch. "The food budget is the easiest portion to manipulate, most of everything else is fixed cost," she said. Consequently, the items provided by the BTSB give military families an extra cushion in their budgets to redirect towards other needs ranging from food to medical bills.

Omani Williams's spouse is in the Army and this is their third time attending the BTSB. "Defraying the costs really helps a lot," she said. "... this is a blessing." Williams has four children, so the cost of school supplies adds up quickly.

Williams also was part of a baby shower hosted by Operation Homefront during her last pregnancy. There were complication in the pregnancy, so she visited the hospital a lot, spending the last month mostly in the hospital, Williams said. Consequently, she "didn't think we were going to do anything. But to see that so many people cared about my family..." she takes off her glasses to wipe away the tears while smiling at the memory. She received a variety of items for the baby including a new car seat.

"We work to make strong, stable and secure military families so they can thrive and not merely get by in the communities they work so hard to protect," said Pray.

Police Release Name of 2-Year-Old Victim in Murder-Suicide

BY TIM PETERSON
THE GAZETTE

Despite pleas from the girl's family, Fairfax County Police have released the name of the young victim who was found dead along with the body of Roy Eugene Rumsey, 58, in an upstairs bedroom at the scene of a house fire in Fairfax on July 27.

In a post on Tuesday afternoon, Aug. 16, FCPD named the girl as Kyra Franchetti.

"We're trying to be sympathetic to the family," said Maj. Ed O'Carroll, director of the police Public Affairs Bureau, the day before the release.

O'Carroll said police have received "dozens of calls" from the family, friends of the family and the family's legal counsel, asking them to not release the name.

But on advice from the County Attorney, Fairfax County Police Chief Ed Roessler decided to move forward.

"What we've been doing for decades is still accurate," O'Carroll said, "sharing the names of homicide victims."

O'Carroll confirmed Rumsey — the girl's father — murdered her, set the house on fire, then killed himself.

The Tuesday afternoon release said the Office of the Chief Medical Examiner determined both Rumsey and Franchetti died from gunshot wounds.

It also said Franchetti had been matched biologically to Rumsey through DNA.

Several cans of gasoline were found throughout the house, located at 12107 Fairfax Hunt Road, indicating multiple points of origin for the fire, according to police.

The department has grappled with the name release; it's unusual for there to be such a young victim.

"It's tragic for everyone," O'Carroll said.

Virginia state senator and lawyer Scott Surovell (D-36) is representing the family of the dead child.

"Kyra was on visitation with her father," Surovell said in a statement.

Speaking for the family, he continued, "We continue to mourn the loss of a beautiful, innocent little girl who was the victim of a senseless act."

"Kyra's mother and her family simply ask for their privacy as they continue to grieve," Surovell said.

The police investigation is ongoing.

dignity and respect, and they will always get the job done."

Incoming Boersma, originally from Flagstaff, Arizona, accepted the formal responsibility from Guillory. "The momentum and path of success, I promise, is in good hands."

And Little Rock, Arkansas native Holbrook stopped short of announcing any sweeping immediate changes along with her taking command of the garrison.

"I subscribe to 'If it ain't broke, don't fix it,'" she said.

However, Holbrook did introduce a new "command mantra" for her tenure: "Every day better," she said.

County Reviews Deer Management

Authority and Northern Virginia Regional Parks.

Notable change for 2017: The Sully Woodlands area managed shotgun hunts will not take place as parts including Elklick Preserve and Rock Hill District Park are being converted for use by the archery program.

Sharpshooting at night will be executed by FCPD officers in select parks, while they're closed to the public.

Bob Flanagan of Fairfax Station attended the Aug. 16 meeting. Flanagan is a hunter himself and has been a group hunt leader for the county's deer management program for at least the last five years. His group covers a park area in Vienna.

"Most of the people we encounter there are happy to see us," Flanagan said. "But it depends on the park, the location, extent of the deer problem in a location, or the philosophy of the person."

Flanagan is also a representative for Suburban Whitetail Management, an organization that's been providing free deer management services in Fairfax County since 1997.

"I was encouraged with the number of people who spoke up," at the meeting, said Flanagan, "concerned, and disappointed with number of deer on their property."

