Electrical Wiring Causes Chantilly Townhouse Fire

Fire officials say a Chantilly townhouse fire last week was caused by faulty wiring in the home's electrical panel box. The incident occurred Wednesday, March 30, in the 4000 block of Spring Run Court.

Firefighters on the scene of the Chantilly townhouse fire.

Units from both the Fairfax County and Metropolitan Washington Airports Authority fire and rescue departments were dispatched to the scene around 9:22 a.m. Initially, the two-story building showed no sign of smoke or fire; but crews quickly found flames in the main electric box to the rear of the home.

There was some extension of the fire into the void space between the basement and first floor. The blaze was initially held in check until power to the home was cut off. Then firefighters were able to finish extinguishing the fire.

Two people were home at the time of the fire, which they discovered after smelling smoke. They quickly went outside and called 9-1-1. Their smoke alarm didn't sound until after the fire was located.

Fire investigators determined that the fire was accidental. They say it started in the wiring in the electrical panel box in the basement. The incident displaced four people, and damage was estimated at approximately $30,000.

Herndon House Fire Started in Electrical Box

Sunday, April 3, at approximately 12:38 a.m., units from the Fairfax County Fire and Rescue Department and Loudoun County Fire and Rescue were dispatched for a reported house fire in the 1700 block of Whitewood Lane in the Herndon area of Fairfax County.

Units arrived on the scene of a two-story, single-family home with smoke visible from the front door. Crews located a fire in the basement and quickly brought it under control. There were no reported civilian or firefighter injuries.

Three occupants were home at the time of the fire. The fire was discovered after the occupants heard a popping sound coming from the basement and noticed the lights flickering. They called 9-1-1 and self-evacuated prior to fire department arrival. Smoke alarms did alert, but after the fire was discovered.

Fire Investigators determined that the fire was accidental in nature and started in the basement at the electric panel box. The cause of the fire was an electrical event involving the wiring in the electric panel box.

Two occupants were displaced because of the fire. Red Cross assistance was offered and declined. Damages as a result of the fire are approximately $25,000

Protect Car Catalytic Converters from Theft

Catalytic converters are being stolen at an increasingly high rate because of the valuable metals they contain. Thieves target converters because they're easy to remove and hard to trace once stolen. It can cost $1,000-2,500 to replace one. But now, residents may do something about it.

The Crime Prevention Unit from the Sully District Police Station has partnered with G&C Tire and Auto Service, at 14008 Willard Road in Chantilly, to apply free CATETCH/CATGUARD anti-theft labels to people's catalytic converters.

G&C will install these ultra-destruct labels, laser cut with a unique code and the URL of a secure, accredited database - the International Security Register (ISR) - on to the CAT. It will break into pieces if an attempt is made to remove them. In addition, a fluid that etches into metal is applied to the labels so that, even if they are removed, the code and URL will remain clearly readable. Read more on how it works at <https://www.mastergard.com/catetch-labels>.

Prius, Tacoma, Lexus SUVs, Accords and vans are some of the most targeted cars for catalytic-converter thefts. People wanting to protect their vehicles may visit G & C to have these labels applied, this Saturday, April 9, from 9 a.m.-3 p.m. The service will also be offered Sunday, May 15, at the same time and place. First come, first served; no appointment is necessary.

New Library Could Come with Affordable Housing

The Fairfax County Redevelopment and Housing Authority (FCRHA) has received an unsolicited proposal under the Public-Private Education Facilities and Infrastructure Act of 2002 (PPEA) for the redevelopment property located at the intersection of Bowman Towne Drive and Town Center Parkway in the Hunter Mill District. In accordance with FCRHA procedures and the provisions of the PPEA, the FCRHA has issued a request for competing proposals for simultaneous consideration for the project, to be known as Bowman Towne Court, which will include the design and development of affordable housing and a branch of the Fairfax County Public Library.

