Suraya Sadeed said hearing more than 20 stories of students promoting peace in and out of their schools made her believe “there is still hope for a brighter future.”

Sadeed is a native of Kabul, Afghanistan who made a new home in the United States in 1982, fleeing the aftermath of the Soviet invasion. She founded the non-government organization Help the Afghan Children and is author of “Forbidden Lessons in a Kabul Guesthouse.”

The former owner of a real estate company, Sadeed has risked dangerous situations to deliver humanitarian aid to women and children in war-torn Afghanistan. On Sunday, March 12, she addressed high school students from around Fairfax County being honored at the Student Peace Awards.

Sadeed spoke about the importance of promoting peace through education, as a preventative measure against bullying, hatred and violence later in life.

“The cost of providing peace education to 8 million children in Afghanistan is less,” she said, “than buying one military plane.”

The student peace awards are offered in all Fairfax County public high schools and some private schools. Schools choose their winners based on their work to promote peace as well as prevent causes of violence: poverty, discrimination and injustice.

Each of the individual or groups of students not only took action for peace, but did so with creative, entrepreneurial energy — founding clubs, organizing charity projects, leading training sessions or creating documentary films.

Fairfax County School Board chair Sandy Evans said she was deeply impressed with the work of the students being honored at the Stacy Sherwood Community Center in Fairfax, from anti-bullying to human trafficking awareness to anti-genocide.

“Few goals are more important in the world today,” Evans said, “than promoting peace, acceptance, kindness and tolerance.”

Evans was joined in congratulating the students by fellow board members Ryan McElveen (at-large) and Dalia Palchik (Providence).

Fairfax County Board of Supervisors vice chairman and Mason District representative Penny Gross (D) read a letter of recognition from board chairman Sharon Bulova that thanked the students for their commitment to peacemaking.

All the students have come together, Gross read from Bulova’s letter, “in one goal, strengthening peace and unity.”

other elected officials in congratulating the award-winners.

The 2017 Student Peace Awards of Fairfax County winners are as follows, bios according to the event program:

Ethan Mirani, junior at the Cedar Lane School in Vienna

Mirani was a member of the school’s Anti-Bullying Committee for two years and worked to grow the group as well as plan activities and keep things organized.

Jasmine Howard, senior at Centreville High School

Howard organized members of the Centreville Key Club to sell 240 wristbands from Guatemala, made out of leather and pieces of coconut shell with colored string, raising $1,700 in sales and donations that went back to the wristband artisans and disadvantaged foreign youth.

Shaan Chudasama, senior at Chantilly High School

Chudasama co-founded and is vice president of Young at Art, a non-profit organization using art-related activities to improve the quality of life of seniors, less fortunate children and veterans. With his sister, the other co-founder, they’ve partnered with the Special Olympics and Sunrise Assisted Living.

Vanessas Mae Avendano, senior at Falls Church High School

Avendano is vice president of Falls Church’s Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual and Transgender club and also founded Falls Church High School United, a group of clubs united to spread peace and acceptance. The group has produced a series of videos dealing with anti-bullying and giving respect.

Sabah Munshi, senior at Hayfield Secondary School

Munshi helped organize a project called Walking for Water and raised both awareness of the world’s water crisis and more than $2,000 for the Tap Project by UNICEF. She has also volunteered at Virginia Hospital Center in the renal unit.

Surabhi Khanal, senior at Herndon High School

Khanal has been a member of the Herndon Leo Club and founded MedLove, Inc, a non-profit organization with the mission of helping rescue women in the United States and abroad who are human trafficking victims. Through the Key Club, Khanal and other students also organized a benefit gala to raise awareness of local trafficking and $3,000 for combatting HIV and AIDS in her native Nepal.

Women of the World (WOW) to promote women's rights and help women struggling with homelessness, hunger, oppression or abuse. Some of their projects include opening a sewing institute in Nalgona, India and fundraisers involving the whole student body.

Jamie Hunstad, senior at Lake Braddock Secondary School

Hunstad set up a Special Olympics program at Lake Braddock, starting with a basketball team and adding track and field. She coaches both teams, and also helped the Rachel's Challenge program find a presence at her school. Rachel's Challenge deals with stomping out bullying and promoting tolerance and inclusion.