Though Flanagan said he was generally positive on the evening's presentation, he thinks there should be more discussion of "management across the landscape." In other words: When hunters work in parks, that also pushes deer from the parks and into communities. He thinks there could be more done to address that complication.

In addition, Flanagan said "ears perked up" when he asked about reversing the degradation of woodlands and ecosystem as a result of deer overabundance as well as development.

"That's a major problem I don't think the community recognizes," he said. "When I'm out there I see hardly any regeneration."

Election 2016: Much at Stake

Possible record turnout should motivate more early voting.

Election Day is Tuesday, Nov. 8, and in some ways that seems like it can't possibly come soon enough.

On Election Day in Virginia, polls are open from 6 a.m. - 7 p.m., but early voting begins Sept. 23, about five weeks from now, and voters should have plenty of motivation to vote early.

It's hard to articulate how much is at stake in the coming election, and it's not just about the choices for U.S. President. Turnout will be extremely high, if not record breaking.

Nearly 32 percent of voters nationally voted before Election Day in 2012, according to census data, compared with just under 30 percent in 2008 and 20 percent in 2004, the New York Times reported.

There are 19 valid reasons to vote absentee in Virginia, with one that applies to almost everyone who commutes to work. If you could be working and commuting to and from home for 11 or more hours between 6 a.m. and 7 p.m. on Election Day, you qualify to vote "absentee in person." If you vote absentee in-person you will fill out the application when you arrive at the in-person absentee location.

The deadline to register to vote on Election

Day is Oct. 17.

Visit the Virginia Department of Elections website to check that you are registered or call Fairfax County Elections office at 703-222-0776.

Virginia has a stringent voter identification requirement, plan to bring photo identification with you to vote, whether that is absentee or on Election Day. Among accepted ID: valid Virginia Driver's License or Identification Card; valid Virginia DMV issued Veteran's ID card; valid U.S. Passport; other government-issued photo identification cards issued by the U.S. Government, the Commonwealth of Virginia, or a political subdivision of the Commonwealth; valid college or university student photo identification card from an institution of higher education located in Virginia; valid student ID issued by a public school or private school in Virginia displaying a photo; employee identification card containing a photograph of the voter and issued by an employer of the voter in the ordinary course of the employer's business. Any registered voter who does not possess one of the required forms of identification can apply for a free Virginia Voter Photo Identification from any general registrar's office in the Commonwealth. Voters applying for the Virginia Voter Photo ID Card will have to complete the Virginia Voter Photo Identification Card Application, have their picture taken, and sign the digital signature pad. Once the application is processed, the card will be mailed directly to the voter.

Women's Equality Day is 96 Years Young

In four years, celebrate centennial of 19th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, which gave women the right to vote.

BY PEGGY KNIGHT

PRESIDENT, LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS OF THE FAIRFAX AREA

On Aug. 26, 2016, our nation celebrates the Women's Equality Day for the 96th time. In only four years, we will be celebrating the centennial of this historic day recognizing the ratification of the 19th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, which gave women the right to vote and to full citizenship for the very first time.

Many fearless and dedicated men and women suffered jail time, physical assaults by the police and spectators at demonstrations, and insults, during this struggle that lasted over seven decades. However, it was only in 1971 that Congress, by resolution, designated this day as "Women's Equality Day". This designation recognized the many sacrifices made by these courageous women and men to achieve this ratification.

On Feb. 14, 1920, six months before ratification of the 19th amendment, The League of Women Voters, was founded by Carrie Chapman Catt, President, National American Woman Suffrage Association, during the association's convention. Ms. Catt was a women's rights activist and a suffragist, who stated that the vote was the "emblem of equality" for all citizens, men and women.

This year, the League of Women Voters of the Fairfax Area [LWVFA] celebrates the selection of the country's first female nominee for President from a major party. While the League never endorses candidates or political parties, it recognizes this historical achievement for women.

The League encourages active participation by citizens. It conducts studies of important policy issues, has monthly meetings during which members discuss these issues, and uses education and advocacy to influence public policy, at the local level, in the interest of the public. It conducts candidate forums so that citizens can ask candidates questions, candidates can answer those questions and also interact directly with the public. LWVFA also registers voters and provides them with unbiased information about the voting process, issues of interest, and elections.

