Hidden Gems in the Town of Vienna

BY MAYOR LINDA COLBERT
 TOWN OF VIENNA

Vienna has many hidden gems. It is a close-knit community with dedicated volunteers and unique businesses that give back to the Town. We also have the Town Green, a gathering place for special events or just to meet a friend

Our historic Church Street features the Freeman House, Vienna Presbyterian Church, plus charming shops, and the Little Library. It is very walkable.

A few blocks away, in front of the Vienna Community Center, is the sculpture "Taking Flight." It honors former mayor M. Jane Seeman and all Vienna volunteers.

About Connection Newspapers in 2022

IN THE MIDST of the crisis which never ends, we at the Connection hear the call to serve our communities. We still seek to fulfill our mission by continuing to publish, even with reduced resources. It's still our mission to provide information about where to get help and how to help; to disseminate information about the virus and efforts to stem its spread; to tell the stories of those who are helping, of those who are hungry. It's still our mission to tell the stories of those working for social and racial justice, and battling income inequality.

It is our mission, set out in the first amendment of the U.S. Constitution, to press local government every day for transparency. Your local paper can be your window into the workings of schools, police, transportation, zoning, stormwater management, services, and a nearly infinite number of other functions. These are the things that impact our lives at home and work. The public has a right to expect transparency from such local institutions, more so when they are publicly funded. The constitution clearly anticipated the ongoing need for the press to help in this role.

It is still our mission to deliver the local news you need, to help make sense of what is happening in your community, to advocate for community good, to provide a forum for dialogue on local concerns, and to record achievements, milestones and events in the community and people's lives. It is still our mission to cover the normal news of the local communities.

“Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the Government for a redress of grievances.”

First Amendment, U.S. Constitution

We publish photos and notes about personal milestones and community events, including births, engagements, weddings, anniversaries, awards and obituaries.

We also publish notes about news and events from local businesses. Notes about openings, new employees and anniversaries are welcome.

For many months blending into a year, there were no calendar listings in our papers. Everything was canceled. Now there is a return of many face-to-face events. If you are planning an event, we appreciate getting notice at least two weeks ahead of the event, and we encourage photos.

Your community Connection newspaper is published by the independent, locally owned Local Media Connection LLC, serving the suburbs of Metropolitan Washington in Northern Virginia and Potomac, Md. Our flagship paper, the Alexandria Gazette Packet, is one of the oldest continuously publishing papers in the country, beginning publication in 1784.

This year, 2022 in the time of the pandemic, we struggle to keep going.

Local newspapers, including the Connection Newspapers, are facing an existential threat from the combination of nationwide downturn in newspaper advertising that has been worsening over several years, compounded by the economic crisis of coronavirus.

We turned to GoFundMe at a critical point, and our readers answered, raising nearly $50,000 to get us through a terrible time. We thank all who gave, as well as all who wished us well.

Now, we are back to great difficulty. Revenue has not nearly rebounded to pre-pandemic levels, and we are going to need more help to keep going. We will renew calls for contributions shortly to try to carry on. Here is the link to our current GoFundMe. <https://www.gofundme.com/f/help-keep-your-newspaper-printing>

Hidden Gems?

BY MERCIA HOBSON
THE CONNECTION

For this year's Newcomers & Community Guide, we wanted to share hidden gems, those must-see places or events unknown to many. They could be forgotten, overlooked, or hidden in plain sight. Members of the Fairfax County Board of Supervisors, their staff, mayors and others provided some of their favorites.

This reporter compiled photos to illustrate the points of interest, venues, festivals, architecture, and more. Because of these gems, hidden or not, your community is more than a collection of buildings and businesses. The gems, gathered in your community newspaper, enhance your hometown's identity by creating a sense of place, fostering relationships, facilitating action, and even stimulating the economy.

How about a life-size replica of Stonehenge that is made entirely of Styrofoam, an out-of-place Air Force radar dome, or a creepy one-lane concrete tunnel in Clifton, known as the Bunny Man Bridge?