Donya Momenian and Chrissie Ivanova, seniors at Langley High School

The two seniors co-founded a chapter of the Girl Up Club at Langley, growing it from two to 30 members who meet bi-monthly. The national and international club empowers young women in education, fundraising, advocacy and service, as well as runs development programs in Guatemala, India, Liberia, Malawi, Uganda and Ethiopia.

Naomi Soquar, senior at Robert E. Lee High School

Soquar helped found a chapter of the Amnesty International Club at Lee — she currently serves as its president. She led club members and volunteers in writing letters against human rights violations, which in one case contributed to two political prisoners in the Democratic Republic of Congo being released. Soquar also serves with Girls Learn International, the Capital Area Food Bank and Habitat for Humanity.

Sean Doyle, senior at James Madison High School

A member of Madison's Amnesty International Club Doyle is coordinating activism with others on such issues as abolishing the death penalty, reducing gun violence and police brutality, and convincing the Vienna Town Council to make Vienna a "I Welcome Refugees" town.

Aidan Kemp, senior at George C Marshall High School

Kemp is the lead senior mentor for the Marshall Freshman Transition program and does community service work through St. Thomas Episcopal Church in McLean.

Josh Leong and Sam Gollob, juniors at McLean High School

The two juniors created a 10-minute film documenting the struggles of Herman Wainggai, a human rights advocate from West Papua who escape political imprisonment by taking a boat to Australia. "Herman Wainggai: A Hidden Genocide" premiered at the Garifuna Indigenous Film Festival in Los Angeles in April, 2016.

Roza Al Barznji, senior at Mountain View Alternative High School

Al Barznji came to the United States three years ago as a refugee from Northern Iraq, and works to help her classmates understand her Kurdish heritage using photography. She's also published seven stories about her own journey becoming a Kurdish American, the people of Syria and refugees in American communities, as well as made a documentary about American Thanksgiving traditions.

Members of Blossoming Beauties at Quander Road School

Young women in the Blossoming Beauties program work on both becoming more well-rounded and confident, as well as carrying out school and community projects together. In 2016, the group raised money for Bethany House shelter for female victims of domestic abuse; they've also produced fleece blankets for New Hope Housing and their mission to end homelessness. In 2017, Blossoming Beauties is collaborating with A Space of Her Own to target and support fifth grade girls avoiding delinquency.

Narjes Bencheikh, senior at South County High School

The South County senior helped co-found a Muslim Student Association and International Club at her school. The 50-person Muslim Student Association carries out role-playing exercises and discusses issues encountered in the community.

Lockwood mentors freshmen transitioning to high school and coaches track for children with special needs. For a school assignment, she worked with the Institute of Peace in Washington, D.C., to find primary and secondary sources looking at improving state and societal relations in Myanmar (Burma).

Maiss Mohamed and Deema Alharthi, juniors at JEB Stuart High School

The Stuart juniors revitalized their school's Model United Nations Club and have become active with Students in Training for Advocacy and Responsibility. They also participate in Key Club, Girls Up and Interact, and volunteer with groups including the Virginia Coalition of Latino Organization.

Members of TJ Minds Matter, Thomas Jefferson High School for Science and Technology

The student-led group offers support for handling stress and disappointment, and provides resources for learning how to engage with someone in a crisis and non-crisis situation. TJ Minds Matter hosted a Mental Wellness Week in January this year, including days dedicated to random acts of kindness and stomping out stigma (surrounding mental illness).

Students with Combatting Intolerance at West Potomac High School

The Fairfax County class Combatting Intolerance was created in 2015 — West Potomac teacher Robert Kerr molds the curriculum around social justice topics, racism, sexism, welcoming immigrant and refugee students, and advocating for the rights of lesbian, gay, transgender and asexual students, staff and other people in the community. The 22-member class raises money to support small local non-profits and sponsored a school-wide Diversity Week.

Rabid Fox Attacks in Great Falls

A 71-year-old Great Falls woman was bitten multiple times by a rabid fox on Tuesday, March 7.

She was taken to the hospital with serious injuries that were not life-threatening, according to the Fairfax County Police Department.

The woman was walking in the 600 block of Ad Hoc Road in Great Falls around 3 p.m. when the fox approached her from behind and bit her multiple times in the lower body. She turned to fight the fox off and was bitten a few more times before she went to a nearby neighbor's home and called police.

