Suspect Arrested in Double Homicide in Burke

A 33-year-old man is in custody and awaiting extradition at the Balti- more Central Booking Intake Facility for the murder of Susan Lister, 67, and Amber Carrie, 41, both of Burke. Bradley Lister, 33, is facing two counts of sec- ond-degree murder and two counts of use of a weapon in the commission of a felony. Detectives from our Major Crimes Bu- reau determined Bradley Lister killed his mother and sister in the home where they all resided in the 6100 block of Eagle Landing Road in Burke. Officers dis- covered the victims on the morning of Aug. 20 following a request for a welfare check. Detectives immediately sought Bradley Lister for questioning, but he could not be found or contacted.

Bradley Lister was located by the U.S. Marshals Service at a hospital in Baltimore and was taken into custody for charges unrelated to the ho- micides. Detectives responded to the Baltimore City Police Department Headquarters to interview Lister and deter- mined he shot both victims on Aug. 17.

Following the murder, Lister fled to Baltimore City. Detectives believe Lister removed multiple firearms from the home. Lister will remain in custody at the Baltimore Central Booking Intake Facility until he is extradited back to Fairfax County.

Detectives from the FCPD Organized Crime and Intelli- gence Bureau are coordinat- ing with the Baltimore City Police Department and federal partners for follow-up investiga- tion related to the firearms. Detectives are asking any- one with information about this crime to call the Major Crimes Bureau at 703-246-7800, option 3. Tips can also be submitted anonymously through Crime Solvers by phone – 1-866-411-TIPS (866- 411-8477), by text – Type “FCCS” plus tip to 847411, and by web – Click HERE. Download our Mobile tip411 App “Fairfax Co Crime Solvers”. Anonymous tipsters are eligible for cash rewards of $100 to $1,000 dollars if their information leads to an arrest.

Victim specialists from the Major Crimes Bureau’s Victim Services Division have been assigned to ensure that the victims’ family is receiving appropriate resources and assistance.

This is being investigated as the 16th and 17th homicide year to date in Fairfax County. Detectives have made 12 arrests related to the 17 homicides with one outstanding warrant for Terrence Butler. For ongoing updates, read the FCPD blog and follow on Twitter, Facebook and Instagram at @FairfaxCountyPD.

Be Smart About Immunizations

By Kenneth R. “Ken” Plum

In elementary school I was given along with everyone else a stiff cardboard with ten slots that held one thin dime. A dollar was a lot of money at the time, but everyone worked hard to fill their card that the March of Dimes assured us would provide money for research to end the feared disease of polio that was affecting more than 45,000 persons each year leaving many dead and others paralyzed. One of the most famous victims of the disease was Franklin Roosevelt who went on to become President of the United States four times even though he had to wear heavy leg braces to stand because of polio.

In 1955 research and the aspirations of the March of Dimes paid off as Dr. Jonas Salk discovered a vaccine against polio. Children in Franklin Sherman Elementary School in McLean, were selected to kick off a nationwide Polio vaccine program aimed at finally eradicating what was one of the most dreaded diseases ever. The number of polio cases fell rapidly to less than 100 in the 1960s and fewer than 10 in the 1970s and is now considered to be eradicated in this country.

There are many other instances where the discovery of vaccines has eradicated diseases. The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention list fourteen such diseases with some more familiar than others: chicken pox, mumps, whooping cough, diphtheria, measles, flu, tetanus, rubella, and others. (https://www.cdc.gov/vaccines/parents/diseases/forgotten-14-diseases.html)

Governor Ralph Northam declared August 26 to be Immunization Awareness Month in Virginia to recognize that “vaccines are proven to be Immunization Awareness Month in Virginia to recognize that “vaccines are proven to be Immunization Awareness Month in Virginia to recognize that “vaccines are proven to be Immunization Awareness Month in Virginia to recognize that “vaccines are proven to be Immunization Awareness Month in Virginia to recognize that “vaccines are proven to be Immunization Awareness Month in Virginia to recognize that “vaccines are proven to be Immunization Awareness Month in Virginia to recognize that “vaccines are proven to be Immunization Awareness Month in Virginia to recognize that “vaccines are proven to be

For those of us who lived through the polio threat and the other many childhood diseases that have been eliminated with vaccinations are left scratching our heads at the number of people who are taken in by the misinformation that has been spread about the COVID vaccines. In my mind the campaign against the vaccines is immoral and can be easily shown to be dishonest. The latest surge of the Delta variant among persons who have not been vaccinated should provide proof of the importance of vaccination. An increasing number of bedside pleas from unvaccinated persons now nearing death who are advising others to get vaccinated may be enough to sway some of the hardest deniers. The Virginia Health Department has a wonderful website, https://www.immunizevirginia.org/, about immunizations with a schedule of ages when various vaccinations are to be administered. While many of these are for children and are necessary for school attendance, some such as tetanus and flu are advisable for adults. Seasonal flu shots are now available and should be taken in addition to a COVID-19 vaccination. As individuals and as a community, we need to be smart about vaccinations.

