VDOT's Plan at Popes Head Road Comes Together

Design public hearing planned for Dec. 12.

By MIKE SALMON
THE CONNECTION

Anyone who has traveled on the Fairfax County Parkway during peak travel times has experienced the back up at the Popes Head Road signal. From either direction, the traffic backs up on the parkway so far it's difficult to even see the traffic light that's causing the whole thing.

It's on the Virginia Department of Transportation's radar screen though, and another meeting is planned to look at the solutions their engineers have come up with for this $290 million project. The first public information meeting was held in December 2017, and there was a series of meetings up until early November 2019, and now it's moved into the "design public hearing" stage, which is a more official point in the road building process.

According to VDOT, this section of the Fairfax County Parkway from a point just north of Lee Highway to Ox Road gets about 85,000 vehicles a day and Popes Head Road averages about 4,000 vehicles a day.

The plans are to widen about five miles of Fairfax County Parkway from four lanes to six through this corridor, and redo the Popes Head Road interchange using triple roundabouts that will allow traffic to flow freely via two new bridges over the parkway. At that interchange, there will be access to the future Shirley Gate Road extension and Patriot Park as well.

Public Hearing Dec. 12

The design public hearing will be held Thursday, Dec. 12 from 6:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. at James W. Robinson, Jr. Secondary School, 5035 Sideburn Road, Fairfax. A presentation will begin at 7 p.m. If cancelled due to inclement weather, the meeting will be held Monday, Dec. 16.

tion and Patriot Park as well.

The project will also include improving the Route 123 interchange, the Fairfax County Parkway/Burke Centre Parkway intersection, and a section of a shared-use path. This is a missing segment on the shared-use path between Burke Centre Parkway to Route 123.

THE VIRGINIA DEPARTMENT OF TRANSPORTATION

The project area is a busy part of the Fairfax County Parkway.

At Popes Head Road, eliminating the traffic signal will improve the traffic flow through here.

Promises of a Blue VA: 'A House for all Virginians'

Democrats continue to focus on education, transportation and economic equality issues.

BY MERCIA HOBSON
THE CONNECTION

On the evening of Nov. 5, 2019, voters in Virginia paved the way for a historic legislative shift from red to blue in January 2020 when the Virginia General Assembly convenes. Democrats had turned the tables resulting in Democratic State House and Democratic State Senate whirlwinds as members selected their leaders, sensitive to culture, gender and geographic diversity in Virginia. Democrats have pre-filed priority bills and a resolution for the January Session, to create an early voting system, universal background checks/gun safety, housing nondiscrimination for LGBTQ+ and ratification for the Equal Rights Amendment. They pledged to work on current critical needs in education, transportation and economic equality issues.

"We will be walking our own new path moving forward, of (a) Virginia that represents & listens to all people no matter what they look like, the color of their skin, the language they speak at home, the religion they practice or not, or who they love," tweeted House Speaker-designee Eileen Filler-Corn (D-41).

All 40 seats in the Virginia State Senate and all 100 seats in the Virginia House of Delegates had been up for grabs in the 161st Virginia General Assembly and Virginia Democrats picked up four House District seats, 40 (in Fairfax County), 76, 83 and 94 defeating the four Republican incumbents. Democrats won two other House seats, 28 and 91 in open races. They also picked up two State Senate seats, 10 and 13.

The Democrats would have full control of the state legislature when the Virginia General Assembly session convened on Jan. 8, 2020. All three arms of the state's government would be theirs. With the newfound power of a blue-controlled lower chamber of the Virginia Assembly alongside the Virginia State Senate coupled with a blue Governor's mansion, Democrats could pass their agenda Republicans blocked for years including gun safety, higher minimum wage and ratification of the Equal Right Amendment.

This also allows Democrats to wrest back control of the redistricting process after the 2020 Census, the shifting and drawing of the new maps for congressional and state legislative districts.