“The unsolicited proposal aims to redevelop an existing 2.89-acre property owned by FCRHA with new affordable multifamily units for working families, a new Reston Regional Library, and free parking for residents, visitors, and library users,” said Hunter Mill District Supervisor Walter Alcorn. “It will also include additional affordable housing located on the surface parking lot used currently by Reston Police District Station officers and staff, as well as a new multilevel garage for police use. All told as many as 400 new affordable units could be built under this project.”

Partial funding for a new regional library was approved by voters in a bond referendum in 2012. This project would help finance the necessary additional funds for constructing a new library while keeping the existing one open for the community, Alcorn said.

The FCRHA is seeking a qualified developer to design, develop, construct, own, and operate (at no cost to the FCRHA) an affordable multifamily housing community under the terms of a long-term, nominal fee ground lease from the FCRHA. The mixed-use development must integrate a new regional library into the project, which shall be designed in accordance with Fairfax County Guidelines for Architects and Engineers, as well as the Fairfax County Library Design Guidelines.

The complete details for this RFP including submission instructions and selection criteria, are available online. <https://www.fairfaxcounty.gov/procurement/ppea/bowman-towne-court-redevelopment>

The Request for Proposals will close at 2 p.m. on Monday, May 16, 2022.

If Something Doesn't Seem Right ...

How people may protect themselves from financial crimes.

BY BONNIE HOBBS
THE CONNECTION

During the monthly meetings of the Sully District Police Station's Citizens Advisory Committee (CAC), the guest speakers are often police officers who tell local residents about their jobs. Some also give information about how best to avoid becoming a victim of a crime.

Major Crimes Detective Satoria Reynolds works in the Financial Crimes Section. And at a recent CAC meeting, she discussed various scams and frauds being perpetrated and offered advice to people on how to protect themselves.

Starting with scams considered larceny by false pretense, she said they're accomplished by tricking and deceiving people. “Criminals convince you to pay them money – via gift cards, money orders, bank deposits and wire transfers – using false claims and deception,” said Reynolds. “They contact you by phone, computer, email and mail.”

She said the elderly can be easy targets because they are more likely to enjoy talking on the phone and less likely to be familiar with technology. However, she added, “I've dealt with tons of people who are extremely educated – and may even suspect they're being scammed – but still allowed a stranger remote access to their computers. The scammer tells them something's wrong with their connection or their computer has a virus, and they believe it. Or something pops up on your computer screen saying, 'You have a virus; call this number.'”

Reynolds said spoofing “makes it appear that someone else is calling you. And if you get suspicious, they'll say, 'I'm a Christian; I'd never do something like that.' Or, 'I made a mistake and I'm afraid my boss will fire me if you don't do this.' They may even make it appear like they've deposited money in your bank account, but they haven't.”

There are many common scams. For example, said Reynolds, “You'll get a notice by email or regular mail saying you owe money to the IRS. But you'll have to pay with green dot cards. They'll have you take photos of the cards to prove you bought them – and once they have the numbers, that's all they need.”

People are also fooled by a caller saying their grandchild, niece, nephew, etc., is injured, kidnapped or in trouble and you have to send money. Or someone will call with a phone number that looks legitimate and say they're from the Sheriff's Office. In these cases, said Reynolds, “They'll say you owe money, or they have a warrant for your arrest, but you can settle it by sending them the payment.”

Romance scams can originate from dating sites, online purchases or someone claiming to want to be Facebook friends. But, warned Reynolds, “They establish relationships over weeks, months or even years. And once they feel comfortable, they'll say, 'I'm in trouble and need you to send me money.'”

Or people will think they're buying a pet from someone and make a down payment, but the pet never arrives. In another scam, said Reynolds, “The caller will say, 'You won the lottery, but you need to pay taxes or fees on it, in advance, before the money can be released to you.'”

In other scams, criminals divert money from other people's unemployment checks or tax refunds into their own bank accounts. Or, Reynolds said, “People will create ads about a real home for sale – and get the money for it – but it's someone else's house they sold, not theirs.”

