Police Chief's Cruiser Hit by Drunken Driver

BY FALLON FORBUSH
THE CONNECTION

Fairfax County Police Department Chief Col. Edwin Roessler Jr. was rear-ended by a drunken driver in Centreville on Monday night, Dec. 12.

Roessler experienced minor injuries and was taken to Inova Fair Oaks Hospital for evaluation and treatment. He was released later in the night and was back to work the following morning.

A 40-year-old Centreville woman, who was driving the Nissan SUV that struck Roessler's unmarked police cruiser, a 2017 Ford Explorer, was arrested at the scene. A passenger in her SUV, a 48-year-old man, was released at the scene of the accident.

The driver was taken to the Fairfax County Adult Detention Center in Fairfax where she was charged with a DWI. She was released the following morning on Tuesday, Dec. 13.

Roessler was driving southbound on Lee Highway around 8:40 p.m. when he stopped for a red light at the intersection of Stone Road when he was struck.

While he was waiting for the traffic light to turn green, he was thinking about getting home to eat dinner and later going to pick up one of his children from the airport who was flying home for the holidays, FCPD Chief Col. Edwin Roessler Jr. spoke about the accident at a press conference the following afternoon at the Fairfax County Government Center in Fairfax on Tuesday, Dec. 13. He had strong words for drivers: "Drinking and driving don't mix ... Spend a little money and plan. Take a taxi. Don't get behind a wheel. You're going to kill someone."

Roessler said at a press conference the following afternoon.

"It was a very long day ... That's all I was thinking about and the next thing I know, I'm being jolted real hard," he said. "It took me a few seconds to realize that I was just rear-ended at full speed while I was stopped in traffic waiting for the light."

He immediately approached the SUV to see if the driver and her passenger were OK.

"I went and checked on them and asked them if they were injured," he said. "They said, 'No.'"

He then reported the crash to dispatchers.

It was then that he started experiencing a headache and pain in his back and legs. He told reporters that he had replacement surgery on his left hip on Aug. 30 and was afraid that he was experiencing complications.

"I was kind of in shock," he said. "I didn't feel anything and as I sat [in the cruiser] ... I started getting a headache, and my back started tightening and my legs started cramping."

Though he feels "very sore," he thanked God that he was OK. "The X-rays were good, CAT scan's good ... just glad for my health."

He said that it could have been a different story had he not worn his seatbelt.

"If I wasn't buckled in, I don't think I would be here," he said.

He had serious words for drivers, especially during the holidays when there are parties and festivities going on.

"Drinking and driving don't mix ... Spend a little money and plan," he said. "Take a taxi. Don't get behind a wheel. You're going to kill someone."

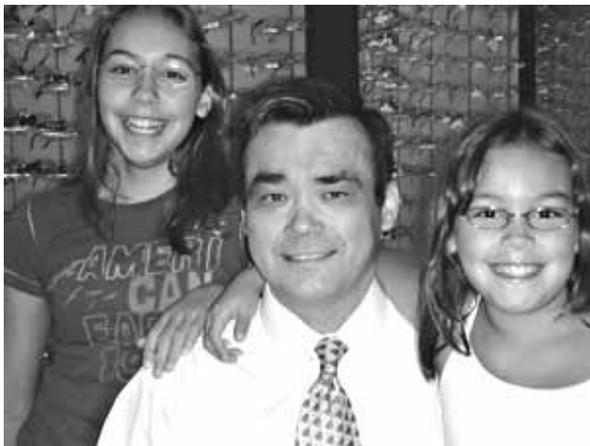

FCPD Chief Col. Edwin Roessler Junior's unmarked police cruiser, a 2017 Ford Explorer, was rear-ended.

According to police, a Centreville woman's Nissan SUV struck Roessler while he was stopped at a red light at the intersection of Lee Highway and Stone Road in Centreville.

A Dec. 13 presentation from Ad Hoc Police Practices Review Commission, Recruitment, Diversity and Vetting subcommittee chair Shirley Ginwright (right), marked the last subcommittee to be heard by the supervisors.

Fairfax County Police Chief Edwin Roessler presents an update to the Public Safety Committee on the Precision Immobilization Technique (PIT) still allowed to be implemented by FCPD.

