Field of Honor at Marshall High

George C. Marshall High School’s Class of 2019 will celebrate the Memorial Day holiday by creating a Field of Honor on May 26-29. This field of American flags will be displayed in front of Marshall High School along Route 7. Marshall High students are inviting the community to support the Field of Honor and their class by sponsoring flags to honor the men and women who have died while serving in the U.S. military or to recognize the service of a veteran or an active duty service member. For each flag sold, a donation will be made to a local veteran’s organization and the students can send an e-card to the family or the honoree to let them know they have been honored with a photo of the Field of Honor.

Flags sponsorship costs one flag for $5 or five flags for $20. The Class of 2019 will plant the flags on May 26 and remove them on May 30.

Deadline to purchase flags is May 24. Visit Pay4SchoolStuff.com (select Field of Honor) or complete an order form and mail ATTN: Field of Honor with a check payable to Marshall HS. Address: Marshall High School, 7731 Leesburg Pike, Falls Church, VA 22043.

We didn’t inherit the earth from our parents. We’re borrowing it from our children.
—Chief Seattle (1788-1866)
Suquamish/Duwamish chief
The idea came to area resident Jenifer Joy Madden many years ago. She was attempting to walk along Beulah Road in unincorporated Vienna with her young son from their nearby home to the Meadowlark Botanical Gardens — a journey that should have been a fairly easy stretch of the legs. Instead, they dodged speeding vehicles coming around roadway twists and turns, hugging the ditch line for safety. “We even came across the remnants of a serious car accident from the night before, with medical paraphernalia and bits of car parts still there that had to be negotiated.”

Fast forward a bit. Madden saw a poster from then recently-elected Fairfax County Board of Supervisors member Cathy Hudgins (D-Hunter Mill), saying “I want to meet the community and hear from you.” Madden took the new supervisor up on the offer and asked for pedestrian roadway improvements along Beulah Road so that walkers and bicyclists could more easily access the parks and trails that form “a beautiful necklace of green space” around the area, according to Madden.

“She told me to show community interest and support and if I did, she would get behind the effort.”

Madden wanted to work, and Hudgins kept her promise.

IT TOOK YEARS, lots of door-knocking, the support of her Homeowners Association, a comprehensive feasibility study, an ever-growing cadre of neighbors and people who champion bike and walk activities in the area and the support of Hudgins and quite a few employees of the Fairfax County Department of Transportation (FCDOT), but at last, the connecting walkways were substantially completed in October of 2016.

Hudgins spoke at the ribbon-cutting ceremony to officially celebrate the completed project. Gathered beneath a tent on the Beulah Road property of Shahla Zahirieh, who is also a design engineer with the county, and her husband Javad Mortazavi who is also a design engineer with the Hunter Mill District representative, Fairfax County Trails and Sidewalks Committee, were also speakers at the event. Anderson, as well as being an avid trail user himself and a member of the Fairfax Alliance for Better Cycling, has an avid trail user himself and a member of the Fairfax Alliance for Better Cycling, has been active with the local annual “Bike to School” campaign since 2009. “That’s how I got interested and how I came to join the Jenifer-train [referring to Jenifer Madden] that brought us to this point,” he said. “You want to promote healthy activity for our kids, but before now, it was dangerous. Now you can safely get to so many trail access points and places for outdoor fun. We even have a neighbor who can now get around in a motorized wheelchair and enjoy the outdoors.”

ATTENDEES Bruce Wright and Kerrie Hitt proves the point that the improvements added a whole new level of connectivity to the community by biking to the ceremony from their hometown of Reston. “It’s really great,” said Wright. “A lovely ride. We can get to so many trails, even to Wolf Trap using the bridge over the Toll Road.”

From Madden’s first suggestion, to the endorsement of the project by the Board of Supervisors in 2007, to completion in 2016, to ribbon-cutting in 2017, the Beulah Road Walkway may have been a long time coming, but for many, it was worth the wait.
On Sunday, April 30, the eve of National Lyme Disease Awareness Month, Vienna’s Colour Bar Studio was full for its 3rd Annual Cut-A-Thon, which raised money for The National Capital Lyme and Tick-Borne Disease Association (NatCapLyme). NatCapLyme is a nonprofit that sets out to end Lyme disease and to improve the lives of people living with this seemingly ubiquitous tick-borne illness. To date, Colour Bar Studio has raised almost $25,000 to advance Lyme research.

