Auction Raises $45,000 for the Veterans Employment Initiative

On Feb. 19, 2020, the Northern Virginia Technology Council (NVTC) hosted its sixth annual NVTC Foundation CXO Auction at Convene in Tysons Corner. The well attended event, sponsored by Amazon Web Services (Platinum Sponsor) and Attain (Bronze Sponsor), raised more than $45,000 for the NVTC Foundation's Veterans Employment Initiative (VEI), which connects Veterans and military spouses to employment opportunities within Northern Virginia's business and technology communities. The VEI also provides support to NVTC member companies in their efforts to recruit, hire, train, and retain qualified Veterans and military spouses as employees.

Bobbie Kilberg, NVTC's President, provided opening remarks and introduced Vonzell Mattocks, the VEI's new Executive Director. Greg Baroni, CEO of Attain, Marta Wilson, CEO of Transformation Systems and Tony Crescenzo also spoke as co-chairs of the event and long-time supporters of the NVTC Foundation CXO Auction.

One hundred attendees enjoyed hors d'oeuvres and refreshments while networking and bidding on 40 C-level executives from leading technology companies. The bidders competed electronically using the One Cause fundraising platform to win one-on-one meetings with regional and industry leaders. Some auction packages went beyond a meeting to include outings like golf, clay shooting, boating, and major league sporting events.

Winning bidders are guaranteed a meeting with their auctioned executive within 12 months, during which they can gain advice and perspective from the C-level executive and pitch future plans.

As a special bonus, NVTC auctioned off a deluxe CES 2021 package which included VIP conference and keynote tickets.

On Saturday, Feb. 22, thirteen satellite in-person absentee voting locations opened in Fairfax County, for the March 3 Democratic Presidential Primary. In-person absentee voting began Jan. 17 at the Fairfax County Government Center location. Registered voters came out strong in voice and number on day one at the North County Governmental Center, 1850 Cameron Glen Drive, Reston.

Anna Neuman of Reston said she wanted a strong candidate who could beat President Trump. "I'm here to vote against Mr. Trump because he is destroying our democracy, the climate, animals and people in need," Neuman said. Mary Jane Cochrane of Vienna agreed. Cochrane wanted "a strong candidate to oppose Donald Trump," she said.

At 10:30 that morning, Joe Gofus, Co-supervisor for the North County Absentee Satellite Voting, Fairfax County Office of Elections, checked the number of registered voters who cast their ballots by in-person absentee voting. "Twenty, during the first hour and a half, from 9-10:30 a.m.," he said.

Beckie Day staffed the application table set up in the hallway leading to the voting area. She explained the process to citizens as they arrived. "To vote, you fill out the (Virginia Absentee Ballot) Application Form. Some parts are prefilled, such as the Date of Election. The Reason Codes are on the back. No Social Security number is required. Then take it to Table 2 with the election officials, and they will verify the information. At Table 3, they give out the ballot and send you to marking tables, which is Station 4. The most important part? Put the ballot in the scanner," Day said.

Individuals who voted absentee in-person were subject to the same rules that applied to individuals who would vote at the polls on March 3. When the voting location closed at 5 p.m., Gofus reported, "We had a total of 110 voters vote at the North County Absentee Satellite office today." Absentee ballots are counted on election night, Tuesday, March 3 in the Central Absentee Precinct (CIP) and the votes are included with the absentee reported results according to fairfaxcounty.gov/elections/absentee.

The 2020 Virginia Democratic primary in the presidential nominating process will take place on "Super Tuesday," March 3. On that date, Virginia is one of the fourteen states as well as American Samoa, and Democrats Abroad that are holding a Democratic primary or caucuses.

On Feb. 22, 2020, Charlie Quinn, a Fairfax County Elections Officer at the North County Absentee Satellite office in Reston hands a paper to Rob Loesch of Reston, in-person absentee voter.

Marina Klusas of Oak Hill, with daughter Sedona, 4.5: I'm going to be out of town Primary Day. Voting is always important, but now more than ever. It's especially important to have my daughter with me to see and experience the voting process. She's come with me every time and voted the first female President with me. I'm voting for Elizabeth Warren.