Credit-card skimming is also a huge problem. It can happen at places such as gas pumps, ATMs, restaurants and grocery stores. “With Bluetooth, criminals can access people's credit-card information from afar, without being seen,” said the detective. She then showed slides of skimmer devices, pinhole cameras in them and overlays that can be placed on credit-card readers.

When the victim inserts the credit card into, e.g., an ATM, the magnetic-stripe information is skimmed, while a hidden camera records the PIN number. This information is then transferred to new, counterfeit credit cards so criminals can either sell them online or use that PIN number to make withdrawals for themselves.

And in the case of credit-card fraud, said Reynolds, “Once they have your credit-card numbers, they can use them without having the physical card. Criminals frequently pur-

The Devilish Details of Tax Cutting

DEL. KENNETH R. "KEN" PLUM

Cutting taxes is either the theme or a promise of most every political campaign. States that are doing well should give some of the taxpayers' money back to them. States that are struggling should cut taxes to stimulate the economy. Whatever the promise it is important to look behind the numbers to fully understand the impact of cutting taxes.

tax holiday for small businesses.

During the campaign, then-candidate Glenn Youngkin floated the idea of eliminating the income tax. To his credit when he learned that it would wipe out around 70% of the state's general fund and bankrupt state government he quietly dropped that proposal. It's one of those details that must be considered when discussing tax policy and which voters need to carefully examine when they hear a "too good to be true" promise.

The General Assembly has not been able to agree to a final budget for the next biennium with the issue of taxes being the main hang-up and the Governor not being able to justify his proposals against the details of taxes and where the money goes. Everyone I know opposes a tax on groceries, and that is why the General Assembly cut the grocery tax with the exception of one and a half cents for education and transportation. For many rural areas with a limited tax base, groceries and gasoline were about the only items that could be taxed to provide some funding for their schools and roads. If the decision is made to cut the gas tax the responsible thing to do is to make up the losses to the small localities with state general funds that are currently going to other programs.

Another detail about the proposed gasoline tax that must be considered is the analysis of the Institute on Taxation and Economic Policy (<https://itep.org/>) that shows that 30% of the projected savings would likely flow to oil producers rather than motorists. Less than 30% the analysis found would go to Virginia residents, with the remainder going to trucking companies that buy a lot of gas in the state and out-of-state tourists who visit the Commonwealth. The same organization looked at the proposal to double the standard deduction on the income tax and found that it would not help many Virginia families whose income is already too low to be taxed. Only high-income earners who have the least need for a tax break would benefit from this proposal.

The devil is in the details as is the case in many proposals, and the Governor needs to consider those details and give the General Assembly the opportunity to pass a responsible budget.

U.S. Sen. Mark R. Warner (D-VA) said he intends to support Judge Ketanji Brown Jackson's nomination to the Supreme Court.

On Monday, April 4, Sen. Tim Kaine met with President Joe Biden's Supreme Court nominee Judge Ketanji Brown Jackson, who would be the first Black woman to serve on the Supreme Court if confirmed.

Virginia's U.S. Senators Meet with Judge Jackson

On Monday, Virginia's U.S. Senators meet separately with President Joe Biden's Supreme Court nominee, Judge Ketanji Brown Jackson.

"I'm really excited to meet the Judge. I have voted for her twice, but a Supreme Court matter is different than any other, and it's the most serious of any of the nominations that we vote for," said Kaine. "What a wonderful opportunity to have a great discussion, and I'm really looking forward to it."

U.S. Sen. Mark R. Warner (D-VA) said he intends to support

Judge Ketanji Brown Jackson's nomination to the Supreme Court.

"Judge Jackson is a trailblazer and a highly-qualified jurist. Her wide-ranging endorsements – from conservative jurists, civil rights organizations, law enforcement groups, and through her previous bipartisan Senate confirmations – speak to her sterling credentials," Warner said. "Her confirmation would also take a long overdue step toward making the composition of the Supreme Court better reflect the people it represents by finally including a Black woman."

‘People Are Excited We’re Here, and So Are We’

Crumbl Cookies opens new store in Chantilly.

