Fourth of July Celebrated in Vienna

Yeonas Park hosts fireworks, music, evening show, and pie-eating contest.

About 4,000 Vienna residents attended the Fourth of July Independence Day celebration at Yeonas Park last week. Sponsored by the Vienna Parks and Recreation, the event featured a fireworks show provided by Navy Federal Credit Union, music by the band Fat Chance, and food and drink concessions sponsored by the Vienna Little League. Visitors spread out their blankets and lawn chairs for picnics and to watch the fireworks, which were shot off from Southside Park.

“It’s a small town event; it’s what makes Vienna special. We enjoy putting on the events for the residents and visitors. We look forward to an even larger festival next year when the community center opens,” said Leslie Herman, Director of Parks and Recreation for the Town of Vienna.

Problems for Public Health

Increasing the number of uninsured is bad for the rest of us, and the economy.

The proposed plan in the U.S. Senate, to give the wealthiest Americans massive tax cuts by cutting health coverage for people who are poor, has disabilities and elders, would also affect the rest of the population, and the economy.

People without health insurance face economic uncertainty. When they do incur medical bills, they often cannot pay them in full. This increases costs to providers and decreases the ability to participate in the economy.

People without health insurance are sicker than people with insurance, but they also often can’t afford to stay home from work, often exposing others to preventable illnesses. They are less likely to have flu shots and other routine immunizations that protect all of us, including those with the weakest immune systems and those who cannot be vaccinated.

U.S. Sen. Tim Kaine was in Springfield this week talking to people who depend on Medicaid coverage. He and U.S. Sen. Mark Warner have been active in opposing these major cuts to health care.

This bears repeating — there are some other consequences of proposals in the Senate bill:

❖ Millions of people lose their health insurance — 22 million fewer would have health insurance by 2026 according to the Congressional Budget Office analysis.

❖ In Virginia, more than 14,000 veterans could lose coverage under Medicaid.

❖ States could opt out of the law’s essential health benefits measure, which requires insurers to cover 10 major benefits, including hospitalization, prescription drugs and other services. That is, companies could sell health insurance that wouldn’t actually be health insurance. Would Virginia be a state that opts out? Quite likely.

❖ Loss of coverage for pre-existing conditions, including cancer survivors, people who had transplants, people with asthma, arthritis, high cholesterol, hypertension, obesity, mental health issues, ADD, etc.

❖ Ending annual and lifetime coverage caps would also impact people who get health insurance from their employers and the private insurance market. For example, a serious accident or an illness that requires repeated surgeries or bone marrow transplants could put one of us over the coverage cap.

❖ Medicaid pays public schools for many services for special education students, but the Senate bill removes schools from eligible Medicaid providers, costing Virginia an estimated $40 million annually; $3 million in Fairfax County; $2 million in the City of Alexandria.

❖ $800 billion plus in cuts to Medicaid puts the funding for most people who are currently in nursing homes at risk. Many of these are people who were middle class and but outlived their savings and coverage.

❖ In Virginia, the proposed changes to Medicaid would cost the state $1.4 billion over seven years.

❖ Medicaid pays for much of the fight against opioid addiction, including treatment. Cuts would be devastating to efforts to counter the wave of overdose deaths and other effects of addiction.

❖ Coverage for mental health treatment, including addiction treatment, is threatened both by cuts to Medicaid and by changes in the private insurance market.

❖ There will be greater need for Medicaid over time. More seniors will be poor, as fewer people who are retiring have pensions or adequate retirement savings. The demand for nursing home beds will be increasing as the population ages.

Alzheimer’s disease will touch every American family at some time or other. There aren’t many other conditions you can say that about. Today, Alzheimer’s kills more people each year than breast cancer and prostate cancer combined,” said U.S. Rep. Gerry Connolly (D-11) to the attendees of the Town Hall meeting at the headquarters of the National Capital Area Alzheimer’s Association in McLean on Monday, June 10.

Connolly was one of several speakers on the agenda, that included representatives from the National Alzheimer’s Association, the Agency on Aging from Fairfax and Prince William counties, the Virginia Alzheimer’s Commission, and the National Active and Retired Federal Employees Association.

Cindy Schelhorn, senior director of communication with the Alzheimer’s Association, opened the event and Connolly began the session with a personal story about the disease’s effect on his own family. “My Irish immigrant grandmother survived the boat journey to America, even being robbed on the ship. She worked hard. She saved. She was able to bring her own mother and her brothers over from Ireland. She wasn’t able to fight off Alzheimer’s.”

Connolly told of his grandmother’s struggle from years of hard work “and walking to Mass everyday.” In some ways, said the congressman, her physical fitness proved to be less than a blessing after the disease struck. “She lived a long time with Alzheimer’s. Watching her fade away before my eyes was one of the most difficult things I had to deal with growing up. The worst is knowing your loved ones something isn’t right, but there is nothing they can do.”

