Mayor Welcomes You to the Town

Mayor Laurie DiRocco on what’s the best about living in Vienna.

By Laurie DiRocco
Mayor of Vienna

I would like to welcome you to our lovely Town of Vienna. I think you will agree that Vienna is a special and memorable place. Before I share some of my favorite things about Vienna, let me provide some general information and a few facts and figures about our Town.

The Town of Vienna is 4.4 square miles with about 16,500 residents and 14 parks, including the W&OD trail and Town Green. Vienna has inviting residential neighborhoods, a vibrant business district with many unique and local shops, and some of the best-ranked schools in the country.

The Town is known for its numerous community events, including the Fourth of July fireworks, Oktoberfest, and the Halloween Parade as well as its strong sense of hometown pride.

These facts and figures help explain why Vienna is a great place to live and work, but they don’t reveal the true heart of Vienna. To me, Vienna is its numerous volunteers, many of whom are honored every year at my Mayor’s Volunteer Recognition Ceremony. Some residents help an elderly neighbor with groceries and yard work while others help bring public art to the community.

To me, Vienna is the volunteer firefighters who drive Santa around in their 1946 antique truck to greet residents young and old. To me, Vienna is the place where Town police shut down Maple Avenue for the James Madison High School homecoming parade.

I CHERISH the Town’s strong sense of history. Listed on the National Historic Registry, the Freeman Store and Museum on Church Street is a small, local gift store filled with historical displays and memorabilia. I always buy the newest Christmas ornament there.

I also appreciate the Town’s original Little Library, which smells of wood and old books. Every year students at Louise Archer Elementary School, built in 1939, host a special day to celebrate the school’s history and first educators.

I strive to honor the Town’s rich history while planning for thoughtful growth. We recently completed renovation of the Town’s community center, which was originally constructed in 1966. I am so excited for big windows that allow sunlight to shine through the walkways and the new full-size gymnasium.

The community center will be the Town’s first green building and will be LEED silver certified. A few years ago, the Town adopted the Maple Avenue Corridor (MAC) Plan, which supports redevelopment along Vienna’s main thoroughfare. The plan includes green buildings, mixed uses, outdoor seating, public art, and improved pedestrian walkways.

My husband and I love to walk around Town, especially to local restaurants. On any given day, you will see lots of people walking and biking in Town, and we strive to support these activities. The Town has a Transportation Safety Commission and a Pedestrian and Bicycle Advisory Commission that work on adding more sidewalks; implementing traffic-calming measures where needed; researching creative solutions to challenging intersections; and supporting Safe Routes to School.

On Fridays at 9:30 a.m., I lead a walking group from Town Hall. Everyone is invited (please join me?)! We usually walk about 3 miles. It is a great opportunity to see various parts of Town and to chat with residents. Last spring, we walked to see the oldest trees around Town.

The Town has a strong relationship with its schools. Currently, I am working with James Madison pyramid principals on a partnership in which students work on Town projects and help solve problems in the community. The new project-based learning program will help educate students about local government, teach them how to be active and engaged citizens, and possibly lead them to discover career directions.

OK JUST A FEW MORE, less well-known things that I truly love about Vienna.

Many people don’t realize that Vienna has an eclectic music scene with Jammin’ Java, School of Rock, and Vienna Jammers, to name a few. Right outside of Town is Wolf Trap National Park for the Performing Arts. Additionally, the Town Green hosts a variety of local bands. I can’t forget to mention Vienna Idol, the Town’s annual musical talent contest that raises money for the Kristin Kylo Memorial Fund.

You may not realize that the train depot on Dominion Road is home to the Northern Virginia Model Railroaders, who host monthly open houses so the public can view their model train displays.

Many people who think of Church Street, think of Vienna Presbyterian Church, whose historical chapel sits on the corner of Church and Mill Street. But the First Baptist Church has been in existence longer than the Town itself, with its original location on Lawyers Road near Church Street. This year the First Baptist Church is celebrating 150 years in the Town of Vienna!

