The corresponding Annual Percentage Yield (APY) for this offer is 2.10%. The Special Rate will be applied to the enrolled savings account for a period of 12 months, starting on the date the account is enrolled in the offer. However, for any day during that 12 month period that the daily account balance is less than the $25,000 minimum, the Special Rate will not apply, and the interest rate will revert to the standard interest rate applicable to your Platinum Savings account. Interest rates are variable and subject to change without notice. Wells Fargo may limit the amount you deposit to a Platinum Savings account to an aggregate of $1 million. Offer not available to Private Banking or Wealth customers. 2. Annual Percentage Yield (APY) is effective for accounts opened between 03/25/2019 to 05/31/2019. The 11-month New Dollar CD special requires a minimum of $25,000 brought to Wells Fargo from sources outside of Wells Fargo Bank N.A., or its affiliates to earn the advertised APY. Public Funds and Wholesale accounts are not eligible for this offer. APY assumes interest remains on deposit until maturity. Interest is compounded daily. Payment of interest on CDs is based on term: For terms less than 12 months (365 days), interest may be paid monthly, quarterly, semi-annually, or at maturity (the end of the term). For terms of 12 months or more, interest may be paid monthly, quarterly, semi-annually, or annually. A fee for early withdrawal will be imposed and could reduce earnings on this account. Special Rates are applicable to the initial term of the CD only. At maturity, the Special Rate CD will automatically renew for a term of 6 months, at the interest rate and APY in effect for CDs on renewal date not subject to a Special Rate, unless the Bank has notified you otherwise. 1.2. Due to the new money requirement, accounts may only be opened at your local branch. Wells Fargo reserves the right to modify or discontinue the offer at any time without notice. Minimum new money deposit requirement of at least $25,000 is for this offer only and cannot be transferred to another account to qualify for any other consumer deposit offer. Offer cannot be combined with any other consumer deposit offer, except the Portfolio by Wells Fargo $500 offer, available from March 25, 2019 until May 31, 2019. Offer cannot be reproduced, purchased, sold, transferred, or traded. 3. The Portfolio by Wells Fargo program has a $30 monthly service fee, which can be avoided when you have one of the following qualifying balances: $25,000 or more in qualifying linked bank deposit accounts (checking, savings, CDs, FDIC-insured IRAs) or $50,000 or more in any combination of qualifying linked banking, brokerage (available through Wells Fargo Advisors, LLC) and credit balances (including 10% of mortgage balances, certain mortgages not eligible). If the Portfolio by Wells Fargo relationship is terminated, the bonus interest rate on all eligible savings accounts, and discounts or fee waivers on other products and services, will discontinue and revert to the Bank’s then-current applicable rate or fee. For bonus interest rates on time accounts, this change will occur upon renewal. If the Portfolio by Wells Fargo relationship is terminated, the remaining unlinked Wells Fargo Portfolio Checking or Wells Fargo Prime Checking account will be converted to another checking product or closed.

Burke Lake Train: Tough and Nostalgic

The train is a big draw in the summer.

BY MIKE SALMON
THE CONNECTION

The C.P. Huntington rolled out of storage on Saturday, April 6, thrilling riders with the whistle, the bell and nostalgia as the replica train chugged along on the rails at Burke Lake Park. The train is 1/3 scale of a full-size train, and a mainstay for park patrons.

Park manager Keith O'Connor has witnessed several generations of families at Burke Lake Park riding the train, and the word has spread around because not every park has a train. "People know about our train," he said.

THE TRAIN runs on the weekends only until Memorial Day, and then it's every day until after Labor Day when it goes back to weekends only. In the late fall, it's parked back in the tunnel. The current C.P. Huntington is number 343, which is the second train owned by the park. Train number 62 was the original, and it's still at the park, but is only used for a promotional set up.

Fairfax Station resident Bill Koch was a driver for years until he died recently. "He loved this train," O'Connor said. His son Ron Pearson still works there and his duties include maintenance to the train and tracks when needed. His father's train experience started with the prison train when Lorton Reformatory was still operating, and he brought that knowledge and love of trains to Burke Lake, and his love of trains spread to his son Ron who started working at Burke Lake while attending Robinson High School. "The Park Authority is a big part of my life and I have enjoyed every position I have had and all the great people I have worked with through the years," Ron Pearson said. "All of which would have not happened if my dad had not gotten me a job at the train when I was in high school."

