Due to renovation construction, students at West Springfield High School have been forced to find alternative places to park, as well as take classes in one of 54 trailers in a village behind the school now known as "Sparta."

Students return, principals stress inter-student encouragement.

South County High School senior Dominique Butler remembers skipping class as a freshman. But when she saw how it was affecting her chances at going to college, she turned things around. When she saw freshmen from her neighborhood on the first day of school, she made sure they wouldn't make the same mistakes she did.

"I helped them out," Butler said during lunch on Sep. 6. "It feels good to encourage them to go to class." This year, the senior is attending West Potomac academy in addition to South County to study music and computer technology, where she produces her own beats and records under the moniker "DJ Spinderella."

Butler's fellow senior Hermela Gebremariam similarly shepherded some underclassmen who looked lost, even inviting them to eat with her and her friends at lunch.

"I was a freshman once," she said. "I like seeing how I could help younger students. It's better to be nice than mean."

The two seniors were already embodying a new inter-student standard for behavior called "Stallion Nation." Last year, a new student council drafted the code and plans to roll it out for all students this year.

Principal Matt Ragone said the new code is based on students having positive expectations for and of each other.

"I'm so proud of them for coming up with this," Ragone said. "It's also about getting the non-student government voices to be heard. And it's about the culture of the school."

Facilitating and empowering students to be both independent successfully and as cheerleaders for each other was a theme across high schools.

At Robinson Secondary School, the entire incoming seventh grade class first met separately in the auditorium to learn the fight song fast while the rest of the student body assembled in the gymnasium.

With the marching band blaring, flag dancers twirling and older classmates cheering them on, the school's youngest students then rushed the gym — a cacophonous swell of students building relationships.

Robinson associate principal Tracey Phillips organized the pep rally, which was the first day's main event following welcome activities outside the school that included cheerleaders, drumline and faculty effusively greeting students on their way in.

"It's a big place and can be overwhelming," said Phillips, herself Robinson graduate. "We want to be an inclusive place for all the kids, somewhere fun and exciting where they can find something they love."

In a similar vein, Lake Braddock Secondary School principal Dave Thomas said he is "most proud of all the opportunities our kids have."

From JROTC and animation to weightlifting to broadcast journalism, "our kids can really find a niche with some cool studies we offer."

Thomas was also proud of the continued use of a class period where students can go for help, or to help each other, called "Bruin Block."

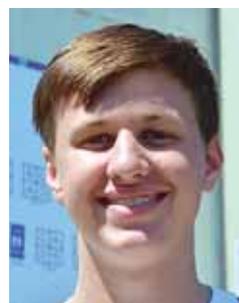

The block he said will be crucial for both students and the nearly 40 new teachers in the building this year to overcome challenges and be successful. One of those challenges is a larger student body of 4,270, the most since the late 1980s by Thomas' account, that is requiring teachers to use all rooms for six to seven periods a day.

Nyla Chambers, junior: "Getting a 4.0 grade point average. It's going to take working hard on homework and dedication. But hopefully it will go by fast, like the first day of school — and that's a good thing."

Ryan McCaffery, senior: "Graduation with all my friends, getting good grades and going to as many activities as I can as a spectator. I know my friends like it when they see me there."

Yurie Choe, senior: "Planning all of the 50th anniversary homecoming events as a part of student government: the parade, hall decorations, dance and the football game."

Tyler Wernecke, senior: "All sporting events, the senior nights. It's our last ride, our last run, and we want to make as many high school memories as possible."

contending with more structural growing pains is West Springfield High School. A three and a half-year renovation began over the summer: With a parking lot being torn up for a new third-floor extension, they've lost 249 spots and classroom space for 42 percent of students.

Students have been forced to find alternative places to park, as well as take classes in one of 54 trailers in a village behind the school now known as "Sparta."

But even with all this going on, principal Mike Mukai said the students are taking it in stride.

"The kids are so resilient," he said. "It's all about adjusting, being prepared and flexible."