I believe Vienna’s strong sense of community is created by its citizens and their desire for a caring and welcoming place to call home. I am so grateful to be mayor of this special Town. If you ever want to know more about the Town or have any questions or concerns, please feel free to contact me at idirocco@viennava.gov or 703-255-6310. For more information, visit the Town’s website at www.viennava.gov.

Newcomers & Community Guide

Back to FCPS

I want to visit your schools to understand the work and the challenges our teachers, administrators and employees face, to understand what is happening “on the ground” so I can be better informed when making decisions.

Scott S. Brabrand, Ed.D.,
Superintendent of Schools

Equity: FCPS is a microcosm of the world with students and families who come from all backgrounds and cultures. We will ensure that all students reach Portrait of a Graduate outcomes by addressing opportunity, access and attainment gaps. Every child, by name and need, can succeed with the proper support.

Effectiveness: We need to ensure that FCPS is being effective and efficient. One step I am taking is to narrow down our strategic plan in order to focus our efforts on achievable priorities that we can do well this year as a school division. We will align our resources to these priorities.

Expectations: I want our employees to love kids. The personal connection that our students feel with their teachers and all of our employees is critical to their success. I want our employees to love teaching and learning which I know will positively impact a child every day, and I want our employees to be professional in their work and role models for our students.

All of the challenges we face as a community and a country can best be solved through public education and FCPS can and will lead the way.

I wish all students, teachers, and parents a very successful school year and I look forward to seeing you in your schools!
Everyone Counts In Hunter Mill

By Supervisor
Catherine M. Hudgins
(D-Hunter Mill District)

Every good community stems from those who work hard to make the community the best version of itself. From the youngest to oldest volunteers, to police officers and public officials, the Hunter Mill District is full of citizens contributing to the community in order to make it the best place to live. As a member of the Fairfax County Board of Supervisors (BOS), my job is to ensure the wellbeing of the community through listening and informing constituents on what affects them in our community. In doing so, I strive to reflect the community voice in making policy, creating a diverse, prosperous place with affordable housing and equal opportunity for all. The goal of the Hunter Mill District office is to keep everyone in the know by providing events for the public to become involved within the community: First Wednesday sessions with the Supervisor at the Reston Regional Library or Vienna’s Patrick Henry Library, to the Frying Pan Park concert series “Hunter Mill Melodies” and children event.

The Hunter Mill District has something for everyone. It includes all unincorporated Reston, the northern portion of Tysons, the Town of Vienna and the communities of Herndon and Oak Hill, with top tier parks, trails, restaurants, retailers, businesses and employment opportunities. One can visit Frying Pan Park, a working farm since 1930, now home to farm animals, a carousel, nature center, and tractor rides. A Metro ride from Wiehle-Metro East Station is Tysons, a bustling new city with shopping and restaurant area with a movie theatre and a skating rink in the winter. If you're feeling up for exercise, drop in for an outdoor soccer game at recently opened Southgate Community Center court or take a stroll through Lake Fairfax Park.

The soon arrival of Phase II Metro brings transit service to all sides of Hunter Mill District. The District is most proud to be part of one of the best public education systems in the country, including higher education opportunities at Northern Virginia Community College and Marymount University. Spring, fall, winter or summer, there is always something to do in the Hunter Mill District.

Opportunities for citizen involvement are numerous, serving on Boards, Authorities and Commission to the BOS or task force studies, internship placements at the Hunter Mill District office to volunteering at events, or creating art displays. You can even find meeting space by reserving the North County Government Center community room for personal use at www.fairfaxcounty.gov/huntermill/communityroom.htm.

It is important to stay up to date on the news and events occurring in the Hunter Mill District. Whether upcoming events and news from the Supervisor, advisories, community updates or Snow Alerts, subscribe to the monthly Hunter Mill District Newsletter and get it all.