Ad Hoc Commission Recommendations: 88 Percent Implemented

THE CONNECTION

The Fairfax County Board of Supervisors is well on its way to implementing all recommendations from the Ad Hoc Police Practices Review Commission. At the Dec. 13 meeting of the board's Public Safety Committee, they announced 88 percent of the commission recommendations have been implemented or are soon to be so.

"I am proud that 178 of 202 recommendations have been approved in just over a year," Chairman Sharon Bulova said in a statement. "The Board of Supervisors, Police Department and county staff have been moving with deliberate speed to transform these recommendations into actionable policies. By launching Diversion First, establishing the Office of Police Auditor, creating a Civilian Review Panel, hiring a civilian FCPD Public Affairs Director and applying new standards regarding release of information, just to name a few, Fairfax County has made great strides toward enhancing trust in and increasing transparency of Fairfax County Government."

BULOVA LAUNCHED the commission in response to public concern and growing distrust of police over the 2013 shooting death of Springfield resident John Geer by Fairfax County Police officer Adam Torres.

Fairfax County Police and the supervisors didn't release case information for more than a year after Geer's death, even to his family. A wrongful death civil suit filed by the family and a court order finally forced the release of investigation files and Torres' name.

Torres was fired in July 2015 and indicted by a grand jury for murder in August 2015, an historic first charge of that kind for any Fairfax County officer. He pleaded guilty to involuntary manslaughter and was released in June of this year, after he received credit for time served for a 12-month sentence.

Status of Ad Hoc Commission Recommendations

Fairfax County released these totals, as of Dec. 12, 2016:

119 (58.9 percent) Recommendations are Implemented or Implemented as Modified

- ❖ 39 Communications
- ❖ 54 Use of Force
- ❖ 10 Diversity, Recruitment and Vetting
- ❖ 8 Mental Health and CIT
- ❖ 8 Independent Oversight and Investigations

59 (29.2 percent) Recommendations are In Progress (Recommendation accepted and in the implementation process)

- ❖ 11 Communications
- ❖ 3 Use of Force
- ❖ 4 Diversity, Recruitment and Vetting
- ❖ 13 Mental Health and CIT
- ❖ 28 Independent Oversight and Investigations

16 (7.9 percent) Recommendations are Under Review (Recommendation needs more review or approval by the Board of Supervisors before the implementation process can begin)

- ❖ 1 Communications
- ❖ 7 Use of Force
- ❖ 0 Diversity, Recruitment and Vetting
- ❖ 5 Mental Health and CIT
- ❖ 3 Independent Oversight and Investigations

8 (4 percent) Recommendations are Not Implemented

- ❖ 1 Communications
- ❖ 4 Use of Force
- ❖ 0 Diversity, Recruitment and Vetting
- ❖ 0 Mental Health and CIT
- ❖ 3 Independent Oversight and Investigations

The Public Safety Committee has been reviewing the recommendations from each subcommittee of the Ad Hoc Commission over the last several months, including Use of Force, Communications, Mental Health, Recruitment, Diversity and Vetting, and Independent Investigations and Oversight.

Michael Hershman, chair of the Ad Hoc Commission, said in a statement, "I not only look back on our work as very pertinent given today's national attention on policing and community relations, but am encouraged by the seriousness with which the Board of Supervisors have addressed our many recommendations. Through a series of committee meetings and hearings focusing on our recommendations, the board has displayed a professional and bipartisan effort to make a very good police department into a model for the rest of the country."

A presentation from Recruitment, Diversity and Vetting subcommittee chair Shirley Ginwright, president of the Fairfax County chapter of the NAACP, on Tuesday, Dec. 13, marked the last subcommittee to be heard by the supervisors.

"What I have seen is community members, leaders and police department working together."

— Shirley Ginwright

"In some fashion we've touched each one of them," said Public Safety committee chair supervisor John Cook (R-Braddock).

Ginwright gave brief updates on the status of the subcommittee's 14 recommendations with Fairfax County Police.

"I have to thank them for doing the most critical pieces of our recommendations first," Ginwright said.

Among those implemented are "collaborate and build recruitment-oriented partnerships" (number 5) and "establish a diversity goal for each commander" (number 10).

Less than half of that subcommittee's recommendations are still in progress, said Ginwright.