“We raised $8,700 at this year’s event, and all proceeds go to NatCapLyme for their important research,” said Tania Ferrel-Saldaña, owner of The Colour Bar Studio. “We’ll keep collecting donations for the rest of the year, and my goal is $12,000 in 2017.”

Six of Colour Bar Studio’s hair stylists donated four hours of their time, and talents, to perform 23 haircuts. All proceeds went to NatCapLyme for their life-saving research.

“Each haircut was $100, which all went to NatCapLyme,” Ferrel-Saldaña said. “The stylists and support staff all donated their time to make sure that everything ran smoothly. It wasn’t just haircuts. There were also people who came to The Cut-A-Thon to give us donations, to purchase raffle tickets, and even just to hang out.”

PEOPLE came from near and far to attend, she added. One man living with Lyme disease drove from New York after reading about the event on the NatCapLyme website.

Among the community support that makes the Cut-A-Thon possible every year, a number of local businesses donated items for the salon to give away as raffle prizes. From spa treatments to retail items, Colour Bar Studio was able distribute 20 prizes — at no cost to the salon — to those who purchased winning raffle tickets.

The Cut-A-Thon is close to Ferrel-Saldaña’s heart because she suffers from chronic Lyme disease. She has spent the last five years of her life waging her own war on the disease that has eaten away at her energy, memory and quality of life. To compound her pain, she’s also watched her children struggle with Chronic Lyme disease’s persistent symptoms.

Karla Ferrel, Tania’s daughter and Colour Bar Studio’s salon director — also battling Lyme — is proud to be a part of what she hopes is a movement gaining momentum. She said every member of the staff, though, considers the Cut-A-Thon to be the most meaningful part of Colour Bar Studio’s year.

“It’s special to everyone because it supports a cause that they have seen firsthand affect someone close to them,” Karla Ferrel said. “Through it all, we’ve also learned more about clients that suffer from Lyme disease.”

As more doctors recognize the prevalence of Lyme disease and the chronic impact that an overlooked and undertreated tick bite can cause, this salon’s team understands that they are raising greater awareness of the epidemic.

“This is a disease that gets such little attention, so it is important for people to see a small business dedicated to awareness,” Karla Ferrel said. “I know personally that it’s a relief to see events like this.”

IT ALL STARTED close to four years ago, when Ferrel-Saldaña asked her staff to think of a way for them to give back to the community for its support for Colour Bar Studio as it established itself as the new business on the block.

“The Cut-A-Thon wasn’t my idea,” Ferrel-Saldaña said. “To support me, my team wanted to do something for the Lyme community, and make people more aware of what they go through.”

Though Ferrel-Saldaña still hopes to earn more for NatCapLyme by the end of the year, she is pleased with this year’s turnout and remains touched by the support and sacrifice of her team at her salon. She’s already started the planning for next year’s event, on Sunday, April 29, 2018.

“I know what I need to do to raise even more money,” Ferrel-Saldaña said. “It takes a lot to make it a success, but, without question, it’s worth it all the hard work and sacrifice.”

Arrest – Forgery / Narcotics Violation — Northwest Federal Credit Union, 231 Maple Avenue, East May 5, 12:38 p.m. An employee advised a man was in the bank attempting to pass a forged check. Officers located the man and took him into custody. A measurable amount of marijuana was located in the man’s vehicle. The 22-year-old man from 4th Street, SE in Washington, D.C. was transported to the Fairfax County Adult Detention Center where he was charged with Forgery, Uttering of a Forged Check and Possession of Marijuana.

Peeping — 100 Block Patrick Street, SE May 6, 1:17 a.m. On May 4 two women who live in an apartment advised the apartment security officer of a man looking in their window. The two women observed the man again on this date and alerted the security officer again who followed the man to the 7-11 at 8616 Park Street where officers located him. The women did not wish to pursue charges but were advised of the warrant process should they change their minds.

Arrest – Drunk In Public — 7-11 8616 Park Street May 6, 1:30 a.m. While Ofc. Sterling was investigating the previous peeping case he observed the man the women identified as the suspect showed signs of impairment. Ofc. Sterling arrested the 41-year-old man who had no fixed address. He transported him to the Fairfax County Adult Detention Center where he was charged with Drunk In Public and was to be held until he was sober.

Found Property — Taco Bama 164 Maple Avenue, West May 6, 6, 9:11 p.m. A citizen advised of an intoxicated man going in and out of the convenience store. Ofc. Bulti located the man and detected signs of possible impairment. The 61-year-old man from Lee Highway in Falls Church was placed under arrest and transported to the Fairfax County Adult Detention Center where he was charged with Drunk In Public.