A MUSING

My father, a New Jersey guy, loved to play with words. He would swap syllables between words to create other words. For instance, each Feb. 22 he would announce (I swear this is true) that it was "George Birthington's washday." (Groan.) So, having been "blessed" with his groan gene, I offer the following: Vount Mernon, Lonica Mewinsky, Parah Salin (a boating sport?), Jonny Surgenson, Pladimir Vutin, our nearby Ratomac Piver, Wartha Mashington, Lay Jenos, and one of my fery favorite targets, the Rouse of Hephresentatives. Finally, I recommend that the next time you visit Vount Mernon, be sure to visit the Shift Gop, and buy plenty of sool couvenirs to take hack bome.

Considering a Private School?

Educational consultants can help families navigate application process.

BY MARILYN CAMPBELL
THE GAZETTE

For families considering an independent school for the 2017-2018 school year, the admissions process begins this fall. From essays and interviews to school visits and standardized tests, the process for getting into kindergarten may feel nearly as daunting as applying to college.

Narrowing down the vast field of potential schools to find the best fit, completing the application and securing a slot at one of the area's top private schools are all challenging tasks. That's why many families rely on an educational consultant to help them understand and navigate through the entire process.

"Schools have as varied personalities as students do," said Mark H. Sklarow, CEO of the Independent Educational Consultants Association (IECA) in Fairfax. "Level of competitiveness, exploration versus memorization, independence versus group work, philosophies of learning, uses of technology, requirements in sports and the arts ... the list goes on."

When choosing a consultant, avoid those who guarantee that they can obtain admission to a particular school or secure a specific dollar amount in scholarship funding, advises Sklarow. Additionally, educational consultants should not complete admission application forms or write or re-write student essays.

An educational consultant's role is to guide students and parents through the admissions process. Consultants usually begin by meeting with families and getting to know the child's educational needs, identify strengths and weaknesses, and consider their interests and dislikes. Ideally, consultants combine the information they glean from their conversations with the family with their knowledge of area schools to help families decide on schools that are a good fit.

"Consultants can help families select a school that is the right fit. "Parents need to be realistic about their child's strengths and weaknesses and learning style," said Mimi Mulligan, assistant head and director of Admission and Enrollment Management for Norwood School. "All independent schools offer fine academic programs, but we each have a unique school culture."

Consultants aim to give students and families unbiased advice and recommendations based on their professional judgment of a student's needs and abilities. Consultants who are IECA members, for example, have "visited hundreds of campuses to understand the culture beyond the numbers to ensure such a successful pairing," said Sklarow.

Sklarow advises families to begin working with an independent educational consultant during the academic year before the year they plan to apply to an independent school.

What To Ask

Questions to ask before hiring an independent educational consultant:

1. Do you guarantee admission to a school, one of my top choices, or a certain minimum dollar value in scholarships? (Do not trust any offer of guarantees.)
2. How do you keep up with new trends, academic changes and evolving campus cultures? How often do you get out and visit college, school, and program campuses and meet with admissions representatives? (The only way to know about the best matches for you is to be out visiting schools regularly — a minimum of 20 campuses per year.)
3. Do you belong to any professional associations? (NACAC and IECA are the two associations for independent educational consultants with established and rigorous standards for membership.)
4. Do you attend professional conferences or training workshops on a regular basis to keep up with regional and national trends and changes in the law?
5. Do you ever accept any form of compensation from a school, program, or company in exchange for placement or a referral? (They absolutely should not.)

6. Are all fees involved stated in writing, up front, indicating exactly what services I will receive for those fees?
7. Will you complete the application for admission, re-write my essays, or fill out the financial aid forms on my behalf? (No, they should not; it is essential that the student be in charge of the process and all materials should be a product of the student's own, best work.)
8. How long have you been in business as an independent educational consultant (IEC)?
9. What was your background prior to going into independent educational consulting? What was your training and education?
10. Will you use personal connections to get me in to one of my top choices? (The answer should be no. An IEC doesn't get you admitted — they help you to demonstrate why you deserve to be admitted.)
11. What specialized training do you have (LD, gifted, athletics, arts, etc.)?