Democratic Agenda

The day after the election with new Democratic power base on the horizon in the state legislature, Governor Northam (D) told CNN's John Berman on "New Day" he planned to reintroduce a slate of "common-sense pieces of legislation" for gun control. "Getting rid of bump stocks, high volume magazines, red flag laws (extreme risk protective orders). I will reintroduce those in January, and I'm convinced with the majority now in the House and the Senate, they will become law. And because of that, Virginia will be safer... Another issue that is very important is women's reproductive health care and stopping the discrimination against the LGBTQ community," Governor Northam said.

Later that day, Governor Northam met with his cabinet and reporters. "Virginia is blue, and I want everyone to know that," he said. Northam stated he wanted to bring back eight bills in January, including decriminalizing marijuana, increasing support for early childhood education, more training for high schoolers to enter the workforce, and reducing the recidivism rate. In addition, Northam said he hoped the Equal Rights Amendment would be brought to a floor vote and thought progress could be made with raising the minimum wage.

Caucus Leadership Elected

On Saturday, Nov. 9, the new House Democratic Majority Leadership announced the election of Del. Eileen Filler-Corn (D-41) as Speaker-designee. The full House of Delegates would officially vote the first day of the 2020 legislative session. The House also announced Del. Charniele Herring (D-46) as Majority Leader. She became the first woman and the first African American to serve as Majority Leader. And they elected Del. Rip Sullivan (D-48) as Caucus Chair.

"Not only did Virginia just elect the most diverse House of Delegates in its 400-year history, but House Democrats have made history again by nominating a diverse leadership slate to truly represent Virginia," said House Democratic Caucus Executive Director Trevor Southerland. "Finally, we will be able to move forward with a House for All Virginians."

"We are a unified caucus with the shared priority to move our Commonwealth forward, address our most critical challenges, and ensure transparency for all Virgin-

VIEWPOINTS

Legislators on Expectations, Priorities

The Connection asked local Virginia State Senators and Delegates:

- ❖ What changes do the 2019 election results bring to the General Assembly?
- ❖ What do you see as the top five legislative priorities in the next session?
- ❖ What are your personal legislative priorities in the next session, and what are their prospects to pass in General Assembly?

Delegate Ibraheem Samirah (D-86)

"It's hard to understate how unprecedented the 2019 results are for the General Assembly and the Commonwealth. This could be the first time in modern history, really, when we will have a law-making majority that holds basic progressive values like fairness, inclusion, equity and the pursuit of justice for all. We will also have the most diverse General Assembly in Virginia's history.

For the new majority as a whole, I think ratifying the ERA, strengthening voting rights, raising the minimum wage, preventing gun violence, and fair redistricting are at the top of the list. I hope to also move the conversation around affordable and available housing, workers' rights and the legalization of marijuana, including expungement of records.

As a medical professional, reining in the cost of healthcare and improving public health more broadly are my top priorities. I've already introduced legislation this month that is aimed at improving maternal health and mental health. I have more legislation on the way that will work to make affordable, quality health insurance a possibility for uninsured and underinsured Virginians. I'm also planning to help address the outrageous price of prescription drugs. If these ideas get a fair hearing, and the overwhelming evidence around why the healthcare system is so expensive is heard, I think these bills will be able to move through the General Assembly."

Senator Barbara Favola (D-31)-Incoming Chair of Rehabilitation & Social Services:

"The Democratic majorities will honor Virginia's history as a forebearer to the Bill of Rights and a state that included an equality amendment in its own constitution by ratifying the ERA. This will be a momentous occasion. Gun safety measures such as universal background checks and red-flag bills will pass, a women's constitutional right to privacy as defined in Roe v Wade will be protected, and important criminal justice reform measures will pass.

I will be submitting legislation to require paid sick days. Too many families are struggling because they cannot care for themselves or their sick children. I will also be submitting legislation to protect a patient from high medical care bills if he/she received emergency care from out-of-network providers. In collaboration with the Zero Carbon Virginia group, I will be implementing important actions to address climate change. Voters spoke very strongly in 2019 about the need for a new direction in the criminal justice system. One piece of legislation that I have continually sponsored is the expungement of non-violent felony convictions from the records of juveniles. I am confident that this legislation will now pass.