Suspicious Event — 300 Block Lewis Street, NW May 6, 10:24 p.m. A resident, who has had several recent issues with juveniles harassing his daughter, heard a vehicle outside his

The Ugliness of Prejudice

By Kenneth R. “Ken” Plum

The remarks were directed pointed out, it’s abnormal to start a conversation like that with someone you do not know. There really is something wrong with people who are so blinded by their prejudices that they feel compelled to lash out at a person who has done them no wrong. The comments reflect a deep-seated hatred that comes out for reasons only a mental health expert could help discover.

What is particularly troubling these days is the blurring of the line between political con- victions and prejudice toward individuals. In our deeply divided political landscape, too of- ten political views become opportunities to demonize people who hold different views. Unfortunately this radio, social media and some cable news shows tend to invite this de- structive phenomenon.

In addition to the repulsiveness I feel about the hateful comments, I was also saddened that social media and news accounts described the scene as a store in Reston, Va. I know from a lot of personal experience the amount of ef- fort that so many people have made over the years to ensure that Reston is an open, wel- coming and inclusive community. While I un- derstand why the store did nothing to address the situation, I wish somehow there had been a disclaimer on the video: The woman speaking does not represent the views of the people of Reston.

The situation reminds us that building com- munity is not a one-time occurrence, a work- shop, or a feel-good session. Building a com- munity of respect and love is an ongoing pro- cess that we work at a little every day. We greet those we meet; we hug each other; we attend each other’s houses of worship; we show re- spect to others; we speak out against hate and prejudices; we listen to each other. We use appropriate channels to discuss political views, and whether in person or online we stick to the issues and don’t resort to personal attacks. A display of hateful and ugly prejudice as we have just witnessed must bring us together in mutual support and respect as we want Reston and every other community to display.

Letters to the Editor

Press Needed more Than Ever

To the Editor:

Dear Members of the Press: We need you now more than ever. Congressional Republicans Jason Chaffetz and Devin Nunes quit their positions as chairman of Con- gressional committees rather than have to investigate General Flynn, the Russian interference with our national elections, and the Russian involvement with the Trump ad- ministration.

President Trump has fired New York’s U.S. Attorney Preet Bharara, Attorney General Sally Yates and FBI Director James Comey when they each turned up their investigatory heat. The American public is being given various explanations by vari- ous members of the Trump admin- istration as to what’s going on. We need you now more than ever. Vice President Pence advocates for all of President Trump’s ac- tions. Attorney General Sessions re- fuses to recuse himself. The pros- pect for an Independent prosecu- tor is tenuous. I hope the Senate Intelligence Committee stays strong. But we need you now more than ever.

The President may call you names. He may call you “fake news” or “the enemy of the people.” But he can’t fire you. There are a million names. He may call you “fake news” or “the enemy of the people.” But he can’t fire you. There are a million names.

FCPS to Propose Increases in Class Sizes

By Mollie Regan

At this critical time when we al- ready suffer from teacher short- ages and large class sizes, FCPS should not be considering addi- tional class size increases as a means to save $14.7 million. There are alternatives that could better address the FY18 budget gap. Some alternatives actually reduce expenses. Others just change bud- get assumptions.

For example, the School Board could cut $15 million of other ex- penses with the understanding that in July, it would use the “found money” from the year-end FY 2017 budget review to restore those programs. This is exactly what the board did about six years ago, when Jack Dale was the FCPS superintendent.

Alternatively, FCPS could find $14.7 million by using more real- istic assumptions about employee attrition. Every year, FCPS pre- pares its budget using unrealisti- cally low attrition assumptions, which in turn consistently produce about $30 million/year of “found money” from higher-than-pro- jected teacher attrition during the budget reviews.

Of course, if FCPS made a sus- tained commitment to reasonable class sizes, it could arguably avoid increasing the costs associated with that teacher attrition. Imag- ine the cost savings from retain- ing our teachers. What additional innovations could be used to re- duce the expense of endlessly re- staffing our classrooms and train- ing a new workforce?

The FCPS Strategic Plan, “Igni- nite,” affirms its commitment to student success and a caring cul- ture. Seeing “Ignite” in action would mean that our School Board representatives resolve the FCPS financial shortfall without again balancing its budget on the backs of our teachers and students. Class Size Counts created an online petition asking the School Board not to increase elementary, middle and high school class sizes by 0.5 students across the board as part of the FY 2018 budget. Please sign the petition at https://www.change.org/p/fairfax- county-public-schools-joined-class-size-counts-to-oppose-the-core-academic-class-sizes-in-fcps.

house. When he opened the door he observed one of the juveniles at his front door. The juvenile quickly ran to the waiting vehicle and left the area. The resident was advised to continue working with the Madison High School Resource Officer to help resolve this problem between his daughter and the other students.