If you have any questions or want to enroll for the newsletter, contact huntermill@fairfaxcounty.gov or call 703-478-0283.
How To Vote
Every year is election year in Virginia; mechanics and details of voting require attention to detail.

Voting early if you qualify is a good choice.
There are 19 valid reasons to vote absentee in Virginia, including working and commuting to and from home for 11 or more hours between 6 a.m. and 7 p.m. on Election Day. Check the Virginia Department of Elections list to see if you are eligible: elections.virginia.gov/casting-ballot/absentee-ballot/applying/index.html
There are two ways to vote absentee: in-person and by mail. To do either, you should first check your voter registration status to make sure it is up-to-date. Then you will need to apply for an absentee ballot. Note: If you vote absentee in-person you will fill out the application when you arrive at the in-person absentee location (see locations below). Voting absentee by mail? Read below for the process of applying for your mail-in ballot.
You can now apply for an absentee ballot online with the state’s new Citizen Portal. You will need your Social Security Number and information on your Virginia Driver’s License to complete the application. Information is also provided on how to apply if you do not have a driver’s license.

Virginia Voter ID
Virginia has voter identification requirements, plan to bring photo identification with you to vote, whether that is absentee or on Election Day.
Among accepted ID: valid Virginia Driver’s License or Identification Card, valid Virginia DMV issued Veteran’s ID card; valid U.S. Passport; other government-issued photo identification cards issued by the U.S. Government, the Commonwealth of Virginia, or a political subdivision of the Commonwealth; valid college or university student photo identification card from an institution of higher education located in Virginia; valid student ID issued by a public school or private school in Virginia displaying a photo; employee identification card containing a photograph of the voter and issued by an employer of the voter in the ordinary course of the employer’s business.
Any registered voter who does not have one of the required forms of identification can apply for a free Virginia Voter Photo Identification from any general registrars office in the Commonwealth. Voters applying for the Virginia Voter Photo ID complete the Virginia Voter Photo Identification Card Application, have their picture taken, and sign the digital signature pad. Once the application is processed, the card will be mailed directly to the voter.
A voter who does not bring an acceptable photo ID to the polls will be offered a provisional ballot.

Provisional Ballot Process for Voters Who Arrive Without ID
If you arrive at your polling place on Election Day without an acceptable form of photo identification, don’t panic or give up. You will be given the opportunity to vote a provisional ballot. After completing the provisional ballot, the individual voting will be given written instructions from the election officials on how to submit a copy of his/her identification so that his/her vote can be counted.
A voter will have until noon on the Friday following the election to deliver a copy of the identification to the local electoral board or to appear in person to apply for a Virginia Voter Photo ID Card. Voters may submit a copy of their ID via fax, email, in-person submission, or through USPS or commercial delivery service. Please note that the copy of the ID must be delivered to the electoral board by noon on Friday, or the provisional ballot cannot be counted.
Also by noon on Friday following the election, the voter may appear in-person in the office of the general registrar, in the locality in which the provisional ballot was cast, and apply for a Virginia Voter Photo ID Card. At the completion of the application process, the voter may request a Temporary Identification Document. The Best Things About Living in Vienna

By Andrea Worker
The Connection

About 16,500 people call the 4.4 square miles of the Town of Vienna their home, according to the most recent U.S. census figures. Add in the Vienna zip codes outside the actual boundaries of the Town, and you have quite a few more folks who can say, “I live in Vienna.”

In 1754, the first house was built in Vienna by Col. Charles Broadwater. In 1767, Broadwater’s son-in-law built a home and named it Ayr Hill after his native Ayr County in Scotland, and Ayr Hill became the name of the area. The Hendricks family of Vienna, N.Y., moved into the area almost 100 years later and as they became influential landowners, eventually succeeded in changing the name Ayr Hill into Vienna.