It is noteworthy that the composition of the General Assembly more closely reflects the diversity of our great state, and women are taking their place in the power structure.

ians," said Speaker-designee Filler-Corn. "We are stepping up to lead and understand the value of making our schools better, our communities stronger, our economy fairer, and our Commonwealth the envy of all the states. The firsts are not lost on me - the first woman and the first Jewish person elected Speaker designee in our 400-year legislative history. ..We have the most diverse House Caucus in our history, which includes cultural, gender and geographic diversity. It also means diversity of experience and perspectives on issues that affect Virginians in all regions.

Q&A

State Sen. Scott Suovell (D-36) on expectations from new General Assembly.

Q: What changes do the 2019 election results bring to the General Assembly?

A: Nov. 5, 2019 results will bring unified Democratic control to the House of Delegates, Senate of Virginia and Governor's Mansion for the first time since 1991. This will end partisan roadblocks that have prevented progress on common sense firearm violence prevention, women's rights, worker's rights, and other measures that will bring Virginia up to speed with the rest of the United States.

Q: What are your personal legislative priorities in the next session, and what are their prospects to pass in General Assembly?

A: My top legislative priority is funding transit improvements in the U.S. 1 and I-95 Corridor. We need to finalize funding for the U.S. 1 bus rapid transit, Yellow Line extension to Hybla Valley, start planning to extend the Blue Line to Potomac Mills Mall, and fund the construction of a new Long Bridge over the Potomac River to expand both VRE and higher speed rail service from D.C. to Richmond, Norfolk and Charlotte. I hope to finally pass hands free legislation, driver's permits for all Virginians, create a Prince William County Public Defender's Office, lead on criminal justice reform, and lay the groundwork for clean energy in Virginia.

Q: What do you see as the top five legislative priorities in the next session: What do you think can be achieved, and what is the timeline?

A: ❖ Increasing funding for free preschool,

Scott Suovell

K-12, and higher education are top priorities. Virginia's teachers' salaries have dropped exponentially from the top third in the country to the bottom third in the last three decades. This is detrimental to teacher recruitment and retention, which ultimately impacts the quality of education for our youth. We will work for progress in implementing universal preschool along with lowering tuition rates at Virginia's state-supported colleges.

- ❖ I hope to expand access to voting including no excuse early voting for 45 days before any election.

- ❖ We will become the 38th and final state to ratify the Equal Rights Amendment in the first two weeks.

- ❖ I also hope we can codify Roe v Wade to protect against a backwards looking U.S. Supreme Court along with repealing the need for ultrasounds before women can exercise their constitutional reproductive rights.

- ❖ This will be a big session for predatory lending reform. Online lenders who charge 400 percent interest rates and hide behind out-of-state Native American tribes will face regulation. Car title lenders who currently charge 267 percent interest rates authorized by Virginia law will likely face lower rates.

State legislators are currently preparing for the 2020 General Assembly session which will begin Jan. 8 and end in March. Public support is critical and feedback from constituents is important to make sure the Virginians' voices are heard throughout the legislative process. I look forward to receiving comments and encourage constituents to reach out to my office.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Season to Go Back to Basics

To the Editor:

In just a couple of days, me and my family will join together to share a meal and eat some pumpkin pie. I'll get a couple of days off school to sleep in and relax. But Thanksgiving is not just about food, but gratitude. These days, it seems like we don't appreciate each other enough. But I hope this holiday season, we go back to basics.

Fairfax CROP Hunger Walk Hits the Streets in November

Event is celebrating 50th year.

BY MIKE SALMON
THE CONNECTION

On Sunday, Nov. 17, the CROP Hunger Walk took off from the Fairfax Presbyterian Church for the 50th annual fundraising walk, and netted $16,316.58 in online and offline gifts.

For Janet Smith, who was on her 25th walk, the walk will mean that many of the less fortunate will have food. “We who have been blessed with much need to share with others less fortunate to help eliminate world poverty and hunger,” Smith said.