"We realize there is more that needs to be done, but we started," Ginwright said in a statement. "I applaud the Board of Supervisors for establishing the Ad Hoc Commission, listening to and understanding the cries of the community for changes, and taking some hard hits to get it done. What I have seen is community members, leaders and police department working together."

Cook acknowledged that a number of the Ad Hoc commission's recommendations were directed towards the Sheriff's Office and Commonwealth's Attorney, who don't report directly to the Board of Supervisors.

But, Cook said, the board is reaching out to them regarding those recommendations and inviting them to present and field questions related to the recommendations at the Public Safety Committee Meeting in March, 2017.

Among those recommendations still under review, a number relate to body cameras.

CHIEF EDWIN ROESSLER said the cost for cameras has been coming down as the number of vendors in the market increases.

Roessler cautioned the board to learn from the mistakes of other jurisdictions around the United States that have hastily implemented body camera programs without properly budgeting or planning to manage them.

Cook said the Jan. 31, 2017 Public Safety Committee meeting has already been reserved for a deeper discussion of body cameras.

A progress report of where different recommendations from the Ad Hoc Commission are in the process of implementation is available online at www.fairfaxcounty.gov/policecommission/progressreport.htm. A copy of the commission's final report to the board of supervisors is available at www.fairfaxcounty.gov/chairman/pdf/adhoc-final-10.8.15.pdf.

Dominion Reminds Customers to be Aware of Utility Scams

Last year, scammers contacted nearly 2,800 Dominion Virginia Power customers, demanding fraudulent payments totaling more than $1.2 million. Hundreds of customers fell victim, paying nearly $200,000 in response to threats of immediate disconnection of electric service.

“While we are working in concert with law enforcement to identify, track and stop these scams, it’s important for customers to recognize the red flags,” said Marc Gaudette, director-Corporate Security, Safety & Health. “Unfortunately, the scammers frequently target the elderly, non-English-speaking communities and businesses during their busy times and use caller ID spoofing software so a customer thinks Dominion is calling.”

“There are two clear signs that there’s a scammer on the other end of that phone call that you can easily spot,” said Becky Merritt, vice president, Customer Service. “First, we would never threaten a customer, even if their account is past due. Second, we would never insist on one specific, immediate form of payment—there are a number of options available to customers, including in-person at a verified payment location, secure payment through their online account, or our third-party payment processing vendor.”

Customers are reminded to do the following:
 ❖ Ask questions and verify what you are hearing by checking your online account or hanging up and then calling us at 866-DOM-HELP. If an account is overdue, we provide multiple communications in writing and offers a payment plan before disconnection occurs.

❖ Remember that we do not require payment over the phone and never demand immediate payment of cash, PayPal, any prepaid debit card such as ‘MoneyPak/Green Dot’, or any gift card to avoid disconnection. Payment by phone is available through BillMatrix at 1-800-573-1147. (Note: customers will never be contacted directly by BillMatrix requiring payment.)

❖ Collect information from the scammer including the caller’s name, any phone numbers or other details before hanging up and reporting to local law enforcement.

OPINION

History in Police Reform Part 2

Civilian Review Panel — and they said it couldn't be done

Last week, the Fairfax County Board of Supervisors voted to establish a Civilian Review Panel, part of a two-pronged concept of independent oversight of law enforcement recommended unanimously by the Ad Hoc Police Practices Review Commission.

On Sept. 20, 2016, the board voted to establish the Office of the Independent Auditor, the other piece of oversight. The two branches of oversight would not overlap.

The Independent Police Auditor will report directly to the Board of Supervisors and provide oversight in cases of police use of force that lead to serious injury or death, including officer-involved shootings. The Civilian Review Panel will respond to community concerns or complaints about alleged incidents of abuse of authority by FCPD by reviewing the investigations conducted by the department.

The vote by the Board of Supervisors for the Office of Auditor was unanimous, and for the Civilian Review Panel, 9-1, indicating the strong commitment to independent oversight and the recommendations of the Ad Hoc Commission. The experiences from other communities with civilian oversight have shown that strong, independent oversight builds legitimacy and public trust through increased police transparency and accountability to the public served. Oversight provides a meaningful voice or forum for the public and forms a crucial bridge between the public and the police. Increased transparency, trust, and communication between the police and the public can lead to greater community cooperation in achieving the ultimate goal of decreased crime and increased public safety.