Lots of things have changed in and about Vienna over those many years, but talking to its residents, there is one constant – many of the people who live there love that their hometown holds tight to its small-town roots and attitudes.

“What are the best things about living in Vienna?”

Brian Feeney, in education. Resident for 18 years.

“I enjoy the activities and things to do, community parties like ‘Chillin’ on Church Street,’ the quality of life here. It’s a convenient place to live, with access to the Metro and Dulles Airport.”

Gloria T. Runyon, Retired D.C. school principal. Board Member, Historic Vienna, Inc. Has lived in Vienna “all my life, except being born in the District because they had a hospital.” Runyon’s family has owned a home in Vienna, almost as long as there has been a settlement.

“My family goes back to the late 1700s and family members just keep buying the same house from each other. There is a real community feeling here. People are nice to each other, and they were even during times of segregation. There are so many things to do here, I love living so near the Community Center and being able to enjoy so many local activities. We keep our small-town ambience.”

Sean Finn, owner Finn’s Pool and Spa Service. Started in Vienna, took a 12-year Centreville residency, before returning for a total of 37 years in Vienna.

“I grew up in Vienna and thought it was a great place to grow up. I am still friends with kids that I played with on my street. I have a daughter now and hope she has as many fond memories of growing up in Vienna as I do.”

Laurie DiRocco, Mayor of Vienna, resident for 22 years.

“I could go on forever answering this question! But a few things best about living in Vienna is that we have a history that is still part of our current lives in the community today. I love the Town Green, the concerts, the many activities and ways we connect with and take care of each other.”

Nancy Moats, volunteer with Historic Vienna, Inc. Resident of Vienna for 34 years.

“I love all the history. We live in an historic home from the 1890s. The owner was a Town Clerk, had a sawmill, and became a Mason. I appreciate the history of people who had to do for themselves. Living within the town, it’s great to be able to walk to so many places and activities. It’s also great to be so close to D.C. and the things to see and do and experience there.”

Area Interstates Have Toll Options

Latest addition, 395 Express Lanes, are scheduled to be opened in 2019.

By Mike Salmon

The introduction of the “express lanes,” on area highways have made tolls commonplace for anyone driving in the Northern Virginia area. These lanes on I-95, I-495, and I-395 are outfitted with overhead sensors instead of booths, and everything is done with the E-Z Pass or the E-Z Pass Flex which has a feature for high occupancy vehicles (HOV) to avoid the tolls by carpooling. The variable toll amount is calculated by traffic levels at that time, and this price is reflected on the overhead digital signs.

On I-495, commonly known as the Capital Beltway, the 495 Express Lanes stretch 11 miles from Springfield in the south to a point just past the Dulles Toll Road in the McLean area. These are two lanes in each direction that are in operation 24-hours a day.

The 95 Express Lanes stretch 29 miles from Alexandria inside the beltway, south to Route 610 in Stafford County. These lanes are “reversible,” meaning they are heading northbound in the morning, and southbound in the afternoon and evenings during the week, and almost entirely southbound on the weekend.

The 395 Express Lanes are a continuation of these lanes inside the beltway, ending at the Potomac River. This project is just getting underway, and are scheduled to be opened in 2019. For now, the northern stretch of HOV lanes is still operating under the old rules, that requires a minimum of three passengers during rush hours, and open to anyone during non-rush hours.

In December this year, I-66 inside the beltway, from Arlington to Falls Church, will be a tolled facility but only on the eastbound lanes in the mornings and westbound lanes in the afternoons. It will be toll-free for vehicles with at least two passengers for now, but that HOV requirement will change to HOV-3 in a few years when the I-66 express lanes outside the beltway open in 2022. In addition, the Virginia Department of Transportation is adding an additional lane on the eastbound side only, from the Dulles Access Road to Fairfax Drive, a distance of four miles.

What is the best part about living in Vienna?