The walkers headed out of the parking lot, many with signs of support for the effort, and wound on a 2.8-mile route through Fairfax, and back to the church where they gathered and listened to the Delaney Hall Band. This band had played at last year’s event too.

CROP stands for “Communities Responding to Overcome Poverty,” and there are nearly 1,000 CROP walks across the country. The fundraising walks occur in the fall and spring each year.

This year is the 50th anniversary of CROP Hunger Walks, the oldest nationally-based walk for hunger in the U.S. and now commonly referred to as the “Granddaddy of charity walks,” according to Smith. It started in 1969 by George Sturgeon who was on his way to a youth retreat in Bismarck, N. D.

“Our Walk is part of this nationwide movement of more than 800 walks nationwide that raise about $10 million each year,” Smith said.

Walkers carry signs in support of the effort.

Ready to Trot Seniors among those joining turkey trots on Thanksgiving.

As part of a world-wind trip, Mimi and Rob Mortimer flew from Ethiopia to Paris last week before heading back to Arlington. They wanted to spend Thanksgiving at home with family. Their holiday tradition however, involves more than turkey and dressing. At the crack of dawn, long before the feast, Mimi, 81, and Rob, 82, will lace up their running shoes and join thousands of other runners at the 14th annual Arlington Turkey Trot.

"We first began running in our early 30s," said Mimi. "We started doing 10k races years ago but now do only the Arlington Turkey Trot with our family, children and grandchildren."

The Mortimers are proving that age doesn't limit their ability to pound the pavement on Thanksgiving morning to raise money for charity. In fact, the number of older runners has increased over recent years, says Arlington Turkey Trot race director, Mark Riley, as have donations with runners raising more than $120,000 for Arlington nonprofits that provide food and clothing for those in need.

"We see people who range in age from babies in strollers to 90 people who are in the 90s," he said. "This is a well-regarded festival and there are people who've been doing it for years."

Alexandra Danza, who is 72, ran in the Bethesda Turkey Chase last year, but will be in Florida this year for the Seniors First Turkey Trot. "I love doing turkey trots and this one will be fun because people will be dressed in costumes or hats with a Thanksgiving theme," she said.

"There's even an award for the oldest runner." Marsha Edgell is also hoping to do a turkey trot. Two years ago she was out of shape and overweight. Her fitness program entails cycling, hiking and yoga.

"I did a hike in Scotland," she said. "I never could have done that two years ago."

"20-30 years ago I'd run the occasional 5k charity race for fun," continued Edgell. "I got in shape because I want to be capable and able to [run in a turkey trot] if I feel like it."

Riley says that older runners are motivated by different factors.

"For some it's become a family holiday tradition," he said.

"Running each year preserves that tradition."

"We're motivated by the love of the sport," said Mimi. "Will continue as long as we can."

MCLEAN HIGH SCHOOL

Who knew that radioactive chemicals are dangerous? Well, the people of 1926 were surely not aware of this fact as seen in South County High School's production of "Radium Girls," which answers the question of what occurred to the people who simply thought radium to be a glow-in-the-dark substance.

Based on a true story, "Radium Girls" was written by D.W. Gregory in 2000 and follows the lives of young female factory workers tasked with painting watch faces with a luminous radium substance. When the workers develop ailments as a result of their exposure to the radioactive element, their conditions worsen and they have no choice but to challenge the company that is gradually killing them.

Aadith Iyer commanded the stage as Arthur Roeder with his depiction of the conflicting characteristics of compassion and greed. Iyer portrayed the human side of a villain and the strife that comes with being the head of a corrupt company, both of which were accentuated by Iyer's uptight posture, clear articulation, and overall authoritative presence.

Mincy Barbosa played Grace Fryer and portrayed her character's declining health with mannerisms such as trembling hands and a pained hobble across the stage. Barbosa's ability was highlighted through shy yet loving glances, illustrated in the relationship between Grace and her husband Tom (Zach Patel). Together, Barbosa and Patel's endearing partnership provided comedic relief even through the desolation of the show.

