Military Appreciation Mondays (MAM) returns on Sept. 12 at 5:30 and 7:30 p.m. in Great Falls. For more than 12 years, Bob Nelson Sr. and the Bob Nelson Real Estate Team have been holding MAM dinners at The Old Brogue in Great Falls, located at 760 Walker Road.

The annual series raises funds for military causes. The dinner on Sept. 12 will benefit Semper Fi and America's Fund. The nonprofit organization's website states it is "dedicated to providing individual and tailored case management to help service members from every branch of the U.S. Armed Forces navigate complex medical and emotional recovery after an injury or illness."

Nelson established the Military Appreciation Mondays dinners in memory of Sgt. 1st Class Nathan R. Chapman. He was a Special Forces Communications Sergeant assigned to the 3rd Battalion, 1st Special Forces Group (Airborne), when he was killed in action during Operation Enduring Freedom in Afghanistan on Jan. 4, 2002. He is survived by his wife, daughter, and son.

The way it works is that diners order to buy dinner from the Old Brogue menu. The Brogue, the Bob Nelson Team, and cosponsors each contribute 10 percent of the dinner bill. Usually, the donations end up being one hundred percent of the bill. Reservations are strongly advised. Contact The Old Brogue at (703) 759-3309.

Park Authority Cuts Down 130-plus-year-old Tree

Does felling the tree prevent risk of injury or death?

BY MERCIA HOBSON
THE CONNECTION

A majestic oak tree next to a playground on Fairfax County Park Authority property behind the Grange Hall on Georgetown Pike in Great Falls developed what appeared upon examination to be root fungus. The towering beauty of the oak grove seemed to be a robust tree, the largest in the grove. However, the untrained eye can be deceived by appearances and a lack of knowledge.

Its base splayed outward with fat, blackened, and calloused roots. Its crown was thinning with broken branches, and deep within the tree, its core was turning to sponge.

According to Robert Vickers, the Dranesville representative on the Fairfax County Tree Commission, the Park Authority announced on Tuesday, Aug. 23, that the oak would be cut down two days later, Thursday, based on an evaluation and proximity to the nearby playground.

A common root fungus can cause extensive decay in tree roots, rendering them incapable of supporting the tree. Davey Tree Service cut down the tree. Vickers, Jerry Jerry Peters, environmental and parks committee member of the Great Falls Citizens Association and Michael Cardona, FCPA, inspect the tree.

Peters, environmental and parks committee member of the Great Falls Citizens Association, and others went to the site.

"Did it have to come down?" Vickers questioned after the fact. "It probably could have lived for a few decades more," he said. "But the rot at its base was real, and risk to the playground was too great."

Later that afternoon, Peters returned to the scene with several small lawn marker flags with 15-inch steel wire posts. He pushed several of them into the wood near the tree's hollowed cores. The wires from the markers vanished into the spongy wood. An erratic gray line, as if drawn by a marker on the slab, extended in circular patterns in at least two sections of the trunk's slab, near hollowed cores, indicating the extent of visible decay outward from the center. Internal rot symptoms can include mushrooms growing around the tree's base after rain, branches falling off, a thinned crown, and discolored leaves.

Vickers said that he and Peters counted the rings on the tree to determine its age. Vickers counted the rings three times, estimating it to be 130-150 years old rather than 300 years old, as some speculated before Davey Tree Service felled it.

We Need Your Help Again
We are sincerely grateful and thankful to you for helping in 2021 to save one of America's oldest newspapers, the Alexandria Gazette Packet, publishing continuously since 1784

And affiliated newspapers
THE CONNECTION Newspapers & Online
Mount Vernon Gazette
Potomac Almanac
Centre View

Thank you to the hundreds of supporters who helped to keep all your Connection Newspapers alive throughout Alexandria, Fairfax County, Arlington County and Potomac, Md. along with affiliated websites and digital media. Now we need help again in 2022.

Each local newspaper's mission aspires to provide greater community service, and we do know that our communities are better off if we continue to publish. Last year's financial support from readers and supporters like you bridged the shortfall before Federal PPP funding arrived, and both made our survival possible. We now await a decision for a grant from Rebuild Virginia in early February that we hope will help us in 2022 and beyond. But we need help to survive the first quarter, always a brutal time for cash flow in weekly newspapers. Thank you.

Please, help save these historical papers. All gifts will be used to fund our printed newspapers and websites and to meet obligations to our loyal and patient employees, writers, contractors and suppliers.

The ongoing pandemic continues to crush many newspapers across the country, and our newspapers continue to be at risk. The Northern Virginia area's best read and most trusted source for community news includes the Alexandria Gazette Packet, Mount Vernon Gazette and all Connection Newspapers in the metropolitan region.

The pandemic has hit small businesses hard, which in turn has reduced advertising revenue that keeps these local newspapers alive to provide hyper local news to residents. It feels like no small miracle to be looking forward into 2022.

