Bald Eagles Rediscover Potomac

Bald eagles are a sign of ecosystem improvement.

By Christina Tyler Wenks

A pair of bald eagles is raising three eaglets on Minnehaha Island in the Potomac River. This is the third bald eagle nest in the Great Falls area this year and the second known to contain hatchlings. The proximity of the nests tells naturalists at Riverbend Park that the area’s ecosystem is improving.

Last week, the Potomac Conservancy issued a report that said the Potomac River’s health is better than recent decades. The river’s report card gave the Potomac a B — up from a D in 2011.

“We hope these additional nests are indicators of increasing biodiversity of species and that means the ecosystem is healthier — birds, amphibians, and mammals — but this takes many years,” said Julie Gurnee, Riverbend Park naturalist.

WILDLIFE SPECIALISTS and national park rangers say bald eagles actively nested on Conn Island near Great Falls National Park for the past 20 years. A pair of eagles are nesting on Minnehaha Island for a second year. A young eagle that fledged last year is often spotted fishing in the Potomac River by the Riverbend Visitor’s Center.

Wildlife enthusiasts are watching a third bald-eagle nest on Watkins Island near Riverbend Park. “What’s surprising is their proximity to each other,” said Gurnee. “This is much closer than we expected to see another eagle nest.”

Pollution and lead, such as buckshot and fishing weights, threaten eagles scavenging during winter months, said Alonso Abugattas of the Capital Naturalist website and educator at Northern Virginia parks.

Boosting biodiversity takes years. Long-term river and wildlife health depends on residents taking steps such as installing native plants and increasing natural stream buffers with deep roots to absorb herbicides, fertilizers, and road runoff, and reducing waste and lowering emissions and reliance on cars, said Gurnee and Abugattas.

“Virginia bluebell” blooms are expected to peak the week of the Riverbend Park’s Bluebell Festival, which is Saturday, April 14, from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. During the festival, a scope will be set up along Potomac Heritage Trail so visitors may observe eagle-nest activity. Festival admission is $7 online and $9 on site.

Canines Trained for Rope Operations

Units from Fire and Rescue Station 14, Burke, A-Shift recently assisted K9 handlers from Virginia Task Force - 1 and the Prince William Police Department on a drill regarding rope operations. It is important to expose the canines to heights so that during actual deployments the K9 team is familiar with how to work during this type of operation. All the canines end the training with a fun “find” on the rubble pile.

MARIA FODERARO-GUERTIN
I’m excited to run as a candidate for the board of the McLean Community Center. My husband and I have lived in McLean for 1-1/2 years. We’re grateful to be raising our twin sons in such a wonderful community. I have been a foreign language and history teacher for 20 years. I have broad experience working with companies and nonprofits facing budget challenges. I’ve put my passion to work with many organizations advancing core values. My parents instilled in me: volunteerism and hard work. With your vote, I will continue that work with our board to expand offerings for our vibrant community.

CAROLE HERRICK
McLean Community Center opened in 1756; thus, it has served residents of Small District 1A for 43 years. It is the community’s jewel. Among its many features, the center provides community information, classes, lectures, meeting space, a library, the Susan B. DuVal Art Studio, the MPA gallery, the Alden Theatre and a teen center. Years ago, I served three terms on the Governing Board, followed by Friends of MCC. Soon a more modern center will open. I hope to be a member of the vision of those who created the original center and those providing a vision for its future.

As a member of the McLean Community Center Board, I will help the mission of the Center by promoting a sense of community through its programs and renovated facilities while respecting the tax dollars of the residents of Small District 1A. I am an 18-year resident of McLean with three children in our public schools. As a long-time volunteer, I have served on boards and committees of McLean Community Coalition and McLean Youth/McLean High School. My experience will work for the residents of Greater McLean. I am running for a seat on the McLean Community Center board because I care deeply about the community. My family has been residents of McLean since 2003 and my wife and daughters grew up in McLean. We are supporters of the McLean Project for the Arts, I have served for the last five years on the board of the Greater McLean Chamber of Commerce, and since my children were younger, I was a coach for McLean Youth Soccer and McLean Basketball. The charm of McLean is what I treasure most, and I want to help preserve this.