Approximately one hour later, officers from the FCPD Animal Services Division received another call about a fox attacking a cat in the 400 block of Chesapeake Drive, about three miles from Ad Hoc Road.

Officers believe the same fox was involved in both incidents.

The cat's owner, a 54-year-old woman, kicked the fox away from her cat. She and her husband then trapped the fox and held it until officers arrived. The cat's owners were unharmed, but the cat remains in quarantine, according to police.

Stop Bullying Federal Workers

BY U.S. REP. DON BEYER (D-8) AND
U.S. REP. GERRY CONNOLLY (D-11)

Republicans hold control of all three branches of government, and therefore have a responsibility to lead the civil service that employs millions of Americans, and every American relies upon for myriad services. The overwhelming majority of federal workers are hardworking people who devote themselves to public service. They secure borders, keep food safe, advance scientific and medical research, deliver our mail, and provide care to many of us, including our veterans.

Republican leaders have repaid this service with repeated attacks.

In 2013, they shut down the government as a political stunt, and came hours away from doing it again in 2015 at the Department of Homeland Security. They enacted the Budget Control Act, which ultimately led to Sequestration, cutting the budget of every federal agency with the surgical precision of a meat-ax.

But since Republicans acquired total control over government, their treatment of federal workers has been beyond the pale.

On the first day of the new Congress, House Republicans passed a rules package over our loud objections containing a reinstatement of the Holman Rule, which would potentially allow Congress to engage in political retribution against federal workers by reducing any given employee's salary to $1. Only three Republicans opposed the measure on the floor, none from Virginia or Maryland.

The Holman Rule was especially troubling in light of the new administration's so-called "enemies list" of employees who had worked on specific policy areas for the Obama Administration, such as climate policy.

Beyer

As one of his first actions, President Trump announced a hiring freeze for federal workers. This is terrible policy and a mindless approach to management that dodges hard decisions.

The Government Accountability Office studied past hiring freezes and found them "not effective." The government is more likely to rely on overtime and contract work, which often costs taxpayers more. Meanwhile, tens of thousands of Americans have total uncertainty in their professional lives. Agencies are unable to make efficient, long term plans, driving up costs and hurting morale. Over time, Americans trying to manage social security benefits, travel in airports, or secure healthcare will see the impact of this freeze when benefits are not mailed or airport security lines move much more slowly.

Two other classes of citizen are hit particularly hard: people with disabilities and veterans.

In 2015, due to Obama Administration initiatives, 19 percent of the federal government's new hires were people with disabilities. The federal government has hired 109,000 people with disabilities in the past five years.

Veterans stand to be among those hardest hit by the hiring freeze. The Veterans Administration is one of the largest federal employers, but is also significantly understaffed. Delivering the care promised to those who served in the armed forces depends on having effective staff to deliver that care.

Over 30 percent of the civilian federal workforce is made up of veterans, a number which has grown consistently as agencies prioritized hiring vets. Many of the positions held vacant by the hiring freeze would have gone to vets, and the progress we have made on veteran unemployment will be halted.

Contrary to this administration's claims, the federal workforce is dwindling as a share of the population. And 85 percent of federal workers are located outside the beltway. It is also aging, and over a third of the current feds will be eligible for retirement by September. Federal workers have been treated as a piggy bank by Congress for years now, their pay raises delayed or denied, they've been furloughed and had their benefits cut. Now their morale is hit by politicians who make them a political punching bag. A bill just proposed in Congress would make all federal workers "at-will" employees, exposing them to political retribution and punishment by a hostile administration without recourse.

The federal workforce is not, as Mr. Trump has said, a "swamp." It is a group of committed Americans who serve us, and they deserve better from Congress. The Republican Party has total control over the levers of government. Will any of its leaders have the decency or the courage to fight for the civil service which serves us all?

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Who Pays Taxes?

To the Editor:

It is tax time again and one's thoughts turn to the question of just who in America is paying the taxes that keep our country running. Who pays the expenses for the White House and the President as well as the security protection for him and his family here and on their worldwide trips? Who pays the salaries and benefits of our elected officials and their staffs? Who pays for our schools and libraries and for our roads and infrastructure? Who pays for police and fire protection? Who pays for government agencies and for our military and our veterans? Who pays for wars and walls and prisons? Who pays for public transportation? Who pays to help states when a natural disaster occurs? Who pays profitable businesses to move to our city, county or state or to stop them from leaving? The list goes on and on and on.