Jim Schlett of Reston: We will be away on March 3. At this time, I'm voting for Pete. He offers a great alternative to Mr. Trump, especially in thoughtfulness.
Gail Schlett of Reston: Ditto to what Jim said. Pete offers a new perspective with his youth and vitality.

Beth Williams of Reston: I'm trying to get it done because I'm worried I won't have time due to work on March 3. I feel it is my civic duty to show him (my son, Adam, 16) the importance of voting.

Mary Jane Cochrane of Vienna: I'll be out of town on the day of the primary and I'm here early. From the Democratic list, I am hopefully optimistic that we will settle out of this big group on a strong candidate to oppose Donald Trump.

Sharon Canner of Reston: I'll be voting absentee and casting my ballot for Biden. He leads in the national polls in the swing states. This is important that my vote goes to Biden because of the importance of the swing states' impact. I'm also here sharing information about phone banks and efforts to support Biden.

Anna Neumann of Reston: I'm here to vote against Mr. Trump because he is destroying our democracy, the climate, animals and people in need.

Budgeting the State's Resources

BY KENNETH R. "KEN" PLUM
STATE DELEGATE (D-36)

COMMENTARY

In contrast to the federal government's method of budgeting, the budget for the Commonwealth of Virginia is more than balanced. The state Constitution prohibits the borrowing of money for operations, and it requires a "rainy day fund" of reserve monies that can be drawn upon in an economic downturn. That is in part why the state has a perfect AAA bond rating giving it the best terms when monies are borrowed for capital projects.

Both the House and the Senate have completed work on their versions of the budget that was proposed by Governor Ralph Northam earlier this year. The two budgets will be reconciled in a conference committee that will resolve differences between the two. Total spending for the biennium will be about $48 billion in general funds raised through taxes. Individual and corporate income taxes provide three quarters of the revenue with sales tax providing about seventeen percent and additional smaller taxes making up the rest. General funds coming from taxes make up about 36 percent of total revenue. Non-general funds that consist of fees such as motor vehicle and gas taxes, college tuition, federal grants and other fees make up 64 percent of the budget.

Noteworthy features of the House and Senate budgets that are being reconciled and are subject to change before a final budget is adopted include a much needed increase in rates for personal care providers in Medicaid programs, an increase in developmental waiver disability slots by 1,135 in the Governor's budget to 1,635 in the Senate version of the budget. While the increase will help, the number of persons on the waiting list still number in the thousands. The Governor and the House budgeted for 630 supportive housing slots for persons with serious mental illness while the Senate provided 1,630. Budget language provides for the establishment of a state-based exchange for health insurance.

The budgets of both houses provided for teacher raises as did the Governor's budget.

The amount differs in each with an expected three to four percent over the biennium. The ratio of counselors to students in the public schools will be improved. The Governor proposed a ratio of one counselor per 250 students. The House ratio is 325 and the Senate's is 300. Likewise, the ratio of teachers for English learners will be improved. A major point of contention among the Governor's and the House and Senate budgets is that only the House has proposed to restore the cost to compete funding for Northern Virginia schools because of the high cost of living in the region. The average per pupil direct aid for public school students range from $6,206 in the Governor's budget $6,297 in the House budget.

A major emphasis in the budget is an increased investment in preschool education that was championed by the First Lady. The Governor's "Get skilled, Get a job, Give back" (G3) funding to provide tuition assistance to low- to moderate-income students who meet certain criteria is receiving significant funding. The Housing Trust Fund will receive a much-needed infusion of cash proposed in all the budgets.

For information comparing the three budgets, go to www.thecommonwealthinstitute.org.

We Both Deserve $15. Why Don't Our Senators Think So?

BY NICK RIVIERE AND
TONY HEDGEPEETH

Riviere

Hedgepeeth

Like millions of Virginians, we work hard. As home care providers, we work every day to help older adults and people with disabilities live independently at home and in the community. By keeping people out of costly nursing homes and institutions, we save taxpayers money and deliver quality care.

We do the same work but in different parts of Virginia – Fairfax County and City of Richmond – and have different backgrounds. One of us is a 21-year-old assisting young adults with developmental disabilities and one of us is a 61-year-old Army veteran helping his fellow vets who suffer from PTSD.