A lifelong resident and sophomore at Langley, I’ve been attending MCC programs since I was born—tagging along with my siblings to Music Together classes. Redeemer Lutheran Church and my family taught me the importance of giving back and sports taught me the value of working together as a team. I work at McLean Hardware, play Langley Field Hockey, JV Soccer Captain, and elected Class of 2020 SGA representative. I am also interested in being part of the discussion about how to increase youth programming at the Old Firehouse and the newly renovated MCC. Thank you for your vote.

I believe that student governments have a special role and should always try to assess issues and decisions from the point of view of other students. Being student government is about making sure that all perspectives are considered. I want to become a youth governor to learn more about how the community is run and to support people in this. I have gained many experiences ranging from leading and participating in various committees to holding leadership roles. In all, I want to have a better understanding of the main concerns and policies that affect the children in our community.

Silent Auction to Benefit Great Falls Schools

Celebrate Great Falls Foundation taking donations; auction to run May 1—14.

By Adrienne West
The Connection

The Celebrate Great Falls Foundation (CGFF) annual golf tournament includes a silent auction that has grown from just a handful of items generating a couple of thousand dollars to a major event that netted over $12,000 last year. This double-header fundraiser gives sizable checks to each of the three local elementary schools and is only made possible by the hard work of volunteers.

Missy Perkins has volunteered in some capacity every year since moving here in 2014. She chose the golf tournament because she had prior experience running a charity and wanted to get involved in the community to meet new people.

“I attended the first committee meeting and volunteered to run the silent auction. At the time, only players at the tournament could bid on the silent auction items. Because the proceeds from the tournament benefit the three local elementary schools, I felt we were missing a huge audience of potential bidders,” Perkins said.

She also said there were missed opportunities of donations by the schools, such as “Principal for the Day” or VIP seats at sixth grade graduation, which were hugely popular at her last school. Perkins then took the auction online, giving everyone the ability to bid on the school experiences and other donations. “I don’t quite remember the actual figures, but I believe that we increased the profit from the silent auction by almost double and we definitely captured the community to meet new people.

“HER FAVORITE PART is helping with registration on the day of the event. “It is so nice to meet and greet parents, sponsors, local business owners and Great Falls residents. I also love seeing the creative auction items/experiences that the teachers come up with.”

DONATIONS are now being accepted for the Silent Auction to be held May 1–14, 2018. CGFF gladly accepts gift cards and personal services such as babysitting hours, pet sitting hours, sports lessons, counseling services, etc.

Legislators: County Has Authority To Ban Loaded Rifles on Road

The following letter to all members of the Fairfax County Board of Supervisors from members of the General Assembly representing Fairfax County, do not believe that there is a need for loaded shotguns or loaded rifles on Fairfax County’s public roads. High emotions that come with traffic congestion in our region have led to instances where firearms have been discharged in incidents of road rage. Requiring that shotguns and rifles are not loaded at the beginning of a trip will help to reduce the potential for such split-second, life-changing decisions to occur in a moment of anger. Such an ordinance will also help to protect the driver and passengers, including children, as well as law enforcement from the accidental discharge of one of these weapons. For example, in 2006, Virginia State Trooper Kevin C. Manion was killed after a loaded rifle went off during a wreck cleanup in Clarke County.

We recognize that the Fairfax County Board of Supervisors considered this issue in 2015. However, given recent events, we believe that it is important at this time for all our localities to use their existing authority to foster gun safety and protect the driving public.

We hereby ask that you initiate the processes necessary to change Fairfax County’s ordinances to prohibit the transportation of loaded shotguns and loaded rifles to the fullest extent possible under Virginia Law. We look forward to working with you on this important initiative.