THE CONGRESSIONMAN has co-sponsored the HOPE for Alzheimer’s Act and the Palliative Care and Hospice Education and Training Act, supported the RAISE Family Caregivers Act and is a member of the bipartisan Congressional Alzheimer’s Caucus. But he is concerned. “The President’s FY 2018 Budget, and many of the bills currently on the table would wreak havoc, throwing people out of nursing homes and services. That is, companies could sell health insurance by 2026 according to the Congressional Budget Office analysis.

A local interior designer believes in thinking outside the proverbial box.

“My advice to homeowners is to embrace spaces within their homes as if they were never assigned,” said Joe Van Goethem of Joseph Van Goethem Interior Design in McLean. “Depending on location, a space previously designated as a walk-in closet can be purposefully transformed into an intimate guest bedroom, home office, or multipurpose wine cellar and bar.”

Van Goethem followed his own advice when he transformed a walk-in foyer closet in his home into a multipurpose wine cellar, complete with a wine refrigerator, beer cooler, ice maker and cigar humidor. “Why a walk-in closet if it’s seldom used, and only to become an open invitation for hidden clutter?” he asked. “Envision new, functional possibilities for every space within your home.”

Van Goethem, who not only designed the space, but also completed the construction himself, believes that “playing with scale and attention to every detail are key when considering the transformation of a confined space such as a walk-in closet,” he said. “[The] closet had a nondescript narrow solid door, glued-down wood veneer floor, shelving and hanging rods, and one light fixture.”

In finishing the project, Van Goethem widened the door framing to accommodate a new French door and added storage space for a concealed television. He also installed an intercom to allow those in the cellar to communicate with those in the kitchen.

“I ripped up the old floor [and replaced it] with Spanish marble tile flooring,” he said. “I added a baseboard and crown moulding, and created a grid of moulding on the walls which I painted with Farrow & Ball’s Purbeck Stone. I installed Extra Fine Arrowroot Grasscloth hand crafted wallcovering by Phillip Jeffries within the recesses of the grid.”

Van Goethem said his goal was to make the design of the new cellar consistent with the aesthetics of the rest of his home. The space includes a large drum light fixture and side lamps. An oversized cabinet holds the stemware and barware. He added a commissioned seascape painting by California artist Jonathan Koch and modern teapots by Washington, D.C. ceramicist Joe Hicks.

“Details are important in design, but they are everything … when transforming a small space like the repurposing of a walk-in closet,” said Van Goethem.

Heartbreak and Hope

and adult care centers, and severely limiting care and resources for our vulnerable seniors.” A threatened 18 percent cut in the funding for the National Institutes for Health “would gut federally funded research ... it certainly would bring us no closer to a cure,” said Connolly. “And right now, there is no cure. There really isn’t much in the way of treatment.”

“There are about 140,000 Virginians estimated to be suffering from some form of dementia,” said panelist Sharon Davis with the Virginia Alzheimer’s Commission, and she says the effect of the disease takes a toll on the family as well as the afflicted. “I have spent more than half of my adult life as a caregiver.”

Davis’s husband is now a live-in patient at a memory care facility, suffering from early-onset Alzheimer’s. Her mother lived for 18 years with the disease.

“It’s a tragedy. It’s a disease that robs them of what should be the best years, time they have earned to relax and enjoy.” As Davis pointed out, it’s also a disease that can have devastating emotional and financial impacts on families, as many struggle to cope physically and financially to provide usually round-the-clock care.

Stories of heartbreak and challenges continued, but Karen Hannigan with Fairfax County Area Agency on Aging wants to get the word out that there is help available. “We operate based on the ‘No Wrong Door’ initiative,” said Hannigan.

That model means that persons who call for help don’t encounter a “sorry, wrong department and we can’t help” response. “No matter what, we guide you.” Our staff are ‘field-trained.’ We know the system. Let us do the navigating and take away at least that much stress from the situation.”

Negotiating the government regulations, the gaps between Medicare and Medicaid, the insurance maze, and trying to find appropriate resources while dealing with the actual disease and its effects on the patient, and possibly on the family as caregivers, can be overwhelming. “Call us, Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. - 4:30 p.m. at 703-324-7948,” said Hannigan.

“You don’t need to know all of the information. We do. Just tell us your story.”

The National Alzheimer’s Association also offers a helpline. “It’s free care consultation. It’s nationwide. It’s 24/7, call us at 1-800-272-3900, or visit the website at www.alz.org.”

Along with more assistance for patients, caregivers and families, Priest and others on the dais and in the audience want to see more focus on education and training, as well. The National Alzheimer’s Association and the regional chapters are dedicating more time and resources on outreach programs. Annandale resident Catherine Bergstrom who attended the event welcomed this initiative.

Bergstrom related the experiences of her husband who had to be hospitalized. “This was a hospital, and they still did not know how to deal with a patient suffering from this disease.”

Sharon Davis of the Virginia Alzheimer’s Commission added her own stories of her husband’s treatment at hospitals and medical facilities that worsened his mental state, instead of improving the situation.