However, we both love what we do. It's a blessing to be able to help others live with dignity.

We both deserve to make at least $15 per hour and live with dignity ourselves.

Unfortunately, our Virginia state Senators seem to disagree.

Earlier this month, the Virginia House of Delegates passed a bill to raise the minimum wage to $15 for all workers by 2025. They recognized that working families are falling behind no matter how hard we work, and that we need to build an economy that works for everyone.

The Senate, however, passed a bill which would create different minimum wages in different regions, even for workers who do the exact same jobs like us.

Their bill also forces workers to wait even longer to get a raise.

If the Senate bill becomes law, people working in Fairfax won't make $15 until 2027, while those in Richmond won't make $15 until 2032. Our fellow homecare providers and others working in Hampton Roads won't make $15 until 2034.

Delaying the minimum wage increase for 14 years, and paying different wages for the same work, is not only unfair; it's unacceptable.

Every person who works hard and plays by the rules in Virginia deserves equal respect. We deserve living wages, paid sick days, affordable health care, a secure retirement, and the right to join together in a union.

While the cost of living varies in different parts of Virginia, we all feel the same pain when we struggle to pay rent, buy groceries and pay utilities. Housing costs are skyrocketing in both Richmond and Northern Virginia. Health care costs, food costs and transportation costs are all increasing. We need a state-wide $15 minimum wage to ensure that no one gets left behind.

To our Senators, we ask: why should a home care worker in Richmond or Roanoke make less than a home care worker in Fairfax when we make the same contribution to Virginia's families?

We elected Democratic majorities to the House and Senate because they promised to deliver a brighter future for working Virginians. It's time that our Senators delivered on that promise.

LETTERS

A Time to Elect a Fixer

To the Editor:

As a physician who has treated kids in Northern Virginia for more than two decades, I've seen firsthand the transformative impact of the availability of high quality health care. It's also clear that uninsured families and high prescription drugs costs are a fiscal burden on families and means that people receive less timely medical care. The stakes of the 2020 election are crystal clear - do we stay on the same dangerous path of skyrocketing prescription drug costs and constant attempts to repeal the Affordable Care Act? Or do we elect a fixer, someone who has spent his whole career solving problems? The choice is clear: we must elect Mike Bloomberg President.

A Bloomberg Administration would put the focus back where it belongs - on helping citizens like those I care for in Virginia every single day.

While the Trump administration has filed multiple lawsuits attempting to repeal the Affordable Care Act, Mike Bloomberg would use the federal government's bulk price purchasing power to dra-

VIENNA POLICE HIGHLIGHTS

The following summary contains various incidents of general interest as well as vehicular crashes handled by the Town of Vienna, Virginia Police Department from Feb. 14 – Feb. 20, 2020.

INCIDENTS

Fraud — 600 Block Blackstone Terrace, NW Between Dec. 15 at 12 p.m. and Feb. 18 at 12 p.m. An unknown person posing as an Apple technician advised a resident via telephone that he discovered malware on her computer and she would need to pay him through gift cards to fix the issue. The resident continued paying the man until her son discovered the fraud.

Prescription Fraud — Vienna Drug Center 150 Maple Avenue, West Dec. 17, 4:54 p.m. While investigating another case of prescription fraud, Ofc. Williams was advised that the same man, in that case, had previously passed another fraudulent prescription at the pharmacy.

Fraud — 200 Block Ross Drive, SW Between Jan. 17 at 12:01 a.m. and Feb. 17 at 12:01 a.m. A resident was contacted by a man through an on-line website requesting the resident to provide music lessons to the man's son. The man sent a check to the resident as payment. After the resident deposited the check into his account, the man requested a refund. The resident repaid the man the full amount, then was later informed by the bank that the check the man sent was fraudulent.

Vandalism — Giant Food 359 Maple Avenue, East Between Feb. 5 at 12 p.m. and Feb. 15 at 12 p.m. An employee reported that an unknown person vandalized the columns and walls outside of the store.

Fraud — Vienna Drug Center 150 Maple Avenue, West Between Feb. 10 at 12:25 p.m. and Feb. 14 at 10:17 a.m. An employee reported that a man obtained drugs with a prescription that they later determined was fraudulent.