BY BONNIE HOBBS
THE CONNECTION

So many people know and love Crumbl Cookies that, when the nationwide sensation opened its newest store in Chantilly, customers flocked there eagerly. And even those experiencing the huge, thick, freshly baked cookies for the first time were quickly won over.

“We are so excited,” said Centreville Farms resident Karen Johnson, who went there with her children. “We’ve been waiting – and counting down the days on our calendar until this store opened – because we’ve been going to the one in Vienna.”

The new Crumbl is in the Field at Commonwealth shopping center, off Westfields Boulevard, at 14337 Newbrook Drive, between Cava and Pueblos Tex Mex Grill. It’s open Monday-Thursday, 8 a.m.-10 p.m., and Friday-Saturday, 8 a.m.-midnight. And its grand opening – complete with a deejay and pink balloons to match Crumbl’s cookie boxes – was March 18.

There are more than 350 Crumbl Cookies locations throughout the country, with about 15 in Virginia. The Chantilly and Bristow stores are owned by Cami Fairbanks and Alli Bohls.

“We’re both full-time moms, and this is our side job,” joked Fairbanks. Happy to have a shop in Chantilly, she said, “We were just so drawn to this area because of the modern vibe and the community support. Several schools and other places have already reached out and want to get involved with fundraisers and partnerships.”

“We’ve received a wonderful reception,” she continued. “Everyone has been so warm and welcoming. People are excited we’re here, and so are we. It’s so much fun, and we’re grateful for everyone’s support.”

What sets Crumbl apart from other snack spots, said

Crumbl Cookies, 14337 Newbrook Drive in Chantilly.

Fairbanks, is that “We have gourmet cookies baked on site daily with high-quality ingredients, such as real butter and chocolate chips. And Crumbl rotates its flavors every week, so there’s always something for everyone.”

The new lineup is posted on the Crumbl Cookies app, Sundays at 8 p.m., and may also be seen on Facebook videos. During opening week, the flavors were:

Lucky Charms, with white chocolate chips and vanilla marshmallow frosting topped with colorful, Lucky Charms marshmallows; Peanut Butter Cookies & Cream, a combo of both flavors; Sea Salt Toffee, featuring both toffee and chocolate chips; Mint

Virginia Room is Fairfax Library System's Research Lab

Many family historical mysteries are uncovered here.

BY MIKE SALMON
THE CONNECTION

There was a Russian defector that wrote a book about his journey to the United States, and a local archivist found his book at a thrift store, spurring an investigation that led to the Virginia Room in the main library. She uncovered more about the man. "He died in Springfield, a really bizarre story," said Chris Barbuschak, a research librarian in the Virginia Room who helped uncover the mystery. It was just one of the many historical gems unearthed in this important source on this region's history. "We drill a little deeper," Barbuschak said.

More recently, a woman came in to find information on her Revolutionary War ancestor, and it was a success. "We were able to find the pension record from 1814," Barbuschak said. "We get all kinds of stories like that."

All this local history is stored in one form or another in Fairfax County Public Library's Virginia Room, where the county maintains a collection of regional history and genealogy, as well as local and state government information and legal resources. Staff collect the historical records of the people, associations, events and places of Fairfax County, Virginia. There are maps, an extensive photographic archive, manuscript collections, local newspapers, and rare books. Recently they were able to digitize a newspaper called "The Fairfax Herald," and now have issues on microfilm from 1886-1964.

The Virginia Room is an open, second floor room in the library that looks kind of like a loft due to the fact that it is open to the first floor. There are sections for periodicals, microfilm and historical books. The room is decorated by historical signs hanging on the walls to give a real historic feel for the place, including Thelma's Ice Cream from Great Falls.

Although there is much that the user can access by themselves, going to the front desk and asking a specialist is usually the first step.

Read and Feed

For several years, Fairfax County Public Library (FCPL) has hosted a "Food for Fines" drive each fall as a way of facilitating food donations to our partner organization, Food for Others, which offers library cardholders a reduction on their fines.