EACH SEASON, the park employs four different drivers, and the park encourages they take on the role of the conductor, but there is no uniform supplied, although most have gotten hats and a pair of overalls to use. "It's up to them," O'Connor said. The tracks, switches and signals are real and require real attention, just like on the full-sized railroads out there. "This is all real train stuff," O'Connor said, pointing to a switch near the tunnel. "Kids love the tunnel," he said.

Although a train ride with the wedding party or a sports team would make great pictures, the park does not rent it out during regular park hours for that. If a group would like that kind of thing, it has to be off hours and arranged through the park office. "We try and make accommodations for special groups," he said. There is a special car for wheelchairs and they can hook it up to the train quickly. The income from the train is a big part of the park's budget.

C.P. Huntington

The C.P. Huntington was named after Collis Potter Huntington, a railroad pioneer that was big in the early railroads, especially out west. The C. P Huntington train is a 4-2-4T steam locomotive on static display at the California State Railroad Museum in Sacramento, Calif. The replica train was the first product of Chase Manufacturing in 1961, that now builds carnival rides and roller coasters too at their 310,000 sq. ft. factory in Wichita, Kan.

"It's a replica of 1800s western train," said Larry Breitenstein, the National Sales Director at Chance Rides, Inc., and they're operated all over the country, including the St. Louis Zoo which has four trains. They are sturdy and don't wear out easily, said Breitenstein. "We have trains operating out there from the '60s and '70s," he said. One was used in a Claritin allergy medicine commercial at the Santa Barbara Zoo, and Michael Jackson had one running in Neverland Ranch, also in California.

Around Burke Lake, if it's during the warmer months, the train must go on, said O'Connor, "they're tough." If it's down, "people get upset," he said, and mechanics are called in all hours of the night to fix it. "The train has to go," he said. O'Connor once took all the wooden benches to his father's house and refinished them.

‘Super Seniors’ Enjoy Softball, Camaraderie

‘Super seniors’ head out to softball fields across the county for a dose of the best anti-aging remedy around.

BY KAREN NAPPI

Have you ever dreamt of finding a magic potion to slow down the aging process? Well, there are more than 80 seniors who are 80+ years old in Fairfax County that seem to have done just that. But for them, the potion doesn’t come in a bottle. Instead, it comes from a diamond — a softball diamond.

TWICE A WEEK from April to November, many of these “super seniors” head out to softball fields across the county for a dose of the best anti-aging remedy around. The 81 men and women are members of the Northern Virginia Senior Softball (NVSS) league, a 500-member, all-volunteer organization that has been around since 1980 and whose goal is to promote good health, sportsmanship, fellowship and fun. NVSS players range in age from 40 (women) or 50 (men) to 94, but it’s the super seniors who seem to really benefit.

Tony Giannini, 82, lives in Ashburn and started playing NVSS softball 23 years ago. Today, he’s still going strong. He and Springfield resident Larry Scarlata, who’s 80, play in the league’s toughest division, alongside several teammates who are young enough to be their kids. Both Tony, an outfielder-turned-pitcher, and Larry, a third baseman, credit softball for keeping them healthy and strong. Larry says softball plus a stretching program have helped him avoid surgery for a back problem that began nearly 40 years ago. Keeping active is the key, they both say, and the research backs them up. According to the Centers for Disease Control, regular physical activity can reduce a host of risks: falling and fractures, coronary heart disease, colon cancer, diabetes, anxiety and depression, and joint swelling and pain associated with arthritis. Studies also suggest a lower risk of dementia in physically active individuals.

Harvey Wenick, 82, waits in the dugout for his turn at bat.

Because softball involves throwing, catching, bending and running, it’s really a whole-body workout, covering the four key types of exercise recommended by health professionals: balance, flexibility, strength and endurance.

Since not every senior is in the same shape, NVSS divides players into three leagues based on an initial assessment. That way, players are grouped with others of similar ability, regardless of age. “We all have issues — none of us can run as fast or throw as hard as we used to,” says Jesse Christian, an 85-year-old outfielder from Arlington. “But we love being active — that’s the main thing.”

That sentiment is echoed by George and Beth Hersey, 81 and 83 respectively. The couple, who live in Great Falls, rarely miss a game. “Playing softball keeps you young,” says George.