Mukai described the student culture as being "open and accepting," and caring for others. He referenced a day last fall when the WT Woodson High School football team played a game against West Springfield the same night as a chemical fire in a Woodson classroom injured several people.

West Springfield students spontaneously wore white and created a sign saying "We Are All Woodson" for the game.

"I'm so proud of the work our students and faculty are doing," Mukai said, highlighting their enrollment is up more than 100 from what was predicted in the spring. "No one chose to come here because they drove by and thought, 'What a beautiful building.'"

Dead Man's, Deputy's Name Released in Inova Shooting

Police, sheriff investigations continue.

BY TIM PETERSON
THE CONNECTION

Jovany Martinez is the 29-year-old Hispanic man who died after being shot by a Fairfax County Sheriff's deputy Monday night Aug. 15 outside Inova Fairfax Hospital.

Fairfax County Police are conducting a criminal investigation of the shooting, while the Sheriff's office is working their own administrative investigation to see if the deputy followed policies and procedures.

Police released Martinez' name, along with additional information about events leading up to and including the shooting, on Aug. 19. They said he had no fixed address, but detectives were able to locate and notify his next of kin, as is their policy before releasing names of the deceased.

Martinez first came into contact with police earlier that day on Aug. 15, police said, approaching a uniformed police officer in a marked police cruiser parked in front of a gas station in the 7100 block of Little River Turnpike in Annandale.

He started a conversation with the officer, who eventually suspected Martinez suffering a medical emergency from either the extreme heat, a mental health issue or perhaps a combination of the two.

THE OFFICER called Fairfax County Fire & Rescue and a team of medics responded to the location. They assessed Martinez, police said, around 2 p.m. and decided he should go to Inova Fairfax Hospital to be further evaluated.

The officer also went to the hospital; once medical staff gave Martinez a mental health evaluation, they would be available if necessary to escort him to the Merrifield Crisis Response Center.

Medical staff told the officer Martinez was not in mental distress, so the transport investigation was concluded around 4 p.m.

Later that evening, police said, Martinez was discharged and escorted to the bus stop by hospital security.

It was shortly after that when security received reports of a man at the bus stop threatening people with what appeared to be a weapon. It was Martinez.

Police and the Sheriff's office have said Martinez attacked a security guard with pointed metal sign post when they responded to the scene. The guards called for backup, which brought a Sheriff's deputy to the scene as well as Fairfax County Police officers.

Despite the deputy, who Sheriff Stacey Kincaid said was Crisis Intervention Team trained to better engage with people with mental illness, attempting to de-escalate the

Sheriff's Office Releases Deputy's Name

The Fairfax County Sheriff's Office released the following statement:

"The Fairfax County Sheriff's Office continues to cooperate with the Fairfax County Police Department's investigation of the Aug. 15 deputy-involved shooting on the Inova Fairfax Medical Campus. The deceased has been identified as 29-year-old Jovany Martinez of no fixed address. The deputy involved, MDS Patrick McPartlin, is an 18-year veteran of the Sheriff's Office assigned to the Confinement Division. He remains on administrative leave. Detectives from the police department's Major Crimes Division continue their investigation and ask that anyone with information regarding this case, contact the Major Crimes Division at 703-246-7800.

situation, Martinez ran at the deputy and swung the post in an attempt to strike, police said.

While the deputy "tactically retreated," they commanded Martinez to stop what he was doing. When he didn't respond to repeated attempts, the deputy shot him several times.

MARTINEZ was taken to the emergency room at Inova for his wounds. He died early the following Tuesday morning.

Police Chief Edwin Roessler and Kincaid said in a press conference later that day it isn't known whether there was a language barrier between Martinez and the guards or the deputy.

Tracy Connell, a spokesperson for Inova Fairfax Hospital, would not elaborate on Martinez' condition, saying via email HIPAA laws prevent them from disclosing any patient medical history, diagnosis, care or treatment.