“And what about a patient that can’t communicate to the emergency room staff because of their condition?” asked Connolly, or even worse, the Alzheimer’s sufferer who doesn’t have a caring family member who can help “interpret” during medical transactions or who can advocate on the patient’s behalf?

THE OUTREACH PROGRAMS of the Alzheimer’s Association seek to train the general public, as well as doctors, caregivers, law enforcement personnel and others on how to recognize if someone is suffering from Alzheimer’s or dementia, and how to best react and assist.

Currently, there are no “Dementia Friendly Communities” in Virginia. The model, which seeks to raise awareness of the disease and of dementia in general and offer training and tips for real-life encounters is being tested in other jurisdictions nearby. Toni Reinhart, owner of Herndon-based Comfort Keepers who provides in-home senior and elder care services, wants to change that. This month, she is gathering local service and community leaders in her area to make Herndon a “proof of concept” project. “Herndon is so community-focused. Our leaders are very service-oriented. I think it’s the best place to get this rolling in Virginia.”

Connolly applauded all of these efforts, as he pledged to continue to fight for Alzheimer’s funding. “There are 1.1 million people in Fairfax County. Eleven percent are over 65. The fastest growing population is over 80. This is an issue that won’t just go away. We need to take action now. Contact your members of Congress — and not just the ‘friendlies!’ We have a ‘moon-shot’ for fighting cancer. Well, we need a ‘moon-shot’ to fight Alzheimer’s disease.”

The panel at the Alzheimer’s Town Hall included U.S. Rep. Gerry Connolly (D-11), and representatives from the National and local Alzheimer’s Association, Area Agencies on Aging, the Virginia Alzheimer’s Commission, and the National Active and Retired Federal Employees Association.

Vienna/Oakton Connection • July 13-19, 2017 • 11
Hanlin Zhang, the 10-year-old daughter of Jing and Catherine Zhang of Vienna, has earned “Best in Show” honors in Cooperative Living magazine’s 2017 Youth Art Contest.

The rising fifth grader at Vienna’s Flint Hill Elementary School used colored pencils to create her winning entry of a Dalmatian puppy. For the 15th annual contest, open to kindergarten through fifth grade students in Virginia and part of Tennessee, young artists were asked to illustrate something about “animals.” More than 425 students entered the competition. Nine of the 19 winners, including Zhang, live in Northern Virginia.

“We received drawings of everything from butterflies to elephants,” said Bill Sherrod, Cooperative Living’s editor. “All the judges were impressed with the tremendous imagination and talent shown in the students’ art.”

“My art teacher asked me to look through a folder of images and pick something that would inspire my art,” Zhang said. “I chose the Dalmatian because I thought it was cute.”

Zhang’s “Best in Show” work earned her a $100 prize.

The Vienna Arts Society’s “Healing Wall” Honors Hospitalized Troops

Soldiers in treatment for PTSD at Fort Belvoir paint expressive puzzle pieces with guidance from VAS artist volunteers.

By Donna Manz
The Connection

Four years ago, the Vienna Arts Society began an annual therapeutic art relationship with soldiers suffering from PTSD in crisis treatment at Fort Belvoir army hospital. Three volunteers, out of a cadre of 12 to 15 rotating artists, dedicate their time, expertise, and compassion to make semi-monthly visits to the hospital where they share the means of expression that painting releases.

“Some of our troops go to awful places, and come back in an awful place,” said Vienna Arts Society president Dore’ Skidmore, speaking to the guests celebrating the new July exhibition of the “healing wall.” More than 25 porters from the arts society and Fort Belvoir hospital came to the exhibit opening reception on Sunday, July 9. The “healing wall” is made of puzzle pieces, each one painted by a Fort Belvoir PTSD patient. The pieces, like all puzzle pieces do, fit together, making the puzzle whole. No one is prodded to join the painting group; the artist volunteers are there to guide as needed. While most soldiers opt to contribute their finished artwork to the puzzle, occasionally, some elect to keep the piece.

The Vienna Arts Society artist volunteers bring the supplies the in-treatment troops need. Vienna’s American Legion Post 180 funded the high-quality paints the soldiers use.

Artist volunteers are ready in a recreation setting during the morning social time and every participant has an opportunity to “practice” making a design on a card.

During the two-hour open painting session, participants may paint one or more puzzle pieces. VAS director Lu Cousins initiated the program when she came to the arts center. The program runs winter and spring every year and public funding support for the “healing wall” is welcomed.

“We’re all in this together,” said Skidmore.

“The Healing Wall exhibit, at the Vienna Art Center 115 Pleasant St. NW, runs through Aug. 5. The gallery/studio is open to the public Tuesday through Saturday; call for hours, 703-319-3971.

Doe and Fawn

A slant of sun
Gilds four slender legs
Stepping, stately
Into the shadows
Of the woods.
Wait……..
A bundle of
Spotless recklessness
Skips onto the lawn,
Springing, bounding,
Then barreling back
Where she went.