March for Your Cause

By Kenneth R. “Ken” Plum
State Delegate (D-36)

Our Founding Fathers were brilliant individuals. Not only did they craft a new form of government with the United States Constitution, but they established a government of “we the people” leaving behind monarchies and special privileges. While it created a “more perfect union,” it included within its structure mechanisms upon which the union could be further perfected.

While it did take a civil war to bring about the most needed reforms that had been debated at the Constitutional Convention and not settled but compromised away, many other reforms and perfection moves have taken place through constitutional amendments, laws and judicial decisions.

With the massive changes that have taken place in our nation’s history, particularly in civil rights, it is amazing that there have been so few changes to our basic structure of government. Building on the ideals of Thomas Jefferson in the Declaration of Independence that all persons have inalienable rights of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, the Constitution and its provisions created a way to realize those goals that ensures America’s greatness is not in its past but in its future.

Most often mentioned in the guarantees that propel our country into future greatness are the freedoms of speech, press and religion. Less discussed is the driver education and training born as a critical impor-

Enjoy School Libraries

April is School Library Month and a great time to consider all the amazing things a school library achieves for students and the school community. The American Association of School Librarians has dubbed this year’s theme “Making Connections,” which is a very appropriate theme. All of our local school offers to be a guest reader or to share how reading or librarians influenced your life and career.

It may seem like a long time until September when the 36th year of the Northern Virginia Senior Olympics (NVSO) kicks off. But not for 83-year-old Chuck Toftoy from Arlington, who often enters 20 events, and says he practices all year long.

Opening ceremonies for this year’s events are scheduled for Sept. 15 at 9 a.m. at Thomas Jefferson Community Center in Arlington, and the competition is scheduled to end on Sept. 26. The NVSO began in 1982 with about 80 people competing; last year there were 752 competitors signed up for one or more of the events.

New this year: canasta, croquet and beach ball wallyball.
Preparing for Senior Olympics

70 events offered. The events ranged from tennis, baseball throw, bocce, orienteering, swimming and diving, golf, corn hole toss, volleyball, and pickleball.

Three new sports have been added to the competition this year including canasta, croquet and beach ball wallyball. Herb Levitan, a member of the NVSO Board, explains beach ball wallyball is like volleyball but played on a racquetball court with a beachball which is bigger and softer than a volleyball. Levitan is currently preparing for the Virginia senior games coming up soon where he swims four freestyle events.

Alease Brooks, 85, has been competing for 14 years and participated in 13 different sports in 2017. But her favorite is pickleball. Her children have bought her T-shirts in different colors for her games and often come to watch her and cheer her on.

Toftoy says this year he plans to reduce the number of sports he enters so that he can concentrate on pickleball since he plans to enter singles, doubles and mixed competition this year.

Last year, 93-year old Henry Colette from Oakton was one of 19 bocce competitors. But for the last several years he has been guaranteed a win because there was no one else in his age group competing.

Last year’s oldest competitor was 101 years old with her sport of choice was duplicate bridge.

Seniors participate for many reasons — some because they like to stay busy and fit, others because they are returning to a high school or college sport, some because they like the community of friends they see every year and others because they still “like to dream big.”

This year’s games are expected to be held in 29 venues including community centers, parks, high schools and other locations across Northern Virginia. Registration for this year’s NVSO will open June 1. This year NVSO is hoping to bring back the 5k run and looking for an event director for that event. Those interested in volunteering can call 703-403-5360.

Fred and Liz Saalfeld had occupied their four-bedroom 2,800-square-foot Colonial in Springfield for nearly five decades when the unexpected caused them to reconsider basic housing needs. Without warning, Liz Saalfeld suffered a heart attack. Her mobility — previously hampered by arthritis — now became seriously compromised.

Looking ahead, a wheelchair-access plan also now seemed prudent to Fred Saalfeld, who increasingly relied on a pair of canes to get around.

