Turner Farmhouse, 925 Springvale Rd, Great Falls

Resident Curator
 Open House Set for Turner Farmhouse

Sat. Dec. 3, 9:30-11 a.m.

The Turner Farmhouse Foundation will hold its third-annual pancake breakfast and open house on Saturday, Dec. 3, 2022, from 9:30 to 11 a.m. Parking is available on-site, at 925 Springvale Rd, Great Falls, with volunteers able to assist. The event is open to the public at no cost.

Turner Farmhouse Foundation serves as the resident curator for the historic Turner Farmhouse and several other outbuildings on the property, located at 10609 Georgetown Pike, Great Falls. Through the Resident Curator Program, the Turner Farmhouse Foundation is using the other structures to create and operate a retreat center, partnering with Becky Love Foundation, Comfort Zone Camps, and other organizations to host bereavement programs.

The Resident Curator Program provides an opportunity for individuals and organizations to secure long-term lease agreements for historic properties in beautiful public park settings in Fairfax County. The curator leases are without charge in exchange for a financial commitment toward approved rehabilitation of the Park Authority's underutilized historic properties. The program requires some public access to these historic resources, which often occurs in the form of an annual open house.

The Turner Farmhouse, built in 1905 by the Turner family, is in a 52-acre community park at the intersection of Georgetown Pike and Springvale Road in Great Falls. The Mark Turner Dairy Farm is an example of the type of farm that predominated in this community during the early years of the 20th century, and the Turners were hailed as model farmers in a 1948 article in the "National Grange Monthly."

The 3,216-square-foot house Queen Anne-style farmhouse exemplifies the cultural, economic, and historic heritage of the Springvale and Forestville-Great Falls agricultural communities in Northern Virginia. Many of the original details, formal parlor, hardwood flooring, and fireplaces remain. Several outbuildings on the property reflect their rural history, as well.

The Great Falls Grange Foundation presented its inaugural "Cookies with Santa" at the historic Forestville Schoolhouse on Nov. 27. The free event did not need registration or tickets.

"The Great Falls Grange Foundation is thrilled to be offering this as one of the many exciting events here and around the community for the holidays," said Julie Maher, director of the Great Falls Grange Foundation.

Santa welcomed children, young and old, to share what they wished for the holidays. Parker Killoran, 10, of Great Falls, very politely described his ask to Santa, a computer, preferably a Mac, mentioning the need for a bit of speed.

Later, Parker described the present he wanted to give his father to assist him at Saint Francis Episcopal Church. Dad Patrick is the Communications and Technology director there.

Injured Ukrainian Soldiers Enjoy a Fishing Adventure

Assistance goes beyond prosthetics.

When retired Marine Ed Moore found out that three Ukrainian soldiers with amputations would be in the area to be fitted with prosthetics after injury on the battlefield, he did what any Marine would do ... he offered to take them fishing.

Veterans Fishing Adventure was started by Moore and his daughter Haley. They've been offering veterans and their families fishing and boating trips on the Potomac River and Occoquan River for four years. With up to four boats, they offer as many as three trips per week. Veterans Fishing Adventure specializes in offering those with physical limitations an opportunity to participate and allowing those with disabilities to take their children fishing. Their non-profit, volunteer organization with specially fitted boats is able to offer this opportunity to be on the water at no cost to U.S. service veterans, to enjoy a pastime that many of us enjoy without much thought for the logistics. <https://veteransfishingadventure.org/>

Early, at 5:30 a.m. on Saturday morning, because fishing often starts early, the three soldiers, their translator, and the boat crew gathered dockside at the Pohick Bay Regional Park Marina. First activity of the day — set nets to catch bait fish for the day's fishing excursion. After 13 fish, mostly shad with one or two carp, were netted by volunteer crew members Scott Cole and Tim Majewski, plus boat captain Moore head the Knot4gotn east into the sunrise for a promising day of fishing adventures and sightseeing along the Potomac River.