This very positive outcome seemed nearly impossible in the wake of the death of John Geer in August 2013, shot by then Fairfax Police Officer Adam Torres while standing unarmed in the doorway to his own home. Officials had long opposed consideration of a Civilian Review Panel.

Board of Supervisor Chairman Sharon Bulova deserves tremendous kudos, first for establishing the Ad Hoc Commission in the wake of public outrage over the shooting and the blackout of information that followed, and then for her unwavering support of the recommendations that emerged.

EDITORIAL In voting for the Civilian Review Panel, Supervisor Linda Smyth said: "We all know it's time to put this in place. This is what the public has really asked us to do."

John Cook (R-Braddock), chairman of the Public Safety Committee, has been relentless in moving the recommendations forward for discussion and approval by the board. Having both the auditor and the panel approved in 2016 is no small accomplishment.

The recommendations for oversight also have the enthusiastic support of Police Chief Edwin Roessler, whose support overall for change in the FCPD has been admirable and essential.

Every member of the Board of Supervisors deserves credit for engaging on the details and supporting recommendations of the commission.

Other changes brought about by the Ad Hoc Commission's recommendations include the implementation of Diversion First, which provides treatment rather than jail for nonviolent people with mental illness, resulting in some 350 diversions from potential criminal arrest, and in police transporting more than 1,000 tose, and subsequently died on Feb. 8, 2015. Commonwealth Attorney Ray Morrogh declined to press any charges against the deputies, and Kincaid kept them on staff. And so McKenna's family has not seen any justice for the death of their daughter and mother.

On Aug. 15, 2016, one of the same sheriff's deputies, Patrick McPartlin, also shot and killed Jovany Martinez, a 29-year-old Latino man, outside of the Inova Fairfax Hospital where he had just been released. Again, no charges have been filed.

Various initiatives claim to improve Fairfax policing and incarceration practices, including Diversion First and the Civilian Review Board. However, neither of these initiatives makes real substantive change. The Diversion First program is underfunded, understaffed, and only available at the discretion of the police, rather than based on any neutral assessment process. This is despite the fact that Police Chief Ed Roessler admits that "The majority of our use-of-force incidents are with those suffering mental health crisis". The Civilian Review Board has no power to investigate, ask direct quespeople in mental health crisis to the Merrifield Center for treatment; an emphasis on de-escalation and on crisis intervention training; the revamping of the order of officer training to emphasize the role of policing in a democracy and the sanctity of life ahead of firearms training; and the significant amendment of General Order 540 on the use of force. The FCPD has been a leading force in these changes, and its leadership has played a pivotal role in seeking out and implementing best practices.

There are still miles to go, but evidence is that county and police leadership are prepared to traverse those miles.

tions, or engage in any disciplinary process, but rather can only make recommendations to the Chief of Police, who may then chose to respond or ignore those recommendations.

Given the toothless responses to the deaths of Natasha McKenna and Jovany Martinez, and the positive spin in Fairfax County's series, it's difficult to avoid the conclusion that this propaganda is meant to distract the public of Fairfax county from the real and dangerous problems facing people of color and people with mental illnesses in our policing system.

(<http://www.connectionnewspapers.com/news/2016/feb/16/diversion-first-program-launched/>) and the Washington Post reports that "more than 40 percent of of use-of-force cases [by Fairfax County Police] involved African Americans, who make up only 8 percent of the county's population."

Until the county and the sheriff's office focus on people rather than PR, we will see more of these tragic encounters with law enforcement.

A Headline Betraying the Truth

To the Editor:

The cover of the December 1-7, 2016 edition of the Burke Connection initially caught my eye because I immediately recognized the gifted members of the St. Mary of Sorrows Catholic Church Youth Choir. Our parish joyfully participates annually in the interfaith Thanksgiving service, along with Burke Presbyterian Church and Congregation Adat Reyim.

However, I was surprised to read the following headline: "Celebrating Diversity in Burke." Such a headline betrays the truth. A more accurate headline would have been, "United in Thanksgiving to God." It is a Thanksgiving service in which participants unite to give thanks to God for His many blessings. This is what Thanksgiving Day is all about. It is not about football games, turkey, getting a jump on Black Friday deals, or diversity.