As of Jan. 1, FCPL no longer charges overdue fines on most materials. To continue its partnership with Food for Others, FCPL is now hosting "Read and Feed" in April. Those who wish to give may simply drop off donations at any FCPL branch during its regular hours throughout the month of April.

Most needed items include: Oil; Cereal; Canned tomato products (crushed, peeled, diced, etc.), 4 oz. - 1 lb.; Canned meat (chicken, turkey, or seafood), 2 oz. - 15 oz.; Rice, 16 oz. packages; Spaghetti sauce, 14 oz. - 1 lb. (ideally in cans instead of glass); Canned fruit (packed in fruit juice instead of syrup) 11 oz. - 20 oz.; Dried or canned beans (black, kidney, pinto, etc.); Pasta; Fruit juice (100% juice) 32 oz. - 64 oz.; New or clean reusable grocery bags; Can openers.

Food for Others is unable to accept donations of items that are expired, opened items, food that is not labeled, homemade items, cooked food, or toiletries

The day before the start of National Library Week, Sunday, April 3 through Saturday, April 9, families flock to the Reston Regional Library for its Friends of the Reston Regional Library 2022 Spring Kids, Young Adults, and Educators Sale.

"I bring my family to Reston Regional Library so we can all read different things while we're here. The family can be together as well, and we're able to pick out our books. My three children are 12 years old, and then I have twins. They are five." — Keith L. Scott of Reston outside of Reston Regional Library

"I like to come here (to the Reston Regional Library). I did not know a lot about books. So, I came here and discovered many books, and that's how I got interested in reading. Now I'm passing that on to my daughter Kia. She is three. Today, we got some Dr. Seuss and some Curious George books at the book sale." — Karishma Singh and her daughter Kyra, 3

"I'm one of the ESL (English as a Second Language) volunteers (at Reston library). I enjoy it even though now we are doing it virtually. I'm here to check out a book and DVDs. I tried to interest my ESL students by taking out books with audio to practice their language skills, listening to reading, and comprehending. It's not working quite so well yet." — Rob Myhre of Reston as he enters Reston Regional Library

Celebrating National Library Week

Twenty-three FCPL branches build connections; one is in Reston.

BY MERCIA HOBSON
THE CONNECTION

National Library Week 2022 began on Sunday, April 3, and ends on Saturday, April 9. The theme for this year is "Connect with Your Library." The Fairfax County Public Library (FCPL) system has recognized that its libraries are places to "Imagine. Discover. Connect." Those three words have served as its tagline and continue to do so today.

According to Molly Shannon, the 2022 National Library Week Honorary Chair, "Libraries are places where communities connect... But most importantly, libraries join us."

This year's National Library Week focuses on the many offers of libraries that go beyond printed books such as e-books, movies, video games, internet, computers, and activities like storytime, English as Second Language courses, and, in the Fairfax County Public Library system, even pet palace building for small animals.

With this year's core theme of connection accomplished via library services, Connection writers visited several of the area's libraries on Saturday, April 2, and asked patrons, "What library services are you connecting to today?"

"Everything is the community here. The patrons are just wonderful. You have a lot of regulars who come in, people we see every week and get to know." — Shelly Wheeler, Library Aide FCPL

"My favorite books are fiction and nonfiction. My favorite book is Peg + Cat." — Krishna Powers

"My favorite books are Star Wars. Those are cool (with the lightsabers and spaceships)." — Caleb Powers

"It has been such a treasure living here in McLean to be able to come to the Dolley Madison Library. My girls have been coming since they were four months old. We've been getting more complex books progressively as their reading has developed. It is a wonderful experience to check a book out, read it, and bring it back. Is it like a little adventure-what am I going to do next?" — Nick Polizzi

"These geniuses are my granddaughters. I'm visiting from Cleveland; that's Cuyahoga County. I have to brag that the Cuyahoga County Public Library is the best library system in the United States." [For the 12th consecutive year, the Cuyahoga County Public Library earned the highest overall score among its national peers in the Library Journal's annual rankings Dec. 2021.] — Jerry Polizzi of Cleveland

44th Annual Fairfax County Valor Awards

Valor is more than bravery or courage. It goes beyond what is expected.