Lesser-known Favorites Around the County

Plus favorites from the chairman's staff.

BY CHAIRMAN JEFF MCKAY
(AND STAFF)

Huntley Meadows in Winter: Chairman McKay was raised on the Route One corridor, and Huntley Meadows Park has been his favorite since he was young. While it is most popular from Spring through Fall, the colder months are a wonderful time to visit, providing quiet solitude and ample space to reflect or enjoy the season's stillness, offering a minimalist beauty uniquely Winter. <https://www.fairfaxcounty.gov/parks/huntley-meadows>

Nalls Produce in Autumn: While known to locals, Nalls is worthy of a drive from anywhere in the county, especially during Autumn when Pumpkin Hill opens, and you can select your ideal gourd while also getting the perfect seasonal picture. Farm- and orchard-fresh produce plus gourmet foods from the region round out the truly Franconia experience. <https://nallsproduce.com/>

Historic Huntley and Gunston Hall: While everyone rightly knows about Mount

Vernon, Fairfax is home to several preserved historic homes, and often overlooked are Historic Huntley and Gunston Hall. Historic Huntley is almost 200 years old and was built for the grandson of George Mason and former Alexandria Mayor Thomas Francis Mason. It has served in multiple roles over its history, including as a Civil War encampment. And speaking of George Mason, ensconced right by Gunston Cove abutting Pohick Bay Regional Park, is beautiful via telling the story of the author of the Virginia Declaration of Rights and Virginia Constitution, his family, and the 100+ enslaved people who lived and worked there. <https://www.fairfaxcounty.gov/parks/historic-huntley> <https://gunstonhall.org/>

Interview with FCPS Superintendent Dr. Michelle Reid

FCPS students, the rising Artemis generation.

BY MERCIA HOBSON
THE CONNECTION

Against the backdrop of attempts to launch the #Artemis 1 flight test around the moon <http://www.connectionnewspapers.com/news/2022/sep/07/space-center-planned-reston/>, on Thursday, Sept. 1, FCPS Superintendent Dr. Michelle Reid shared how she seeks to position FCPS as national leader in the next evolution of S.T.E.M. literacy and creativity for all students.

“The work that our educators do and every role we have within this division is critical to shaping our future,” Reid said earlier. “And it’s never been more important than it is today, [with] 65 percent of our students in the classroom preparing for jobs that do not yet exist.” Instruction receives 86 percent of the $3.3 billion advertised budget for SY2022-2023.

This interview has been lightly edited for clarity and length.

Interview Highlights

Q#1: How is FCPS positioning the division to become an innovative leader in bringing the next evolution of S.T.E.M. literacy to all students as it focuses on talent development for the next generation of [space and earth] workers?

Dr. Reid: This next generation will likely commute between planets within space. You might live on Mars and work on Jupiter. Who knows? ‘There’s space for everybody,’ according to NASA. It’s a really powerful statement.

It’s often been said that good organizations react quickly to change, and great organizations create change. (paraphrased from Robert Krieger). We want to be that division that creates the change — that is the highway for all divisions in this country. We have to be thoughtful about what skills our young people will need to thrive in this world yet to be imagined.

Q2: The universe and the world beyond belong to all. Beyond being an astronaut or an engineer, how can students see a place for themselves in space-faring? Our children will ask inwardly and aloud, ‘Is there room for me (diversity-wise and employment-wise)? What will you say?

FCPS students—the Artemis generation.

FCPS Superintendent Dr. Michelle Reid.

FCPS positions enhancements to eliminate gaps in equity and achievement for all students.

Dr. Reid: One of the things about space and science that we have to be mindful of as a learning institution, is staying curious longer about what is right in front of us and how we impact and interact with it. It will also be very important for us to think about imagination and creativity. Because it’s almost like we’re asking children to see themselves in our preconceived idea of what it (space) will look like.

I think we can have our young people shape that picture in ways that we haven’t conceived of yet. Too often, we limit our children’s thinking by asking, ‘How do you see yourself in this picture?’ When, if they created the picture, it would be very different.

