Merry Christmas

“Truly I tell you, whatever you did for one of the least of these brothers and sisters of mine, you did for me.”

The pages of the Connection (including the Alexandria Gazette Packet, the Mount Vernon Gazette, the Potomac Almanac and the Centre View) are usually full of holiday spirit, beginning before Thanksgiving. While in this, the year of COVID, the year 2020, a year like no other, the holidays have been muted in so many ways. Still, Christmas has been celebrated in many ways. The year of COVID, the year 2020, a year like no other. The Christmas story is the story of joy, hope and love, with the promise of redemption. In this holiday of 2020, like no other as we keep saying, we need the Christmas story rather than in spirit.

Christmas is all about embracing the teachings of Jesus: to love thy neighbor as thyself; to help the needy; to feed the hungry and clothe the poor; to care for those who are sick; to invite and welcome strangers; to treat others as you would have them treat you. These teachings have deep meaning and consequence for us right now.

Matthew 7:12: “So in everything, do to others what you would have them do to you.”

Matthew 25:35-40: “For I was hungry and you gave me something to eat; I was thirsty and you gave me something to drink; I was a stranger and you invited me in, I needed clothes and you clothed me, I was sick and you looked after me, I was in prison and you came to visit me.”

Then the righteous will answer him, ‘Lord, when did we see you hungry and feed you, or thirsty and give you something to drink? When did we see you a stranger and invite you in, or needing clothes and clothe you? When did we see you sick or in prison and go to visit you?’ “Truly I tell you, whatever you did for one of the least of these brothers and sisters of mine, you did for me.”

SO SHARE the verse relating the birth of Jesus from the Bible, Luke 2: 4-19: “And Joseph also went up from Galilee, out of the city of Nazareth, into Judaea, unto the city of David, which is called Bethlehem; (because he was of the house and lineage of David.) To be taxed with Mary his espoused wife, being great with child. And so it was, that, while they were there, the days were accomplished that she should be delivered. And she brought forth her firstborn son, and wrapped him in swaddling clothes, and laid him in a manger; because there was no room for them in the inn. “And there were in the same country, shepherds abiding in the field, keeping watch over their flock by night. And, lo, the angel of the Lord came upon them, and the glory of the Lord shone round about them: and they were sore afraid. And the angel said unto them, Fear not: for, behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people. “For unto you is born this day in the city of David, a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord. And this shall be a sign unto you: Ye shall find the babe wrapped in swaddling clothes, lying in a manger. “And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God, and saying, Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men.”

— MARY KIMM

Whether you embrace the Christmas story literally or in spirit, it is the story of joy, hope and love, with the promise of redemption.

Obituary

Clayton W. Covey, 65, of Ruskin, FL (formerly of Springfield, VA) passed away unexpectedly Dec 4, 2020. He had just started fighting a battle against kidney cancer. Born in South Haven, MI he was the son of James (Connie) Covey of Benton Harbor, MI and the late Frances (Felley) Covey. He is survived by his wife of 25 years, Jane Corbett. He is survived by his siblings Dee Chamberlin of Grand Junction, MI, Laura Mase of Kettering, FL, Donna (Stevie) Lawson of Beech Grove, IN, Tim (Jen) Covey of Shepherd, MI, Pam Bradford of Grand Rapids, MI and several nieces and nephews.

He joined the Army after high school, earning his bachelor’s degree in Finance from the University of MD while stationed overseas in Italy and Germany. After separating from over 8 years of active duty, he remained with the Dept. of the Army as a finance specialist civilian, stationed in Heidelberg Germany before returning to the US in 1986. He became a budget analyst working at Army Material Command for 4 years, transferring to Headquarters Pentagon in 1990 working under the Program Analysis & Evaluation division. He earned his master’s degree in Information Systems from The George Washington University in 1999, then became a systems analyst before retiring in 2010. He continued as a consultant for the Dept. of the Army working on a Web-based ERP system called GFESS, replacing more than 80 legacy accounting and asset management processes and transactional input across the Army.