Arrest – Felony Hit & Run, Driving While Intoxicated and Refusal — Maple Avenue, West and James Madison Drive May 7, 7:33 a.m. Officers responded to the report of an accident with injury. Driver-1 was exiting the McDonald’s parking lot attempting to cross Maple Avenue. Vehicle-1 struck Vehicle-2 on Maple Avenue then ran off the road into the brick “James Madison” sign. Driver-1 exited the vehicle and was attempting to leave the scene on foot. Rescue personnel responded and transported Driver-2 to an area hospital with non-life-threatening injuries. Ofc. Hylinski placed Driver-3 under arrest after a short foot pursuit. The man showed signs of impairment was acting very uncooperative with the officer and refused any field sobriety tests. The officer transported the man to an area medical facility for treatment for injuries he sustained in the accident. Once the man was medically treated Ofc. Hylinski transported him to the Fairfax County Adult Detention Center. The 32-year-old man from Talahi Road, SE in Vienna was charged with Driving While Intoxicated 3rd Offense, Refusal 3rd Offense, Felony Hit and Run and Driving on a Revoked License. He was held on an $8000 secured bond.

Domestic Dispute — Polly Street, SE May 7, 12:36 p.m. Officers responded for a verbal dispute between a mother and her teenage daughter.

Fraud — Northwest Federal Credit Union 231 Maple Avenue, East May 8, 11:03 a.m. A bank employee reported a possible scam involving one of their elderly customers. The customer did not wish to pursue charges in the case.

Messengers of Peace

Cub Scouts and their families from Pack 1530 participated in the inaugural garlic mustard removal event on April 29 at Fairfax County Park Authority’s newest Invasive Management Area (IMA) site called Difficult Run Stream Valley Park in the Miller Heights neighborhood of Oakton. These Cub Scout volunteers removed enough of this highly invasive plant to fill 20 large garbage bags. IMA is a volunteer-led, community-based program designed to reduce invasive plants on public lands. Cub Scout Pack 1530 is part of the Powhatan District of the National Capital Area Council and Vale United Methodist Church is its chartering organization. By participating in this conservation activity, scouts earned the Messengers of Peace patch.

America Responds to Third-Graders at The Langley School

As part of their study of the 50 states, third-graders at The Langley School in McLean reached out to small towns across America.

Numerous envelopes and boxes have arrived at The Langley School filled with letters, and boxes from people of Alaska, Iowa, Louisiana, Mississippi, Nebraska, New Jersey, West Virginia, and more have arrived at The Langley School filled with letters, postcards, maps, flags, pictures, jewelry, rocks, fossils, and souvenirs. Langley students have a more in-depth understanding of our country thanks to this project and the response of citizens.

By KENNETH B. LOURIE

For those of you unfamiliar with my column: in Burke, Springfield, Fairfax, Fairfax Station/Clinman/Lorton, Mount Vernon and Alexandria, welcome aboard the Kenny train. I have been writing a weekly column for Connect Newspapers since September 1997 appearing primarily in our “Tuesday papers,” as we call them. Vienna/Oakton, McLean, Great Falls, Oakton, Chantilly, Centreville and Potomac. The question has persisted among friends and family: Ken I continue to deal with my 10-year-old chord jokes, “churn out this dribble?” Apparently so, if the last 19 and half years are any indication.

And so it continued until June 2009. That’s when I published my first column about a diagnostic process which had been ongoing since New Year’s Day, which ultimately led to a lung cancer diagnosis, delivered to “Learn Louie” on Feb. 27, 2009 (you bet you remember the date). That column, entitled “Dying to Find Out, Sort Of” (the “sort of” was the process, exciting as it was) that one often endures attempting to determine the cause of a medical problem, in my case, a pain in my left-side rib cage which was a day or so later, migrated to my right-side and eventually took much of my body — almost literally, especially when inhaling and/or bending over. This difficulty forced me off the couch and into my car for a drive over to the Emergency Room. Once the diagnosis was confirmed, I wrote another column entitled “Dying to Tell You, Sort Of” which detailed the findings of the nearly eight-week process to try to specify my diagnosis: stage IV, non-small cell lung cancer (NSCLC). Out of the blue, I had become “terminal,” as my oncologist described me, and given a “11 month to two-year” prognosis to boost. Surreal, which is a common description offered by many in similar situations, is how one feels after receiving news of this kind, and one is forced to turn their attention to the change and evolution in the individual’s life living forward into treatment and subsequently beyond into the unknow.