We don’t spend much time talking about creativity scores because we don’t do creativity scores. We have SOLs. When I think about SOLs, it’s important that our students can read, write, do mathetics, science, and so forth. Some ways they will use those core skills rely on creativity, critical thinking, and problem-solving skills that we don’t measure very effectively.

Our neurodiverse learners are some of our most creative thinkers. I think we have to approach our work differently if we’re going to successfully prepare our young people for a world yet to be imagined.

Q3: How is FCPS looking to cultivate and nurture S.T.E.M. careers in the aerospace world as the new space economy grows? What components do you believe are needed to nurture S.T.E.M. literacy?

Dr. Reid: The number one thing we need to consider is retaining and recruiting fabulous educators. We need to ensure that we have safe learning spaces for every student. We need to ensure that we have opportunities for hands-on learning, project-based learning, and ways for students to apply knowledge independently in new and different settings to demonstrate learning and not simply memorization and knowledge acquisition.

Knowledge acquisition is important, but to really demonstrate learning needs to be done independently in a different setting. There is time to work in collaborative groups and times to reflect on our own work. Too often, we believe that learning occurs only in the classroom. I think getting outdoors, being in other places, having downlinks from NASA and NOAA, and having access to industry lead laboratories, Boeing (is important).

We’ve learned in the last couple of years that learning spaces can be anywhere. How can we make sure our students have access to those resources, all students, not just some students?

ArtsFairfax Awards Over $400,000 to Fairfax Arts & Culture Organizations

ArtsFairfax, the nonprofit designated as Fairfax County's local arts agency, awarded more than $400,000 in Operating Support Grants to 44 nonprofit arts and culture organizations based in Fairfax County, the City of Fairfax and the City of Falls Church.

Operating Support Grants are foundational to the stability of Fairfax nonprofit arts and culture organizations by providing County funds, distributed by ArtsFairfax, for the basic operation of invaluable programs, services and facilities these organizations provide to Fairfax County area residents.

"As ArtsFairfax's largest grant program, Operating Support Grants are a significant investment in the local arts economy, empowering a broad spectrum of Fairfax cultural organizations to become more resilient, stable, and poised for growth," says Linda Sullivan, ArtsFairfax President & CEO.

Applications were reviewed by a distinguished group of panelists with arts and administrative expertise. $436,767 was awarded to 44 organizations representing all nine Fairfax County magisterial districts and all arts disciplines.

FY23 ArtsFairfax Grants by the Numbers

- ❖ $436,767 awarded to 44 organizations
- ❖ 65% of the applicant organizations are led by women

ArtsFairfax Operating Support Grants are awarded annually to arts organizations of all disciplines for up to 15% of their general operating expenses with a cap at $50K. Applications are reviewed and scored by an independent grant panel comprised of local professionals with expertise in various arts disciplines, knowledge of grant practice, or knowledge of the Fairfax community. To ensure transparency of ArtsFairfax grantmaking practices, all panel reviews are made accessible to the applicants and general public.

About ArtsFairfax

ArtsFairfax is the nonprofit designated as Fairfax County's local arts agency. Dedicated to the belief that arts are essential to a thriving community, the ArtsFairfax mission is to expand support for and access to arts and culture opportunities for Fairfax County's more than 1.2 million residents. By offering informational, financial, and programmatic services, ArtsFairfax promotes the role of arts and culture to deepen social engagement, create a sense of place, and fuel economic growth. Incorporated as a 501(c)(3) since 1964, ArtsFairfax provides these services to all who contribute to and experience arts in Fairfax County, and is funded in part by the County, Virginia Commission for the Arts, and the National Endowment for the Arts, as well as corporations, foundations, and individuals.

Build Complete Bike Path along Beulah Road

Dear Editor,
I would like to see you address the following topic in an upcoming addition of your newspaper. I believe Vienna needs better bike paths, particularly on Beulah Road. Beulah is the access road to many family neighborhoods. As a middle schooler, I would like to bike more places, but to access those places I need to use Beulah Road.