When asked why Martinez was escorted to the bus stop by hospital security guards after his discharge, Connell responded: "An escort can be provided to a patient for a variety of reasons. Inova continues to cooperate with the Fairfax County Police Department as they conduct a full investigation of the incident."

While Fairfax County Police have touted their use of "less lethal" force in recent incidents — employing bean bag guns to bring down a suspect rather than a firearm — FCPD spokesperson Don Gotthardt said the deputy that shot Martinez was not carrying a bean bag gun or a taser.

Spokesperson for the Sheriff's Office 1st Lt. Maegan Timothy said tasers and bean bag guns are not mandatory for deputies to carry.

Tasers were banned for deputies within the Adult Detention Center following last year's in-custody death of Natasha McKenna, an Alexandria woman with mental illness.

Outside the jail, deputies may carry tasers and bean bag guns, Timothy said, if they've gone through the training.

Both the criminal and administrative investigations of Martinez's death are ongoing.

'Sextortion' Victims Are Mostly Men

Photos, video used to demand money from victims.

Detectives of the Major Crimes Division of Fairfax County Police report a trend in an unsavory type of financial scam. Sexual extortion scams, commonly referred to as "sextortion," involve meeting someone the victim believes is a real person online who coaxes him or her into feeling a sense of connection and intimacy, and then sending risque photos or video.

So far in 2016, there have been 14 incidents of this nature reported to police; in 11 of the 14 cases, the victims were men. The victims' ages range from 16 to 58. In 2015, there were 14 "sextortion" cases; victims ranged from 17 to 56 years old and 12 of the 14 victims were men, according to police.

Police say this is a common scenario:

Once the victim is convinced to share inappropriate photos or video of themselves, the scammer threatens to post the photos publicly if the victim does not pay money. The user profile is often a sham and the scammers often operate from outside of the United States. Their goal is to intimidate, through embarrassment and fear, into sending them money.

INVESTIGATION has determined in the majority of these cases, the scammers create fake accounts on a variety of social media avenues, ranging from sites such as Facebook to Skype to Coffee Meets Bagel. In all of the cases, the phony profile user initiates a friend request or contact with a potential victim. If they accept, online conversation begins through direct messaging and the unsuspecting victim believes they are getting to know a real person. As the bogus relationship develops, the scammer encourages the victim to share sexually explicit photos or video of themselves. Later, the scammer threatens to publicly share the imagery online or with the victim's family and friends if they do not pay them money.

Detectives have determined in many cases, the scammers create fake accounts and user profiles and operate from outside of the United States. A victim may believe he or she is watching a live video of someone, but detectives believe that the scammers are showing video and photos pulled from the Internet.

Whether you're single and dating online or just enjoy browsing your social media site, chatting with friends and virtually making new ones, police remind everyone to employ caution when talking to anyone who's a stranger or unfamiliar to you:

- ❖ Do not share photos or video of yourself with anyone you have never met in person; even then, do not share explicit imagery online, particularly with someone you've only known a short time.

- ❖ Be extremely cautious about strangers online who friend you or initiate contact. Fake profiles are easy to create.

- ❖ Never share personal information with anyone you meet online. You have no idea who they are or if they are even real. Scammers often use photos and names pulled from the Internet to fool you.

- ❖ Never send photos or video of yourself to anyone online. Once you hit send, you have zero control over what happens to those images.

- ❖ Scammers go to great lengths to make you believe their profile is that of a real person, one who's interested in you. Facebook accounts may have photos and posts dated back one or two years; when you research the names or websites used by scammers, you may find information or a web page that looks credible; in reality, it might be completely forged.

- ❖ Often, scammers originate from outside the U.S. and they constantly create and discard phony user profiles, e-mails and contacts, making it nearly impossible to determine their true identities.

- ❖ Never send money to someone you met online. Scammers employ countless excuses to pull on your heartstrings and take your money.

ANYONE WITH INFORMTION is asked to contact Crime Solvers by phone at 1-866-411-TIPS/8477, e-mail at www.fairfaxcrimesolvers.org or text "TIP187" plus your message to CRIMES/274637 or call Fairfax County Police at 703-691-2131.

