The Committee for Helping Others (CHO) celebrated 50 Years of Service to the community. Linda Colbert, daughter of former mayor Jane Seeman, expressed appreciation for CHO’s work from the town of Vienna.
Teacher Charged with Carnal Knowledge

Matthew Snell, 31, of Maryland, was arrested Friday, Oct. 11, in El Paso, Texas, after he attempted to leave the country. Snell, a Thoreau Middle School teacher, faces charges of carnal knowledge of a child and taking indecent liberties with a child by person in custodial relationship. Thursday, parents found inappropriate text messages from the man to a teen and self-reported to the school. Detectives from the Major Crimes Bureau Child Abuse Squad acted swiftly to corroborate the information. Snell became aware of the ongoing investigation and left FCPD jurisdiction as arrest warrants were authorized and obtained. Through coordination with other law enforcement partners, he was tracked to the El Paso International Airport where he was safely taken into custody by the United States Marshals Service. Snell will be extradited to Fairfax County to face charges.

FCPD would like to thank the Vienna Police Department, United States Marshals Service, the National Targeting Center, Homeland Security Investigations and Customs and Border Protection for their assistance in investigating and apprehending this individual.

Victim specialists from Major Crimes Bureau's Victim Services Division have been assigned to ensure that the victim is receiving appropriate resources and assistance. Detectives are seeking anyone who has information or may have had inappropriate contact with Snell to call Major Crimes Bureau detectives at 703-246-7800. Tips can also be submitted anonymously through Crime Solvers by phone – 1-866-411-TIPS (866-411-8477), by text – Type “FCCS” plus tip to 847411, and by web – Click HERE. Committee for Helping Others Celebrates 50 Years of Service

The committee for Helping Others (CHO) celebrated 50 years of service to the community by honoring its institutional and individual supporters and volunteers at a reception on Oct. 5 at Vienna Presbyterian Church.

CHO Chair Ollie Fowler welcomed all guests, and gave a bit of background on CHO. Reverend Pete James of Vienna Presbyterian Church provided an opening blessing, and Linda Colbert, daughter of former mayor Jane Seeman, expressed appreciation for CHO’s work from the town of Vienna. Former Chair Blaine Lotz discussed the early days of the organization, and finally, Fairfax County Board of Supervisors member Cathy Hudgins provided a plaque of appreciation for CHO’s work.

This year marks the 50th year in which CHO has collected donated food, furniture and clothing, as well as providing emergency financial assistance to needy people in local area. CHO also supports the community’s “meals on wheels” program, and organizes a “Christmas Store” event in early December at Vienna Presbyterian Church to offer some extra holiday cheer — presents, clothes, and gift cards for food — to needy families and their children. CHO’s emergency financial assistance program pays for rent, mortgage, utility bills, medical expenses and other emergency needs.

CHO’s anniversary celebration focused on the institutional and individual members of the community who have helped CHO assist its neighbors over the years. Guests at the event could examine pictures of the local churches and faith-based organizations that are institutional members of CHO; these organizations provide both needed funds and the support that effort.

CHO was organized in 1969 by a group of concerned churches and individuals in the Dunn Loring, Merrifield, Oakton, and Vienna community to provide assistance to neighbors in need. Since it has no paid staff, CHO relies on its volunteers, as well as spouses and friends who lend a hand, and young people who participate in schools and church service projects.

Many of the people whom CHO assists have full or part time jobs, but the pay is insufficient or too erratic to cover all expenses. Some are refugees or recent immigrants; others are elderly or retired and living on a small pension or caregivers for family members.

CHO appreciates the help of all of its supporters, and looks forward to the next 50 years. For more information about CHO see the CHO website at www.cho-va.com.

Keeping Children Safe on Halloween

Safety advocates offer tips ranging from costumes to trick-or-treating.

By Marilyn Campbell
The Connection

From princesses to superheroes, within the next two weeks, as Halloween approaches, many children will be choosing a costume. As children express their creativity with the help of wigs and light sabers, public safety advocates are encouraging caution both in costume selection and mapping-out a Halloween night route.

“There are several components to safety, first make certain the costumes are well-fitted so they aren’t a tripping hazard,” said Tammy Franks, senior program manager for Home and Community Safety at the National Safety Council. “Instead of masks that could obstruct their view try using non-toxic face paint.”

It’s possible to use face paint that is free of toxins, but doesn’t sacrifice a creative disguise, says Aieda Turner of costume supply store Total Fright in Arlington. “Mehron face paint is completely safe and it’s made of aloe vera and cucumber and doesn’t have any alcohol which can irritate a child’s skin,” she said. “Almost all children’s costumes made now, even elaborate costumes, are fire resistant.”

When children are trick-or-treating without a parent, says Franks, drivers should be able to see children, especially if they are wearing a dark costume. Adding glow-in-the-dark or reflective tape can help. “Children should carry a flashlight or glow stick so that they can see and be seen,” she said. “Parents should make sure that costume is flame resistant and they should add a reflective component.”