Beulah is too narrow for kids to safely ride on the road itself.

The sidewalks are narrow and for foot traffic, so it is dangerous to ride on them.

Sometimes there isn't even a sidewalk to begin with. The bike lanes are few and far between and pretty narrow. The biggest issue is that the bike paths that are there are not connected. When a bike lane ends, you need to dangerously cross the road with no crosswalk or just hug the curb of a very busy road.

I would like to see the Town of Vienna or Fairfax County build a complete, connected bike path along Beulah Road. Thank you for reading my letter.

Scouting

I am a member of scouts BSA troop 987. I have recently been trying to complete the communications merit badge. In this merit badge we are required to write a letter to an editor in our area. In my letter, I would like to tell you about all the fun I've had as a Boy Scout member of troop 987. I began scouting at a young age in cub scout pack 13, then pack 1139. Scouting was a good way to build my confidence and abilities while still having fun with my friends. Now that I am in high school, I can see a lot of the things I learned in scouting finally paying off.

I have learned so much from my troop leaders, and I've made many new friends because of scouting. I learned how to tie knots, learned first aid, and many other important skills.

Scouting focuses on both micro and macro skills, which allows scouts to develop fully as people more effectively. Navigating life as teenagers can get confusing, but the scout law allows me to always reset back to a basic set of values to live by.

We have troop meetings every Monday night at the Emmanuel Lutheran Church. As a troop, we are incredibly grateful for everything they do for our organization. We also go on a variety of campouts and learn valuable leadership skills. Campouts allow us to practice our scout skills, but they also allow us to grow through challenging experiences.

I have been through many struggles at campouts, but I always become a better person in the end because of it.

Boy Scouts has been a very fun experience for me. Thank you very much for letting me tell you about Scouting.

Screened in Porches in Vienna
To the editor:

Thank you, the town of Vienna. I was really pleased that you offered residents a chance to participate in CODE CREATE. CODE CREATE was an organization trying to simplify and reorganize the zoning laws of Vienna. With their help we changed the zoning laws of patios and porches and made it possible for home owners to add a screened in porch over their patio.

When I spoke at town council there were 5 options and I was so happy when the final vote happened and the council picked option B which gives residents the ability to put a roof over up to 400 square feet of a deck under the following conditions:

- ❖ Covered decks must be single-story and cannot be converted into conditioned, interior living space;
- ❖ Covered decks cannot be located in the front yard; and
- ❖ Covered decks must provide for stormwater management practices in accordance with the Stormwater Manual for Outdoor Living Areas and meet all criteria included in the manual.

Now we are working on building out our deck and I am excited to be able to sit outside without any bugs.

I am an 8th grader and I was among the group of people who spoke at mor than one council meeting and it was really interesting to follow the process. I learned alot about city government and I encourage other young people to get involved in issues impacting them.

Expand Housing, Support Small Business

To the editor:

Hello! My name is Sean McCaslin and I am emailing you for the communications merit badge from boy scouts. My topic is about the transition from town to city. it seems very clear Vienna would like to stay the way it is. Tons of small businesses now thrive and make a friendly community. Schools do well and there are beautiful parks and sights. This amazing place sounds so good that more people would like to live here.

The dilemma is more people might mean fewer small businesses and a less connected community. I believe there is a better way to handle this change. As we have more people moving in we would have to expand but keep it simple, for instance, we might have to get higher production rate stores as long as they serve community needs. We must trust the small businesses if we're serious about expanding. We could give certain small businesses grants to help them to be more successful and expand our economy. As these "Medium businesses" start growing, we could have enjoyable cafes and restaurants with more capacity for the growing population.

Regarding housing, we could start working on slightly larger improvements, similar to the recent Church Street proposal to the Vienna Town Council. If there were more of these sorts of buildings, with hopefully more capacity for resident apartment renting, the increase of people wouldn't be so harsh. This plan is not perfect and takes a lot of work, but I truly believe we could be doing more with this town.