New, Juggling Priest at St. Mary

There's a new priest at Saint Mary of Sorrows Catholic Church – and he juggles. Indeed, during the church's annual, Labor Day picnic on Monday, Sept. 5, Father Francis Peffley showed off his juggling talent for the parishioners. Church member, Del. David Bulova (D-37), was among those enjoying the show.

"While Father Peffley juggled tennis rackets and basketballs, he really wowed the crowd when he juggled machetes and torches," said Bulova. The active, new priest also enjoys golfing, scuba diving, bowling, playing billiards, collecting baseball cards and traveling to various pilgrimage sites and shrines.

OPINION

Back to School

Conversation and listening:
top priorities for back to school.

Don't be afraid. Asking questions with respect and listening to the answers is one of the most important things we can all do as we head back to school.

Parents, go ahead and ask your students what they think about what's happening at school, what their plans are. Listen to the answers. Parents, go ahead and ask teachers about expectations, motivations and their philosophies and approaches on teaching. Attend back-to-school night if you can. Figure out how you will communicate with teachers.

Students, indulge your parents for five minutes a day. Answer a question or two. Share something interesting that happened during the day. Try to tell them why some things make a difference to you.

GRATITUDE: An excellent way to help wrestle back-to-school concerns into perspective is to count blessings and consider how to help someone wrestling harder things.

Hundreds, possibly thousands, of students headed back to school this week in Northern Virginia are experiencing homelessness. In Fairfax County, you can find ways to volunteer to help homeless students by contacting the Office to Prevent and End Homelessness, 703-324-9492.

SAFETY: We do know to slow down in school zones, watch for darting pedestrians, stop for school buses with flashing lights. Buckle seatbelts. But probably the most important conscious step you can take for safety on the roads around schools and everywhere else is to resolve not to engage in distracted driving. Put your phone down. Students, talk to your parents about this; they could be at risk.

Favorite Back-to-School Headline (from Fairfax County): "Learn About School Lunches and Deer Management in the Latest News." Turns out deer management is not being incorporated into venison burgers in school lunches.

Why Do Some Want Virginia To Be One of the Most Repressive States?

Two states allow absentee voting from prison.

Clearly that is not where we are headed in Virginia. But the restoration of voting rights moves Virginia towards the mainstream.

Virginia is one of four most restrictive states with lifetime bans on voting for those convicted of felonies.

Fourteen states automatically restore voting rights once the individual's term of incarceration is over, and two states allow absentee voting from prison.

Gov. Terry McAuliffe deserves praise for his efforts to restore voting rights for former felons who have served their sentences. He has been thwarted at every turn by Republican members of the General Assembly, who don't appear to be done with their efforts to prevent people who have paid their "debt to society" from returning to normal, engaged lives in the community.

"If we are going to build a stronger and more equal Virginia, we must break down barriers to participation in civic life for people who return to society seeking a second chance," McAuliffe said. "We must welcome them back and offer the opportunity to build a better life by taking an active role in our democracy."

Earlier this year, the Maryland General Assembly restored the vote to all convicted felons immediately upon their release from prison. Previously, people convicted of felonies in Maryland had to complete all parole and probation before they were able to vote.

MEANWHILE, for all Virginia voters, the deadline to register to vote for the Nov. 8 general election is Oct. 17. You can verify your voter status at <https://vote.elections.virginia.gov/VoterInformation>. This is especially important to do if you have moved or have not voted recently.

In person absentee voting begins Sept. 23.

Virginia Faces Another Shortfall

BY SCOTT SUROVELL
STATE SENATOR (D-36)

Last month, Gov. Terry McAuliffe announced that state revenues were lower than assumed in our state budget passed earlier in the year. This creates a series of difficult choices.

In July, the Governor announced that the budget ended on June 30 and came in $266 million short of expectations. Last month, the Governor announced that due to continued lagging revenues, the current budget was projected to be short by $850 million this year and $630 million in next fiscal year. This creates a total $1.7 billion from what was budgeted last session.