Big business tries to pay as little tax as possible with the help of loopholes or a move to another country or both. Rich people, with the help of tax laws, hire accountants and lawyers to help them pay as little tax as possible in this life and even when they're dead. Heck, even our President pays no taxes and is very proud of that fact.

So, who is left to pay? The people who can least afford it!

Free St. Patrick's Day Lyft Rides Offered in Area

Preparing to combat that time of year when, according to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA), nearly one-third of all U.S. traffic deaths are caused by drunk drivers, free Lyft rides will be offered to would-be drunk drivers throughout the Washington-metropolitan area next Friday, March 17, 2017 (St. Patrick's Day).

Offered by the nonprofit Washington Regional Alcohol Program (WRAP), the 2017 St. Patty's Day SoberRide program will be in operation beginning at 4 p.m. on Friday, March 17 (St. Patrick's Day) and continue until 4 a.m. on Saturday, March 18 as a way to keep local roads safe from impaired drivers during this traditionally high-risk holiday.

During this 12-hour period, area residents celebrating with alcohol may download Lyft to their phones, then enter the code SOBERRIDE in the app's 'Promo' section to receive their no cost (up to $ 20) safe transportation home. The SoberRide code is valid for new and existing Lyft users.

Last year, 250 persons in the Washington-metropolitan area used WRAP's St. Patrick's Day SoberRide program rather than possibly driving home impaired. The charity also offers its SoberRide program on Cinco de Mayo, Independence Day, Halloween and the winter holidays this year starting on Dec. 15, 2017 and operating through and including New Year's Eve.

Lyft will provide SoberRide trips throughout the Washington-metropolitan area to local residents age 21 and older who otherwise may have attempted to drive home after drinking.

SoberRide is offered throughout Lyft's Washington, D.C. coverage area which includes all or parts of: the District of Columbia; the Maryland counties of Montgomery and Prince George's; and the Northern Virginia counties of Arlington, Fairfax, Loudoun and Prince William. More information about WRAP's SoberRide initiative can be found at www.soberride.com.

COMMUNITY

Discuss Golf Tournament Impact on Area

The PGA will be hosting the 2017 KitchenAid Senior PGA Championship at Trump National Golf Course in Potomac Falls, Va. from May 23-28, 2017. GFCFA has met with representatives of the PGA, and has arranged a public Town Hall meeting to give Great Falls residents an opportunity to learn about the event's impact on Great Falls, ask questions, and provide input to the organizers of the event and to Fairfax County officials. This meeting will be held on March 20, 7:30 p.m., at the Great Falls Library. GFCFA members, residents near Trump National, and the general Great Falls public are welcome.

Many citizens are concerned about the potential impact of this event on residents of western Great Falls, especially along Seneca Road. Here are some details:

- ❖ The tournament will be held Memorial Day weekend.

- ❖ 50,000+ spectators are expected, with perhaps 12-14,000 on the busiest day.

- ❖ Official hotels for the event are in Reston, and most parking for the event will be at Dulles Airport and One Loudoun (Route 7 in Loudoun County). Access to the golf course by private vehicles and cab will be via Algonquian Parkway and Lowes Island Blvd.

- ❖ There is a proposal for spectator buses to be routed from the off-site parking areas to the Club in a loop. Inbound buses to the course would be routed north on Seneca Road in Great Falls, and then outbound from the Golf Club on Lowes Island Blvd. This would put buses running (at peak times) perhaps every 15 minutes northbound on Seneca Road; at non-peak times they would run 1-2 per hour; buses would operate from 5 a.m. through early evening.

- ❖ For security and traffic control, Seneca Regional Park may be closed during the event. Non-resident traffic northbound on Seneca would probably be stopped at an appropriate point (e.g. Beach Mill Road) to avoid the congestion of turnarounds at the end of Seneca near the Golf Club. GFCFA was assured that this routing would only be for spectator buses, and not for shuttles or any other "official" event traffic.

Residents of Seneca are concerned about the impact on traffic and access to/from their homes. Other citizens have expressed concerns about possible restrictions at Seneca Regional Park.