For those who may not be aware, it was President Abraham Lincoln who officially set aside the last Thursday of November as Thanksgiving Day. The following is an excerpt from his October 3, 1863 proclamation:

"No human counsel hath devised nor hath any mortal hand worked out these great things. They are the gracious gifts of the Most High God, who, while dealing with us in anger for our sins, hath nevertheless remembered mercy. It has seemed to me fit and proper that they should be solemnly, reverently and gratefully acknowledged as with one heart and one voice by the whole American People. I do therefore invite my fellow citizens in every part of the United States, and also those who are at sea and those who are sojourning in foreign lands, to set apart and observe the last Thursday of November next, as a day of Thanksgiving and Praise to our beneficent Father who dwelleth in the Heavens. And I recommend to them that while offering up the ascriptions justly due to Him for such singular deliverances and blessings, they do also, with humble penitence for our national perverseness and disobedience, commend to His tender care all those who have become widows, orphans, mourners or sufferers in the lamentable civil strife in which we are unavoidably engaged, and fervently implore the interposition of the Almighty Hand to heal the wounds of the nation and to restore it as soon as may be consistent with the Divine purposes to the full enjoyment of peace, harmony, tranquillity and Union.

In testimony whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done at the City of Washington, this Third day of October, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and sixty-three, and of the Independence of the United States the Eighty-eighth.

By the President: Abraham Lincoln"

Those who participate in the annual Interfaith Thanksgiving Service know the aforementioned to be true and together give thanks to God for His abundant blessings and mercy.

Honoring a Good Life in Burke, Virginia

To the Editor:

On Saturday, Dec. 17, the Nativity Church of Burke will be honoring Pacita Aguas (1925-2016) with a celebration of the Philippine Christmas tradition of "Simbang Gabi" (also known as "Misa De Gallo" or "Rooster's Mass"). "Simbang Gabi" involves early morning masses in the Philippines during the nine days before Christmas.

In November 2014, Pacita Aguas was featured in the Connection newspaper because she was very active since 2007 in the petition to acquire a permanent facility for the Burke/West Springfield Senior Center Without Walls (BWSSCWoW).

For almost ten years, Pacita Aguas was active in trying to find a solution to the problem of Springfield District – as the only district – without a permanent senior center in Fairfax County. Sadly, Pacita passed on ahead of us without seeing the achievement of the dream that she and many senior residents in the Springfield District have been pursuing.

Strengthened by Pacita Aguas' good works and determination, we BWSSCWoW seniors continue our crusade and we thank Chairman Sharon Bulova who pledged to support our petition during our Nov. 21, 2015 demonstration at the Fairfax County Government Center. We are now working on getting fair payment for churches/community centers – similar to the $37 per hour charged by Fairfax County public schools. For the longer term, we are working to build a coalition for the FY2020 Bond Referendum for the Springfield Community Center in South Run Park – proposed on April 13, 2016 by Chairman Sharon Bulova.

The Filipino American community of Nativity Church invites the public to join us on Dec. 17 in praying for the repose of the soul of Pacita Aguas – and celebrating a good life that has been dedicated for many years to the improvement of the lives of others, particularly her fellow seniors, in our community of Burke and West Springfield. Like Pope Francis, Pacita and many BWSSCWoW members believe that our community should "Take Care of the Elderly...where there is no honor for the elderly, there will be future for the young."

And the Nativity Church "Simbang Gabi" is an affirmation that the good that Pacita Aguas did for our community, particularly for her fellow seniors, should not be interred with her bones.

Steve and Louise Brooks of Arlington wanted a primary living area that would serve a multitude of purposes, including a place for frequent gatherings of friends and family. A new space plan introduced by Sun Design Remodeling proved out in a holiday fete for 50 guests held this past Saturday.

Open Floorplan Eases Entertaining

Open house helps homeowners looking for ideas.

BY JOHN BYRD

It's one thing to talk a good game; quite another to put your ideas to the test by inviting a long list of perceptive critics to inspect your wares.

"We like to see how well our plans work first hand whenever we can," Bob Gallagher said, as he describes a holiday tour his home remodeling firm held at one of this client's homes last Saturday.

"Our designers spend a lot of time conferring with clients on specific needs and learning from case histories — but what really counts is seeing your plan in action. A holiday tour is a test drive, but it's also a chance to explore ideas, brainstorm on breaking trends — and just enjoy being around people who are enjoying what we create."