There are many causes of this. First, the lingering effects of the Sequester — automatic spending cuts by the federal government — continue to stall the Northern Virginia and Hampton Roads economies. Cuts to defense spending alone took $9.8 billion and pay as much as the jobs we have lost. Commercial office vacancies are still at record highs in Northern Virginia.

Sales tax collections also continue to lag as more people buy their goods online — transactions that Virginia cannot tax.

The Governor has authorized the withdrawal of $378 million from Virginia's Rainy Day Fund. This will alleviate half of the shortfall for this fiscal year and last year, but state funds designated for teacher and state employee salary increases were required to be withheld by state law — the Governor had no discretion about this. The remainder will be made up with budget cuts.

COMMENTARY

115,000 jobs out of the Virginia economy. Income tax collections are down, even with 2.6 percent job growth last year, because new jobs do not

In seven of the eight sessions I have served in the legislature, budget revenues have lagged the historical average increase.

In addition to an economy over-dependent on federal spending, Virginia's budget continues to suffer from a structural deficit created by a 1920's tax system being applied to a 21st century economy. Virginian's pay some of the lowest income taxes in the United States, the repeal of the Estate Tax has cost Virginians about $2 billion since it was repealed and our ability to collect the sales tax on internet sales is limited by the Federal Government. We also continue to leaving billions of free dollars on the table by not expanding Medicaid.

If we want to fund priorities like secondary education, higher education, health care, and transportation, Virginia's tax structure needs reconstructive surgery. If we invest in education, people and infrastructure, jobs will follow.

It is an honor to serve as your state senator. Please contact me at scott@scotturovell.org if you have any feedback.

Industrial Health Opens Springfield Location

Industrial Health has opened its third location at 8001 Braddock Road, Suite 100 in Springfield on Sept. 6. Earlier this year, Industrial Health acquired the Warrenton location of Industrial Rehabilitation Services, which, along with their location in Sterling, makes it possible for them to provide innovative, specialized physical therapy and rehab for injured workers in Northern Virginia and surrounding areas.

Working exclusively with worker's compensation cases, their systematic approach progresses the injured worker through the stages of rehabilitation using objective clinical measures, not solely based on subjective pain ratings.

Inquiring about Vaccines

Strategies for asking another parent if their children are vaccinated.

BY MARILYN CAMPBELL
THE CONNECTION

As a new parent, Joy Baatin admits to being protective of her young son. In addition to guarding her son from household hazards such as electrical outlets and chemicals, she wants to protect him from catching a contagious disease from an unvaccinated playmate. But it's not easy to talk to other parents about vaccination, since it has become a controversial topic.

"I won't be so bold as to ask another [parent]," said Baatin, of Bethesda. "I respect that it's a matter of choice. But I wouldn't knowingly let my son play with a child who hasn't been vaccinated."

Like Baatin, many parents of young children feel uncomfortable bringing up this question. However, researchers point to outbreaks of measles in recent years. The Centers of Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) reports that there were 189 cases of measles in 2015 and 52 in 2016 as of Aug. 15.

For that reason, it is a good idea for parents to become informed about which of their children's friends have been vaccinated, particularly for children with weakened immune systems or infants who are too young to be vaccinated. The importance outweighs the awkwardness of raising this question, and it need not be a difficult conversation to begin.

"I think it's important to recognize that, particularly when it comes to decisions about how to raise our children, certain issues are going to be sensitive," said Carolyn Lorente, Ph.D., professor of psychology at Northern Virginia Community College in Alexandria. "It's also important to recognize that we all have different perspectives and opinions."

Approaching this topic with genuine interest in learning another parent's point of view can help quell any discomfort about engaging in this conversation. "Asking what they think about vaccines to get their opinion is a nice way to start the conversation," said Lorente. "It allows you to begin from a point of curiosity rather than judgment."