Practice Makes Perfect

Local educators share strategies for getting children to practice music.

BY MARILYN CAMPBELL
THE CONNECTION

When Linda Gulyn's son reached high school age and asked to quit his clarinet lessons, the Arlington mother of four declined his request.

"My son Timmy is an excellent clarinet player. The philosophy I've established in my house is that music is part of your overall education like science or math, so you can't just quit," said Gulyn, saxophonist, former music teacher and professor of psychology at Marymount University.

During the month of March, which is designated as Music in our Schools Month, educators highlight the benefits of quality music education programs. Part of a music education is practice, encouraging that in children can be daunting for some parents.

For children who play a musical instrument, regular practice is not only a path toward proficiency, it helps establish discipline that is useful in other areas of one life's. This habit, however, must be established purposefully says John Kilkenny, assistant professor of music at George Mason University. "Treat practice time like a part of child's daily routine," he said. "They have to have a consistent time for practice. For example, they come home from school each day, have a snack and practice for 30 minutes."

One key to keeping children motivated to practice is setting goals, be they long-term or for the current practice session. "Goal-oriented practice for younger kids, like a recital to work toward, for example is a good motivator," said Kilkenny. "The biggest thing is consistency, practicing at or near the same time every day just like everything else they do so that it becomes part of their routine."

For practice sessions to be effective, they must be organized and purposeful. This is another area where goal setting can be useful says, Ann McCoy, who teaches piano and violin in her Bethesda, Md. home. "Maybe a goal for a child who is working on a particularly difficult piece of music could be to spend their practice time perfecting three or four measures," she said. "Rather than focusing on practicing for a set amount of time, they could practice until the can play the three measures perfectly and then they're finished for the day. That is more effective than saying sitting for 30 minutes without accomplishing something specific."

Adding a light-hearted element to practice, which can be seen by some children as laborious, also encourages students to practice. "There should be some sense that playing the instrument is supposed to be fun and students should ... have some flexibility beyond a rigid experiences," said Kilkenny. "It shouldn't feel like it's a negative experience."

For parents who have trouble getting a child to start a practice session, McCoy recommends trying different times of the day. "For example, I had one mother who had screaming matches with her children to get them to practice after they'd finished their homework in the evening," she said. "She changed their practice time to the mornings after breakfast, but before they left for school. That made a huge difference in their willingness to practice because they were rested and in a better mood."

Parents should be realistic about their child's temperament and musical talent said Gulyn. "A child is only going to enjoy playing an instrument if they're good at it and parents have to be realistic about that," said Gulyn. "Music isn't easy for everyone."

Choosing a teacher who is a good fit for one's child can have an effect on their desire to practice.

"Ask around for recommendations, but find a teacher who inspires their students," said Gulyn.

"It's important to make sure the teacher is somebody who is credentialed and has degrees in music and also that they're continuing to be engaged professionally as teachers and performers," added Kilkenny. "Usually in terms of choosing a teacher, parents and children should have an opportunity to try a sample private lesson."

Walkway Improvement Project
Georgetown Pike Walkway Project (Route 193)
Phases III & IV
Falls Chase Court to Seneca Road
Fairfax County, Virginia

Citizens' Information Meeting
Wednesday, March 22, 2017, 7:00 – 9:00 pm.
(Formal presentation at 7:30)
Great Falls Library
9830 Georgetown Pike, Great Falls, Virginia

Project Description:

In January of 2001, the Board of Supervisors entered into an agreement with the Virginia Department of Transportation (VDOT) to construct a pedestrian walkway along the north side of Georgetown Pike from River Bend Road westward to Seneca Road, a distance of approximately 4.2 miles. Phase I, located in the Village Center and Phase II, between Utterback Store Road and Falls Chase Court, have been completed.

Phase III will complete a 250' long section between Falls Chase Court and Falls Bridge Lane. This segment of the trail is the recipient of federal funds.

Because of the federal funding, and because Georgetown Pike itself is listed on the National Register of Historic Places, this segment of the trail must comply with Section 106 of the National Historic Preservation Act. In addition to presenting design features, FCDOT is actively soliciting comments regarding what effect, if any, the proposed trail is likely to have on historic resources in the vicinity.