Case in point, the Arlington home of Steve and Louise Brooks.

Two years ago, the Brooks hired Sun Design to convert the primary living area of their raised rambler into space that would serve a multitude of purposes, including a place for frequent gatherings of friends and family.

Last weekend, the remodeler hosted an open house for anyone who wanted to see how their freshly-minted new space plan would perform under real life home entertainment conditions.

There were about 50 visitors in all. Standing in one corner, one could see fluidly organic pockets of revelers — but all flows smoothly, a far cry from the past.

In the past, one's guests were usually in another room.

The original small kitchen with its adjacent living room and dining room actually felt crowded whenever the head-count exceeded six or seven.

The eight-foot ceiling and small-scale windows didn't help either; ditto, the "builder grade" interior finishes and restricted space-use options.

"We're a host site for our church, so we wanted a place that would allow us to comfortably meet with friends," said Louise Brooks. "We just weren't at all sure how to make that happen within our existing floor plan."

Fortunately, Gallagher and team knew the way. In fact, Gallagher notes that there's been something of a revolution in how homeowners are now configuring living space: Emergent interior design styles now allow for well-articulated activity zones integrated into a visually distinctive spatial continuum. "The end result feels generously-sized, yet unified."

To effect the changes Brooks sought, Sun

Design concentrated on strategic improvements inside the envelope of the existing structure: a nearly 800-square-foot great room was formed by eliminating walls separating the kitchen, dining room, living room and foyer; to create the 14-foot cathedral ceiling, the new interior incorporated a seldom-used attic.

A granite-surfaced food preparation island and dining counter now facilitates the easy circulation needed for entertaining; the "built-in" was custom-designed to support a wide-range of storage, cooking and clean-up requirements.

The plan also increased natural light. A south-facing trapezoidal-shaped window provides a hilltop view of the neighborhood. Distinctive finish work details delineate key activity zones within a warmly cohesive ambiance that features sight-lines in all directions.

Meanwhile, back at the tour, Bob

The new makeover features well-defined appreciably private activity zones within a warm ambiance that affords sight-lines in all directions.

Gallagher is talking to a drop-in guest about how the new space is used on an everyday basis.

"It works extremely well," he said. "The open plan allows people to happily pursue different tasks within the same continuum without loss of personal space. You have privacy, but you're in eye-contact. It's a very popular trend."

Gallagher also stresses the value of an open house to homeowners looking for ideas.

"We've been doing tours of newly remodeled homes for about 10 years," he said. "We've found that the open houses often become neighborhood meet-up opportunities where people naturally start exploring matters of mutual interest."

Sun Design Remodeling frequently sponsors tours of recently remodeled homes as well as workshops on home remodeling topics. Headquartered in Burke, the firm recently has a second office in McLean. For information, call 703-425-5588 or visit www.SunDesignInc.com.

2017 Color of the Year: Greenery

Pantone says color will evoke reinvigoration.

BY MARILYN CAMPBELL
THE CONNECTION

When interior designer Annie Elliott's home office began to feel lackluster, she draped the windows with green Roman shades to infuse a burst of color into the muted space. And after McLean-based designer Joseph Van Goethem decided that the time-worn décor of his kitchen and breakfast room needed brightening, he swathed the walls with textured grass-green wallpaper, evoking a serene sense that one is sitting in nature.

"It invites ... [and] rejuvenates as should the heart of any home," said Van Goethem of Joseph Van Goethem Interior Design.

Shades of green foliage found in a painting that hung in a client's dining room was the creative inspiration for interior designer Anne M. Walker.

"We need a fresh start. Green is the color of renewal, growth, and change."

"As an accent color, [green] adds a burst of cheer and optimism to a drab spaces," agreed Elliott, principal of Annie Elliott Interior/Bossy Color, whose green Roman shades offset white and yellow walls and light gray rug. "It's the bright spot in a lovely, calm space," she said.

They're in good company. Pantone Color Institute, which calls itself the global authority on color, selected Greenery as the Color of the Year for 2017. Each year, it makes a prediction about the color that will be on trend for the upcoming year.

During the process, which takes about nine months, color gurus at Pantone trot the globe, observing the trends in industries ranging from film and entertainment to art and fashion. The selection, which is less formulaic and more instinctive, is touted as a harbinger of a shade that will be ubiquitous during year ahead and an expression of moods and attitudes world-wide.