The proposed retrofit was a tall order, however. The master bedroom was on the second floor; the laundry room was in the basement. There was an open carport, but no extra storage space. The master bathroom was just too narrow for a wheelchair — assuming there was a way to mount the stairs.

Equally relevant, the home’s surrounding landscaping was undeveloped, with a steep hill in the backyard. There were places to sit, but no quiet places to stretch out and relax.

Acting decisively, Saalfeld sought fresh ideas from local remodelers — eventually deciding on Michael Nash Kitchens and Homes who had previously remodeled his kitchen.

“Michael Nash was very responsive to our needs, and really understood Aging-In-Place considerations,” Saalfeld said.

Part of that responsiveness arose from Sonny Nazemian, Michael Nash’s founder and president, and a Universal Design Certified Remodeler (UDCR), who commenced drafting design ideas with the Saalfelds on the first meeting.

“Aging-in-place (AIP) is becoming one of the high-demand remodeling services segments,” Nazemian said. “But it’s a specialty area — and requires staying on top of ever-evolving ADA (American with Disabilities Act) regulations, and strict building codes.”

From the first, Nazemian pictured an addition extending from the rear elevation. The Saalfelds would gain expanded sleeping quarters and each spouse would have their own walk-in closet. A wheelchair-friendly bathroom would feature an in-shower bench, grab bars and hand-held body spray nozzles — all of which Fred Saalfeld uses in his daily bathing routine.

The shower is equipped with grab bars, a bench and hand-held nozzles — all of which Fred Saalfeld uses in his daily bathing routine.

With a pair of walk-in wardrobe closets on the left, and access to a first level laundry and master bedroom on the right, the access corridor from the main house is spacious.

The French doors open into the dining room. Michael Nash matched the original hardwood flooring to create a seamless unity between the old house and the new addition.

The louvered door on the right is for the family’s Irish setter, who exercises in the side yard. All doors are at least 32 inches wide and have a 90 degree clearing width.

Langley High Principal to Retire

Fred Amico, Langley High School principal, has sent the following letter to the Saxon Community:

“After 31 years of working as an educator in Fairfax County Public Schools, I have decided to retire at the end of this school year. Serving as principal of Langley High School has been an opportunity that I cherish. Langley High School is an outstanding high school due to the professional, dedicated, and innovative teaching staff, supportive and involved parents, and smart, creative, and inspirational students. I know that I have benefited more from my time at Langley than it has benefited from me.

“Any school is just a building. Luckily, the Langley community is now getting a building they truly deserve, but it is still a building. The strength of Langley is everyone who walks the halls. Our custodians, who work tirelessly and with pride to keep the building clean and a place that is enjoyable. Our building engineer, who works behind the scenes to ensure that the building is comfortable and safe for all of us. Our security staff, who are always vigilant and watchful. The support and clerical staff, who keep things running smoothly. Our counselors, who always keep the needs of the students in the forefront of their planning. The administrators, who consistently try to do what is best for students. The teachers who work, plan, and do whatever it takes to inspire our students. Lastly, the students who are a source of joy for me every day. They consistently surprise me with their candor, humor, and intelligence. I will take countless good memories of those students with me.

“Our Regional Assistant Superintendent, Mr. Tyson, will begin the process of selecting a new principal immediately. In the next few weeks, he will inform you of the process for selecting a new principal. I am confident the next principal will love the school and students as much as I do.

“Thank you for the pleasure of working with your children. I wouldn’t have traded a day of my last 31 years for any other profession!”

‘Collect for Kids’ Seeks Help

Donations and help from organizations to outfit 40,000 students.

By Mercia Hobson
The Connection

The Foundation for Fairfax County Public Schools announced their community partners are preparing for the 2018 “Collect for Kids” school supplies and backpack drive for students in Fairfax County Public Schools. In 2017, the drive helped more than 39,000 of the 55,000 students who receive free or reduced-price meals in Fairfax County Schools. The goal for 2018 is to provide 40,000 of these children and youth with school supplies and backpacks.