Arrest - Drunk In Public — Mod Pizza 168 Maple Avenue, West, Feb. 11, 5:15 p.m. Employees advised that a co-worker was terminated from his employment earlier in the day. The employees were concerned because the man was still in the parking lot. When officers arrived, they found that two of the man's friends were at the scene and offered to drive him home. A short time after leaving the area, the two friends returned, advising officers that the man jumped from their vehicle and was running down Courthouse Road from Nutley Street. PFC Sterling located the man in the area of Courthouse Road and Courthouse Circle, SW. Upon the officer's interaction with the man, he detected signs of impairment. PFC Sterling arrested the 26-year-old man from Cherokee Avenue in Alexandria. He was transported to the Fairfax County Adult Detention Center and charged with Drunk In Public.

Petit Larceny — Navy Federal Credit Union 820 Follin Lane, SE Feb. 14 between 7 a.m. and 5 p.m. An employee reported that someone entered her office and stole US currency from her purse.

A Perfect Friend

County Board of Supervisors Chairman Jeff McKay: “I have an adopted retired racing Greyhound named Pascal. Despite their reputation as fast dogs that can run 45 mph, they also live up to their nickname as the ‘40 mph couch potato.’ Greyhounds are loving, calm, and relaxed; a perfect friend for me and my kids Aidan and Leann. Adopting older pets from places like the Fairfax County Animal Shelter is great too.”

While February is designed to raise awareness of the societal contributions of African Americans, in some schools, it's taught all year long.

Black History for a New Generation

Lessons on the contributions of African Americans not limited to February.

BY MARILYN CAMPBELL
THE CONNECTION

Black History Month was created to devote one period during the year to highlight the contributions of African Americans. It represents an opportunity for all, not just African Americans to learn about and appreciate the numerous contributions of Black Americans. That conversation, however, is changing at some local schools.

"It's part of Madeira's curriculum ... not specifically for Black History Month," said Karen Joostema, Director of Communications at Madeira. "[Students] taking Modernism will be researching a Harlem Renaissance poet of their choice, analyzing their lives and work. Juniors have also read Frederick Douglass' Narrative and Toni Morrison's Song of Solomon to interrogate the promise, failures, and continuing work in the U.S. on race and civil rights."

The school's curriculum, says Joostema incorporates studies of the contributions of all cultures including those of African Americans, seamlessly throughout the year. "AP (Advanced Placement) seniors will be finishing up Ralph Ellison's Invisible Man, working to understand how Ellison viewed the struggles of race and class in the middle of the twentieth century and how he viewed himself as part of the American literary tradition, as voiced in his response to Irving Howe, "The World and the Jug," she said. "Sophomores have just finished reading a short story from the Kenyan writer Ngig) wa Thiong'o along with a play from the white South African playwright Athol Fugard.

Ninth graders read Maya Angelou's I Know Why the Caged Bird Sings to explore how identity, one's sense of self, are shaped by race, class, gender, and geography.

At The Heights School, African American history is part of year round study, said Linda F. Maher. "We study seminal figures in American History, many of whom are African American, so it's just a given that it's just a part of studying history throughout the year," she said. "Studying the Civil Rights movement, for example, is integral to our study of Civics.

Still, February offers an opportunity to focus on African Americans history outside of tragic events. KiKi Davis, Director of Institutional Equity and Diversity at St. Stephen's & St. Agnes School, says that African Americans have contributed to every aspect of American culture, her school's celebrations include recognition for those influences. "[We're] celebrating the contributions of African Americans to the arts literature, music, theater," she said. "Students will learn about the contributions and the effects of Americans of African descent in other segments of society including, academia, medicine and science."

"There will be several lunch forums held for our students to discuss issues directly relating to the African American experience," said Davis. "Many teachers will incorporate historical facts and references in their curriculum."

"We study seminal figures in American History, many of whom are African American, so it's just a given that we're studying it throughout the year."

Climate Change at Our Doorstep

How Virginia is taking the high road.

By ROHAN MANI

Growing up in a world in which scientists predict we only have 12 years to limit climate change catastrophe is understandably unnerving for an 18-year old. And the most worrisome concern is that we are doing almost nothing about what is looming over the horizon.