Transparency Needed On Deer Hunt

To the Editor:

Re: "Deer Archery Program begins Sept. 10," Mount Vernon Gazette, Sept. 8, 2022.

I first saw the signs about the Fairfax County deer hunt posted on a utility pole across the street from our house. It gave a number to call, so I did so, leaving a message for the Fairfax County wildlife biologist, as I wanted to talk scientific studies with her. Instead, I got a return call from a Fairfax County Police Sergeant. He was nice enough, but he was not prepared to talk science with me. Instead, he told me that "numerous neighbors" had requested that the county include our area in the yearly deer hunt. I thereupon filed a FOIA request with the county, asking for copies of the scientific studies that had provided the justification for the deer killing in our neighborhood.

Yes, said the county, I could have a copy of the studies, but only if I paid them $400. This seemed extreme, so I pared down my request and asked for the names of people who had demanded that the county kill the deer in our area. That would be $100, said the county, Fairfax County announced that its Deer Management Archery Program would begin Sept. 10, 2022, and run through Feb. 18, 2023.

and the response would include no actual names. It would be redacted. I thought this was also unreasonable. I reached out to our local Supervisor, Dan Storck, and got absolutely nothing from his office except the usual generic notice that they had received my request. In other words, it was Supervisor Storck at his normal best. I asked for the scientific studies because in the emails we have exchanged over my FOIA request, the county has told me that the deer are eating up all the vegetation and need to be culled. They might be suffering from "wasting disease" and need to be culled. They might be causing deer-vehicle collisions and need to be culled.

None of these conditions are applicable to the area along Paul Spring Creek, which is directly across from our house, where we have lived since 1999. Yes, we see the occasional deer, and they seem to be extremely healthy. I saw a ten-point buck in the woods about two weeks ago. It was plump and healthy and was contentedly munching away on the invasive plants that the county does nothing about.

I posted a note about the deer hunt on a local Facebook page and got numerous expressions of disapproval of the hunt. Nobody in our area seems to favor it, though I admit that there might be a neighbor somewhere who objects to losing some of their hosta. Your article touts the safety of the hunt. I pointed out to the county that many neighborhood children play in Paul Spring Creek and might be in the woods at the time of the hunt. One child wounded by an arrow would be a disaster for the county and for that child and their family. Given the narrowness of the corridor along Paul Spring Creek and the area owned by the county, the requirement to stay at least 100 feet from a private property line that you mention in your article will severely restrict the area in which bowhunters can mount their tree stands. I'm not even sure that the corridor along Paul Spring Creek is even a full 200 feet wide.

Maybe there are parts of Fairfax County where deer are running rampant, are suffering from wasting disease, and are causing traffic and other great problems. If so, I have no objection to the hunt taking place there. But the fact that the county will not willingly share its scientific studies with a tax-paying citizen suggests that either there are no such studies or they do not justify the county's decision to conduct the hunt in specific areas. Transparency on the county's part would be nice, as would an acknowledgment from our primary county elected official that he has constituents who are unhappy with what the county is doing. Maybe a deer hunt is needed somewhere in Fairfax County, but our neighborhood is not among these places. This hunt should not take place across the street from where we live.

Hidden Gems in Vienna and Reston

BY SUPERVISOR WALTER ALCORN
HUNTER MILL

Church Street in the Town of Vienna – More than 20 years ago, the Vienna Town Council adopted an ordinance to enhance the appearance and economic vitality of businesses in the historic Church Street commercial corridor. Today, Church Street and the neighboring Town Green are constantly bustling with events, including storytelling for children, holiday strolls, parades, and festivals. Stop by any of the busy small businesses, and you'll find neighbors gathering for coffee and a book club meeting, stretching at a yoga class, or enjoying a fantastic meal (why there's a Vienna Foodies Facebook page). One of its greatest assets is the proximity to the regional W&OD trail, which offers walkers, runners, and cyclists a historic path through nature. While some may argue that the whole town is a gem, I think we all agree Church Street is a special place.