“Collect for Kids” is seeking monetary contributions and help from organizations. Their online donation form states: “100 percent of your donation will be allocated for school supplies for FCPS students in need.” Even though a robust and connected group of partners make “Collect for Kids” work, the organization is also seeking help from new organizations to support their effort. Currently, more than 20 businesses, government agencies and community organization work together on the campaign, among them Apple Federal Credit Union, Britepaths, Western Fairfax Christian Ministries, Cornerstones, and Kids R First.

According to “Collect for Kids,” “Every school in Fairfax County is touched by need. Some schools have as few as 1 percent of students living in poverty and some schools have over 90 percent of students living in poverty.”

In the Oak Hill/Herndon area, supporting partners of “Collect for Kids” serve students at Coates, Dranesville, Herndon, Floris and Hutchison Elementary Schools, Herndon and Rachel Carson Middle Schools, and Herndon High School.

For more information on how to donate or help with the effort visit collectforkids.org.
Art Inspired by Money on Exhibit at Katie’s Coffee House

Layla Gray’s oil paintings inspired by money are on view during the month of April at Katie’s Coffee House (The Old Brogue Irish Pub), 760 Walker Rd, Great Falls. “During my high school and college years, I studied the Old Masters, mainly Europeans prior to 1800s, and I studied a great deal of impressionist techniques. My art is also influenced by French culture, having lived most of my childhood in and around it. Architecture, both historical and modern, as well as Parisian scenes have always intrigued me,” says the artist, one of the five founding members of Artists on the Green. Fundraiser Held for SafeSpot

By Deborah Nagy-Huang

On the first day of Spring, Great Falls Friends and Neighbors (GFFN) women’s club held a fundraiser to support SafeSpot Children’s Advocacy Center of Fairfax County. SafeSpot provides a child-friendly, culturally sensitive environment that promotes the safety and well-being of child victims of abuse while facilitating a comprehensive, multi-disciplinary team approach to the intervention, investigation, prosecution and treatment of sexual abuse and severe physical abuse.

The fundraiser was held in Great Falls at local favorite Our Mom Eugenia restaurant (1025 Seneca Road, Great Falls). The menu featured classic Greek fare which warmed the heart on the cold snowy day. In spite of the snowy Spring weather, the event was well attended. The ladies of GFFN are grateful for many caring individuals who braved the elements and came out to support such a worthy cause.

Northern Virginia Students Work Together to Save Environment

On Tuesday, April 10, NoVA Outside will hold the seventh annual School Environmental Action Showcase. The event occurs at the George Mason University’s Fairfax campus.

This event features the environmental conservation work of students across Northern Virginia. The students not only get to feature projects they have done but see what other students of the area have been working on. Last year the event brought out roughly 1,000 attendees and is expected to exceed that this year.

The Showcase features programs such as the Caring for Our Watersheds competition, hosted by the non-profit Earth Force, which provides more than $20,000 in prizes and project implementation funding. Virginia Tech’s Thinkabilt Lab gives the students an opportunity to interactively explore solutions to environmental issues using programmable sensors and electronic devices. This year the Showcase also features the return of the recycled mascot competition, in which students construct their school mascots from recycled and recyclable materials.

“To have all these young people sharing their environmental research and solutions, you see the value they bring to Northern Virginia through their efforts, and also the power they have to drive positive change in their community. And they inspire each other to innovate, to advocate, and to strengthen their environmental stewardship throughout their school careers,” said Kurt Moser, co-chair of the event.

NoVA Outside is a non-profit alliance of environmental educators, teachers, and others who work to support environmental educators and increase their effectiveness. They offer resources such as networking opportunities and professional development workshops. They also host events supporting environmental education and involvement such as the School Environmental Action Showcase, Early Childhood Conference, and School Age Green Educators meetups. For more information, visit www.novaoutside.org.