For decades, our planet has experienced consistent increases in temperature, changing rainfall patterns, increasing frequency of floods, droughts, melting of glaciers and more. While cutting back greenhouse gas emissions responsible for global warming is the only way forward, limited progress has been made on this front. Coal and oil continue to dominate as major energy sources despite the availability of relatively cheap and abundant solar and wind energy. What then are realistic and sustainable solutions that we should pursue in order to leave a thriving planet for our children and grandchildren?

According to the Fourth National Assessment Report, the impacts of global climate change are already being felt in the United States and are projected to intensify in the future. But the severity of future impacts will depend largely on actions taken to reduce greenhouse gas emissions and to adapt to the changes that will occur. This report draws a direct connection between the warming atmosphere and the resulting changes that affect Americans' lives, communities, and livelihoods, now and in the future. Multiple studies have now projected that the climate of our region will turn more southern over the coming decades. The unusually warm winter of this year may not be an exception but a norm for coming years. That means, less need for jackets, gloves, hats, scarves etc.

Many communities are attempting to answer this question in different ways. And it's been fascinating to see how some are gearing up to cope with immediate problems through advocacy and the support of local governments. It's obvious that communities need to adapt to a changing climate irrespective of what happens globally to reduce greenhouse gases.

There is, however, a ray of hope. The Virginia lawmakers passed an unprecedented climate legislation last week that will significantly alter use of clean energy in our power generation. The measure, called the Clean Economy Act, lays out a plan to get Virginia to 100 percent renewable generation by 2050. The legislation will significantly alter our generation energy capacity with solar and offshore wind taking the lead. That will not only reduce our dependence on fossil fuel-based energy generation but will put Virginia among the top US states in terms of dealing with climate change.

Climate change has the potential to significantly transform every aspect of our lives, ranging from where we live to what we eat and the stories we tell. It is an existential crisis for our generation and generations to come. I believe this is the time to act now to save the planet and it begins at our doorstep. We can do our own bit by driving less, switching to cleaner energy sources, using energy efficient appliances and reducing usage of water. As activist Greta Thunberg put it aptly, "the climate crisis has already been solved. We already have the facts and solutions. All we have to do is to wake up and change."

matically bring down the cost of prescription drugs. Mike would ban drug company payments to the people who make decisions at pharmacies so drug makers compete on the value of their products — not on the amount of money they pay to get preferential treatment. As a businessman, Mike would also work to increase competition in the marketplace, giving consumers more options at lower costs.

Mike Bloomberg is a trained engineer, a businessman, and a philanthropist who has spent his life solving the big problems facing Americans and I know that if he is elected, he will work tirelessly to reverse the rising cost of

Targeted by Scammers

To the Editor:

Recently, I was stuck at home and unable to go to work for a few weeks due to health reasons. While to some people that may seem like a welcome respite from the drudgery of commuting to a 9 to 5 job, let me tell you it was not.

While Week 1 wasn't too bad, one can only watch so many episodes of Law and Order: Special Victim's Unit! What I would like to share with everyone is just how many calls we all get on our house landlines each day. When we're at work and don't answer, most callers don't leave messages so we have no idea of the volume of these calls each day.

I can honestly say that 99 percent of these calls are cold calling sales people or scammers! Yes, there is the occasional call from Giant Food that "a prescription from someone in your household is due for pickup," but for the most part they are from strangers trying to separate you from your hard-earned cash.

Social Security scams, lower credit card interest rates, police benevolent association donations, hail damage inspection teams that are in my neighborhood and countless free vacations I've won where I only have to sit through a short two hour presentation, are just some of the calls I get every day!

Boredom forced me to pick up the phone and actually speak with these people. Civic duty caused me to engage in as long a conversation as I could so they would have less time to rip off my neighbors. They target the young and the old. Their metrics must show they succeed enough to make it profitable. And our number is registered with the "Do Not Call" list! Something must be done.