Deborah Kennedy, retired, runs Artspeaks, a Vienna resident and member of the Vienna Arts Society. “This is a precious town that we get to live in. I take pictures around here a lot, of the inside of a lot of the little shops. I never want to leave. The town has really focused on being a town with the Vienna Arts Society, Chilling on Church, and the Viva! Vienna! events. These are the types of things that a small town would do. We have a place where we belong!”

Susan Scanlon, a Vienna resident for three years, lived abroad in La Paz, Bolivia for three years with her husband who is in the Foreign Service. “Vienna’s got a charming old town. I love coming down Church Street. There’s the small town feel where it’s still a big city with a close-knit community. When you lived abroad it’s nice to come back to a close-knit community. I still keep in touch with people overseas through Facebook.”

Chris Marren, a Vienna resident for three years, and his daughter Ainsley, 8, were learning how to ride bikes on Friday afternoon. “I love the small town feel close to the big city. We used to live in Charlotte and then Atlanta in a subdivision but there everything was downtown. I like how close we are to Tysons Corner. This is our first year living close into the city limits and we are walking distance to downtown Vienna. My oldest daughter is 8 years old, so we are just getting into all the camps and the small community feel!”

Kayniee A’hearn and her children Gabriel, 5, and Elaine, 7, have lived in Vienna for one year. “We moved here from California for work. Vienna has a small town feel, it’s very walkable, with a great sense of history and community. I enjoy the proximity to Washington, D.C. This is really a prime location with access to freeways. It’s a good spot and there’s lots of fun things for the kids to do.”

- SHARE of McLean operates a food pantry; provides assistance to families to avoid eviction, keep rental payments current, and how to avoid them. An expert is someone that normalcy. When that happens, I usually know some of the worst misadventures and how to avoid them. Being diagnosed with a heretofore "terminal" disease presents one with innumerable options and choices, perhaps more and trek "where no man has gone before." For us cancer survivors/patients, the changes/choices I've made might be considered a task often complicated by the most difficult and demanding of circumstances. However, as grim as those words sound and looking for answers/guarantees, there aren't any other than: you abuse the privilege of post-cancer diagnosis survival, the ends will likely justify the means; meaning, you are responsible for your own actions and "inactions." The prognosis one is given at diagnosis is a reasonably thought out prediction. However, as one lives with cancer and seem at that moment, that prediction is not cast in stone. I'm living proof of that. The words you hear are based on the past. Your ensuing treatment is more about the present and future and you decide to do living forward. Being open and unassuming, and by "unassuming" I mean: not taking anything for granted, perceived facts in evidence, considering that which has happened to somebody else -- either good or bad, could happen to you and asking as many questions in as many ways as necessary to get the answers you need, will help you co-exist with this terrible burden. Being diagnosed with a heretofore "terminal" disease presents one with innumerable challenges but not the slim pickings' (choices not the few and far between) questions, where we hope to 'trek' is beyond the prognosis given to our oncologist.

- Two, Hopefully for Won

By Kenneth H. Lourie

Being diagnosed with cancer; then having cancer/living with cancer, is like having a second job. A job that unlike many, requires and/or imposes a round the clock 24/7 adherence to protocol, policy, procedure, pre- sumptions and principle. To live not like you’d desire, but more so like you’re supposed to. I’m sick of this country music song that twangs an alternative vision. Believing in what routines you’re following and any lifestyle changes you know I didn’t say enables) a cancer survivor to thrive under the most difficult and demanding of circumstances.

Unfortunately for those reading this column looking for answers/guarantees, there aren’t any other than: you abuse the privilege of post-cancer diagnosis survival, the ends will likely justify the means; meaning, you are responsible for your own actions and "inactions." The prognosis one is given at diagnosis is a reasonably thought out prediction. However, as one lives with cancer and seem at that moment, that prediction is not cast in stone. I’m living proof of that. The words you hear are based on the past. Your ensuing treatment is more about the present and future and you decide to do living forward. Being open and unassuming, and by "unassuming" I mean: not taking anything for granted, perceived facts in evidence, considering that which has happened to somebody else -- either good or bad, could happen to you and asking as many questions in as many ways as necessary to get the answers you need, will help you co-exist with this terrible burden. Being diagnosed with a heretofore "terminal" disease presents one with innumerable challenges but not the slim pickings' (choices not the few and far between) questions, where we hope to 'trek' is beyond the prognosis given to our oncologist.