The pandemic has been a bear, financially and otherwise. Revenue plummeted at the beginning in 2020. Some beloved advertisers have stayed the course supporting us throughout, and many more have done what they can. In the fall of 2021 we saw the return of some advertising for events and Grand Openings, but now omicron clouds the horizon in so many ways. Revenue still remains short of expenses despite our greatly curtailed costs.

Connection Newspapers has been offering these local newspapers to residents for over 200 years. Countless residents have grown up with these papers covering significant moments in the lives of family and children, news, community events, school activities, and even pictures of your dogs and cats. Internet news and large national newspapers cannot provide the local connection or historical connection that local papers like Connection Newspapers and the Alexandria Gazette Packet provide. If your child, dog, mother, father, neighborhood, school has been featured, you understand the value of local community newspapers.

What a Difference Five Weeks Makes

By KENNETH B. LOURIE

The first call I received from my sister-in-law, Vanessa, from the hospital that Sunday, nearly six weeks ago, was to tell me that my brother, Richard (her husband) had been ambulated to the hospital earlier that day due to pain in his leg which prevented him from walking. The second call from Vanessa a few hours later was to say that the pain in his leg was so severe the doctors were considering amputating it. The third call, even later, was Vanessa crying and saying the doctors didn't think my brother was going to survive the night. With that news, my wife, Dina, and I were on our way to the hospital, Covid rules be damned. (Vanessa had suggested on an earlier call that we wait until further notice. This was officially 'further notice.')

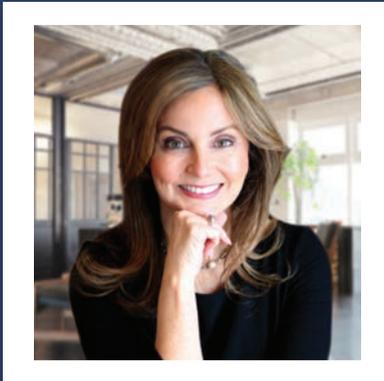

What we saw when we arrived in SICU (Surgical Intensive Care) was my brother lying in a hospital bed, completely sedated in front of a phalanx of IV pumps (eight total) infusing him with everything necessary to sustain his organs, all of which had shut down because of the septic shock which ensued when an infection in his leg shot through him unabated. This occurred because his white blood cell count - after two chemotherapy infusions, was barely measurable, one of the attending physicians told us and left him vulnerable. In addition, he was hooked up to a 24-7 dialysis machine, a ventilator (with a tube inserted in his mouth), a heart monitor, electrodes, a blood pressure cup on his left upper arm, an EEG machine monitoring brain activity, a wound V.A.C. to vacuum out any miscellaneous debris/infected tissue still in-and-around his infected leg, all managed by a full-time nurse. Typically, in the SICU, a nurse covers two patients. However, my brother was so sick that his nurse was not assigned any other patients. Her entire focus was on my brother. As I wrote in a previous column, and it bears repeating, one of the attending critical care physicians characterized my brother as "the sickest patient in the hospital," a hospital whose number of beds exceeds 900. Unable to make any significant progress (get the patient to wake up/respond to instructions) with my brother's condition, he said he had one option left: "a hail Mary," as he called it. It was some sort of infused drug that he said could only be used once. He was out of ideas, otherwise. I certainly can't recall its name, but I believe its color was red.

Well, it worked. Not immediately mind you, but very slowly and occasionally surely; Richard got better. Three weeks later, he was finally transferred from SICU to a regular bed on the wards. Unfortunately, 12 hours or so later, a bleeding event got him transferred back to an ICU, this time it was Medical Intensive Care. After a few days of rest and recovery there, his doctors thought it safe to move him back to the ward, where has remained for the past 10 days or so. And it has been within this private room where his remarkable recovery has really sped up. To the point where there's discussion about transferring him to a rehabilitation facility because he no longer requires the type of hands-on care provided in a regular hospital ward, and it's now considered time/appropriate to rehab his entire body.

Disconnected from nearly every medicine and machine now, and with his trach tube replaced with a plug sort of a thing, he's still not able to walk, but he can sure talk, according to Vanessa who visited him yesterday, as she has every day - and some nights, too. I skipped my visit today because, according to Vanessa, as Richard has been weaned off the ventilator, breathing on his own has been exhausting so all he wants to do is sleep. And he doesn't want me sitting at his side just to hear him snore.

I'll see him tomorrow for sure. It will be the first conversation we'll have had in over a month. I can't wait. I will congratulate and encourage him on a recovery well done, and we'll have a few laughs, but unfortunately, we may not be through the worst of it, oddly enough. Surgery looms (as he's no longer a candidate for chemotherapy, he "failed it" they said), and it's risky, his surgeon said. But due to his amazing recovery, it is possible he is now a candidate for surgery. Who would have thought? A month ago: nobody.