TUESDAY/MARCH 3

Resident Curator Proposal for Lahey Lost Valley. 7 p.m. The Resident Curator Evaluation Team for the Lahey Lost Valley property will hold a public meeting at the Oakton Library, 10304 Lynnhaven Place in Oakton. This meeting provides an opportunity for the applicant to present a proposal to the evaluation team in a public forum. This will be the evaluation team's opportunity to ask questions, provide feedback to the applicant, and to receive public comment on each proposal. The Lahey Lost Valley House is a mid-18th-century brick hall-parlor house with a 1940s brick addition. The house is located on land granted to William Gunnell in 1730. His son Henry Gunnell, together with Henry's wife, Catherine, built a working plantation on the site by 1760. The Gunnell family were leaders in Fairfax County throughout the 18th and 19th centuries. The family continued to own the property through the 1930s. Call 703-324-8791.

SATURDAY/MARCH 7

Recycling Day. 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. The Town of Vienna's first 2020 Quarterly Recycling Day takes place at the Northside Property Yard, 600 Mill Street NE, Vienna. Load up electronics, used motor oil, antifreeze, and discarded car batteries. Televisions and hazardous waste products, such as insecticides, paint, and other chemicals, are not accepted. As a reminder, to ensure that glass products get recycled, the best option is to dispose of clean jars and bottles in one of Fairfax County's new, large, purple glass recycling dumpsters; one is located in the Town of Vienna on Mill Street NE next to Capitol Building Supply. Fairfax County picks up the glass weekly and recycles it for use as a substitute for stone in county projects.

TRAFFIC SIGNAL COMPLETE

A new traffic signal aimed at improving safety for drivers, bicyclists and pedestrians is complete at Westpark Drive and Westbranch Drive in Tysons, according to the Virginia Department of Transportation. The project's other safety improvements include:

- ❖ Four Accessible Pedestrian Signal (APS) crossings (expected to be active in the coming weeks);
- ❖ Bicycle detection;
- ❖ Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) compliant curb ramp upgrades;
- ❖ Pavement markings;
- ❖ Signage.

DEMENTIA CONSULTATIONS

Caring for a person with Alzheimer's disease or other dementia is a life-encompassing experience that spans generations. Everyone has a role: spouses, siblings, children of all ages, and friends each play a part on the care team. It requires thought, strategy and, most importantly, a plan. Care consultations with the Alzheimer's Association are a free Chapter service that offers in-depth, personalized care planning, education and support. A consultation is more than just a meeting with a dementia expert. Highly trained staff help to develop a road map to navigate through the thoughts, emotions and questions that family members, care partners and the diagnosed person may have, including:

- ❖ Assessment of the functional status of the person with dementia;
- ❖ Navigating difficult caregiving decisions and role changes in the family;
- ❖ Information and resources to assist with legal and financial matters;
- ❖ Available community resources;
- ❖ Partnering with the physician and/or health care provider;
- ❖ Safety concerns.

To schedule a consultation, call the Alzheimer's Association 24/7 Helpline at 800-272-3900.

Useless Is As Useless Doesn't Have To Do

By KENNETH B. LOURIE

It began years ago when technology enabled many public bathrooms to change to hands-free. Other than the obvious hands-on responsibilities, many of the other elements no longer required any touching. Be it the paper-towel dispenser, the hand dryer, the hot and cold/on and off functions in the sinks, and of course, the urinal and toilet flushing functions. All providing a convenience never before possible. Other than an automatic entry/exit function for the bathroom door, and one as well on the inside for the stalls themselves, using many public bathrooms has become much less involved, shall we say, than ever before. And it has not stopped there. It has gone public in a very big way.

Driving, specifically through tolls, that is. Thanks to EZ-Pass, tolls or rather interacting with them by having to hand money over to a "toll collector," (or even to stop and toss money into a basket) has nearly been eliminated. Due to a device (transponder) attached to my licence plate, as me and my car approach the toll booth, I simply go about my normal driving business with nary a worry in the world. I steer into the dedicated EZ-Pass lane at a bit less than the posted speed, and ding!, as I drive through the toll booth, the toll is paid. No fuss, no muss, no window roll-down and no scrambling for change or digging for dollars. What's done is done so long as the yellow light illuminates and "paid" appears. (Although if what's done isn't done, you'll soon receive a paper bill in the mail at the address on file.)