In announcing the color selection, Leatrice Eiseman, executive director of the Pantone Color Institute, described it as "satisfying our growing desire to ... revitalize and unite. [It] symbolizes the reconnection we seek with nature, one another and a larger purpose."

Locally, some designers agree that Greenery can create a sense of hope. "2016 will go down as one of the most politically unpredictable in history," said Elliott. "We need a fresh start. Green is the color of renewal, growth and change. ... We're ready to focus on the future, and that's what green is all about."

Designers who've already been using the color aren't surprised by its selection, crediting its year-round versatility. "In summer, with white dishes and bright linens, [a] room feels vibrant," said Anne M. Walker, owner and principal, Anne Walker Design LLC in Potomac, Md. "In winter, with reds and dark greenery, the room feels festive. When you think of it, green is paired with just about every other color in nature, which is exactly why it works so well inside, too."

Van Goethem believes that the hue works best with other rustic shades. It's most often found in paint and textiles. For example, the wall covering he selected for his kitchen and breakfast room is a hand-crafted and hand-painted fabric called, "Un Nid de Verdure" or "Nest of Greenery" from French manufacturer, Elitis.

"Greenery is highly personal to my wife and me as...[It] is incorporated as an integral element in the design of our home," said Van Goethem, who not only designed his kitchen, but did most of the work himself. "I complemented [the wall covering] with a palette of deep, rich wood tones, blues, some red, other hues of green and neutrals."

Praising the choice of Greenery as a fresh tactic for breathing whimsy into a muted space, Victor Sanz, project architect at DMG Interiors in Reston, calls the new color of the year energetic, vibrant and fresh. "Although its use as the dominant color might not be suitable for more conservative designs, this color can be used as a fun contrast, especially if used in modern fabric patterns or wall coverings," he said.

Almost 10 shades of sun-drenched, tranquil, green foliage found in a client's painting, "French Lane," served as the creative inspiration for a custom paint color used by Walker.

"I kept mixing until I got a soft, earthy green, which is the perfect backdrop for the artwork," she said. "Greens will bring serenity to a room the way few other colors will, and they are incredibly versatile."

Open spaces in interior and exterior design and floor-to-ceiling windows allow the green outdoors to become part of a room's backdrop and ambiance. "Green is a fantastic color for interiors," said Walker. "It's such a chameleon — it can create a feeling of fresh, high energy or make a room feel like a peaceful outdoor sanctuary."

"Many people say you shouldn't use green in a dining room because it isn't flattering to skin tones and it isn't a stimulant to appetite," she continued. "Au contraire — this elegant, soft green really comes alive in the glow of candlelight."

Greenery, say designers, has the power to deliver a burst of color, with the added benefit of creating the illusion of nature indoors. "Hooray for green," said Walker. "Now, more than ever, we all need to take a deep breath, oxygenate and reinvigorate."

Surviving Brain Injury

New book shares stories of strength and inspiration.

BY RIKKI GEORGE
THE CONNECTION

A new resource is available to those who've been touched by traumatic brain injury (TBI) called "Surviving Brain Injury: Stories of Strength and Inspiration" by Amy Zellmer.

A collection of 90 stories, mostly by TBI survivors, "Surviving Brain Injury" personalizes life's trajectory after a blast to the head, a fall or stroke.

It is a resource for providers, caretakers and a growing population of TBIs, according to Alexandrian Toni Popkin, one of the contributing writers. About 2.5 million Americans annually will enter the world of TBI, which is often misunderstood, undiagnosed and overlooked in severity.

"Your identity flips," said Popkin, who suffered four car crashes over the years and a concussion due to a fall in 2016.

Popkin, who lives alone, relies on a full-service dog named Bud and the kindness of others to help her get through the day. Her essay "Ten Things I Learned to Help Someone with a TBI" offers practical advice for friends and family. Ask, for example, "Do you have any upcoming doctor appointments I can drive you to?" Call and say, "I'm on my way to the grocery store What else do you need?"

For Popkin, keys to her survival are practical assistance and greater awareness of TBI. She's an advocate, something she never thought she'd be in her entire life. She pays attention to things now, like snow hindering streets, she speaks out, writes op-eds and organizes events, like the one held in November at the Marina Towers in Alexandria to launch "Surviving Brain Injury."