Make Eye Care Part of Your Back-to-School Planning

By Dr. Gene Sweetnam

Your child’s back-to-school checklist probably includes buying notebooks, pencils and new shoes – but does it include making an appointment with an optometrist for a comprehensive, in-person eye exam? After more than a year of virtual learning and increased use of phones, screens and other electronic devices, having your child’s eyes examined can help set them up for success this school year.

The American Optometric Association recommends vision exams at age six months, three years and before entering first grade, as well as every two years thereafter until age 18. Although your pediatrician may have your child read a vision chart during an annual physical, these vision tests should not substitute for a complete eye exam conducted by a doctor of optometry.

Screenings done using letters or shape vision charts may detect nearsightedness and farsightedness, but they can miss up to 75 percent of children with vision problems related to eye focusing, eye tracking and eye coordination, which are skills essential for reading and learning. Undetected vision problems can also affect other aspects of a child’s development including athletics, social interactions and self-esteem and may be misdiagnosed as ADHD, a learning disability, or a behavioral problem. A comprehensive eye exam completed by an optometrist examines the health of your child’s eyes and eye tissue as well as the sharpness of their vision. Many sight-threatening diseases can be cured or slowed with early diagnosis and treatment, and many common vision problems can easily be corrected once they’re identified. In fact, with their extensive training and specialized equipment, doctors of optometry can detect more than 270 serious health conditions, including diabetes, autoimmune diseases, high blood pressure and cancers.

Regular eye exams are an important step in maintaining your child’s eye health, but it’s also important to watch for vision problems throughout the year. A child may not realize they have a vision problem because they think everyone sees the way they do. Studies have shown that nearsightedness has been on the rise in children for years, and with increased screen time, eye strain, dry eyes and eye focusing problems are becoming more prevalent. Parents and teachers should watch for warning signs like squinting, sitting too close to screens, holding reading materials too close to the face, covering or shutting one eye, rubbing eyes, and frequent headaches. And although there may be multiple reasons why a child has a short attention span, loses their place when reading, or has difficulty remembering what they read, or avoids reading or other close activities, it’s worth having your child’s vision checked to rule out problems with eye focusing, tracking and coordination.

As children go through growth spurts, their eyes continue to grow and develop. Watch for the warning signs shared above, and if you or your child have concerns, don’t wait for their next eye exam. Make an appointment to see an optometrist right away.

Dr. Gene Sweetnam is an optometrist and owner of Sight for Vision in Burke. He is the vice president of the Virginia Optometric Association.

Suicide Walk-a-Thon brings awareness.

“People seek our mental health services have increased threefold since 2020 compared to 2019.”

According to Yang, the impact of the pandemic is negatively compromising lives with “anxiety, depression, and a sense of hopelessness.” She said the purpose of the day’s event was “to bring people from darkness out into the light.”

Yang said, “Mental health is nothing to be ashamed of. It is no different than having any other bodily ailment that you go seek a specialist for a cure.”

“If I felt depressed, I would talk with my mom. If I felt sad or depressed.”

Gabriel Yu, 11, of Springfield said that he learned teenagers were “dying by suicide.”

If I felt depressed, I would talk with my mom or dad.”

Thomas Rayner’s father died by suicide. While not a mental health expert but holding personal knowledge, Rayner said, “When people get into that space, they think about the impact they have on people around them and their loved ones. It’s not that they’re selfish, but they just can’t think of another way.”

Anthem HealthKeepers Plus, one of the event sponsors, offers Medicaid and FAMIS (Family Access to Medical Insurance Security Plan, the Virginia health insurance program for children). Open enrollment runs through Aug. 31.

Overcoming Mental Health Stigma

By Mercia Hobson
The Connection

The pandemic’s psychological and socioeconomic fallout may be driving an accelerated trend in depressive symptoms and suicide ideation, attempts, and deaths in Fairfax County, reported experts in mental health at the “Fight Suicide” Walk-a-Thon at Lake Fairfax Park in Reston held Aug. 21. The need exists for the community to offer a hand to those who cannot ask for help or treatment.