Help Children of Military Families in Need

Military Appreciation Mondays works with Elizabeth Dole Foundation to make Christmas bright.

BY MERCIA HOBSON

Bob Nelson Sr., who organizes the monthly Military Appreciation Mondays with his son at the Old Brogue Restaurant in Great Falls, said they would be working with the Elizabeth Dole Foundation to identify military families with children needing support this holiday season. For those unfamiliar with how the "Santa Bob" program has previously operated, Nelson posts the first names and ages of the children per family and their locality on his business website, Bob Nelson Team Real Estate <https://www.bobnelsonteam.com/>. Nelson requests a minimum commitment of $150 per child.

Nelson anticipates getting the first round of family names within the week. Depending on volunteer involvement, the list begins with 25 families and expands to 50 or more. "The most we've ever done is 135 families," Nelson said.

"Although the Foundation is celebrating its 10th anniversary, it is a new organization for me," Nelson said about working with the Elizabeth Dole Foundation. "I am very pleased by the excellent things they do for the families of the wounded and deceased military."

Once a donor, whether an individual, family, or company, decides on a family (or families), they contact "Santa" Nelson at Santa@bobnelsonteam.com. Some companies have used this experience to foster team development by having employee teams purchase and wrap the children's presents. Nelson said that one year a Great Falls Elementary School "adopted" a family.

Nelson provides the volunteer participants with contact information for the gift families, including their phone numbers, postal mail, and email addresses. Nelson requests that participants contact the family's point of contact to learn more about the children's wish lists. That personal touch, Nelson said, is the most significant component of the program for the families and the volunteers.

"I would strongly encourage [donor participants] to learn a little about your family. You may be surprised at how much they need to talk," he said. "Most importantly, have a wonderful holiday season knowing that you have done something truly special this year."

Onboard, tucked warmly in the boat's cabin on the chilly morning, the three heroes of Ukraine set out for a day of stress relieving fishing adventure.

Ruslan Tyshchenko, age 44, a sapper commander, served in the National Guard of Ukraine for 25 years as a combat engineer. Since the beginning of the war, he led a group of sappers, involved in removing mines in liberated Ukrainian territories. A sapper is a combat engineer with duties such as demolitions, bridge-building, preparing field defenses and road repair.

On June 8, while performing a combat mission near the city of Balaclava in the Kharkiv region, he came under fire from an enemy tank. Shrapnel hit a vital artery. With major damage to his artery, he lost his left leg and severely injured his right.

Oleksandr "Alex" Fedun, age 23, an entrepreneur in the Zaporizhzhia region, left his business and family at the outbreak of the war to defend Ukraine. On May 14, during a combat mission, Fedun's car was ambushed by the Russians and he received serious injuries to both legs caused by a mine explosion. He was able to save his own life by applying tourniquets to stop the bleeding, but when he was evacuated to the hospital, both legs had to be amputated.

Anatoliy Kirda, age 59, was a career seaman, away working on Israel's offshore oil rigs when Russia attacked Ukraine. He left immediately to volunteer at home. He first fought in Kiev. After that city was secured he moved on to Izum in the Kharkiv region. He was in his trench when a Russian mine flew it causing his injuries which resulted in the loss of his right leg.

thanks to assistance from three non-profit organizations: Veteran Success Resources Group, United Help Ukraine, and Medical Center Orthotics & Prosthetics.

United Help Ukraine was started in 2014, after the initial 2014 Russian attack on Ukraine, by a small group of people who met at a protest in Washington, DC. War Takes Heavy Toll on Ukrainian Women

United Nations warns of war impacts to women globally.

BY SUSAN LAUME
THE CONNECTION

As the war in Ukraine continues with brutal shelling of civilian targets, humanitarian catastrophe mounts in a war not confined to soldiers or distant battlefields. For millions of women and girls, the ongoing war continues to take a heavy toll as it grinds on. Whether joining the fighting at the front, remaining behind, or fleeing, the United Nations warns for women "access to livelihood opportunities and basic services, including life-saving sexual and reproductive health care and information, has been severely disrupted."