Irene Rudolph (Aren Iverson), Kathryn Schaub (Shaylen Estrella), and Grace Fryer amplified the show's spirit of female empowerment through their supportive yet playful nature towards one another. Blending her initial feistiness with the sudden emotion required for her performance, Iverson took on her role with ease as she played off Estrella and Barbosa, providing a charming dynamic. They exhibited consistency with their movements, particularly with a commitment to licking paintbrushes and the clockwork choreography as displayed in the nightmare scene.

The entire ensemble allowed for the cohesive flow of the show as they accurately identified the tone shifts and accented the pivotal moments. The pair of reporters (Ella Nguyen and Kevon Thompson) added to the collective energy with their lively spirit, which was both engaging and fit the tone of the time period.

The technical elements of the production united together in order to meet the expectations of the show. The lighting, headed by Sarah Khalil, back lit the sets, alternating among a scenic sunset and a neon green shine. The green illumination allowed for a parallel between the beginning and end as silhouettes of the factory workers were presented, providing an ominous stage picture. Lighting enhanced transitions replacing the standard blackout with a fade to a green hue. The music, written by students Julien Monette and Ryan Bonanno, accompanied transitions as it subtly matched the emotion of the scenes that it surrounded. The show demanded intricate and vividly grotesque makeup to represent the girls' declining health, and the makeup crew accomplished this with peeling skin and sores that looked painful to the touch. The time period of the show was recognized within the production as the hair of the factory workers was tied up to reflect the factory regulations. Grace's hairstyle was altered throughout the production to symbolize the deterioration of her health and conformity to society.

The luminescence of radium may glow so vividly in the dark, but not as distinctly as South County High School's production of "Radium Girls" where each actor shone brighter than the radioactive substance.

Upcoming Performances

The Metropolitan School of the Arts rings in the holiday season with "Santa Spectacular" shows in Alexandria, Springfield and the National Harbor in the next few weeks until Christmas. A full production of The Nutcracker Ballet will be held at the Richard J. Ernst Community Cultural Center in Annandale on Saturday, Dec. 7 and Sunday, Dec. 8.

The "Santa Spectacular" features popular holiday characters including Santa, Rudolph, Frosty and friends in a 25-minute show, with a brand new number called "Peppermint Stick Parade." The school will perform at charities and communities during the holiday season. Founder of the college preparatory performing arts school, Melissa Dobbs, says she hopes that audience members will "leave performances feeling uplifted, inspired and full of joy."

Now in its 15th year, The Nutcracker production will feature professional guest artist Stephen Hannah, former principal dancer from the New York City Ballet, and nearly 130 young dancers. A number of participants are from Fairfax County, including Anya Jones and Dobbs founded the school 20 years ago while trying to find a quality dance program for her daughter. To that end, she decided to start a school that would be nurturing and joyful, reflecting the "flourishing arts community" she had grown up in to become a professional dancer. "I hope that Metropolitan brings joy to the lives of our community through the arts. Whether by way of taking a dance class, learning to sing or play piano or watching The Nutcracker, my goal is for anyone and everyone who encounters MSA to leave with a heart full of light and joy," said Dobbs.

Change in the General Assembly

Our work will not be easy, but I am prepared and eager to serve the people of the Great Commonwealth of Virginia alongside Majority Leader-elect Herring, Democratic Caucus Chair-Elect Sullivan and all of our colleagues," Filler-Corn said.

Del. Mark Levine (D-45) posted, "This is the most diverse caucus that there has ever been in the General Assembly's 400-year history. No General Assembly majority has ever looked more like the people of Virginia than the current House Democratic majority."

Transition Team Announced

As the days after the election rolled forward, on Nov. 14, the blue wave surged. Speaker-designee Filler-Corn announced her transition team, 18 key advisors, to assist as she transitioned into the office of Speaker of the House of Delegates. She selected Wayne Turnage as Chair and Suzette Denslow as Transition Staff Director. She chose other members for her team, including Walter Tejada, a member of the Metropolitan Washington Airports Authority Board of Directors and Ilryong Moon of Fairfax, the first Asian American elected to a public office in Virginia. "People across the Commonwealth told us they wanted to move our Commonwealth forward, address our most critical challenges and ensure transparency for all Virginians," posted Filler-Corn. "I am truly honored to have guidance from these leaders from across Virginia to develop leadership to make our schools better, our communities stronger and our economy more fair."