Beth Hersey, who has managed an NVSS team for the last 20 years, said, “I don’t think we have had anything more serious than a strain or sprain in all the years we’ve been playing. We know that every Tuesday and Thursday morning, Spring ‘til Fall, we’ll be outside with friends, playing and having a great time.” The Herseys don’t stop playing when the season ends; they conduct indoor softball training sessions for other NVSS members at the Dulles SportsPlex from December through March.

NVSS also offers several indoor training sessions at the Fairfax SportsPlex in Springfield during the off-season. One of those weekly sessions is run by 86-year-old Dave Scheele, a long-time shortstop who joined the league at age 53. “I started playing softball as a way to relieve stress,” he says. “My wife was battling breast cancer at the time and softball gave me something else to focus on for a few hours a week.” Scheele, who lives in Springfield, has made many, many friends through the sport and says NVSS has been “a wonderful part of my retirement. I can’t imagine how I would’ve handled it without softball.”

Scheele and the others know firsthand that participation in a team sport like soft

Empowering Victims of Sexual Assault

Sexual assault awareness and prevention in Fairfax County.

BY SUPERVISOR JOHN C. COOK
BRADDOCK DISTRICT

April is sexual assault awareness month. This awareness month is especially relevant with the recent high-profile cases of sexual assault. These stories have taught us that anyone can be a victim of sexual assault. The crime does not discriminate against race, education, status, age or gender. This has started an important conversation among all of us about sexual assault and listening to victims. Fairfax County seeks to empower victims of sexual assault, prevent sexual assault through education, and provide comprehensive services to survivors.

Statistics vary, but many studies show as many as 1 in 4 women and 1 in 6 men will experience sexual violence in their lifetime. Sadly, only one third of these crimes are reported to law enforcement according to the Bureau of Justice Statistics. While Fairfax County is the safest jurisdiction of its size in the country, sexual violence is still an issue we face. The Fairfax County Police Department received 289 reports of sexual assault in 2017. Aside from prevention, Fairfax County is dedicated to encouraging victims to report the crimes committed against them so justice can be served.

The Department of Family Services' Domestic and Sexual Violence Services (DSVS) 24/7 Hotline (703-360-7273) is one of the resources that provides a safe place for victims of sexual assault. The confidential hotline connects victims or concerned bystanders with trained volunteers. The callers can speak openly to the volunteers who can give them crisis support and point them to the next best step. DSVS also provides counseling services, hospital accompaniment, advocacy services, housing and financial assistance. The hotline is separate from the police department, but they may encourage the victims to contact the police department and guide them through the process of reporting the crime.

The Fairfax County Police Department is highly trained to carefully interview victims and investigate the crime as thoroughly as possible to help them get justice. In fact, the department is co-hosting the second annual Northern Virginia Sex Crimes Investigators Conference this year to offer additional specialized training in sexual assault cases to local officers. Victims services are also provided by department staff to give "immediate and direct support and assistance to crime victims, their families and witnesses suffering emotionally, financially and physically."

There are several programs geared toward education, awareness, and sexual assault prevention. The County's Community and Engagement Services team offers several different informational courses and presentations on sexual assault awareness and prevention. One of these classes, called the HYPE (Healthy Youth Prevention Education) Project, teaches teens about intimate partner violence, sexual assault prevention, and healthy relationship skills through hands-on activities, multimedia, role-play exercises and facilitated discussions. Through programs like these we can comprehensively address the issue of sexual assault and come closer to ridding it from our society for good.

Need for Affordable Housing: 'Raging Five-alarm Fire'

BY KOFI ANNAN
PRESIDENT, FAIRFAX COUNTY NAACP

Transcript of planned testimony before the Fairfax County Board of Supervisors Tuesday, April 9, 2019 at budget hearings.