Metro, our local public conveyer, also provides a hands-free or very nearly hands-free experience. If you have a plastic "Metro card" linked into their system, all you need do as you enter the turnstile is tap your card and go. No more standing in line at the "Fare"/"Add Fare" kiosks to load your card with money to start or end your journey. As with your EZ-Pass, once you sign up and link your Metro card to a credit/debit card, you are "In Like Flint," as some of us from a certain generation might say. Henceforth, your card is automatically updated to always provide sufficient dollars for this trip and any subsequent trips to make sense.

Now imagine if I had a "smart phone." How many more functions/people-free interactions might I enjoy with a tap, a scan or a wave? Unfortunately, I have what my wife, Dina calls a "stupid phone." That's a flip phone with no internet access. As such, I am cut off from an evolving world. A world in which I'll likely not have to interact with anybody or reach into my pocket for anything resembling money. All I'll have to reach for is my "smart phone." I've seen its functionality at the airport in lieu of a paper ticket, on Amtrak, at concert venues and of course sports venues. It seems to help speed up the entry process.

I don't really don't want to be the last flip-phone-holding man standing. But neither do I want to get into a life-accident while negotiating the learning curve. At the moment, the road ahead seems full of twists and turns with more curves than I can possibly imagine. How do I negotiate something I can't see? Moreover, how do I negotiate the road less traveled, by me? Where will I draw the experience necessary to acclimate to these ever-changing signposts? I mean, the words may be familiar, but some of the context may be off putting and counterintuitive, to me.

I'm not a complete Bozo. I have partially integrated into this new world. I have had insurance and car payments automatically debited from my bank account for years. I have some over-the-counter medicines, supplements and a variety of cat-related care and feeding products automatically delivered to my home. However, sometimes I feel like a pinball (and I'm no wizard) without the bells and whistles banging around trying to stay on top of what product is debit/paid and when. Now that's a service I could use: an automated weekly reminder of what's happening when. And the beauty of it, I wouldn't need any new devices. I use what I always use: my home computer. Turn it on, click the email, open, read and then close. Even Bozo the clown could do that.

Madison Girls Win Concorde District

The Madison Warhawks girls basketball team continued their winning ways collecting their 24th win without a defeat beating the Oakton Cougars 49-41.

The Warhawks started slowly as they were outscored by Oakton 11-8 in the opening quarter. Kara Vietmeyer scored 6 points while Hannah Kaloi added 4 points. Three Madison players each scored a basket for the Warhawks.

In the 2nd quarter Madison would again be outscored 9-6, but would miss 7 attempts from the free throw line, and Oakton's half-time lead grew to 20-14.

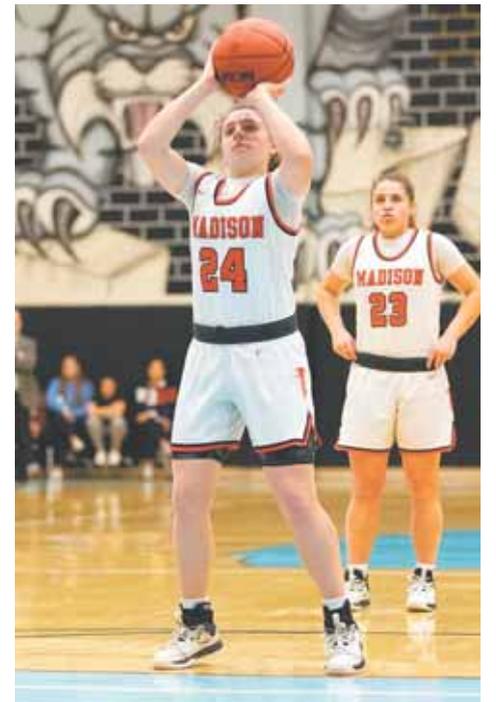

In the 3rd quarter Madison would score 18 points led by Tedi Makrigrigors. Their 6 point halftime deficit now deadlocked the teams. The 4th quarter saw Madison score 17 while holding Oakton to just 9 points, for a 49-41 win.

Madison improves to 24-0, while Oakton falls to 17-). Both teams will play in the Region Tournament on Feb. 25 at 7 p.m. Madison will host Herndon, while Oakton will play at McLean. Tedi Makrigrigors led all scorers with 18. Alayna Arnolie added 11. Oakton was led by Hannah Kaloi with 12 points and Kara Vietmeyer added 10.