Two Ukrainian women share their experience of the war. For the past three to four months all their time has been spent in hospitals supporting their husbands who lost legs while fighting for Ukraine. Iryna Kirda and Iryna Tyshchenko, are now in the Washington metro area temporarily, while accompanying their husbands, who are being fitted for prosthetic devices in Silver Spring, Md.

Before the war, Kirda, who has four adult sons, was working as a nanny. She supplemented her income by leading a 'health group' — what we would call women's exercise classes. After Russian bombardment of her Kiev suburb, she was evacuated from her home for a time. Once she could return, she spent her time holding charity events to support the war effort.

Before the war, Tyshchenko was an anchor for a television news station. On the first day of the war, all the television stations closed. From the first day, food disappeared from shelves, and they could not withdraw money from the banks. Her apartment in Kharkiv was heavily bombed. The Russians were close by, but not where she was. So friends came to hide in the basement of her building, though rockets flew overhead and a plane was shot down just a kilometer away. As the Russians were eventually pushed farther away, their rockets and drones remained a threat. True to her journalism profession, she has been taking videos to document the destruction of her apartment building and other devastation. Her adult daughter evacuated to the Czech Republic.

Both women speak of the difficulties and how hard life has become. Both talk about how very scary it is to wait for a call with enjoy in their county filled with lakes and rivers. There the main fish species caught is the Common Carp (Cyprinus carpio). The catch for this day on the Potomac was Blue Catfish. A large fish, but not as large as Ukraine's Wels Catfish, the largest freshwater fish in Ukraine which can attain a weight of 100 kg (220 pounds) at the age of 80-100 years.

Iryna Tyshchenko and Iryna Kirda support their husbands on a easier day safely within the borders of the United States

news of their husbands. Kirda says she doesn't know how God gave her the strength to survive. But she knew she had to be strong when that dreaded call did come saying her husband was wounded so badly. She knew he would look in her eyes for her reaction and she would be ready to show her support for him.

For the moment, life is a little easier. They said they feel so lucky to come here and love the United States, calling the opportunity to have the help a blessing. While their husbands enjoyed a day of fishing on the Potomac, a Ukrainian friend took them shopping at T.J. Maxx and Nordstrom Rack. They described doing more looking than buying, but hoped to find small gifts for those waiting at home. What's next for them is hard to know. They will remain here while their husbands are under medical care until mid-December. Tyshchenko is videoing the care to show American cutting edge procedures to doctors at home.

They expect to return to Ukraine where life continues to be difficult and dangerous in the coming winter without reliable power, water, food or safety. And while their husbands are determined to overcome their wounds, the women are likely to take on additional continued responsibilities to assist in their care and recovery.

In a policy paper released in September, the United Nations outlined the devastating impacts on women and children. "The war in Ukraine has led to more than 4.2 million refugees and over 7 million internally displaced people, most of them women and children. The war contributed to growing risks, including trafficking, gender-based violence, sexual exploitation and abuse, and forced labor. ... The war has widened gender gaps in food insecurity, malnutrition, energy poverty, and increased gender-based violence inside Ukraine and around the world. Women-headed households in Ukraine were already more food-insecure prior to the war, compared to male-headed households. Rural women in the territories occupied by the Russian military are increasingly unable to perform agricultural work due to high insecurity and lack of resources. Certainly a disproportionate share of the responsibility to accommodate, feed, and care for internally displaced people is adding to the burden of Ukrainian women, multiplying their domestic responsibilities."

The U.N. includes a need to "prioritize women's and girls' voice, agency, participation and leadership in conflict response, recovery, and peace building," among their recommendations for dealing with this humanitarian crisis. They have names like Anastasia, Boyka, Daniela ... and Iryna.