Fairfax County is one of the most attractive places to live and work, not only in Northern Virginia, but throughout the region, and a big reason for that is our rich diversity. However, that diversity is being increasingly threatened by rising home prices and the lack of affordable housing in the region. The situation will be exacerbated by the arrival of Amazon, which is projected to bring an additional 25,000 employees — most of whom will make six-figure salaries. Demand is already increasing dramatically, which is pushing the almost 70,000 poor and working class people out of Fairfax County. According to the Northern Virginia Association of Realtors, the number of homes under contract rose by 70 percent over the last year. This means that fewer and fewer of our teachers, county staff, hospitality industry workers, nurses, and public safety officials will be able to live in the communities they serve. This means that the fewer and fewer of our young people will be able to leave the nest once they graduate high school or college. That means that fewer and fewer of our elderly population will be able to age in place without having to make unconscionable choices of paying to keep a roof over their heads or paying to put food on the table or purchasing medication. Up to 20,000 senior households and 10,000 disabled households are making these choices everyday as we speak. And this means that many people of color will also be forced to abandon their homes as our communities experience gentrification. Fifty percent of the county's African American community are currently categorized as housing insecure; and 50% of the County's homeless population are African American.

While the NAACP voted in favor of the Housing Commission's recommendation to add a minimum of 5,000 units over the next fifteen years, this problem cannot wait fifteen years, and 5,000 units would not come close to addressing the actual current need which is 30,000 units, much less the projected need fifteen years from now. The problem of affordable housing is becoming similar to a raging five-alarm fire, but unfortunately the county's approach has been to tackle it with a garden hose instead of giving it the priority attention it truly deserves.

Therefore, we strongly urges the Board of Supervisors to increase funding for the Housing Trust Fund in the 2020 Budget by exploring inefficiencies in other programs and/or include an additional half-penny real estate tax in this year's budget. These funds should be used to stimulate new investment in new market affordable units, and preserve existing ones. Also, beginning in FY2021, approve an annual appropriation of $50 million for the County's Housing Trust Fund. The argument that there is already unused money in the Trust Fund is also unacceptable, and the county should address this immediately to encourage more private investment.

In a related matter, we applaud the county for funding efforts to investigate real estate steering and discrimination. The 2017 Office of Human Rights and Equity Programs report found that because of past discriminatory practices in housing, Fairfax County does not have the racial distribution in housing that would be present in a free housing market. These studies should begin to address this issue.

Next we would like to revisit the issue of early childhood education. There are more than 17,000 children from low-income families eligible for county-subsidized pre-K education who are not receiving it with over 4,000 currently wait-listed. Last year the county only provided funding for an additional 36 children; but in response to our requests to do more, the county claimed it would conduct a study to learn the full scope of the problem and cost to implement universal pre-K. Unfortunately, as of today the county has neither followed-through with the promised study nor funded a meaningful increase for the known children. This year the county is funding the exact same increase as it did last year - 36. Therefore we are reiterating our call for the county to commit necessary resources to enroll at least 300 low-income children in pre-K in 2020 and to devise a long-term plan to provide for at least 2,000 children over the next five years.

We applaud and support the plan to fund the purchase and implementation of police body worn cameras using the funds that were set aside to implement the recommendations of the Ad-Hoc Police Practices and Review Commission. This would be a significant step towards bringing the Fairfax County Police Department on par with other local and regional departments. As one of the largest in the country, it's important that our department remains a leader in innovation, transparency, and public accountability.

Lake Braddock Senior Named Dell Scholar

Lake Braddock Secondary senior Kimmily Phan is one of only five percent of applicants to be named a Dell Scholar and will receive financial and other key supports in her quest to earn a college degree. Kimmily has attended Lake Braddock since seventh grade, where she is a student in the AVID (Advancement Via Individual Determination) program which provides study skills instruction, motivational activities, and college and career exploration. She also participates in the College Partnership Program, National Honor Society, National Science Honor Society, and Teen Advisory Board for Kings Park Library, and holds a part-time job.

"I wish more people took AVID," she said. "I have become more organized and I have learned specific skills to help me be successful in college." Kimmily plans to attend the University of Virginia and study biology; ultimately, she plans to go to medical school to become a pediatrician.

Making School a Welcoming Place

On a recent teacher workday and student holiday, South County High students spent their day volunteering instead of sleeping late or hanging out with friends. While teachers worked on grades, the students were hard at work making their school a welcoming place, painting the hall as part of a Student Council project and helping Chef David Long build and move new tables into the Gourmet Foods classroom. English teacher Jennifer Delinski noted, "It made grading a little easier remembering how awesome these kids can be."

Breakfast with the Board of Supervisors honors community service.