Chairs of Key Legislative Committees

First Bills and Resolution Filed

Shortly after midnight on Monday, Nov. 18, Democratic lawmakers began to file bills minutes into the opening date of pre-filing for the 2020 General Assembly session. State Sen. Jennifer L. McClellan (D-9) submitted her first legislation moments after filing season opened at midnight, putting passage of the ERA at the symbolic head of the list for that chamber.

The weekend after the filing, Democratic Caucus Chair Rip Sullivan (D-48) shared his thoughts on party's intention for the first three House Bills and resolution, "We tried to send a signal of our highest priorities, in terms of the top," he said.

It's time to be on the right side of history. It's time to finally ratify the #ERA," Foy tweeted.

Lost in the Shuffle

By KENNETH B. LOURIE

As difficult as the last few weeks have been, with Chino's at-home hospice-type care and ultimate passing, and the "Catch-22 A" realities of "reverse-mortgaging" my house "perplexed" by the "derelict" stable/shed on my property, my upcoming quarterly CT scan hasn't even "blipped" the radar. Though it will have occurred already by the time this column prints, it's quite possible, due to the Thanksgiving holiday, its results won't be known for much longer, 12 days in fact, than has been customary. And so far, between my wife, Dina and I, none of this has even been discussed. Yet, as I sit and write on Sunday, the scan is on Wednesday, three days away. Close enough to where it should have been front and center instead of where it's been: back and off to the side.

But so what, really? My attitude is, and has always been, to quote John, a close friend: "It is what it is, and it will be what it will be." By the time I slide forth and back under the CT scan's arch, or earlier I imagine, the damage to my body such as it is - or isn't, will have been done. Either the cancer has grown/spread or it hasn't. Certainly hearing and/or reading results from the oncologist will confirm facts at present not in evidence but there is, without being particularly negative about my circumstances, an inevitability to it. One day, my amazing nearly 11-year run is going to come to a walk and eventually to a lie-down. And I will deal with it when the time/results come. In the interim however, this next scan is merely another stop on the less-than Merry Go 'Round.

I don't mean to make light of an extremely heavy burden that we cancer patients have to carry: the prospect of death. As Lee J. Cobb said in "The Exorcist:" "I only mention it in passing." Cancer causes enough internal problems (physically), one doesn't need, if possible - and so far for me, it has been possible, to cause external (emotional) problems as well. Maybe it's a kind of resignation or some kind of accommodation or acceptance of reality that has enabled this one to have lived so long beyond my original "13 month to two-year" prognosis (offered up on Feb. 27, 2009), an accomplishment I am proud to say occasionally has led to my oncologist showing me off to his medical students; his prize cow I call myself.

Honestly, what's the point, really? I'm only in control of so much. Focusing on things I can't control seems a waste of time and energy. Life is precious. Why dwell on things beyond my reach? Grasping at straws, if you can even find one, is likewise counter-productive. And setting oneself up for failure or disappointment is counter-intuitive almost. Why do that? The cancer is already causing enough havoc in your body. Don't let it affect your mind too. "Piling on," as the NFL referees used to call this major infraction. Now I believe its called "Unnecessary Roughness." For cancer patients, doing anything, physically or emotionally to hasten your demise/adversely affect your quality of life is most definitely unnecessary roughness and should be penalized.

Learning to live with what ails you seems a more prudent plan than "woeing" is me or bemoaning the process. Sure we'd all love to be on the President's plan where you're examined in the morning, scanned in the afternoon and operated on in the evening. But none of us are on the plan and wishing we were, to quote Jean Luc Picard from "Star Trek: Next Generation," is not going to "Make it so." But I can live with that. I have lived with that - for almost 11 years now, and counting. I'll learn the results from my scan soon enough. Good or bad, life goes on. To quote my friend John's daughter, Melanie: "Whatever."