Phase IV will complete a 1200' long section between Falls Bridge Lane and Seneca Road. Local funds are utilized for this project. Design elements of the trail will be discussed at this meeting.

When these two phases are completed, the trail will be continuous from Falls Chase Court to Seneca Road, a distance of approximately 0.4 miles.

Review the proposed project plans at the Citizens' Information Meeting, or at FCDOT's office at 4050 Legato Road, 4th Floor, Fairfax, Virginia, 22033. Please call 703-877-5600 to ensure the availability of personnel to answer your questions.

Provide your written comments at the meeting or submit them by April 14, 2017 to Mr. Douglas Miller, Fairfax County Department of Transportation, at 4050 Legato Road, Fairfax Virginia, 22033. You may also e-mail your comments to douglas.miller3@fairfaxcounty.gov. In order to be considered, the comments for Phase III and Phase IV must be made separately. These comments can be on the same comment sheet, but it should be clearly stated which phase of the project the comment refers to.

Fairfax Falcons Championship Bound

BY FALLON FORBUSH
THE CONNECTION

A fierce competition was unfolding on the basketball court last Saturday morning. No sneaker squeaks were heard. Instead, the clanks of colliding metal echoed throughout the James Lee Community Center gymnasium.

The Fairfax Falcons were using the Falls Church gymnasium to practice for the biggest event of the team's year: The 2017 National Wheelchair Basketball Tournament in Louisville, Ky., from March 30 to April 2.

Kids from every corner of northern Virginia and into Maryland come to play for the team, which is the only wheelchair basketball team between Richmond and Baltimore.

"It's more physical than people realize and it's just as competitive," said Lisa Rode, one of the team's four coaches, including her husband Eric, who played on the team when he was a kid.

The wheelchair is considered part of the player's body and the games are often hard-hitting, even to the point where players tip over and fall out of their chairs. The rest is like able-bodied basketball.

A wheelchair basketball player may wheel the chair and bounce the ball simultaneously. If the ball is picked up and/or placed on the player's lap, he or she is only allowed to push twice before they are obligated to shoot, pass, or dribble the ball again. However, there is no double dribble rule in wheelchair basketball. A traveling violation occurs if the player takes more than two pushes while in possession of the ball without dribbling.

THE FALCONS have three levels of play:

- ❖ Novice: Children 8 and under learn chair skills and ball handling fundamentals
- ❖ Prep: Children 13 and under play with an 8.5-foot hoop and 27.5-inch ball
- ❖ Varsity: High school seniors and under play with a 10-foot hoop and a regulation-sized ball

The Falcons' Prep team is ranked No. 1 in the nation among National Wheelchair Basketball Association teams. Its Varsity team ranks No. 16.

The top 16 ranked NWBA teams in both varsity and prep were invited to play in the Varsity and Prep National Championships in the Junior Division of the tournament.

"It's the only place my son is the majority because he's in a wheelchair," said Amy Watson of Lorton. "It's about so much more than basketball."

Jake Watson, 18, is the only student who relies on a wheelchair at South County High School in Lorton. He has been a Falcon for the past four years.

The first time Jake saw the sport being played was during a Tampa Bay Strong Dogs game in Florida. The adult team was on the court and it made him nervous.

"It was the scariest thing I've seen in my life," Jake said. "They gym was full of burning metal, rubber and sweat."

He joined the team's youth league and fell in love with the sport. When the Watsons had to move to northern Virginia, finding a wheelchair basketball team was top priority.

“When we moved here, that was the most important thing,” said Amy Watson, whose family searched and found the Fairfax Falcons before they looked for a house.

“It’s a sport that I can do from the chair,” Jake said. “It’s a connection with others like me.”

There is a connection among athletes’ parents as well, who can relate to what it’s like to live or care for someone facing complications from a disability. This can mean talking about surgeries that many of the athletes face off the court, Amy Watson said.

“For parents, it’s therapy,” she said in between cheering from her seat on the bleachers as the team scrimmages.

Any child with a permanent, lower-extremity disability can play for the team, even if they are capable of walking.

“The most common misconception is that you don’t have to be in a chair all of the time to play,” Rode said. “It’s for kids who cannot play on an able-bodied team.”

The team is supported by the Therapeutic Recreation Services branch of the Fairfax County Department of Neighborhood and Community Services that is dedicated to helping people with disabilities participate in recreation and leisure programs.