When the boat returned to the dock on Saturday afternoon, dozens of community members were on hand to greet and applaud the fishermen. Police and fire trucks stood sentinel. Retired Cmdr. Kirk Lippold, who commanded the USS Cole when the ship was attacked by al-Qaeda in 2000, presented the men with copies of his book, "Front Burner" which captures a critical moment in America's battle against terrorism.

"Catch the Fever" presented each man with a new high-end fishing rod. Even Santa and Mrs. Claus were on hand to show support. And many photos were taken to mark the day. Although it may be traditional to enjoy a fish fry after a day of successful fishing, Moore didn't want the Ukrainians to leave without experiencing an American Thanksgiving feast. He hosted a meal at his house on Sunday, serving the fresh caught fish on the side, along with the usual Thanksgiving fare. Five turkeys, two hams, stuffing, gravy, green beans and pies fed bellies, and sustenance for the soul. With ongoing deprivations and food scarcity in Ukraine, it may be a meal they will remember for the food, but more significantly, a reminder of what can be accomplished after injury.

All those that encountered the men during their visit no doubt hope that their morning sail toward the bright dawn sky will be symbolic of the start of brighter days to come for these determined Ukrainians, and the Ukrainian people, though they face continued daunting struggles. Featuring John Rutter's Magnificat and Kirke Mechem's Seven Joys of Christmas, you'll hear some familiar Christmas carols, as well as beautiful music with hints of tango, musical theater and jazz. Accompanied by a chamber orchestra of local professional players, the Chorale's concert will also highlight the talents of soprano Helena Colindres and two of our Youth Community Council students.

After the performance, you are invited to join the Chorale downstairs for a reception with light refreshments. It's a special community event you won't want to miss. Tickets are $20 for adults and free for children under 12.

We Need Your Help Again
We are sincerely grateful and thankful to you for helping in 2021 to save one of America's oldest newspapers, the Alexandria Gazette Packet, publishing continuously since 1784

And affiliated newspapers:
THE CONNECTION Newspapers & Online
Mount Vernon Gazette
Potomac Almanac
CENTRE VIEW

Thank you to the hundreds of supporters who helped keep all your Connection Newspapers alive throughout Alexandria, Fairfax County Arlington County and Potomac, Md. along with affiliated websites and digital media. Now we need help again in 2022.

Each local newspaper mission aspires to provide greater community service, and we do know that our communities are better off if we continue to publish. Last year's financial support from readers and supporters like you bridged the shortfall before Federal PPP funding arrived, and both made our survival possible. We now await a decision for a grant from Rebuild Virginia in early February that we hope will help us in 2022 and beyond. But we need help to survive the first quarter, always a brutal time for cash flow in weekly newspapers. Thank you.

Please, help save these historical papers.

All gifts will be used to fund our printed newspapers and websites and to meet obligations to our loyal and patient employees, writers, contractors and suppliers.

The ongoing pandemic continues to crush many newspapers across the country, and our newspapers continue to be at risk.

The Northern Virginia area's best read and most trusted source for community news includes the Alexandria Gazette Packet, Mount Vernon Gazette and all Connection Newspapers in the metropolitan region.

The pandemic has hit small businesses hard, which in turn has reduced advertising revenue that keeps these local newspapers alive to provide hyper local news to residents. It feels like no small miracle to be looking forward into 2022.

The pandemic has been a bear, financially and otherwise. Revenue plummeted at the beginning in 2020. Some beloved advertisers have stayed the course supporting us throughout, and many more have done what they can. In the fall of 2021 we saw the return of some advertising for events and Grand Openings, but now omicron clouds the horizon in so many ways. Revenue still remains short of expenses despite our greatly curtailed costs.

Connection Newspapers has been offering these local newspapers to residents for over 200 years. Countless residents have grown up with these papers covering significant moments in the lives of family and children, news, community events, school activities, and even pictures of your dogs and cats. Internet news and large national newspapers cannot provide the local connection or historical connection that local papers like Connection Newspapers and the Alexandria Gazette Packet provide. If your child, dog, mother, father, neighborhood, school has been featured, you understand the value of local community newspapers.