Prolonged social distancing and self-isolation imposed by the pandemic are compounded by the daily burden of worries about family and self-employment, income falling, and Covid health and safety of loved ones. These concerns are raising the risk of mental health issues. Some individuals are at the breaking point into “darkness” and the “ultimate act,” suicide, yet stigma and prejudice associated with reaching out for help stops them from doing so.

On Saturday, Aug. 21, the Family Counseling Center of Greater Washington located in Vienna hosted the “Fight Suicide” Walk-a-Thon. Partnered with the Fairfax Health Department, the event’s purpose was to bring attention to mental health and the stigma that can be associated with it.

Daniel Park is the Executive Director of the Family Counseling Center of Greater Washington in Vienna. “Suicide is not a matter of personal concern. It is a matter of the community’s responsibility,” Park said. “This is why we must work together, especially for the Asian American community. It is not ready yet to speak about suicide because of stigma.”

Cultural factors influence some Asian-Americans whether or not they seek access for behavioral or mental health concerns. Depending upon the individual’s degree of acculturation, socioeconomic status, immigration status, and their given culture, Chinese, Japanese, Korean, Vietnamese, etc., these factors may influence whether individuals seek diagnosis and treatment or not.

Cindy Han, CEO of the Family Counseling Center of Greater Washington located in Vienna, said that the practice’s primary purpose is to serve those with mental illnesses.

Eac each year, Fairfax-based nonprofit Britepaths raises money to purchase school supplies for students in need in Fairfax County. And this year, the need was greater than ever, but that only made Britepaths even more determined to help these students.

Local residents and businesses stepped up and answered the call, opening their wallets to contribute. Among them was Twins Ace Hardware in Fairfax City. During July, it raised $2,000 for Britepaths’ Collect for Kids Back-to-School program via a round-up campaign, whereby customers donated their change to raise money to purchase school supplies for students in need in Fairfax County.

In previous years, Britepaths has assisted 2,500 students with school supplies. But this year – because of the increased need due to the pandemic – it also asked its supporters to help with this endeavor.

In addition to Twins Ace, the Northern Virginia Association of Realtors’ Cares Committee, plus Mara Hair and Mode Studio in Fairfax City, both provided sponsorship funds, and many individuals and families donated, as well. And thanks to their generosity, Britepaths was able to exceed its $40,000 fundraising goal.

Overall, Britepaths raised more than $42,000 and used the donations to buy 4,250 Campus Survival Kits for Fairfax High School, Justice High School and their feeder elementary and middle schools. Inside the kits were folders, composition books, pencils, crayons, markers, scissors, glue sticks, erasers, a pencil sharpener and earbuds.

Obituary

Diane Marie Dileo age 79, of Alexandria, VA was called to God and passed away from this life on Saturday July 31, 2021 at her home in Alexandria, VA after a short battle with cancer. Born June 29, 1942 in Pittston, PA. She is preceded in death by her beloved mother Margaret Madeline Komensky and father Edward Dolan. She was of Catholic Faith.

She is survived by her daughter Donna Haefner Rood of Luray, VA, Son’s Robert Dileo of Alexandria, VA and Anthony Dileo of Chesterfield, VA.

Stepchildren: Diana Dileo of Tappahannock, VA, Nicholas Dileo of Chesterfield, VA and David Dileo of Misquamicut, RI.

Grandchildren: Joseph Haefner of Charles Town, WV. Robert Dileo Jr., Michael Dileo, Kailyn Dileo and McKenna Dileo of Spotsylvania, VA, Alexander Dileo and Noah Dileo of Chesterfield, VA, Patricia Snow Andre of Franklin, VA. Laurie Franklin of Richmond, VA. David Franklin of Saint Stephens Church, VA. Nancy and Jesse Dileo of Waterbury, CT. Rebecca Dileo of Navagutuk, CT.

Great Grandchildren: Weston Dileo, Jordan Elliott, Delontae and Ariana Lewis, Armoni and Londyn Branch.

She was a professional driver for Fairfax County Public Schools for 28 years. She so loved her career, the kids, friends and coworkers. Diane truly lived life to the fullest with life’s simple pleasures. She cherished every sunrise, sunset, and everything in between. She loved all her children immensely. A true role model for sure. People were just drawn to her. She was an avid Washington Football Team Fan and never missed a televised Washington Nationals game. She had an absolute love for the beach. A memorial service and celebration of life gathering will be held in her honor at a future date.
A Full Glass Recycling Dumpster is a Sign of Success

Purple dumpsters are pulling in big numbers around the county and a few spots outside.