Create a Back-to-School Game Plan

Educators tell how to make the transition less jarring.

By MARILYN CAMPBELL
THE GAZETTE

As a single mother of a fifth grade student, Christine Schull is already making back-to-school preparations. Her plans include more than purchasing notebooks, pencils and new shoes. She knows that she and her daughter will have to shift their schedules and prepare to get back into a scholastic mindset.

“She gets up early every day ... but because it is summer, she wants to go to bed late ... about two or three weeks out, I will be much more firm about her bed time,” said Schull, assistant dean and professor of Early Childhood Education at Northern Virginia Community College in Alexandria. “Also, to start getting her academic muscles flexing, I usually supplement with some academic enrichment. I am hiring someone to work with her once a week just to give her a taste of what she will experience in fifth grade.”

Whether a child’s summer is packed with camps and vacations or filled with lazy days and complaints about being bored, students often find the back-to-school transition to be challenging. From the prospect of reuniting with friends to getting reacquainted with homework, it is not uncommon for children to experience mixed emotions about jumping back into a busy fall schedule.

“Going back to school is really more than just a one-day event,” said Dr. Lisa Turissini, Ed.D. assistant professor and chair of the Department of Education at Marymount University. “This type of transition is about the forming of a new habit. Brain researchers agree that the forming of a new habit also includes the breaking of an old one.”

Having a conversation with children and assessing their feelings about returning to school is a good place to start, recommends Licensed Clinical Psychologist Jerome Short, Ph.D., associate professor of Psychology at George Mason University.

“Children have a variety of ways of thinking, feeling, and acting toward the upcoming transition back to school,” he said. “Some children are optimistic and excited about school and are already preparing for the first day. Others may be anxious or avoid thinking about a new school year, and may need more support, structure, and encouragement from parents to prepare themselves.”

He encourages parents to listen to their children’s concerns and expectations and empathize with their feelings. “Summarize what they tell you, and tailor your approach to their needs with their input,” added Short.

Science teacher Sarah Boor works with students at Norwood School. Educators say now is the time to prepare children for a return to school.

It’s not just children who may experience school anxiety. Some parents may be worried about their children starting a new school, changing schools, facing more rigorous academics or dealing with difficult social situations. “Fear of the unknown can cause anxiety,” said Turissini. “Working with your children to build resilience and manage their emotions can be beneficial for the whole family. Children are extremely capable of dealing with change, and parents can help them by creating an environment at home that encourages them to share their feelings about returning to school.”

Reconnecting or connecting with other parents and students for support can help with the transition. “Others may help motivate, empathize, or make school preparations fun,” said Short. “There are opportunities to increase children’s communication abilities and social skills if they spend time together on school tasks.”

Planning ahead and establishing a regimented sleep schedule in August can help parents get their children acclimated to the early wake up times for the upcoming school year. “If you want your child to have a less painful transition back to a new school year, now is the time to take proactive measures to change your child’s bedtime routine,” said Turissini.

“... [It] gives their biological clock time to adjust so the transition is not so abrupt,” she said. “A regular bedtime and wake up time will build the needed structure into a child’s schedule, and this new habit will help [a child] to embrace the new routine that the school year brings.”

“Don’t do it all at once, do it gradually,” said Mark R. Ginsberg, Ph.D., dean of the College of Education and Human Development at George Mason University. “Start with [moving your children’s bedtime] one-half hour earlier, then 15 minutes earlier.”

Other recommend time adjustments include reestablishing routines that might have been lost during the summer. “If your summer has been schedule-free, get back to some of your old routines now. Start those regular family meal times or game nights,” said Turissini.

In addition to rearranging sleep schedules, now is the time to tackle back-to-school shopping and schedule doctor visits. “Take a day to get those school clothes, school supplies, and backpacks purchased,” said Turissini. “Make sure your child’s physical exam is up to date. You know the school medical forms will be forthcoming.”

Completing summer reading lists and other summer assignments can also get students ready to learn. “We want students to return to school learning ready, which means children should be reading for pleasure ... for about 30 minutes a day,” said Karen O’Neill, head of Lower School at Norwood School. “Sustained reading is a skill that requires practice at home.”