The Greater Reston Chamber of Commerce celebrated and recognized first responders serving in Fairfax County who went above and beyond the call of duty at the 44th Annual Valor Awards held on Thursday, March 31, at the Hyatt Regency Reston.

Courage and bravery are the norms of first responders in Fairfax County, whether serving with the County Police or Fire and Rescue Departments, the Sheriff's Office, the Town of Herndon, and the Town of Vienna Police Departments, or the Virginia State Police.

Valor is more than bravery or courage. It goes beyond what is expected.

"The Valor Awards is a reminder of our local community's respect and appreciation for those who create a safe environment for all of us to live, work, and play," said Charles Kapur, president, and CEO of the Greater Reston Chamber of Commerce, the host organization for the event. "We are thrilled to have been able to resume the Fairfax Valor Awards as a live, in-person event for the first time since 2019. We are equally humbled by the amazing turnout from our community for this important event."

More than 600 attendees, including family members of awardees, elected officials, business leaders, and others, came together to celebrate the valor of public safety professionals. Those honored stepped onto the stage and received awards for their impressive service achievements. There were 290 awards presented.

Brownie, a chocolate-chip brownie cookie topped with green, minty frosting and chocolate ganache; Sugar, adorned with vanilla frosting and a gold chocolate coin; and classic Milk Chocolate Chip. Some flavors, like Mint Brownie, were served chilled, while others, including Chocolate Chip, were served warm from the oven.

Fairbanks said the most popular flavor – and the only one offered every week – is chocolate chip. “We bake our cookies fresh daily, so whatever we have left at the end of the day goes to the local fire and police stations, as well as to hospitals and other nonprofits,” she said. “That way, we can give back to the community.”

On opening day, the customers kept coming in a steady flow, and they enjoyed choosing which cookies, and how many, to get. But, of course, the best part was the eating.

“My favorite flavor so far is milk chocolate chip,” said Karen Johnson’s son Asher, 7-1/2. “The cookies have a sweet taste.” His sister Ellie, 5, said she liked the Lucky Charms cookies best.

“There are so many different flavors, so we always get to try something different,” said Johnson. “Today we got sea salt toffee, Oreo peanut butter, Lucky Charms and mint brownie. We love the taste and the warm cookies, and they hold up well at home for a few days.”

Sitting outside the store, munching on a cookie and chatting with two girlfriends was Westfield High senior Deepika Reddy. “I’d heard about Crumbl, but never went to one before, so this is my first time to have their cookies,” she said. “A lot of my friends at Westfield said they’re either working here or had been here, so I wanted to check it out.”

So how did Reddy like the Mint Brownie cookie she chose? “I love it,” she said. “It’s really good and is definitely something new. I’ll come back again because of the cookies. And it’s a nice place to hang out outside with friends, and it’s close to school.”

Meanwhile, Kait Roddy drove from Fairfax Corner for the grand opening and bought six cookies, including one of each flavor. “I’ve had Crumbl before and they’re good,” she said. “I’ve been going to Vienna, and this is closer. I like how big the cookies are and that they change the flavors every week. My favorites are the S’Mores, Key Lime Pie and Sugar Cookie. I also like that some are chilled, some are warm and some have toppings – and that’s fun.”

Crumbl Cookies does delivery and catering, too, and it sells half pints of ice cream, also in rotating flavors. On opening week, they were Brownie Fudge, Cookie Dough Crunch, Peanut Butter Brittle, Raspberry Cheesecake, Snickerdoodle and Vanilla Bean.

Financial Crimes

chase gift cards, money orders or electronics that can be resold."

She also discussed check fraud, which involves stealing checks from the mail, vehicles or homes. Criminals then either alter the checks or use the victim's name, plus his or her account and routing numbers, to create fake checks.

"With check washing, criminals use a solvent to erase the check's details to allow them to be rewritten, usually to withdraw money from the victim's bank account," said Reynolds. "But if people use a gel pen, instead of a regular pen, the ink is harder to wash off."