This ‘great unknown’ is mostly what I have written about and published ever since; “cancer column,” “cancer column: the bulk: “Bulky Boy,” but never/well, almost never did I write about my wife, Dina; I have been writing about and published ever since; “cancer column: the change and evolution in the individual’s life living forward into treatment and subsequently beyond into the unknow.”

These columns will address non-cancer issues of the day, ranging from the sublime to the ridiculous. Most recently topics have included the movie “The Exorcist,” “Exorcising a Demon,” paying for things with a credit card. “Credit the Card,” relating to advertising for grass seed and riding mowers: “And So It Begins,” and buying in bulk: “Bulky Boy,” but never/well, almost never did I write about my wife, Dina. I have been warned.

Though the recurring theme of these columns is cancer, the content is rarely morbid or dare I say, self-indulgent, believe it or not. I try to make fun of a “very serious” situation. I guess I’m still writing about life; now however, it’s life in the cancer lane, a road unlike any I had ever traveled before. Nevertheless, I’ve got through eight years and nearly three months of it relatively incident-free, save for a week in the hospital three and a half years ago and yes, I am still undergoing treatment.

I hope readers will be semi amused at the slings and arrows of outrageous misfortune upon which my columns are based. Please know: the significance of me continuing to write, is that it cancer is being written about.

Safety in the Water

By Marilyn Campbell

During the month of May, National Water Safety Month, water safety educators are waging a month-long campaign to educate the public about responsible water practices before the start of summer. The campaign is designed to help prevent drowning and water-related illness and injuries.

“The most important tip from swim experts [is] to have your child in perpetual swim lessons,” said Gina Bewersdorf, who owns Goldfish Swim School in Reston. “Situations will always arise in which we or our children are around water, [like] at a friend’s pool party, vacation near a lake, or a boating trip, so learning the necessary skills to stay safe is vital. It only takes a second for a child or adult to unsuspectingly fall into a body of water.”

Constant adult supervision is the first and best way to prevent accidents in and around water, says Lisa S. Grepps, director, Marketing & Communications, The Association of Pool & Spa Professionals in Alexandria. She also recommends additional safeguards to help prevent children from gaining unsupervised access to a pool or spa or to warn of a child’s presence. “But don’t get lulled into a false sense of security with barriers and other devices as they are just backups to the primary means of accident prevention which is constant adult supervision,” said Grepps.

Keeping a cell phone nearby to make a call to 911 in case of an emergency and avoiding swimming at the first sign of bad weather are two tips that Ann Thompson of Ann’s Aquatics in Bethesda offers to her students and their parents. “I tell parents that certain flotation devices are great, but they are in no way a replacement for responsible adult supervision,” she said. “And the supervision should be undistracted. Don’t get lost in a conversation or a phone call and divert attention away from your children, not even for a second. If you leave the pool area, no matter how brief the period of time, take the children with you.”

In addition to learning to swim, Bewersdorf recommends making sure that children are taught water safety skills as well as how to perform CPR on both adults and children. “We recommend a child enroll in swim lessons as early as possible [and] year round, not just during the warmer months. Persistent swim lessons are proven to be incredibly beneficial in order to keep these life-saving skills sharp” she said. “We offer classes as young as four months old in which the parents are constantly with their infants. This gets the child used to simply being in and around water and they learn simple safety skills.”

When choosing a pool, check for an on-duty lifeguard. In cases where a lifeguard is not available, look for accessible safety equipment such as a rescue ring or pole.

“We want people to have a safe and fun time swimming and that’s why [we] issue permits to all public pool facilities and routinely inspect them to ensure they are being operated in a safe and healthy manner, in accordance with Fairfax County Code,” said Martin A. Thompson, Environmental Health supervisor for Fairfax County. “It’s also important that swimmers take steps to maximize the health benefits of swimming while minimizing the risk of injury or illness to themselves and others.”

Thompson advises adhering to other safety guidelines from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) which include looking to see if the drain at the bottom of the deep end is visible, staying out of the pool if you have diarrhea, covering any open wounds with waterproof bandages, showering before entering the pool and only using flotation devices that are Coast Guard approved.