Parents can reinforce a child’s interest in books by reading to their child or reading their own book while their children read. “Don’t turn on the television in another room while your child reads,” said Ginsberg. “Have a family reading hour. Modeling the behavior is powerful for the child.” He suggests setting challenging and achievable goals and being mindful of those that could prove unrealistic. “Start with 20 minutes of reading and then increase it from there,” he said.

“At least one week before the first day of school, create the morning routine that will allow your child to arrive at school with time to organize belongings, chat with friends, and create a mindset for learning,” said O’Neill.

Invite children’s participation when creating a back-to-school plan. “From my own experience as a parent and educator, it’s best to engage them in a conversation, rather than telling them what to do,” said Ginsberg. “Rather than being directive, be collaborative with the child. Ask them what it is that they think they need to do to get themselves ready.”

Going from a carefree summer to a structured school year packed with activities can be jarring for some students. To ease the blow, Turissini suggests having candid conversations about the upcoming school schedule and ways in which the family can establish balance.

“Create a family calendar of school, extracurricular, and family activities,” she said. “Allow for some downtime on the calendar for each child so they can choose to do whatever it is they would like. Kids don’t inherently know how to add balance to their lives, so as a parent, it is important to look for the opportunities to model balance at home, work, school, and personal pursuits.”

To ease anxiety about back-to-school transportation, Michele Claeys, associate head of school and head of middle school for Norwood School, suggests “if your child walks to school or takes a bus, walk the route together or check out the bus stop together.” Whether traveling by car or bus or on foot, talk about what the schedule will look like on school mornings, including any chores that have to be done before leaving the house. Consider inviting your child to write out a schedule for the morning, including the time needed for each task.

Claeys also recommends taking time to review the curriculum for the upcoming year with your children, if it is available, and talk about some of the things they will be learning. “Hopefully this will inspire excitement about all the learning to come,” she said.

3 Spots to Pencil in for Restaurant Week

The city's offerings are their most diverse ever.

BY HOPE NELSON
THE GAZETTE

Alexandria's summertime Restaurant Week is back in action for another season, and diners will find plenty of options that are sure to appeal to every appetite. Here are three to be sure to try.

Carluccio's, 100 King St.

For a taste of Italy, Carluccio's has made quite a name for itself on lower King Street since opening last year. For breakfast, lunch, or dinner, you'll find couples, families, and colleagues lingering over a cup of coffee or glass of wine in their outdoor tables — and an indoor dining room.

The eatery is offering a three-course menu filled with some of the restaurant's favorites, from a funghi crostini appetizer to a summer vegetable soup; half-moon agnolotti filled with burrata cheese or truffle bavette, steak grilled with rosemary potatoes and truffle butter; and a spongy zuccotto cake with whipped cream for dessert, to name a few.

Bombay Curry Company, 2607 Mount Vernon Ave.

Variety is the watchword with Del Ray's Bombay Curry Company, a perennial neighborhood favorite. When it comes to Restaurant Week, the sky's the limit: The dinner menu offers a starter to share, two entrees, and two desserts for $35, with nary a limitation to be found.

For an appetizer, the samosas are well worth your time. Flaky and airy, these potato-filled pastries are the perfect way to whet your appetite for the main event. And about that main event: The thali is a wonderful way to see the culinary world, offering diners a taste of several vegetarian Indian favorites — from the spinach-rich saag paneer to lentil dal — all on one plate. Or try one of Bombay Curry's biryanis, rice medleys mixed with chicken, lamb, or vegetables and plenty of aromatic spices.

Save the rice pudding for a sweet finish to the meal and toast this neighborhood gem.

The Majestic, 911 King St.

The newly renovated Majestic has hopped

Sit outside or dine indoors at Carluccio's during Restaurant Week.

right into the Restaurant Week game with a passel of menu options to give diners a taste of what the newly staffed kitchen is offering.

From an appetizer of stone fruit salad, diners can have a choice of three entrees and two desserts. The Cheshire pork chop is especially appealing, served with polenta and balsamic cherries alongside, and for dessert, you'd be crazy to miss out on the famous Majestic coconut cake. Although the Nutella budino is certainly worthy of attention as well. Better bring a dinner date!