I can boast of such an accomplishment, but I’d rather write it quietly and consistently as evidenced by this column. Neither is "integratable" into my lifestyle. Many others don’t. But given that my life is at stake, how can a suggestion's incompatibility with my personality matter? We’re talking life versus pre- mature death here; not sit-down Italian versus take-out Chinese. And though food certainly matters, it is no excuse to no companions to live versus dying. Still, I don’t always say "yes." This is the yin and yang of my life and probably the lives of many other survivors of serious/terminal-type diseases. I want to feel like I’m winning. But I’m deathly afraid of losing. Moreover, I want to live my life as normally as possible, but not if it has adverse consequence. And how would I know anyway? Symptoms can be misleading and scars are quarterly. And though I remain positive about my very precarious state, I usually find the reality of those circumstances interfere with that normalcy. When that happens, I usually put pen to paper and try to write myself out of it.
Learning, Sweating, and Reaping What You Sow

By Mike Salmon
The Connection

It looked easy when I leaned over the fence of a local community garden last year, mentally planning my own garden with several types of tomatoes, corn, beans and a couple of cucumber vines. Overwhelming the fence, weighted down with "cukes," that would soon be in my salad. The unseen battle with weeds, bugs, a family of groundhogs and other furry creatures that munch plants down to the nub are part of the deal too, but didn't dampen the spirit of my community garden. My first year this year will be a learning experience for next year's garden, and years after that.

The Fairfax County community gardens are available through the park service for $125 a year. On the county website, I read the long list of rules for this project, and then found a plot that is relatively close to my house and got on the waiting list for one to be available. I was finally matched up with a 20x30 foot plot in the Grist Mill Park near Mount Vernon that would soon be my home away from home for the duration of the summer. In January, the plot was nothing but weeds and grass that was about 3 feet tall. After hours of hacking away, I discovered that there were six beds underneath that would be perfect for my plan. I read books, watched videos on YouTube, talked with other gardeners and came up with a loose plan that wouldn't cost me too much.

March came around, and I researched the planting process that began with soaking seeds in wet paper towels, putting them in a pitch black closet for a few weeks, then to empty egg cartons and biodegradable pots, and then to the garden. May 1 is the preferred date for the freeze line, and off I went with my shovel and seedlings. Disappointment set in later in May when I discovered my corn stalks nibbled off to the dirt, and the same with my zucchini, sunflowers and 20 tomatoes that were still green. Chatter around the garden pointed the blame at the family of groundhogs that lived in the barn. So out came the chicken wire and soon every plant left had a cage over it.

During the summer, I watched the weather, the holes in the fence, and the birds that were tough to defend against. The strawberries were the first to get picked for us to eat, followed by a few blueberries, and then tomatoes. The peppers, which I had grown from seed, along with the cucumbers, didn't come until later in August, but were good to eat as well. The two beds that went without plants became a mass of weeds in a matter of weeks, and it was soon discovered that a layer of newspaper with mulch on top was a good way to fight the weeds, although some in the garden did use weed killer, a practice frowned on by the die hard gardeners.

This fall, when the tomatoes are dried and shriveled, and the weeds have died down, next year's plan will come together and the work will start all over again. I can hardly wait.

To get your own garden, go to the Fairfax County website (www.fairfaxcounty.gov/parks/greenspring/plot.htm), find a location near your residence and get on the waiting list. Similar to the whole gardening experience, this takes patience as well, and then a certain level of commitment when taking over a plot.