In addition to withholding judgment, maintaining an open mind and keeping conversations light-hearted and straightforward is key. "If you are able to actually avoid passing judgment and respect another parent's perspective and point of view, that will come across in a conversation," said Karen Bronco, LCSW, a psychotherapist in Arlington.

PARENTS: IT'S TIME TO IMMUNIZE

Documentation of immunization is required for children entering kindergarten and sixth grade and for new students transferring into Fairfax County Public Schools. The Fairfax County Health Department offers school required immunizations from your health care provider and at the Fairfax County Health Department's five clinics. To shorten your wait, call ahead to make and appointment.

Parents should bring the child's immunization record and insurance card to the clinic. Without an immunization record in English, the child may need to restart his or her immunization series.

ing vaccines with one of her friends reinforced her belief that parents should educate themselves about vaccinations before having a discussion on the topic.

"My friend said that she wasn't going to vaccinate her kids," said Lorente. "I asked her what she'd read about vaccines so that I could understand her point of view. As a professional, I like to look at authoritative sources when it comes to making decisions for my children. With social media it's getting harder and harder to determine what those sources are, but I start with well respected organizations such as the CDC (Centers for Disease Control and Prevention)."

Informed decisions can be made after educating oneself about the scientific research and debunking myths about vaccines, Lorente said. One reason that parents might choose to forgo vaccinations is the now discredited belief that there is a link between vaccines and Autism spectrum disorder. The CDC highlights multiple studies which show that there is no link.

Researchers say that it is helpful for parents of vaccinated children to know if their child's playmates have received their vaccinations. "There is still some slight risk even if your child is vaccinated, as no vaccine is 100 percent effective," said Tony Yang, ScD., associate professor of Health Administration and Policy at George Mason University in Fairfax. "Research shows vaccination reduces the probability of infection substantially, but not perfectly."

As with other difficult conversations, such as asking the parents of one's child's playmates whether they own a gun, the approach and attitude parents take can make the difference between a stressful or productive conversation.

"These are all important questions and I think if we address them with an 'it takes a village' mindset and think that we're all in this together, the conversations go a lot better," said Lorente.

5K Run To Benefit Food Bank

Food for Others will hold a 5K and a 1-mile fun run on Sept. 10 to benefit the Northern Virginia food bank. This is the third annual Tysons 5K run. Last year there were about 300 participants and they raised more than $26,000. The event will begin at Tysons Corner Mall (by Bloomingdales) at 8 a.m. Registration is $35 for the 5K run and $30 for the 1-mile fun run.

Walk-in registration is 7:15 a.m.-7:45 a.m.; credit cards will also be accepted at the race. Food or monetary donations are also welcome. A truck will be there to accept food donations. Prizes will be awarded to the top 5K finishers in each of 4 age categories as well as the fastest corporate team. Since 1995 Food for Others has provided a safety net in Northern Virginia for those needing emergency food and the growing number of working poor who are unable to make ends meet. Food drives provide most of their non-perishable food. Food for Others is located on Prosperity Avenue in Fairfax.

Walking to End Alzheimer's

Northern Virginia walk set for Sept. 25

BY MARILYN CAMPBELL
THE CONNECTION

When Paula Dierkes was growing up in Arlington, she would often hear family stories of a grandfather who sat on his front porch screaming at his neighbors and asking for his shotgun. She recalls a grandmother who shut out her family, literally, by closing doors and windows when they came to visit.

"As a child, I thought they were just grumpy, old people," said Dierkes. "But looking back, I realize that it was probably Alzheimer's."

Dierkes' mother was diagnosed with Alzheimer's Disease and now lives in the memory care unit of a Fairfax nursing facility. "She is this woman I see, who looks like my mom, but it's not my mom," said Dierkes. "It's not the same woman who I would go to crafts fairs with and have coffee with. That's what's so sad about this disease."

Ilissa Belanger lost both her mother and mother-in-law to Alzheimer's. "My mother-in-law had it for 10 years before she died," said Belanger who lives in Fairfax. "Shortly after, my mother was diagnosed and suffered with it for five years. So it was back-to-back. The experience makes you realize how devastating it can be on your loved ones."