BY ANDREA WORKER
THE CONNECTION

The Leadership Fairfax Breakfast with the Board of Supervisors is always a hot ticket, drawing a full house of elected officials, community and business leaders and members of local law enforcement — many of them alumni of Leadership Fairfax programs — eager to reunite with other grads meet and greet and network with others in their space. They are also there to watch their government representatives opine on the state of our local affairs all while letting down their professional hair just a bit.

The 28th edition of the breakfast, held at the Fairview Park Marriott in Falls Church on Friday, April 5, met all those expectations. The planners went for a baseball theme for this year's event and from the very first inning they produced a winner, starting with the Press Box set up in the lobby, where Leadership Fairfax class of 2017 alumni Brian Kincaid and Devan Strebig interviewed a number of the local star players like Supervisor Jeff McKay (Lee District) and Fairfax County Sheriff Stacey Kincaid.

Opening remarks were handled by Leadership Fairfax President & CEO Karen Cleveland, Leadership Fairfax Board Chairman Huey Battle, and Monica Schmude, President of the Mid-Atlantic Region of Cigna, the event's MVP sponsor.

Before the Board of Supervisors team took the field, however, award namesake Katherine Hanley and Fairfax County Economic Development Authority national director of marketing Rodney Lusk, a longtime local civic activist and 1998 Leadership Fairfax graduate, presented the 16th annual Katherine K. Hanley Public Service Award.

Lusk read out the names of the previous winners before announcing — to thunderous applause — Board of Supervisors Chairman Sharon Bulova as the 2019 award recipient. Even among such illustrious company, Lusk noted that Bulova was "a real stand-out."

After a career of more than 30 years of service to the community, the last ten of which saw her preside over the governing of Fairfax County as the Board Chair, Bulova has decided to retire at the end of her term, and she will be much-missed, said Lusk.

Both Hanley and Lusk said they were hard-pressed to name only a few of Bulova's accomplishments and contributions. The fact that the county maintained its AAA Bond rating during her term, despite the Great Recession, the federal sequestration and several partial government shutdowns that severely impacted a government town like Northern Virginia, are testaments to Bulova's leadership, said Lusk.

Her involvement with championing the development of the county's Diversion First program (designed to decrease the use of arrest and incarceration for low-level offenders with mental health issues), her role with Virginia Railway Express and Metro's Silver Line, initiating the Faith Communities in Action and convening the Ad Hoc Police Practices Review Commission, as well as her dedication to the One Fairfax equity initiative, make Bulova "the obvious choice for such recognition" for an award given to someone "who exemplifies service above self and has had a positive effect on the County."

With the award ceremony complete, it was time to call "Play Ball!"

THE STARTING LINE-UP of the "Leadership Fairfax All Stars" was introduced by Leadership Fairfax COO Andy Sigle, using a spot-on impression of an announcer's voice as he called out each district supervisor in turn.

- ◆ Kathy "Rainmaker" Smith - Sully, "drafted" in 2016
- ◆ Pat "Ace on Base" Herryty - Springfield, 2008
- ◆ John "Legal Eagle" Foust - Dranesville, 2007
- ◆ Cathy "The Hammer" Hudgins - Hunter Mill, 2000
- ◆ Penny "The Consultant" Gross - Mason, 1996

- ◆ Jeff "Batter Up" McKay - Lee, 2008
- ◆ Sharon "The Chairman" Bulova - At-

Large, 2009

All the "players" ran in to take their positions on the dais as baseball-style card photos were flashed on screen with their photos and their stats, including a few of their most significant achievements and areas of involvement.

Moderator and head umpire Casey Veatch, principal with Veatch Commercial Real Estate and graduate of Leadership Fairfax class of 1999 got the game under way, giving them an easy pitch to start the proceedings by asking each supervisor to recount a sports memory.

Hilarious, poignant, and even a few dramatic moments were shared, but the highlight of each story was the signing of a really-soft softball by each before they tossed it into the crowd — to a varying degree of success. Each throw was judged by umpire Mark Ingrao, President and CEO of the Greater Reston Chamber of Commerce. Ingrao called a few base hits, a foul ball or two, and declared that Supervisor Cook should actually be called "outta here!" when his enthusiastic pitch hit the ballroom ceiling before bouncing back into the crowd.