Reston Association's Network of Five Trails – These Reston gems come in five colors – blue, green, pink, red, and turquoise. The Reston Association has marked five color-coded trails so you can enjoy the beauty and green, open space on foot or a bike. I encourage you to try all of them to really see Reston!

Blue Trail – 3.44 miles, Tall Oaks to Lake Anne to North Point Trail

Green – 1.43 miles, Reston Town Center to Lake Anne

Pink – 4.07 miles, North Point Parks Loop Trail

Red – 2.1 miles, Lake Thoreau Loop Trail

Turquoise – 4.74 miles, South Lakes Village Center to Hunters Woods Center

Equestrian Facilities at Turner Farm Park: Many people are familiar with the astronomy programs offered by the Analemma Society at the 52-acre park, but the property also hosts superb equestrian facilities. Equestrians can enjoy 40 acres of open fields for riding; a cross-country course with water, ditch, and bank complexes; a round pen; stadium jumps; and dressage markers in the large, multi-purpose outdoor arena. Throughout the year, horse shows and other activities are put on by Turner Farm Events, a non-profit group. -925 Springvale Road, Great Falls, Virginia 22066

Runnymede Park: The Town of Herndon owns and maintains this 58-acre park. It is the site for many community nature-related events, such as the annual NatureFest, the Spring Native Plant Sale, and the Fall Native Plant Sale. Situated near the Sugarland Run Stream, the park attracts over 100 species of birds, deer, foxes, and other wildlife. Guided walks are offered to highlight the wildlife on the trails. Two park shelters are available for rent. The park is great for hiking, birdwatching, picnicking, and studying nature. -196 Herndon Parkway, Herndon.

would be well advised to check out all the amazing cultural and entertainment offerings at the Workhouse Arts Center. Beyond its remarkable story as a former prison transformed into a destination for artists and learners, history buffs (the Lucy Burns Museum is on site), and those looking for theater, a concert, or a laugh at one of its dozens of shows should be regular visitors. This is a can't-miss venue for everyone who lives in the area. <https://www.workhousearts.org/>

From the Chairman's Staff:

Frying Pan Park backcountry: While most people know about the wonderful Kidwell Farm and historic house on the property, there are beautiful hiking trails throughout the 130 acres of this amazing park. Suggest starting at the parking lot, walking to the historic Frying Pan Meeting House (where seeds of the Revolutionary War were sown and later served as a field hospital and final resting place for Confederate soldiers), and then through the forest to a waterfall before emerging on a farm road before arriving at protected wetlands with bountiful songbirds on the park's northeast side.

Highs & Lows: A locally-owned gift shop filled with the quirky, the wacky, and the downright weird, with something for everyone. With stores on Richmond Highway and Springfield Town Center loaded with items from pop culture, movies, music, toys, exotic food and drink, you are sure to find something you've never seen before and never knew you needed until the moment you saw it! www.connectionnews-papers.com/news/2022/sep/11/highs-and-lows-hits-high-new-store-springfield/

Hidden Gems in the Mason District

BY SUPERVISOR PENNY GROSS
MASON DISTRICT

Hidden Oaks Nature Center in Annandale at 7701 Royce Street in Annandale was the first nature center in Fairfax County and is enjoyed by generations of families. Visit the newly-renovated center, walk the trails, learn about birds and butterflies, or hear frogs and crickets.

When a lightning strike damaged a huge tulip poplar behind the center, the Friends of Hidden Oaks arranged for a local chainsaw carver, Andrew Mallon, to create a woodland animal sculpture out of the trunk. Another part of the tree was carved into a bench where you can relax and count all the local animals represented. Just this summer, Andrew Mallon carved, also with woodland creatures, the new gates to Nature Playce, where kids can get close to nature and even get a little dirty. A fancy new pump provides a water feature and ingredients for mud pies!

Just a quick trail walk from Hidden Oaks is the Packard Center at 4022 Hummer Road in Annandale Community Park, where Artisans United, Inc. has a lovely gift shop featuring handcrafted items by local artists — glass, pottery, jewelry, and fabric arts. It's a favorite place to find a reasonably priced special gift and support the arts at the same time.