Patty Schuebel of Great Falls says her father has been living with Alzheimer's for nearly seven years. "It's been quite eye-opening to go through this journey with him," she said. "You don't really understand how horrible this disease is until it affects you directly."

It is personal experiences like these that have led Dierkes, Schuebel, Belanger and thousands of others to join the Alzheimer's Association's Walk to End Alzheimer's in Northern Virginia, an event designed to raise awareness and funds for Alzheimer's care, support and research. Held each year in September, World Alzheimer's Awareness Month, more than 600 communities around the country join the effort. This year, the Northern Virginia event will be held on Sept. 25 at the Reston Town Center in Reston.

"The walk brings the community together to support each other and to raise awareness about Alzheimer's and offer support for families going through it," said Belanger. Participants form teams to honor a loved one affected by the disease.

Schuebel is the captain of her team, "Steps for Dad." This will be Belanger's ninth year joining the event with her team, "Walkers for Miriam and Anita."

Dierkes' team is called the "Baldinelli Battlers." "We may have this disease genetically in our family," said Dierkes. "So we're fighting this together and working to get the word out and raise awareness and money."

Each walker will also join a ceremony to honor those affected by Alzheimer's disease. Known as the Blue represents someone with Alzheimer's or dementia. Purple is for someone who has lost a loved one to the disease. Yellow represents someone who is currently supporting or caring for someone with Alzheimer's. Orange is for everyone who supports the cause and vision of a world without Alzheimer's.

"I would love to be able to give my kids the gift of saying 'I know an Alzheimer's survivor,' said Dierkes. "We're looking forward to that day when there is a treatment, or better yet a cure, for this wicked disease."

Book-lovers Feast Returns

Northern Virginia's "Fall for the Book" set for Sept. 25-30.

BY DAVID SIEGEL
THE CONNECTION

Where and When

Locally developed and locally curated, the region's annual "Fall for the Book" is a go-to destination for readers and authors alike. What began in 1999 as a 2-day event at George Mason University is now a week-long book festival with something to share with book-lovers at locations throughout the region.

"One of the great things about 'Fall for the Book' is the sense of connection and community that it creates—in several directions: readers connecting with books; readers connecting with the writers behind those books; readers connecting with one another," said Art Taylor (Burke) who will lead talks with mystery writers at this year's festival.

Over 150 authors are expected such as headliners WAMU's Diane Rehm and MacArthur "Genius" Fellow Sandra Cisneros. Both will receive major "Fall for the Book" top awards.

Local authors with a wide array of works and interests will be well represented throughout the festival. Whether fiction, poetry, history, young adult books, sports, children's literature, memoirs or current events there is a session planned. Just about every session is free and open to the public.

Mystery writer Laura Ellen Scott (Fairfax) is a veteran author of three books. Her new mystery "The Juliet" is set in Death Valley revealing darker sides of "The American Dream." For Scott, the annual book festival is "a cultural experience

"Fall for the Book" at George Mason University's Fairfax Campus, 4400 University Drive, Fairfax, and venues throughout the region. Event is Sept. 25-30, 2016. Tickets are free except for several special events. For detailed information about the schedule and various venues visit www.fallforthebook.org/ or call 703-993-3986. Note: there is a "Fall for the Book" app at: <http://fallforthebook.org/2014/08/04/festival-launches-smartphone-app/> not to be missed. It provides the opportunity for an author to explore together with readers. I really like to share my books with audiences. It is so very rewarding."

Poet J.K. Daniels (Falls Church), will read from her debut collection of poems called "The Wedding Pulls." This award winning collection crosses over love, family and myth. For Daniels, "Fall for the Book" is a celebration of writing and reading. "A celebration of amazing, diverse writing that await readers for writing is the art of the imagination."