Lucky Me – Or Not

By KENNETH B. LOURIE

As a diagnosed-with-lung-cancer-at-age-54-and-half adult, I haven't felt particularly lucky. Nevertheless, I rarely if ever, woe is me. I take the bad with good, and vice versa. I'm never too high and hopefully, never too low. I've always felt, since being diagnosed with cancer in late February 2009 that the cancer/diagnosis was bad enough on its own, so I didn't need to make it any worse by dwelling on it and/or considering how unlucky I was; considering that I was lifelong non-smoker and second son of a family with no "immediate" cancer history. Let alone to then be diagnosed with non-small cell lung cancer stage IV and given a "terminal"/13 month to two-year prognosis by my oncologist – at age 54 and a half. A prognosis which, on the face of it, offered very little hope. And to invoke a M*A*S*H comment by Lt. Col. Henry Blake, my oncologist wasn't "blowing any sunshine up my skirt."

Yet somehow, I didn't die. Possibly due to a misdiagnosis, and/or possibly affected by my never-woe-is-me attitude and equally never-say-die approach, literally-ish. I always figured that receiving bad news from my oncologist, whenever it arrived would be disheartening enough so that I didn't need to put the cart before the horse, so to speak and write any epitaphs (sort of like Orson Welles advertising that Paul Masson would "not sell any wine before its time"). Rather, I would let the treatment, side effects, scans, and all, good, bad, or indifferent, happen in due course and not react too much in advance of anything actually happening (as in getting sick/being hospitalized). I decided to look before I leaped, and not jump to any conclusions. I would try to take it all stride and not cart any horses.

And sure, there were highs and lows, growth/progression, delays in treatment due to low white blood cell counts, high and low potassium, high creatinine (still to this day), and as it turned out, many post-scan characterizations of "stable disease;" words to live by, you might say (I certainly have – for years). As you might imagine, I've lived very happily with "stable." Certainly "shrinkage" was preferred/the hope, but it occurred less and less while "stable" I heard more and more. I soon realized – and embraced "stable." As I often say, "stable" is hardly the problem. I can live with 'stable.' 'Stable' is unlikely to kill me." Granted, it's not a cure, but neither is it a dreaded complication regarding the underlying problem: cancer and tumor growth.

"Stable" is a way of life for me. "Stable," as I'm extremely fond of saying, has become "my new favorite word." The goal, as much of one as one could have when you're diagnosed with a "terminal" disease, was/is to somehow turn cancer into a "chronic" disease (like diabetes) where you can live a relatively normal life while treatment/monitoring of your disease continues until monitoring is no longer required, if you know what I mean?. Unfortunately, you'll still have doctor's appointments and multiple scans, but you'll be alive and living – with cancer. You'll likely never be cancer-free or have peace of mind, (concerning your cancer), but you'll still have the life expectancy you were anticipating; not one cut short by this dreaded disease. And as an originally-diagnosed-as-"terminal" cancer patient, "chronic" is my brand new/real-time favorite word. And I couldn't think of ever getting here without having previously been "stable." Moreover, it sure beats the alternative, and as the old saying says: "Living is its own reward."

Realistically speaking, I don't need to be cured (of course I dream of that), but it's not front and center, anymore; it's more my subconscious. I'm thrilled to be "chronic." And since (in my mind), "chronic" is the new "stable," ("stable" all grown up, you might say), "chronic" is hardly the problem. I can live with "chronic." Heck, considering that I thought I'd be dead 12 years ago, "chronic" is no more of a problem – for me, than "stable" has been.

Granted, it's not a cure, but it's a living, one I'm incredibly lucky to still have. For a cancer patient who was given a two-percent chance to survive beyond two years, to still be living nearly 14 years later (late Feb. 2023) is a miracle. I was happy to be called "stable." Now, if my life continues as I hope, and I am considered "chronic," I will be just as grateful, every minute of every day, to be called "chronic Ken."