In regards to the toss outs, Veatch assured the audience of two things: "It's ok — Leadership Fairfax has insurance for today's game, and secondly, our umpire is legit," he said, referencing Ingrao's induction as an umpire in the Softball Hall of Fame.

"If we get into any tussles among the players," Veatch joked, "we're still safe since the ump is also a Wrestling Hall of Fame referee!"

Another easy pitch to the players followed. "Name your favorite stadium snack," asked Veatch.

McKay was quick to respond, "beer." Storck followed up "then with 2 beers!" Herryty also voted for beer, while sausages, hot dogs, and peanuts also made the list.

After the sports stories were concluded and the softballs thrown without major injury to either players or spectators, it was time for the fastballs, curveballs, and sliders to finally be unleashed.

IT'S AN ELECTION YEAR in Fairfax County. All of the seats on the Board of Supervisors are up for grabs, but even if incumbents retain their positions, the line up of the Board is set to change dramatically.

In addition to Bulova's retirement, the Hunter Mill, Braddock and Providence districts will all see new faces of representation as Cathy Hudgins, John Cook, and Linda Smyth respectively declined to seek re-election. Jeff McKay of the Braddock District is running to take the Board Chair position, meaning his district will also elect a new supervisor.

"I think it's something like 40 years since we held a primary for the Chairman's seat," said Veatch, but that is exactly what is ahead for McKay and his Democratic challengers on June 11.

With all that change in the air, Veatch asked questions that not only focused on the current state of affairs, but on how that change may effect the governance of Fairfax County going forward. He also reminded Bulova, Cook, Hudgins, and Smyth that their impending retirements from the team meant they were "free to speak your minds," while pointing out that Penny Gross (Mason) would become the longest-serving member of the board and "the adult in the room."

Some of their responses included:

Gross (Mason) — "Yes, I will be the adult supervision," she laughed, but vowed to be the mentor to the newbies that helped her transition successfully when she joined the Board. Gross also referenced a quote that advised that "one could go far alone, but to go far required going together. The united team of the Board of Supervisors can move us forward, base to base."

Foust (Dranesville) also spoke to unity and the need for collaboration among the connected regions of Fairfax County and neighbors, in order to collaboratively achieve success for all citizens.

Cook (Braddock) expressed concern about the destructive impact of divisions within the country and even the county, and the potential for further harm as the wealth gap continues to widen. When the American Dream changes from "if I work hard I can get there, to even if I work hard I can't get there," Cook says the resentment and the division builds up. "Government doesn't create, so much as it follows. It's up to you and the community to work together with government" to make community improvements and get things done.

Smith (Sully) talked about changes to the county's zoning laws - big and small. In addition to hearing cases and making changes to protect the integrity of the county's standards, Smith explained how some restrictions on owning unusual pets like chinchillas and hedgehogs had been eased, thanks to the advocacy of some younger members of her constituency. "Yes, you can now own a hedgehog," said Smith, "but please consider your pet choices carefully and learn how to take care of your pets properly."

Referencing a recent report on illnesses that can be passed from hedgehog to human, Smith added "and words I never thought I would say in my professional life, please don't kiss your hedgehog."

Herryty (Springfield), who has long been a champion of the war against opioid addictions and deaths in the region, spoke of the steps being made to improve the devastating situation. "Opioid deaths were down by 40 percent between 2017 - 2018," he noted, but said there was still much work to be done and better reporting needed. "The biggest need is more resources for treatment," he added. "There just aren't enough treatment centers" to address the problems.

Smyth (Providence) talked about the big achievements that can be made working together. The Mosaic district project started as a task force in 1990 comprising local residents as well as government officials and potential stakeholders and developers. An area that was plagued by deterioration and crime, at the time of the task force's inception, the space was valued at $38 million. "Today, as of January 1, 2019, the Mosaic District is valued at $648 million. That's what cooperative revitalization can do," she declared.

Hudgins (Hunter Mill) praised the ever-improving relationship between the county government and the Fairfax County Public Schools, seeing their more open and receptive communications and partnership as a real benefit to all county citizens, not just its young people. She is also proud of the adoption of the One Fairfax "lens by which we will look at every policy, everything we do" to avoid actions that would create inequitable situations. Hudgins also took the opportunity to strongly urge that solving the affordable housing crisis be a top priority both now and going forward.