“Children should carry a cell phone so that parents can contact them if necessary,” says Baker. “Parents should definitely be able to reach their children on Halloween,” she said. “As hard as it might be these days, parents should stress to their children the danger of texting and keeping their head buried in their phones while trick-or-treating.”

“Staying in well-lit areas and trick-or-treating with a group of friends can help make Halloween activities safer,” said Franks. “Cross the street in crosswalks, stay on the sidewalk and walk instead of running when crossing the street so that you don’t trip.”

“The same basic rules of pedestrian safety also apply on Halloween. Cross the street in crosswalks, stay on the sidewalk ... and walk instead of running when crossing the street so that you don’t trip.”

—Tammy Franks, Home and Community Safety at the National Safety Council
The Westfield Bulldogs (5-0) hosted the Madison Warhawks (4-2) in a Concorde District thriller on Oct. 11.

The Bulldogs would strike first when Noah Kim would score his first of two rushing touchdowns with 1:34 in the 1st quarter. After a successful PAT the scoreboard now had Westfield up 7-0.

On Madison’s ensuing possession, QB Ry Yates would find teammate Brendan Ryka for an 83-yard touchdown reception. A successful PAT evened the score at 7.

Later in the quarter Westfield was again back in business when Isaiah Daniels ran in from 65 yards and Westfield now led 14-7. Westfield managed the clock well after Madison failed to run the half out and Noah Kim ran in from 7 yards out for a 3-yard TD. Westfield would go into the half up 21-7.

After a scoreless 3rd quarter, Madison would score with 4:58 to play in the game, pulling the Warhawks to within a touchdown, 21-14. Madison would later get the ball back and threaten in the closing minute and a half of the game, but on 4th down the Bulldogs were able to stop the Warhawks and took over on downs and ran the rest of the clock out. Madison falls to (4-3) (0-1) while Westfield improves to (6-0) (1-0). Madison will host Chantilly (6-0) on 10-18. Westfield will play at Oakton (2-4).

By KENNETH R. LOUIE

This is a punchline to a joke I heard 50-plus years ago during my adolescence. I never knew what the actual joke was, but somehow it was thought to be funny. And so too funny the other day when preparing to take a shower at home, I noticed that the bar of soap waiting for me in the shower was curious than inefficient for the task at hand. I then opened the bathroom vanity where I knew I had back up and saw there was only one bar remaining. It was the last hold-out of an eight pack I had bought many months ago. As Maurice Chevalier sang in the movie “Gigi” “Ah, I remember it well.” And remember it well as I remember other similar bulk-type purchases. Sometimes, being materialist, be positive about the negative and interferes in the most unusual way. When I buy things or make arrangements when the use of soap; the future, I’ll often wonder if I’ll still be alive to actually derive the benefit from this day’s commitment. As involves the soap; that day in the supermarket aisle, I was really looking for a two- or a three-pack, not an eight-pack, hesitating to acquire when I may under-use. I suppose if I had spend plenty of money and fewer financial concerns than I do now, I wouldn’t have given this soap purchase any thought at all. But I’m not, somebody else.

And sometimes, I don’t want to be me. I’d rather be somebody else. Somebody else who throws a bit more caution to the wind. Somebody who darts the torpedoes and goes full speed ahead. Somebody who’s a bit fast and furious and less slowly. I can invoke metaphysical Comcast turtles into the conversation. Nevertheless, at the end of the day (at the beginning, too), I may not be Sammy Davis Jr., but “I Gotta Be Me.” And “me” is someone who doesn’t throw caution anywhere, has never sworn at a torpedo and loves turtles, especially when they beat hares. My approach to this excruciating cancer ordeal is to keep my glass half full, compartmentalize, invoke the same popular culture references and not “Live Like You Were Dying,” as sung by Tim McGraw, but to live like I was living. Which to me has meant to live normally as I didn’t have stage IV lung cancer, with no bucket list or urgency about anything; and to assimilate having cancer into my life as just another variable, like the weather or the Red Sox bullpen

Unfortunately, and it might just be me (Oh, really), but this kind of soap mundane mundane minu-

When you register to vote in Virginia, you do not register to vote by party. Virginia is an Open Primary state which means that any registered voter in Virginia can vote in either a Democratic or Republican primary. When both parties are holding a primary election, you will be asked which primary you want to vote in when you check in to vote with your photo ID. Note, you may only vote in one primary.

Voter ID Requirements:
Per Virginia law effective July 1, 2014, all residents must provide valid photo identification when they vote in-person. Please consult the VA Department of Elections for the most up to date information regarding acceptable forms of voter photo ID.

On or About Sept. 20: Absentee Voting begins at the Office of Elections, 12000 Government Center Pkwy, Conference Rooms 2/3, Fairfax

If you get to your polling place without acceptable photo ID, you can vote a provisional ballot. You will be given instructions on what to do so your vote can count.