She also advised people to use online banking; instead of mailing checks from home, destroy their canceled checks and review their bank statements for any suspicious checks they don't recognize. Reynolds noted, as well, that sometimes, "Criminals will have other people deposit the [fraudulent] check in someone else's bank account, making it difficult for police to know which person did which part of the crime."

Regarding identity theft, she said people should be wary of strangers asking them to verify their personal information. "Then they'll have it to use for their own financial gain," said Reynolds. Most valuable to criminals are the victim's name, Social Security number, birthdate, address, driver's license number, bank-account numbers or cards, passwords, phone numbers and biometric data, such as fingerprints.

Reynolds said people can tell if they're victims by:

- * Looking for unexplained charges, withdrawals or checks on their bank statements;
- * Failing to receive bills/statements; mail may have been stolen or diverted by a fraudulent change of address;
- * Receiving credit cards not applied for;
- * Having a credit card denied; and/or
- * Receiving bills or calls from debt collectors about things they didn't purchase.

In summary, said Reynolds, "Trust your instincts; if something doesn't seem right, it's probably not. You can Google 'scams related to so-and-so company' before sending them money. Pull on [credit-card readers] to see if a skimmer pops off, and review your credit history to make sure others haven't opened up accounts in your name."

In Fairfax County, she said, financial-crime victims may file their police reports online at <https://www.fairfaxcounty.gov/police/howdoi/financialcrimes>. And, she added, "We can give you a verification letter proving you're a victim and weren't part of the fraud."

Cause for Concern?

By KENNETH B. LOURIE

If you've read any of my columns, you might be able to guess the answer. In my mind, it's not so much cause for concern as it is a topic for conversation. The topic being the side effects of cancer medicine/treatment. I remember hearing/reading that as it relates to cancer patients, sometimes the side effects of the medicine so severe/so debilitating that the patient must stop the treatment (which I never have). And in stopping what's managing - so to speak, the tumors, the tumors start growing and the cancer starts spreading and then shortening your life. In the past when I've asked my oncologist what would happen to my stable tumors if I were to stop treatment, he unequivocally stated: "I know what will happen. The tumors will grow." And as you might imagine, tumors growing has been my greatest fear.

Per my last series of diagnostic scans in late Dec. and early March, tumors are stable, and life goes on. I had been anxious about these scans because previously we had reduced the dosage of my thyroid cancer medicine down to 10 mg from the initial 24 mg. We had to do this because the side effects from the medicine was adversely affecting my ability to perform my activities of daily living. Walking upstairs or even a modest incline would take my breath away; as would bending over or even standing over the commode. However, this original maximum dose was keeping the tumors stable. Why risk that just so I can breathe easier?

In talking with my oncologist over the years, I've learned - and experienced, that cancer medicine is constantly adjusted and changed your body reacts negatively. The goal, according to my oncologist is to try and find that "sweet spot" as I call it. That's the spot where the minimum amount of medicine tolerated by the patient is doing the maximum good, and of course, when the side effects are the least impactful. Which is where I've been for the past six months or so: reduced dose, less side effects, while still having "stable" results on my quarterly scans.

Recently however, my breathing has become more labored, even while performing less arduous tasks. My wife, Dina, asked me today, after she saw me pull over in the house and sit down to catch my breath, if I thought I should contact my oncologist and tell him of my recent difficulties because it's new-ish and any new symptoms need to be reported to the doctor.

But lowering my dose yet again really scares me. At some point/dosage, the medicine stops being effective. And I'm not sure if one can experiment with a lower dose and if there are complications/disappointments, simply revert to the higher dose and return to the previous abnormal? My oncologist has also said that he can try to keep me from going down, but once down, he can't likely bring me back up. Ergo, my dilemma.

Obviously, it's prudent to keep the oncologist in my loop; he does kind of have my life in the speaker of his stethoscope and should be apprised of all changes in my health. Nevertheless, a reduction in my medicine could be a turning point in the wrong direction, and one quite frankly from which I might never recover.