Storck (Mount Vernon) thanked his fellow board members for their willingness to invest in his district, which will see the county's largest employer in Fort Belvoir at one end of the Richmond Highway and Amazon, as it is built, on the other end of the corridor. "All told, there will be about $1 billion invested in this area with transit options, road widening and more. The positive effects are already being felt," said Storck. The "forward-thinking" of the board will mean continued growth, improvement and revitalization not only for the Mt. Vernon District, but the whole region. "That is real leadership."

Bulova (Chair) and McKay (Lee) both were asked to address growth and development in the county.

"There is a strategy to how we grow and how we manage our growth," Bulova answered. Development is first reviewed to support and protect "our stable, residential neighborhoods."

Growth is targeted at areas that if left alone "would continue to deteriorate." She cited areas along the Richmond Highway corridor that "are virtually the same as when I arrived here as a young bride during the Vietnam War. We need to bring improvements there."

Bulova also noted that development takes into consideration environmental needs, not only seeking to avoid negative environmental impacts, but looking to proactively improve currently less-than-ideal environmental situations.

McKay followed up with success stories of development in his own district. "The mall in the central Springfield District went from the least desirable asset, to the third most valuable such property in the county." The new TSA building is also slated for the district.

"In all cases, development must consider environmental impacts and make improvements there, and to infrastructure."

Even though the audience seemed willing to stay for extra innings, after the last round of questions, Veatch had to "call the game," declaring that all in attendance, players and spectators alike had emerged as winners from this year's Leadership Fairfax Breakfast with the Board, while reminding them all to vote in the elections on November 5.

Even in cooler months, guests can find a warm spot outdoors — whether it's soaking in the sunken hot tub or cozying up to the wood burning fireplace flanked by gas torches.

Stylish Outdoor Living Wins 'Contractor of the Year'

Dreaming of making the most of outdoor living? Look at this.

BY JOHN BYRD

Best Outdoor Living Solution. A multi-component, multi-level rear elevation addition to a home in Oakton recently garnered a "Contractor of the Year" Grand Award for Sun Design Remodeling.

An outdoor living addition to Chateau-style residence in Oakton has won a "Contractor of the Year" grand award for Sun Design Remodeling Specialists.

The comprehensive design — which combines a screened porch, an outdoor kitchen and dining area, a hot tub and a stone fireplace in a cleverly integrated, multi-level layout— completes the rear elevation of the 9,500 square foot custom home the owners had built in 2001. The remodel to the home of Larry and Lisa Rice was named best "Residential Design/Outdoor Living Solution for $60,000 and over" by the National Association of the Remodeling Industry (NARI) metro DC chapter.

"We wanted an indoor/outdoor gathering place that would bring the whole family together," says Lisa, 56, a retired mother of teenage twins. "The rear of the house was originally conceived as a walk-out, but I realized later that I didn't want high decks. Once I saw the design problem more clearly, I was simply looking for a better set of options — albeit, ones I couldn't fully envision." Rice credits Craig Durosko, chairman and founder of Sun Design, with re-awakening her enthusiasm for the project by identifying and prioritizing its primary components.

"Craig got our vision" Lisa says. "It was his attention to our goals that revived my interest in moving forward."

In the end, the plan appreciably responds to the Rice family's passion for indoor-outdoor living.

❖ A 437-square-foot screened porch linked to the kitchen via a folding glass window provides a cozy, insect-free gathering spot. An eight-foot counter abutting the "pass-thru" inside the porch facilitates service and dining. With a gas fireplace clad in stone and a flat screen TV, the porch can be fully used as an entertainment mecca nine months of the year;

❖ A formal dining area situated under a cedar pergola incorporates retractable awnings for shade;

❖ The 21-by-21-foot outdoor kitchen includes a built-in Wolf gas grill, a beverage center with refrigerator, an ice maker, a sink, and a stainless oval grill;

❖ Three steps down, the open air deck (22-by-28 feet) features a wood-burning hearth and a hot tub set-off by planters and gas torches — an inviting spot to deeply relax, even in cooler weather.

❖ A ground-level patio (16-by-19-feet) just outside the fully-appointed lower level family room offers a fire pit, and a quiet perch for stargazing.

"I always thought of the lower patio as a place where the kids could get away from the adults if they wanted," Lisa says. "On the other hand, Larry and I like it too."