Clayton had a talent for negotiating and event planning and was a wizard at raising money for the National MS Society’s cycling tours and his annual military golf tournament for Wounded Warriors. He was a sports enthusiast, loved playing golf, fishing with his dad, poker nights with the guys, target shooting with his wife, followed the Boston Red Sox and St. Louis Cardinals baseball, and loved Michigan & Pittsburgh Steelers football.

A celebration of his life will be planned for a future date. In lieu of flowers, a donation can be made to the National Kidney Foundation, the National MS Society, Wounded Warriors or a charity of your choice in Clayton’s name.

By KENNETH B. LOURIE

The Potomac Almanac & The Connection Newspapers.

Having recently returned from a driving sojourn through the south with stops and stays in North Carolina, South Carolina and Florida visiting four sets of friends in those three states, I can say with certainty that wearing masks, social distancing and common sense consideration for your fellow citizen were not nearly so accepted as we had hoped. Though we didn’t exactly mingle with the masses, we were, nonetheless, in uncharted territory. As such, my wife and I will be getting covid tests after a week or so of being at home. Though still symptom free, it seems prudent under the very unique circumstances in which the world finds itself that we not wait too much longer. Time is very likely of the essence.

Robert and I, and courtesy to our south ern hosts, both got tested before our trip and with negative results, off we drove with one less concern. Now we could say with certainty that we had acted respectfully and with other people’s prospective health in mind. Nevertheless, it was hardly a guarantee that we would remain covid free. After all, it was only a test. It was not an inoculation. Speaking of which, as a cancer patient with a compromised immune system, I imagine I’m likely to get my two shots sooner rather than later. But what about my wife, Dina. She raised an interesting question. Though she’s not in any of the categories of early shot recipients, she is however living with someone who is me. Moreover, I don’t suppose it would be to my advantage living in the same household/sleeping in the same bed/caring for a covid-positive person: my wife, even after receiving my shot. Data for that situation likely doesn’t exist yet. I don’t imagine it’s akin to playing with fire - for me, more likely like playing with embers. Still, there seems to exist risk, perhaps one that’s been considered in the hierarchy/schedule of “inoculants.” In summary, will family members (friends or caregivers) entrusted to care for them, patients’ health and welfare - to varying degrees, circumstances/patients like me where the cancer treatment or dispensation from the Pope (has he gotten his shot?) I’m just wondering. Granted, there’s not an unlimited supply - on or off the shelves, of vaccines, but there does seem to be nearly unlimited numbers of people who need to be vaccinated to accomplish a sort of world-wide herd-type immunity. That being said, if other people living in the home of an individual qualifiedfortunate to receive a shot or two, are not inoculated as well, will it in fact enable the virus to move on, so to speak and find some other host susceptible enough to keep the virus straining? Will the proximity of other non-inocu lated people defeat the purpose of getting the last ones and two inoculated? I sound like Carrie Bradshaw (Sarah Jessica Parker) from “Sex and the City” sounding out one of her columns.)

I can’t imagine I’m likely to get my two shots sooner rather than later. But what about my wife, Dina. I don’t mean to be paranoid; I’m just won dering/ theorizing if my fear is at all founded in reality or am I just cruising for a verbal bruising? I’m also curious if there’s any discretion in the recipient process. Presumably, there are lots of circumstances/patients like me where the cancer patients’ health and welfare - to varying degrees, are dependent on the health of people (family, friends or caregivers) entrusted to care for them. Giving the vaccine to the patient but denying it for the people responsible for their wellbeing seems counterproductive - or short sighted. I may very well be inoculated against covid in the not too distant future, but if I don’t receive the care and feeding I need, I may survive covid but not too distant future, but if I don’t receive the care and feeding I need, I may survive covid but not too distant future, but if I don’t receive the care and feeding I need, I may survive covid but not too distant future, but if I don’t receive the care and feeding I need...