While this provides free access to county facilities for games and practices, the team is run by four volunteer coaches: Lisa Rode, Eric Rode, Danny Malloy and Melissa Buckles.

These coaches are making sure they can send both of their teams to the tournament, which includes fundraising to make the costs less burdensome.

“It costs $2,000 for each wheelchair and the club pays for that,” Rode said.

FOR THE TOURNAMENT, the team paid $1,000 in registration costs and travel expenses will be funded entirely by parents.

The team started a “Falcons Wheelchair Basketball” fundraiser on GoFundMe, an online social fundraising platform at www.gofundme.com. It has raised more than $4,600 of its $10,000 goal so far.

Eric Rode, a volunteer coach and Fairfax Falcon alumnus, watches the ball to see if one of his players made their shot during a scrimmage.

The Adult Division of the tournament will feature the best players in the world, Rode said.

“For our kids to see them play, they look up to them,” she said.

This will be the third time the prep team has competed and the second time the varsity team has competed in the tournament, but this year holds a special meaning for the players who are dedicating their competition to their teammate Alex Green who died of cancer last summer at age 12.

“It hit the kids really hard,” Rode said. “The last time they played with him was at nationals.”

The yellow shirts the team will be wearing are a tribute to Alex’s Army, a childhood cancer foundation run by his parents, Jenni and Derek Green.

“We’re really fighting for him,” she said.

The initial plans call for planting sourwood, American plum, fringe, downy serviceberry and American hornbeam trees — which are all native to the area. However, the hornbeam trees may need to be replaced because they would grow too tall for power lines along Walker Road.

New Trees for Village Center

BY FALLON FORBUSH
THE CONNECTION

The Great Falls Garden Club and the Celebrate Great Falls Foundation are working to beautify the streetscape at the Village Center at Walker Road.

The organizations will be planting 14 trees along both sides of Walker Road, from Georgetown Pike to the edge of the commercial district.

“Our town center has lost a lot of trees, so that’s really changing the appearance of town,” said Candace Campbell, a garden club member and past president.

One of the massive oak trees located near the intersection of Georgetown Pike and Walker Road fell in the summer of 2012, killing Albert Carl Roeth III while he was driving. The tree was more than 100 years old and was showing signs of aging.

Three other oak trees along the roadway were removed following the incident as a precaution, according to Campbell.

Another oak tree did not survive the pedestrian safety and traffic flow improvements to the roadway that the Virginia Department of Transportation constructed.

The process of bringing trees back to the area has been more complicated than the garden club would have ever guessed.

“It’s taken us like 15 or 16 months to get all of our ducks in order,” Campbell said. “There’s a lot of balls in the air. It’s really amazing. You would think, ‘Ah, so simple. Just plant some trees down Walker Road.’ But, it’s not simple.”

THE GARDEN CLUB met with Fairfax County and Dranesville District arborists to determine which trees would fare well in the area.

“They knew information about bugs and diseases so that we didn’t pick trees that would succumb to something that we didn’t know about five years from now,” she said.

The trees the group selected to plant are sourwood, American plum, fringe, downy serviceberry and American hornbeam — which are all native to the area.

“There’s been a big push to use native trees, shrubs and flowers because it’s better for wildlife and the environment,” Campbell said. “The non-native stuff is beautiful, but it’s not home or food for anybody. If you’re going to plant a tree, you might as well plant a native.”

The garden club also made sure they received a permit and approval from VDOT, since it owns the land. However, plans may have to change as they work around utilities, which they forgot to consider.

The group arranged to plant hornbeams, which the United States Department of Agriculture said can grow up to 30 feet tall, near above-ground power lines.

“Now we’re investigating smaller trees that would still fit all the other criteria and would prevent Dominion from coming through and butchering them in five years when they’re mature,” she said.

THE FINAL HURDLE is funding the streetscape project to the amount of $20,000. About $6,000 will buy and plant the trees; another $6,000 will be spent on maintenance for the trees’ first year; and more will be used as a contingency in case trees need to be replaced or watering is needed next summer, according to Campbell. “We need to water them to make sure they get established and so they don’t just bake in July and August and die.”

The group hopes to start planting in April and is encouraging community members to pitch in to support their work.