Because of redistricting, a new arts opportunity in the Mason District is the Providence Players of Fairfax. They perform at the historic James Lee Community Center, 2855-A Annandale Road, in Falls Church. The nonprofit Players have been presenting community theater for over 20 years, and their fall season starts soon. Live theater at an affordable price is a special treat, and I am delighted to welcome Providence Players to the Mason District. And no, they won't have to change their name.

McLean's Hidden Gems, Landmark Restaurants

BY SCOTT SPITZER
PRESIDENT,
MCLEAN CITIZENS ASSOCIATION

The greater McLean area is rich with a broad variety of dining experiences. The McLean Family Restaurant, located at 1321 Chain Bridge Road McLean, has for many years been the place catering to all types of dining needs. It's a place for families to enjoy comfort food, power breakfasts, lunches for business people, and a quick catch-up meal with an old friend. It's also a place to occasionally see DC's elite who live locally.

StarNut Gourmet located at 1445 Laughlin Ave, McLean, is a similar local eatery for breakfast and lunch. It's a family-run establishment that is warm and inviting.

The list above is not a comprehensive list of all structures with weight restrictions in the Commonwealth, but shows only structures that have new or changed weight restrictions within the last 30 days. The list contains only basic structure identification and location information and the date the new or changed weight restriction and signage became effective.

For a full listing of all bridge and culvert weight restrictions with detailed information about specific structures, including location data and actual weight limits, visit <https://www.virginiadot.org> and navigate to Info Center/Trucking Resources. This page references a posted structures report and a GIS map tool that contain detailed information about restricted structures in Virginia. To receive email notifications regarding new or updated weight restrictions for structures statewide, complete the sign-up form on the web page.

Notices regarding bridges and culverts with new or updated weight restrictions are published monthly by VDOT. For additional information or questions, please contact haulingpermits@vdot.virginia.gov.

We Need Your Help Again

We are sincerely grateful and thankful to you for helping in 2021 to save one of America's oldest newspapers, the Alexandria Gazette Packet, publishing continuously since 1784

Alexandria Gazette Packet
Publishing Since 1784

And affiliated newspapers
THE CONNECTION Newspapers & Online
Mount Vernon Gazette
POTOMAC ALMANAC
CENTRE VIEW

Thank you to the hundreds of supporters who helped to keep all your Connection Newspapers alive throughout Alexandria, Fairfax County, Arlington County and Potomac, Md. along with affiliated websites and digital media. Now we need help again in 2022.

Each local newspaper's mission aspires to provide greater community service, and we do know that our communities are better off if we continue to publish. Last year's financial support from readers and supporters like you bridged the shortfall before Federal PPP funding arrived, and both made our survival possible. We now await a decision for a grant from Rebuild Virginia in early February that we hope will help us in 2022 and beyond. But we need help to survive the first quarter, always a brutal time for cash flow in weekly newspapers. Thank you.

Please, help save these historical papers. All gifts will be used to fund our printed newspapers and websites and to meet obligations to our loyal and patient employees, writers, contractors and suppliers.

The ongoing pandemic continues to crush many newspapers across the country, and our newspapers continue to be at risk. The Northern Virginia area's best read and most trusted source for community news includes the Alexandria Gazette Packet, Mount Vernon Gazette and all Connection Newspapers in the metropolitan region.

The pandemic has hit small businesses hard, which in turn has reduced advertising revenue that keeps these local newspapers alive to provide hyper-local news to residents. It feels like no small miracle to be looking forward into 2022.

The pandemic has been a bear, financially and otherwise. Revenue plummeted at the beginning in 2020. Some beloved advertisers have stayed the course supporting us throughout, and many more have done what they can. In the fall of 2021 we saw the return of some advertising for events and Grand Openings, but now omicron clouds the horizon in so many ways. Revenue still remains short of expenses despite our greatly curtailed costs.