According to the Jan/Feb AARP Bulletin, an analysis of data collected from 1.2 million adults found that team sports offered the most mental health benefits from exercise. ### Allstate Volunteers, Assistance League Join Forces to Provide Food for Kids

Allstate Insurance Company recently held its first Capital Regional Advisory Board meeting of 2019. Assistance League of Northern Virginia was pleased that its Weekend Food for Kids program was once again featured as Allstate's volunteer service activity.

Lynn Barron and Karen Amster, board members from the Assistance League, an all-volunteer nonprofit, were invited to speak about Assistance League's program that decreases childhood hunger and other philanthropic programs that benefit low-income children in Northern Virginia. Sharee Merenov, Allstate Capital Region division manager, corporate relations, coordinated the resources and purchased the nonperishable food items to support The Allstate Foundation Helping Hands in the Community group activity.

A team of 40 Allstate volunteers and seven Assistance League volunteers packed nearly 500 bags of food for children who might otherwise go hungry on weekends.

Partnering with Allstate allowed Assistance League to satisfy an immediate need for food assistance at two Title I elementary schools not currently supported by the food program.

As It Has So Happened

By KENNETH B. LOURIE

So far, four bi-weekly immunotherapy-infusions into my initial non-chemotherapy experience, per the encouraging results from my CT scan in mid March, I remain optimistic but cautiously neutral as I prepare to infuse three more times before my next scan in mid May.

However I feel, and however I've felt, ultimately the CT scan – and to a lesser degree – my lab results, will do the talking, so to speak. What it will say will be interpreted by my oncologist who in turn will explain/summarize it to us in person a week or so after the scan.

That's when I'll know how I'm doing. And how I'm doing of course means how much longer I'll be living. A more stressful appointment you can't imagine.

What I'm sure you can imagine is how high my blood pressure will be as we sit in the examining room waiting for my oncologist to knock on the door asking if it's OK to come in.

And when he comes in, he usually smiles and shakes our hands and then immediately sits behind the computer where he proceeds to ask the standard health- and fitness-type questions. Then he might even examine me (not all the time – as he has said, the scan tells him most of what he needs to know) before he addresses the elephant in the room (metaphorically speaking, although I have gained a few pounds).

Dina and I don't exactly hold hands but we are holding our collective breath as we prepare to hang on his every syllable. This exchange of pleasantries happens every eight weeks or so. In the interim, I am encouraged to email my oncologist with any questions or concerns, particularly if new symptoms develop and persist for two to three weeks.

Well, I did have something happening to me the other Saturday, the day after my last immunotherapy infusion which, treatment-to-date, had not happened.

When I awoke that morning, I was unable to summon up the strength/energy to get out of bed. It felt similar to my early days of heavy-duty chemotherapy, when due to the destruction of your red blood cells (and white cells, too), you can barely move. There was no pain, but neither was there any energy.

Simply put: the tank was empty. I could barely roll over in bed, let alone get up, walk downstairs and feed the cats. This kind of extreme post-immunotherapy fatigue was a first. All previous post-immunotherapy Saturdays were not the least bit similar or different than any other day.

I did not, nor have I since, emailed my oncologist with any of these details. At this juncture, I consider it an aberration and not worthy of an overreaction.

For all I know, to invoke an old punchline, my underwear was too tight.

As such, I will wait until my next infusions and see if the following morning follows an old or new pattern. If it's new, I will email my oncologist.

It's ironic that this situation occurred a few days after last week's column "It's Not As If My Life Depends On It" published. The content of which was my anxiety concerning emailing my oncologist about new symptoms/side effects for fear that in so doing, my oncologist would be for stopping my treatment. And in stopping my treatment, there is then nothing stopping the cancer.

This is some of what I've heard over the years; it's not so much the cancer that gets you as it is the side effects which cause the treatment to have to stop which then enables the cancer to then do what it most horrifyingly does (you'll note I didn't say inevitably).

But I'm not an alarmist, nor an "overreactionist," (to make up a word as I so often do). I've survived 10+ years by being neither.

I try to go about my cancer business as any other and live life as normally – for me – as possible. I am not gloom and doom and for me, the glass is always half full. And even though I'm in the middle of a big negative, I'm still positive.

After all, I'm a member of Red Sox Nation; hope forever springs eternal.