Historian Garrett Peck (Arlington) will share his book about Walt Whitman; "Walt Whitman in Washington, D.C. The Civil War and America's Great Poet." It chronicles the famous "Leaves of Grass" author's decade in the D.C. area during the Civil War's upheaval. Whitman served as a volunteer "hospital missionary." Peck "encouraged the book festival audiences to be active participants at any and all sessions they may attend."

"Fall for the Book" is a close-by book-lovers opportunity to join company with like-minded fans while listening to readings or interacting with authors.

SCHOOLS

TJHSST students display a mural they created for NOVA Pediatrics and Young Adult Medicine in Springfield.

TJHSST and NOVA Pediatrics: A Partnership in Art

NOVA Pediatrics and Young Adult Medicine has recently celebrated its 55th Anniversary and teamed up with Thomas Jefferson High School for Science and Technology (TJHSST) to support arts in education to commemorate the milestone. NOVA Pediatrics invited art students from the school to create a mural for their recently repainted Springfield office. The partnership worked together over the course of a year brainstorming ideas on the themes of patient health and wellness. The students incorporated those themes into the large mural which was painted on a canvas 4 feet tall by 10 feet long.

NOVA Pediatrics and Young Adult Medicine has served the Northern Virginia community for the past 55 years and has locations in Springfield and Woodbridge. “We felt that this was a good way to involve the local community and to give these young creative art students a real commission,” said Dr. Laurence Seidman, President. He contacted the head of the art department, Tim Davis, who suggested the Art Honor Society would be excited to handle the project. While the school is known for its academic excellence in the areas of math and science, the students are also very creative, bright and committed to community service.

The students participating in the project were:

Alyssa Lee, Jonathan Burkle, Arthur Wu, Sam Liu, Audrey Huang, Chantal Iosso, Hannah Collins, Helen Tran, Immalla Chen, Varun Iyengar, Jessica Wang, Lada Semicheva, Michelle Cao, Prabhav Bhaumik, Rachel Eom, Sharon Liu, Sydney Miller, and Warren Chen. They worked under the leadership of their mentor and teacher, Tim Davis. This was done after school hours and during their free time despite their busy schedules.

NOVA Pediatrics presented a check for $500 to the art department at TJHSST. The money could be used for future art trips and supplies that may not be adequately funded.

Nova Pediatrics and Young Adult Medicine has served the Northern Virginia community now for 55 years and has privileges at both INOVA Fairfax and Alexandria hospitals. There are offices in both Springfield and Woodbridge. Currently there are 7 board certified Pediatricians: Doctors Laurence Seidman, Violet Nematollahy, Allison Rodgers, Mona Hanna, Tiffany Meyer, Gina Schwartz, and Jamie Zakkak, as well as three Nurse Practitioners: Lena Garcia, Ginger Beecher, and Virginia Krause, who have over 125 years of combined service. They provide care from birth to the age 25 to patients in Northern Virginia.

NOVA Pediatrics presented a check for $500 targeted to the art department at TJHSST.

VOLUNTEERS NEEDED as DRIVERS & OFFICE WORKERS Volunteer Drivers are needed for trips Monday - Friday to medical appointments and companion shopping within the Fairfax/Burke area. Office Workers are needed to answer phones in the SCFB office Monday - Friday to assist individuals requesting rides and to match an available driver for each request. If you can volunteer your time or if someone you know is unable to get out and needs weekly calls and visits, or you would like to be a caller or visitor, please contact the SCFB office at 703-323-4788.

Volunteer with CASA and Lift Up a Child's Voice Become a Court Appointed Special Advocate and provide an abused and neglected child with a voice within the confusing child welfare system. Fairfax CASA is a 501(c)3 public charity that provides every child with an open abuse and neglect case in the Fairfax County Juvenile and Domestic Relations Court with a voice. Our goal is to find every child a safe and loving home by reporting to the courts on the “best interest” of the child. While many children have social workers, foster parents, therapists and teachers which change over time, the CASA volunteer is often the only stable adult presence in their life. Join Fairfax CASA in raising awareness about the volunteering opportunities within our organization. Visit www.fairfaxcasa.org for more information about Fairfax CASA.