Others joining Popkin at the November book launch told similar stories of TBI symptoms: headaches, fatigue, depression and short-term memory loss. But no story is alike because the brain is as uniquely complex as is the rehabilitation and recovery process.

Derek O'Neal, also from Alexandria, discovered music therapy and relied on the love of his wife and five children as forces behind his survival. O'Neal described himself as an overachiever: a well-educated man, a Desert Storm veteran, a vice president at an automotive group in Michigan looking for the next step up. And then in 2004, a deer ran into his car.

"You can never get back to what you were," O'Neal said. "I put things in verse and tune to help me remember things." And he counts on songs like "Life is a song worth singing" by Johnny Mathis to keep him motivated. O'Neal is now a board member of the Brain Injury Association of Virginia and practiced as a paralegal after his car accident.

The will and ability to give back seems to be a part of the cathartic way to heal for O'Neal, Popkin and both Molly Raymond of Fairfax Station and Danielle Houston Karst of Burke, who also spoke at the book launch.

"[The car] accident took everything," said Raymond, formerly a registered nurse for 26 years who lost her math and speech abilities for more than two years. "It is a huge thing for me to help others." She has turned adversity around to help injured veterans with her adaptive sports program, No Boundaries: Changing Disabilities into Abilities of Our Heroes. She announced at the book launch that she had two daughters with her husband and 70 sons from her eight-year program.

Karst, a TBI survivor since 1997 (she was 16 at the time), brings insight to the TBI experience with her blog TBItriumphs.com.

For those who may need help: "Just call," said Karen Luffred, chief operating officer of Brain Injury Services, a local nonprofit committed to empowering TBI survivors on their journey of recovery. "Don't be alone. We can put you in the community," she said.

Members of the Forestdale Elementary School student council gather for a photo with Capt. Will Bailey (back row) prior to the Firefighters and Friends toy distribution Dec. 11 at Fire Station 11. In addition to more than 3,000 toys, the students helped hand out new coats and books to preschoolers as part of the annual holiday drive.

To the Rescue

Firefighters and Friends collects toys for area children.

Christmas arrived early for more than 250 children from local Head Start programs as they picked out toys and visited with Santa during the annual Firefighters and Friends to the Rescue toy drive distribution day Dec. 11 at Penn Daw Fire Station 11.

"We distributed over 3,000 toys to 80 schools, shelters and nonprofits in Fairfax County," said Capt. Willie Bailey, who founded the toy drive 17 years ago. "Prior to the distribution to school representatives, we escorted and gave toys to local preschool kids."

Bailey said that 550 new coats were also given out to children in need. "In addition to the toys and coats, we gave out over 100 new bikes and 400 books," he noted.

Volunteers included members of the Forestdale Elementary School Student Council, firefighter Dave Saunders and his son Hunter as Santa and his elf and Caring Angels Therapy Dogs and their handlers.

Free Holiday Cab Rides Help Prevent Drunk Driving

Combating that holiday period which the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration says is a "dangerous time to be on the road due to a high number of drunk drivers behind the wheel," a local nonprofit organization will offer free cab rides to would-be drunk drivers throughout the Washington-metropolitan area during the winter holidays.

Washington Regional Alcohol Program (WRAP), operates the annual Holiday SoberRide program between 10 p.m. and 6 a.m. each evening between Friday, Dec. 16, 2016 and Sunday, Jan. 1, 2017 as a way to keep local roads safe from impaired drivers during this traditionally high-risk, holiday period.

During the evening hours, between Dec. 16 and Jan. 1, Washington-metropolitan area residents celebrating with alcohol may call the toll-free SoberRide phone number 1-800-200-TAXI and be afforded a no-cost (up to $30 fare), safe way home.

"Last December, nearly 1,500 (1,456) Greater Washington residents did the right thing and availed themselves of this lifesaving service rather than possibly driving home impaired," said Kurt Gregory Erickson, WRAP's president. "For SoberRide's hours of operation during just last New Year's Eve, alone, such ridership (580) translated into the removal of a would-be drunk driver from our shared roadways every 49-seconds."

Since 1993, WRAP's SoberRide program has provided 65,385 free cab rides home to would-be drunk drivers in the Greater Washington area.

More information about WRAP's SoberRide initiative can be found at www.soberride.com.