Connection Newspapers has been offering these local newspapers to residents for over 200 years. Countless residents have grown up with these papers covering significant moments in the lives of family and children, news, community events, school activities, and even pictures of your dogs and cats. Internet news and large national newspapers cannot provide the local connection or historical connection that local papers like Connection Newspapers and the Alexandria Gazette Packet provide. If your child, dog, mother, father, neighborhood, school has been featured, you understand the value of local community newspapers.

Not Exactly Up and At'em But ...

By KENNETH B. LOURIE

... neither is he down and out. In fact, my brother is alert and wide awake – for some hours during the day, and mostly disconnected from all his I.V. pumps and all the associated medical machinery that had been sustaining him in SICU and partially while in the regular hospital wards. Moreover, his feeding tube is gone as is the ventilator apparatus. He's certainly not ambulatory, but he's now eating solid foods, however unappetizing. After all, this is a hospital and as much as they try, institutional food – often bland by doctor directive, is hardly the food by which dreams are made, and I imagine would desire, for a patient to eat after four-plus weeks being fed liquid nourishment (cannot call it food) through a tube. Nevertheless, and I know this from my own hospitalization seven years ago – also in a SICU, progress of the patient is semi measured by how much food they eat. And not eating the food served (I hesitate to say, prepared) is not considered a positive, as in you must be getting your taste buds back in order so you're improving. Hardly. It's the complete opposite. The presumption is the patient is having challenges eating, and not because he has a discerning palate, but rather that his medical condition/slow recovery is preventing it somehow.

All of that being said, and likely corroborated by patients in hospitals the world over, lack of meal consumption by the patient is often an impediment to the patient getting released or even transferred to another medical facility. (In my brother's case, his next stop after last week's successful surgery, is a rehabilitation hospital.) Unfortunately, for his first few days, Richard was barely touching his food. (Let me be clear: he was touching it; he just wasn't eating it.) His post-op fatigue and seven weeks in a bed and five weeks-plus on a ventilator have eroded his capacity to manipulate plasticware, as an example, or much else, really. He's only recently, in the last day or two, been walked around. And as he told me today, 10 feet is about as far/as much as he can muster, even when supported by a therapist. It seems to me, he's got to be able to do more activities of daily living ("bathing or showering, dressing, getting in and out of bed or a chair, walking using the toilet and eating"), only some of which he's capable of at this point before he can be moved. From my nearly daily observation, if he was left on his own, or transferred to another facility, where the level of care was reduced, or were not structured to accommodate a patient with these kinds of deficits, he wouldn't thrive (and that's meant to be the understatement of the year, certainly one for his last seven weeks, anyway).

But has been proven many times before in this weekly space, what do I know? Other than baseball, chocolate and writing a weekly column (for almost 25 years): not much. Still, I persevere, as does my brother. His will to survive, his refusal to not succumb to all the demands on his body, from the beginning of his septic shock to today when he insisted over the phone that there was no need for me to visit him today (Sunday) have been beyond amazing. I only wish some of his former SICU nurses who tended to him 'round the clock for four weeks or so, could see and talk to him now. They never met him. He never was able to speak or even gesture much while in their care. He was moved to a regular ward because after a month, he simple didn't need their extraordinary level of care, but he was still a long way – until recently, from being able to express himself. (As an example, the other day I heard him say to his nurse, Will, that he would like to take him and his wife out to dinner when he's better to thank him for his care/ attentiveness. Previously, while in SICU, I remember my wife, Dina saying: "If Richard knew how excellent his care had been, he'd probably buy pizza for the entire unit.") He didn't. But he does know.

Barring any unexpected relapse of sorts, he's definitely on the road to recovery. It's likely to be a bumpy road full of potholes, but since he lives in Washington, D.C., he's used to it (just kidding). He's already planning to install incliners in his multiple staircases at home, buy a motorized fold-up scooter (that he's seen a close friend use) and follow his physical therapy regimen as directed by his releasing physician. But we're not quite there yet. Heck, he's not even been transferred to a rehabilitation facility to begin his rehabilitation. But in his head, he's thinking about the future/moving forward. And if he is, then it couldn't have happened to a better brother.