By Mike Salomon

The Connection

It was a sign of success when several cars pulled up to the Springfield purple dumpster for glass recycling and the portals were nearly overflowing with glass. People were recycling their glass, with a little finesse, they still managed to fit the glass in, “I love it, glad they do it,” said Enna, a Springfield resident. “It’s definitely working,” she said.

Another woman from Kings Park West managed to throw her bottles in too. “I live in a cul-de-sac and collect for three houses, this is a wonderful service,” she said.

Bottles and glass aren’t accepted with the curbside recycling in Fairfax County anymore, so the purple dumpsters located on county property are the option.

In fact, “the program is doing well, and we’re pleased with the numbers,” said Sharon North, at the Fairfax County Department of Public Works and Environmental Services. North had a chart that showed over 13 tons of glass had been recycled since the program started in April 2019. Fairfax County was responsible for over seven tons of that, and the rest was in other area jurisdictions like the City of Alexandria, Arlington County and Fredericksburg to name a few.

A full dumpster is a sign of a successful program.

“Enough Already”

By KENNETH B. LOURIE

As my late mother would have suggested after reading four consecutive weeks of Kenny’s column being on the same subject: the second-most degree burns on my feet, I am finally moving on. Though my feet and mobility have not entirely returned to normal, I am nonetheless finished with this arc and am returning to my regular subject: cancer.

After being a cancer patient for so long now, it’s easy to forget exactly what the side effects are for a particular medicine that you’re presently taking versus one that you used to take. Granted, it’s not rocket science, but it is confusing, especially after 12 plus years of treatment and having taken over a dozen different types of chemotheraphy, targeted therapy, immunotherapy; most for lung cancer, some for thyroid cancer. Those in that the patient (your’s truly) is over age 65 and likely experienced a touch or two of “chemo brain” (a kind of memory loss brought on by chemotherapy) over the many years of treatment and before you can say alimta, avastin, tarceva and opdivo, you can’t even distinguish one from the other. Considering these varying medicines kept you alive for a time, it is a bit disconcerting at the least and really scary at the most. However, the bigger picture is that I’m still alive and whatever bumps and bruises I’ve experienced along the road, I’m still able to drive, if you know what I mean?

Nevertheless, it’s important to stay current and aware of the likely side effects because not knowing/recalling them can lead to unnecessary and unhelpful worry: is this the cancer or some predictable side effect? Whatever makes this awareness/lack of awareness challenging is that the side effects vary from one treatment/medicine to the next and are not always consistent in their occurrence and/or intensity.

As an example, currently, I am experiencing shortness of breath. It is a side effect of lenvima, the thyroid cancer drug I’m taking daily. However, I haven’t been as short of breath as I am now as I had been the previous few weeks. At least I know it’s a side effect so I’m not freaking out. Still, it is a side effect that was not happening, problematic, when nothing else (increased dosage) had happened! In fact, I’ve already had the dosage reduced twice from 24 mg to 10 mg primarily because I was too short of breath, and experienced a touch of dizziness/vertigo as well.

The goal in deciding dosage, as I understand it, has been told us to try and find that “sweet spot” where the minimal dosage results in the maximum benefit: controlled disease/no progression. And now, with my most recent cancer marker down to seven from a high of over 200 last year, the medicine certainly seems to be working. The dilemma is determining how much can the dosage be reduced before it allows the cancer to grow? My oncologist has always been concerned with quality of life so we’ve regularly adjusted doses depending on the results of lab work and my quarterly scans.

It seems silly to mess with success. And besides shortness of breath - to me, is a minor inconvenience considering the stakes. I just have to be aware and remind myself that a cancer diagnosis, especially one which started with a “13 month to two year” prognosis, is fraught with many challenges and inconsistencies. Sometimes, what’s up is down and what’s down is up. It’s all very disorienting and if my life wasn’t at risk, I might find this experience mildly amusing, even curious (as Data from “Star Trek: Next Generation” might say). But, on the contrary, my situation is as real as a heart attack, which fortunately I’ve never suffered, thank God! I just hope if it does occur, I’ll recognize the symptoms for what they are, rather than as a side effect of the medication I take for my thyroid cancer. What a mistake that would be. And I’ll have no one to blame but myself. As a cancer patient, I have one key responsibility: pay attention to my body, and keep my eye on the ball.
